TLC Proposes Closer Union Co-operation

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's largest central union body, the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress, Thursday made a move towards closer relations among the four groups representing about 1,100,000 union workers.

However, the TLC said the step, appointment of an exploratory committee, does not mean that unification of the organizations is in prospect.

Appointment of the committee was a follow-up to a resolution adopted at the TLC convention here last fall, which called for non-raiding on other union groups as "the first step towards closer relations and eventual organic unity."

AN ABOUT FACE

That resolution and Thursday's action by the TLC executive council represented an about-face from a TLC step two years ago, when it broke up a continuing four-way committee set up chiefly to make joint submissions to governments.

Organizations on that committee, and which would be involved in any labor unity, were the TLC, the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor with about 100,000 members and the independent railway brotherhoods with 40,000.

The TLC said its four-man committee is to explore further steps toward the objective of closer relations and eventual organic unity.

Two Street Cars Collide 10 Injured In Toronto

TORONTO—(CP)—Ten persons were injured Thursday night when two street cars collided during the rush-hour at the east-central intersection of Queen and Parliament streets. Five of the injured, including motorman William Parnell, 50, required hospital treatment.

Parnell was the operator of a crowded eastbound Queen car which police said slammed broadside into the southbound Parliament car. He was pitched headfirst through the front doors of his tram and taken unconscious to hospital.

There were two passengers on the Parliament car. Neither was injured.

TRAM CROWDED

Mrs. Murphy, a passenger on the Queen street car, said the tram had just started after a stop at the intersection.

"It was very crowded and nobody except perhaps those at the front had any idea of what was going to happen. There was a terrible crash and then our street-car seemed to lift up in the air and jerk sideways."

Two fire trucks collided at the same intersection May 17, 1947, killing three firemen and injuring eight others.

Fire Danger At Waterfront

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A state of emergency continued on the St. John's waterfront today as police and fire officials kept vigil over gasoline-coated harbor waters.

The northeastern section of the port was closed. Smoking and the use of open lights and fires were prohibited. Vessels could not enter or leave port without special authority.

The danger period began early Thursday when the United States Navy tanker Tonti lost 65,000 gallons of gasoline through a hose leak while discharging at a U. S. Air Force dock.

The fuel flowed into the water unnoticed for several hours in the early morning darkness. Foggy weather slowed evaporation.

Yule Holiday Rules Announced

OTTAWA (CP) — The civil service commission announced today that because Christmas and New Year's fall on Fridays this year, leave of absence with pay will be given civil servants across Canada on the Thursday preceding and the Saturday following each of the holidays.

The time off was approved by the cabinet last March. Civil servants who do not come under the five day-week will be allowed the Saturday mornings off.

U.K. Bomber Tests U.S Coastal Defences

ROSLYN, N. Y. (AP)—A British B-29 bomber, low on gas and off its scheduled route, unintentionally tested the alertness of American coastal defences Thursday.

The plane was spotted on radar, intercepted over the Atlantic by an American Air Force plane, and escorted to a safe landing at Dover, Del.

The bomber had filed a flight plan — giving its course from Lagos, in the Azores, and its expected time of arrival at the U. S. east coast.

Somehow it got off its course, and when spotted on radar its identity was unknown. An F-94C interceptor from Newcastle air force base met it about 100 miles at sea.

Waterfront Riot Injures Nine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Extra police were on watch for possible further violence today at the dock of the freighter Aleutian, where there were two bitter flare-ups Thursday between rival waterfront unions.

Nine men were injured and five were arrested in the bloody fights, which were halted in a drizzling rain by armed police with riot guns and tear gas.

Twenty policemen stood by in case of repercussions of trouble between 1,400 members of Harry Lundeberg's AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific (AFL), and the independent National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, backed by Harry Bridges.

PICKETS LIMITED

Judge Preston J. Devine issued an injunction at the request of the Hawaii and Pacific Line, which is chartering the Aleutian, limiting pickets to five men of each union. The court also forbade more than four AFL men from assembling near the picket line.

New trouble, expected shortly before midnight when three firemen boarded the Aleutian, failed to develop. But extra police remained on duty because crew members were to board the ship to prepare for Saturday's scheduled sailing for Hawaii.

A hurriedly-assembled line of club-wielding police prevented a major riot Thursday by heading off some 1,100 AFL sailors, armed with, clubs and chains, who marched on the Bridges-backed pickets at the Aleutian. Six men were injured and five arrested, one for carrying a concealed pistol.

Mediators Try Break Deadlock

As Thursday night's session ended, Walter A. Maggiolo, general counsel of the federal mediation and conciliation service, said no progress had been made toward settlement of the dispute over wages, hours, welfare benefits and holidays.

The special three-man mediation panel, set up on orders from Washington, entered the talks at once. Up to that time only one federal mediator had been on the case.

Department stores and other retail outlets, unable to advertise their Christmas goods in any of the city's seven major newspapers, continued to suffer and worry over effects of the strike.

The strike of 400 photo-engravers has choked off a total newspaper circulation of almost 5,500,000 and left about 20,000 employees idle.

Report Surviving Twin 'Getting On Well'

LONDON (Reuters)—The surviving infant of a pair of Siamese twins separated at a London hospital Thursday was reported today to be "going on well."

The other child died soon after the operation despite an attempt to sustain it by heart massage.

One of Britain's top surgeons, Prof. Ian Aird, who separated the four-month-old girls, said the baby was "as strong as can be expected." She is still on the danger list, as is usual in post-operative cases, and is in an oxygen tent.

Doctors watched every breath of the tiny bandaged form of Wariboko Davies throughout the night.

Radar Speed Trap Catches 20 Drivers

SUDBURY (CP) — A radar speed trap, the first to be used by a Canadian city, caught 20 speeders within 45 minutes Thursday in this city of heavy traffic.

But the offenders got off easy since no charges will be laid until signs warning of the radar check are installed on all roads leading into the city.

The radar equipment is on loan from Northern Electric until the city gets its own $1,400 set Jan. 2. It will include a graph to make a permanent record of all speeds recorded during operation.

Viking Sword Found In Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., (CP) —The Newfoundland museum announced today discovery of a sword, believed to be of the Viking era.

The sword was discovered at Aillik, Labrador, some time ago but its finding was not previously released.

Museum curator Leo English said he believes the sword—if it is from the Viking era—to be the only authentic record of Vikings in the hemisphere.

In Toronto, Prof. T. F. McIlwraith, associate director of the Royal Ontario Museum, said the sword is probably a trade-piece from Greenland.

He said it is further evidence of contact between the Eskimos of Greenland and those of Labrador.

Seeking Record Diver Vanishes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The choppy blue waters of the Gulf stream today held far in their depths the body of Hope Root, after a tragic end to the 52-year-old Miami lawyer's attempt to break the world's free-swimming diving record.

Root went overboard from the charter boat Arabalete two miles off Miami Beach at noon Thursday, plunging to a depth of 500 feet. He never came up. Patrolling boats and a coast guard helicopter searched for hours but found no trace of the body.

Root had planned to descend to 410 feet for a free-swimming diving record. In such dives, a face mask, foot fins and a compressed-air tank are used, but the diver swims free.

Root said he had been as deep as 370 feet in unofficial dives. The official record held by a living man is 306 feet set in the Mediterranean. A Frenchman descended to 396 feet but was hauled up dead.

Dies From Injuries

TORONTO (CP)—William Storm, 62, of Belleville, injured when he was struck by a train and hurled 20 feet off a bridge at Belleville Nov. 17, died in a Toronto hospital Thursday night. Storm, a railway employee, had walked the double-tracked bridge on his way to and from work for the last 30 years.

Europeans Enjoy Another 'Summer' Day

LONDON (CP) — Britain and western Europe today experienced another "summer day" in December, but the mild, dry weather began to cause more concern than joy.

Merchants complained the high temperatures have slowed the pace of Christmas shopping. Proprietors of continental ski resorts looked in vain for snow. A serious water shortage developed in parts of Austria.

The air ministry here said the temperature on its roof at 9 a.m. was a record 60 degrees Fahrenheit, 13 degrees above the average at this time of year.

But the air ministry added that the warm spell is almost over.

Britain, Iran To Announce Resumption Of Relations

LONDON (CP)—Britain and Iran will announce Saturday the resumption of diplomatic relations broken off 13 months ago, diplomatic sources said here today.

Formal, short announcements will be made in Tehran and London, the sources added.

Iran replied Thursday to a message from Foreign Secretary Eden proposing renewed diplomatic relations as a prelude to direct oil negotiations.

The contents of the note were radioed to Eden, in Bermuda for the three-power conference opening today.

Means of bringing Iranian oil back to world markets after the 30-month-old dispute is expected to be the subject of important "side talks" between the British and American delegations during the Bermuda conference.

Reports from Tehran meanwhile indicated that strong political opposition is mounting against Premier Fazollah Zahedi's reported invitation to Britain to resume diplomatic relations.

Ayatullah Kashani, powerful Moslem religious leader, declared in Tehran that the dispute with Britain over her nationalized oil properties here must be settled and the Iranian parliament must give its approval before British envoys are readmitted.

Dr. Mozzafar Baghaie, a Socialist leader, blasted the conciliatory move in a front-page editorial in his newspaper Shahed. He described it as "a dirty surrender to an aggressive enemy."

However, other leading Iranians, including former cabinet ministers, senators and top business men, approved the resumption at a meeting earlier this week with Zahedi.

Cold Weather Ontario-Bound

TORONTO (CP) — Cold air will move in from the western United States Saturday to end Ontario's four-day spell of unseasonably mild weather, the weather bureau reported today.

Showers were general throughout the province as temperatures in southern areas threatened to match the record 55 degrees set on this date in 1865.

The warm mass will shift into Quebec late today and probably spread into the Maritimes Saturday. Cold air sweeping in behind the warm air will cover Ontario, and temperatures will drop about 10 degrees by mid-Saturday.

Food Prices Down

Living Costs Decline During October

OTTAWA (CP) — Ending a steady, five-months rise, living costs declined during October, with the consumer price index dropping by one-half point to 116.2 from 116.7.

The decline was due almost entirely to food price drops, the bureau of statistics reported today. The consumer price index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Egg prices dropped sharply, along with most meats and grapefruit, slicing 2.1 points from the food column which dropped to 113.4 from 115.5.

SHELTER COST LEAPS

The shelter column rose to a new high of 125 from 124.5 reflecting higher rents and home ownership costs.

The miscellaneous column, called "other commodities and services" also edged ahead by three-tenths of a point to 116.3 from 116, with the price of theatre admission tickets increasing.

However, the household operations column eased to 117.4 from 117.5, reflecting scattered changes in various household items.

Only column to remain unchanged was clothing—at 110.3. The cost of men's suits and overcoats advanced, but this was counterbalanced by declines in women's and children's wear.

BACK TO SEPTEMBER

The half-point drop in the consumer price index brought it back to where it was in September. In the previous five-month climb, the living costs yardstick had advanced a total of 2.3 points.

The index now is two points below the all-time high of 118.2 recorded in December, 1951.

The index of wholesale industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, dropped to 226.6 on Nov. 27 from 227.1 on Oct. 30.

The Canadian farm products index, also based on 1935-39 prices, increased to 207.8 from 207.

Sanitary Code To Be Used In Butter Plants

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's usually-immaculate creameries are going to be more spotless than ever.

A sanitary code for butter-making plants has been worked out by provincial authorities. The first to cover creameries, it is similar to one recently introduced for cheese-makers.

C. E. Lackner, the Ontario government's director of dairying, gave details of the proposed code Thursday to a convention of the Ontario Creamery Association.

It sets out strict rules concerning types of equipment, employees' clothing and control of dust, drainage and smells.

GIVEN REGULATIONS

Mr. Lackner said government instructors have been issued with the regulations. They are visiting all plants before issuing next year's licences, he said.

Convention delegates expressed approval of the code.

"It's a mighty good thing," said L. A. Ruddick of Kemptville, association president. He said most creameries already use methods which comply with the regulations.

A. J. Wagg of Mindemoyal a past president, said others may need three months to bring their plants into line.

CONSUMPTION PROBLEM

J. J. Creighton of Tatamagouche, N. S., president of the National Dairy Council, said Canadians' use of milk and cream and of practically all other dairy products is increasing. But so was production and the problem was to keep consumption going up.

Mr. Creighton recommended use of more skim milk powder in milk-bread and the introduction of a federally supported school lunch program.

He said tariff charges should be placed on imported oils and oil-bearing seeds which now enter Canada duty-free. Such a step would cut down the price advantage now enjoyed by oleomargarine, which costs about half as much as butter.

With tariff protection, the dairy industry would not need floor prices or other forms of subsidy from the taxpayer, Mr. Creighton said.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2 9-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 97 17-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.73 15-16, against $2.74⅛.

Labor Party Keeps By-Election Seat

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor party Thursday retained the parliamentary seat of North Paddington, London, in a by-election, but with a smaller majority than it obtained in the 1951 general election.

Benjamin Parkin, Labor, polled 14,274 votes to 12,014 for John Eden nephew of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. The Trotskyite candidate, bus-driver William Water, received 242 votes.

The percentage of the total vote obtained by the Labor party Thursday was 53.8, compared with 55.7 in 1951, when there was a straight two-party fight for the seat. The 1951 Labor majority was 4,089. Thursday it dropped to an overall majority over both opponents of 2,018.

Only 26,530 voters went to the polls Thursday compared with 35,757 at the general election.

CAIRO (AP)—The United States embassy announced today that the American freighter Albion reported she had been fired on Thursday by Egyptian shore batteries while in the Gulf of Aqaba, east of Egypt's Sinai peninsula.

The ship's message did not say whether there were any casualties or damage to the vessel.

The embassy said it has made "urgent representations" to the Egyptian government and that the government gave "assurances that action would be taken to facilitate the ship's passage through Aqaba gulf."

units which the projected international army would include.

Bidault and Eden had a hush-hush two-hour meeting Thursday night during which, it was reliably reported, they discussed a new joint approach to Italy and Yugoslavia on the question of disputed Trieste.

It is believed, however, that Britain and the U. S. will not go back on their Oct. 8 declaration they will eventually quit the zone they administer and turn it over to Italy. This statement provoked anti-Western demonstrations in Yugoslavia, and President Tito warned that his troops would march into zone A the minute Italian forces entered the area.

EDC RATIFICATION

Eden and Bidault also were reported to have touched on French ratification of the European Defence Community treaty.

The French also let it be known that they intend to tell Eisenhower and Churchill that Britain and the U.S. must approve French economic union with the Saar basin, the coal-steel area, now autonomous but closely tied economically to France and also claimed by Germany.

The French demand could put the U. S. and Britain on the spot of choosing between France and resurgent West Germany, both vital to European defence.

Says Colossus Hollow Sham

LONDON, (AP)—The Colossus of Rhodes, one of the seven ancient wonders of the world, was described by a British scientist Thursday night as a hollow sham. Herbert Maryon, 79-year-old sculptor-archaeologist, told a meeting of the Society of Antiquaries the giant statue was:

1. Too small to stand astride the harbor of Rhodes.
2. Made of thin bronze sheets instead of solid bronze.

The statue, of the sun god Helios, was the work of a sculptor named Chares, who spent 12 years on his masterpiece. It was erected in 280 B. C. An earthquake tumbled it 53 years later.

Maryon said he has determined from a study of classical inscriptions that the statue was in fact 120 feet high and the harbor 600 feet wide, which would make the famous straddle an anatomical impossibility.

WarnReds PoWs Freed Jan. 22

PANMUNJOM (AP) — United States envoy Arthur H. Dean told the Communists today that unrepatriated war prisoners will be freed Jan. 22 unless a peace conference decides some other course "and no human hand or mind or debate can change it."

"We are never going to agree, under any circumstances, to a change in that date," he declared.

Dean and Communist diplomats conferred for almost three hours on plans for a peace conference while a few miles away 30 more South Korean war prisoners unanimously rejected pleas to return home.

Allied persuaders in three days have talked to 90 South Koreans who chose life under the Communists and not one has changed his mind.

South Korean officers whisked through 30 interviews before noon Friday. The United Nations command asked to interview 40 prisoners Saturday. The repatriation commission said the request for an extra 10 was filed too late, but tonight the commission approved it.

Plane Goes 4800 Miles On Non-Stop Flight

VANCOUVER (CP)—What is believed to be the longest non-stop commercial passenger flight in airline history was completed early today by a Canadian Pacific Airlines DC-6B.

The flight, with 57 passengers and a Vancouver crew of eight, was non-stop from Haneda airport in Tokyo to Vancouver, a distance of 4,800 miles, in 13 hours and 51 minutes. Aided by favorable tail winds, the plane averaged 345 miles an hour for the entire trip.

Due to the international date line, the plane actually arrived in Vancouver before it left Tokyo. The plane left Haneda airport at 3:47 a.m. Friday Tokyo time, and touched down in Vancouver at 12:38 a.m. PST Friday.

Rule U.K. Government Acted Within Law

LONDON (Reuters) — An all-party inquiry decided today that the British government were within constitutional law when it ousted the elected government in British Guiana last month on charges that it was preparing a Communist plot.

The inquiry committee found that the law did not require the move to be decided by the House of Commons.

Legal or not, however, some Labor members of Parliament think the action was too extreme. The situation will be debated in the Commons Monday on a labor motion asking that the government decision revoking the colony's constitution be set aside.

2,700 Civil Servants Granted Pay Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Salary increases for a further 2,700 federal civil servants were announced today by the civil service commission. Average about 10 per cent, they became effective Dec. 1.

Increases for approximately 10,000 civil servants are still to be announced, the commission said.

No Progress Yet In Mining Talks

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Labor Minister Daley said today he could not report any progress in negotiations to settle the two-month-old strike of 7,000 miners of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and talks have been adjourned until sometime next week.

"I can't report any progress at all at this moment," the minister told newspaper men as he emerged from an hour-and-a-half conference with officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and Hollinger officials.

"I can't say we have made any progress this morning," the minister added. "I am not satisfied the prime minister and myself have examined every angle that might eventually lead to a settlement."

NEW YORK, (AP)—Two U. S. Navy fliers whose plane crash landed in Long Island sound Thursday night were rescued alive and well today after they spent more than 12 hours bobbing in a rubber life raft in fog and near freezing temperatures.

MPs Protest Moving Of Film Board

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative and CCF party leaders joined in the Commons Thursday to urge reconsideration of the government's decision to move the National Film Board from Ottawa to Montreal.

He also disagreed with a recent statement by Prime Minister St. Laurent that the Commons had approved the film board move in passing film board estimates at the last session of Parliament.

NO INFORMATION

"No information was made available on which it could possibly be said that this House has made the decision," Mr. Drew said.

CCF leader Coldwell said the government should agree to review the question. A good argument could be made for moving film board operations to Montreal, the bilingual cultural centre of Canada. But there also was a good argument for keeping the board in Ottawa, where government departments could use it. The House neither knew nor understood why the government had decided on the move.

Daring Bandit Grabs $9,754

OTTAWA (CP)—In a daring noon-day holdup at a busy midtown intersection, Mrs. Stanley Sulpher, wife of an Ottawa contractor, was robbed of a $9,754 payroll today.

Police said they are holding one unidentified man and seeking two others, but were not able immediately to recover the money.

Mrs. Sulpher had just left a Bank of Montreal branch carrying the payroll for her husband's company in a canvas bag, and entered her parked automobile nearby, when the robbery occurred.

A man slipped into the seat beside her and held a gun at her side. She screamed and rolled out of the car, and the gunman fled, leaving the gun, a .32 calibre revolver, on the car seat.

Sentenced For Crimes

MARSEILLE (Reuters) — A French military court Thursday night sentenced five former German Gestapo officials to life imprisonment for war crimes. Six others were given terms running from five to 15 years, and four were sentenced to death in absentia. All were former members of the Gestapo in the Montpellier area during the occupation.

YOU CAN TAKE A BIG STEP

That sounds like an assignment for an acrobat doesn't it? The fact is though, that it is not hard to do.

We are referring to the old Canadian method of spreading the Classified Ad pages of the newspaper on the floor and reading every ad in search of a wanted item to fill an urgent need.

Uncounted millions of families have found the home of their desires in this manner. And buying a home is the biggest step most families ever take.

Still others have found building lots, jobs, appliances, furniture and hundreds of other needs by reading the Classified Ads.

Farmers Repay Tornado Help As Blood Donors

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Farmers of Middlesex county whose homes and property were damaged by the May 21 tornado and who watched in wonderment while willing Mennonite workers from Elmira, 80 miles away, toiled untiring to rebuild their worlds, are seizing upon their chance to repay good with good.

Almost six months after their hour of need, the farmers of Middlesex have been given a chance to repay their debt.

An 11-year-old Mennonite child lies in War Memorial Childrens Hospital here. Since June he has been operated on 47 times—he has had 47 skin grafts, and 47 blood transfusions.

But now young Melvin Keupfer, whose father died while he was still a baby, is almost well again. His one ambition is to leave the hospital and return to his mother's farm, between Stratford and Elmira.

RECOVERED FROM BURNS

Thanks to the wonders of surgery, he has recovered from burns suffered in a gasoline explosion on the farm.

Monday they will begin to arrive at Victoria Hospital to give their blood and Mr. Patrick hopes there will be at least 100 donors from the stricken area.

He made his first appeal at the annual conference of the Middlesex Federation of Agriculture. Several members of the federation previously had offered their blood.

"Giving blood to rebuild a blood bank is not the main thing," Mr. Patrick said. "This is an act of Christian kindness—in return for an act of Christian kindness."

CAIRO (AP) — Police sources Thursday said British military authorities at Fayid in the Suez canal zone have confiscated $700,000 worth of goods in Egyptian shops because traders refuse to sell to the British Army. A British army spokesman said business is proceeding as usual in the Fayid area but the British forces have cordoned off the area "to cope with increased lawlessness."

Quiet Election In Cobourg

COBOURG — (ENS) — This years town elections are about the quietest in years. There are no controversial issues.

Only 35 people turned out Monday night for the nomination meeting in the town hall, indicating the lact of interest.

In the past few years, taxes have arisen and indications are that they will continue to do so. But the feeling of the public, seems to be that, because the town is expanding and municipal services have to be increased, a rise in the tax rate is to be expected and there are few beefs about the situation.

Next Monday voters go to the polls but it is expected the vote will not be large. The only contest is for council. Ten are running for six council seats.

Thrown From Car Woman Injured

Mrs. Perfect received superficial head cuts and was shaken up. Her husband, only recently released from hospital, where he had been treated for a heart ailment, was also shaken up in the accident. PC. Homer Seale investigated.

Blow The Gasometer

Alderman Burrows' suggestion that the Utilities Commission move its gas operations completely away from their present site strikes us as both practical and advantageous. The gasometer is no longer essential; the Commission already has plans for doing without it. The plans might be carried one step farther by doing away with the gasometer. It is a blotch on the landscape and skyline. The final step would be to march the whole business out of its Hunter street location by the bridge at the river.

* * *

We do not know what technical problems might be encountered in making re-connections should the plant be moved somewhere else. The physical job should not be costly. There is only one small permanent building now necessary to the operation—the one built when propane gas was introduced some years ago. Other buildings on this valuable and potentially attractive site are few and small. There is only one old house. Therefore to clear the site would not be a waste of valuable buildings or necessary ones. The fact seems to be that not to clear the site is a waste.

* * *

The suggestion was made in connection with a discussion on parking and the opening of new off-street parking lots. The market block parking area is certainly not sufficient, nor do we think that when the new lot on King Street is ready for parking that it will provide all the space necessary. Now that street parking meters are multiplying like bronco hitching posts for the Calgary stampede, car drivers are being forced off the street into central parking lots, if they wish to park for more than an hour. The site of the gas works on Hunter at the bridge could be a useful addition to central parking areas. We think, however, that before it is recommended for this use, the Council should have some experience of the use the car drivers will make of the new King Street lot. There is a limit to what people will pay for parking, and a limit to the number of persons in daily need of parking space who are willing to hitch their cars to ticking meters. The gas works land might not prove to be a revenue-producer as a parking area.

* * *

First things first. However, it seems reasonable to take down the gasometer, move out the gas works completely, reclaim the lot, and then decide what is the best use for it. The area is large, central, a valuable property almost completely neglected and wasted now.

Churchill At Bermuda

The Bermuda conference of the French and British Prime Ministers and the American President, together with their foreign ministers, begins today with the arrival of Eisenhower. Such a meeting is after Sir Winston's own heart. Best of all would be a subsequent meeting shortly of the Big Four.

Readers of the Examiner's special excerpts from Churchill's latest and last book in his personal history of the war will know how strong is the great Englishman's faith in conferences "at the highest level". He was continually seeking them during the war,—the Big Three then being himself, Roosevelt and Stalin. He places an almost exaggerated emphasis on personal contacts between the elected heads of state. So it is obvious that Churchill in Bermuda will press for an immediate conference with Russia "on the highest level", now that Russia has agreed to accept a western invitation to such a conference.

Of more pressing concern to the Americans—who are cool towards a conference with Russia and even suspicious of it—is the European Defence Community. This is the principle objective of U.S. foreign policy. It wants the western States of Europe to join arms, together with supplementary arms from Britain and the U.S. acting through NATO.

The creation of a European Army has been one of the principle diplomatic U.S. activities for the last two years. France has withheld its approval, fearing dominance of Germany not only in the European Defence Community, but over all other western European powers. France wants guarantees from Britain and the U.S. of continued commitment of ground forces as well as weapons and military aircraft. France is opposed to the unilateral rearming of Germany, for historical reasons—German enmity and prowess which has resulted three times in the last 75 years in Germany occupying parts of France.

If the domestic objective of the American policy in Europe is the withdrawal of American ground troops and their replacement by atomic weapons, the French Premier and his Foreign Minister will be as insistent in their protestations at Bermuda as Churchill will be in his proclamation of the desirability of a Four-Power conference.

Archbishop Of Halifax

While we are happy that he has been appointed to the archbishopric of Halifax, we regret that Bishop Gerald Berry must leave this city, of which he has been a distinguished resident since 1945. His handsome and impressive mien, his ready greeting and his wit have made him popular in Peterborough far beyond his own flock; his manner as a public speaker, scholarly, and yet with a light touch, has made him a welcome figure at many municipal ceremonies. We shall all miss the Bishop.

Lest this should seem to be merely the perfunctory editorial which the departure of any important man from Peterborough might call forth, we hasten to say that we in The Examiner will miss Bishop Berry personally. He is a man with whom it is delightful to be in agreement; his enthusiasm and vitality are contagious and enspiriting. But he is that even rarer thing, a man with whom it is a kind of pleasure to be in disagreement, for in that position also he shows a breadth of spirit and a relish for vigorous controversy which is gladdening to the heart. With you, or against you, there is nothing small, nothing depressing, nothing rancorous about the Bishop.

Our warmest good wishes will follow him to Halifax. The archbishopric is a great responsibility, and he has been chosen for the position because he is a big man, upon whom responsibility sits lightly. We hope that he will not forget Peterborough, as Peterborough will certainly not forget him.

Night Lights

The most striking evidence of Ontario's new age, in industry, in expanded population, in technology and, be it said, in comforts and entertainment, is given by the lights of the countryside. These are especially notable at this time of the year when leaves are off the trees and the night falls early. In the metropolitan region, Toronto, or in its bread-baskets and commuters' periphery along the lakeshore, the artificial brightness of the night may no longer astonish. But here in this district which is independent of the metropolitan aura, the changed life of the Province shines even more dramatically than from the biggest and crowded centres, because here the lights come out of darkness which twenty years ago was virtually absolute, and from a city which then used only to twinkle.

Now see the panorama of lights, white, bright and coloured, which come to the eye as you reach the crest of the water-trough hill coming back into the city on Highway 28. The lights spread for miles around—street lights, hospital lights, factory lights, red lamps on radio pylons, the flicker of traffic signals, the glare of neon signs. A more concentrated city of lights lies before your gaze as you come down the Chemong road hill. And afar-off the glow of the city is cast. You can see it in the clouds from Bailieboro, from Norwood, from Bobcaygeon.

The countryside itself is alight. Every farm house has electricity, and most have yard lights. The roads are continuously pin-pointed or splashed by the headlights of traffic. Where formerly a village seemed to sleep after sundown, now it has banks of coloured lights across its street and flood-lit shop windows.

The most striking change of all is that the night isolation which used to envelop the countryside is now broken. At this time of year one is never out of sight of lights—farm lights, traffic lights, the flick of aeroplane signal lamps, the red of beacons on towers. People in the country are no longer immured by lonely darkness. In the heavens is the glow of the nearest big town—even if it be twenty miles away. On the horizon is the red signal atop a TV relay tower, a broadcasting pylon, or on a hill. On the hill-side is the all-night glimmer from hen houses whose inhabitants are being aritficially encouraged to lay more eggs. In the valley is the reflection of a kitchen lamp, where somebody is having a late snack, or another is getting breakfast before going to work on an early factory shift.

Our countryside has lost its night isolation because there are more people and because they are lit up.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Sir Winston Churchill has been given a leopard, which is now on its way to England. Just the sort of pussy to provide relief at Cabinet meetings.

PILTDOWN BRAIN CASE

How The Past Is Dated

By GLYN DANIEL

(Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge)

(Glyn Daniel is a Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, and lectures on archaeology. He is well known as a writer and broadcaster on prehistory. He has travelled extensively, specializing in West European archaeology.)

THE controversy about the Piltdown man has made many people curious, and perhaps sceptical about the methods used by archaeologists and geologists in dating the past. It is true that some experts have always refused to accept the Piltdown jaw and braincase as parts of the same individual, but in most textbooks Eoanthropus dawsonii—the dawn-man from Sussex, the "earlist Englishman," as Sir Arthur Smith-Woodward called him—was until recently described as the oldest human skeleton found in Europe and assigned to the Lower Pleistocene, some half a million years ago. Then in 1949, when the first results of Dr. Oakley's fluorine tests became known, it was thought that the jaw and braincase, while of the same age, dated from late in the Pleistocene, say 50,000 years ago. And now that the fluorine test has been refined and the results of a nitrogen test added, the jaw has been shown not to be contemporary with the braincase, while quite different tests have shown the jaw to be a fake.

HOW IS it that the Piltdown braincase could have been dated first to 500,000 and then to 50,000 years ago? Is dating in prehistoric archaeology entirely guesswork? When a man such as the Abbe Breuil produces a book called "Four Hundred Centuries of Cave Art," is this just a catchpenny title, or is there proof that Palaeolithic man painted and engraved caves in 40,000 B.C.? The same kind of question pursues me after every performance of the television programme "Animal, Vegetable, Mineral?" The experts may themselves disagree over a date on a museum label by as much as a thousand years. Do they really know, or is it all a matter of opinion?

DATING in prehistoric archaeology is a twofold problem, at least in the Old World. The earliest written records are those in Egypt and Mesopotamia, which begin somewhere around 3,000 B.C. In this country we have no written records before Caesar's visit in 55 B.C., althought Pytheas, the Massiliote geographer, visited us somewhere between 325 and 300 B.C. The archaeologist's problem is first one of dating artifacts, cultures, human remains and societies through the last 5,000 years, and, secondly, the different problem of dating before that time.

The first problem deals with the pre-literate, prehistoric, barbarian societies which were contemporary with the literate and calendar-using civilizations of Egypt, Sumeria, Greece and Rome. The second problem has to deal with all time in human history before 3,000 B.C.—what is sometimes referred to as "absolute prehistory," a period before human calendars can aid in our calculations.

THE FIRST PROBLEM is the easier to deal with. Sir Flinders Petrie showed seventy-five years ago how it could be solved. He excavated a tell (mound) in Palestine and found there a succession of human occupations, as Schlieman had found at Troy. By identifying imported objects whose date was known in Egypt, Petrie was able to suggest absolute dates in years for these layers. He next paid a visit to Greece and was able to identify datable Egyptian imports of Mycenae, as well as to recall the occurrence in Egypt of Greek exports in datable contexts on the Nile. From these two links Petrie could suggest dates in years for the prehistoric Greek cultures, and since his time this technique of cross-dating has been extended across Europe.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE CRETAN-GREEK cultures are dated by links with Egypt and Mesopotamia, and the prehistoric cultures of Italy, Central Europe and the British Isles are dated by links with the Minoan-Mycenean world. One such link is much relied on. A particular kind of blue-green faience bead was made in Egypt in the fourteenth century, B.C., and was traded by Minoan-Mycenean merchants through Central Europe and to France, Spain and the British Isles. In Wessex these beads are found in sepulchral barrows, and from graves of the same culture come objects such as the Rillaton gold cup and gold-bound amber beads, closely paralleled in Mycenean graves. These and many other contacts suggest the contemporaneity of some barrows of prehistoric Wessex with the Mycenean world of the fifteenth and thirteenth centuries B.C., and this has recently been demonstrated dramatically by the discovery on one of the trilithons at Stonehenge of an engraving of what looks like a Mycenean dagger.

THE MOMENT we try to date cultures and artifacts before 3,000 B.C. we move into the second problem—the problem of dating absolute prehistory where no cross-dating and calendars can help. We can tell the relative ages of successive cultures and societies from the relation to each other of objects found in different strata, or layers of the soil—the deepest-buried objects being the oldest—but for absolute dates (dates in years) we have to make use of natural events in the earth's own history.

As the glaciers of the great Pleistocene Ice Age retreated, they laid down thin deposits of clay and mud from their summer and winter meltwaters. These clay varves, as they are called, have been studied and counted across Europe owing to the researches of the Swedish geologist the Baron de Geer. De Geer was able to link the termination of these clay varves with historically dated events, thus giving all the varves absolute dates, and through them to date the end of the Ice Age and of the various post-glacial changes in geography. The pollens of plants and trees have got embedded in these varves, and so the post-glacial vegetational changes of Europe can be dated, and by this means the pollens found in a prehistoric site are used to date the site.

THE RATE of radioactive decay in materials has also been used to build up a chronology of the prehistoric past. It is these radioactive changes (assumed to have proceeded always at a constant rate, like an ideal clock) which suggest that the Pleistocene began perhaps a million years ago, and that the first human tools and weapons date from two-thirds of a million years ago. Carbon 14, a natural radioactive component of ordinary carbon, where it occurs in minute traces, is one of these indicators. By calculating in a laboratory the quantity of carbon 14 in dead organic substances such as bone, shell and wood, it is now possible to date them absolutely in years. This carbon 14 technique was first developed by Dr. Libby in the University of Chicago, and very soon equipment for dating carbon 14 analysis will be working in London, Cambridge, Oxford, Liverpool and Edinburgh.

THESE are some of the ways whereby absolute dates are given to prehistoric events. It is not a matter of guesswork, but of using techniques, many of which are very new, and whose limits and possiblities we are only gradually beginning to apprehend. The fluorine test itself provides relative, not absolute, dates, and the stages in the redating of the Piltdown remains are stages in the perfecting of the technique of fluorine measurement.

The strange story of the faked jaw, and the hoax perpetrated forty years ago, should not obscure the real lessons of the whole affair. It is not archaeologists and physical anthropologists who are going astray, or changing their views. It is that they are developing and mastering techniques of dating which are gradually providing a surer framework for the early dating of man.

TOKYO YESTERDAY AND TODAY—II

Japan's Plight and Failure

By CHESTER WILMOT

(Foremost Military Correspondent)

(This is the second of a series of three articles)

THE basic instability of Japan's economic situation is apparent in the changed mood of Tokyo. In 1937 the Japanese were aggressively self-reliant, accepting rigid controls in order to advance their national ambitions. Today they show no inclination to undertake the responsibility of standing on their own feet.

The Japanese people have not yet recovered from the shock of military defeat and foreign occupation, and they have become accustomed to rely on the United States to protect their economy and underwrite their trade deficits. Although many find this galling, few people are prepared to accept the austerity which would be necessary to bring about economic stability by their own efforts.

In accepting this position of dependence, the Japanese apparently suffer no loss of face since they have rationalized the situation in a manner which saves them pride. This rationalization is seldom explicity stated; but it has emerged again and again in conversations I have had with politicians and bureaucrats, business men, labour leaders and intellectuals.

After the war, so the Japanese argument runs, the United States set out to destroy Japan's economy, taking away its colonial sources of food and raw materials, breaking up the big cartels which were the foundation of its competitive efficiency in world markets, and imposing a Labour Standards Law and a trades union structure which has caused a vast increase in Japanese costs of production.

It is only proper, therefore, that the United States should now bear the burden of rebuilding Japan's economy without calling on its people to accept any sacrifices after all they have suffered. This is the more appropriate, say the Japanese, since, in the interests of United States foreign policy, Japan is prevented from trading with Communist China.

Because this kind of rationalism is fairly widely accepted, the Japanese feel no moral obligation to make the effort that Britain made to restore its economy in the immediate post-war years. They have taken to heart the lesson that war does not pay—unless you are powerful enough to win—but they have also learned what advantage there is in exploiting the strategic value which their islands have for the United States.

Publicly the Japanese complain about their exclusion from China and about the restrictions imposed on their trade with the sterling area; but the Government fosters no export drive and, with easy profits available at home, private business interests have little inducement to seek difficult and less profitable markets abroad.

IN its latest survey, the Government's Economic Counsel Board issues a sharp warning against the present policy of drift and of undue reliance on the continuation of U.S. spending. Japan, it says, is "maintaining an economic level (of consumption) far beyond the real capacity which normal foreign trade permits." The survey condemns "the indulgence in luxuries" which characterizes much private spending and "the expansion of non-urgent company consumption which could be saved."

The result, it argues, is that goods which could be exported are being consumed at home, and that Japan is falling behind its competitors in the modernization of the industrial equipment.

The flooding of the domestic market with goods which could be exported, or which at least need not be produced in volume at present, is readily apparent in Tokyo. The shops are crowded with textiles, electrical equipment and other consumer goods of a luxury or semi-luxury nature, while exhortations and inducements to buy are offered on every hand.

Tokyo is short of electric power, but there is no restriction on the profusion of neon lights and electric signs which summon the potentian spender to shop, bar or restaurant. The average suburban shopping centre is brighter at night than London's Piccadilly Circus, or New York's Times Square.

Silk and television provide good examples of trends which the Economic Counsel Board condemns. In 1950 Japan exported 95,000 bales of raw silk out of a total production of 151,000 bales. Last year, although output had risen to 262,000 bales, exports were barely half what they were in 1950. This decline was due not to a falling off in foreign demand, which would have absorbed well over one hundred thousand bales, but to the existence of a buoyant market at home where consumption of silk is now five times greater than it was at the start of the Korean war.

THE case of television aptly illustrated Japan's failure to direct its limited resources of development capital into essential industries directly or indirectly concerned with the export trade. Both national and commercial television services have now been established, absorbing not only development capital but also foreign exchange, since nearly all the technical equipment must be imported from the United States or Britain.

The present concentration on the domestic market, and the neglect of export opportunities, is an indication of Japan's urgent need to prevent inflation getting out of hand. The inflationary pressure arising from the Korean war boom, and especially from the liberal spending by U.S. troops on leave, has put vast sums into the pockets of the people: and unless their expenditure is to be curtailed by heavier taxation, the home market must be provided with sufficient goods to absorb this bountiful purchasing power.

The immediate result has been to curb the development of inflation; but as Japan's production costs continue to rise, its chances of reviving the export trade have steadily deteriorated. The Economic Counsel Board asserts that the situation can be brought under control by "a drastic surgical operation," but there seems to be little likelihood of the necessary measures being taken as long as the Japanese people believe that in the last resort the United States will come to the rescue.

Letters To The Editor

GOOD WORDS FOR ASSESSMENT STAFF

SIR: Would like to extend a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Davis and staff, for their very able handling of all queries re our new assessment. Tuesday evening, the interested people in Clarady ward were the recipients of a thorough briefing by Mr. Davis personally, and his staff were very courteous in their handling of the numerous individual cases. I trust our City Fathers will see fit to follow through, in their handling of the 1954 mill rate.

GORD THOMSON.

PRAISE FOR DR. LANGLEY

SIR: I read in your paper with regret that Dr. Langley is resigning from the Utilities Board. Peterborough should, I think, be thankful that they have a man with the experience and ability of Dr. Langley who is willing to give his time to us citizens of Peterborough. I do not know Dr. Langley personally, but I have read your paper from time to time, and can see just what is going on. When one considers the ability of other members on the board, they may know what a good office chair is, or a box of soft drinks, but I don't think they know much about electrical installations, whether it be open or metal. These men may have wonderful dispositions or personalities, but that does not save us money. They must have some gall to even open their mouths regarding installations, and have the nerve to talk on such subjects with a Dr. who has spent his whole life, from all accounts, and made it his life study in the electrical field. That is what's wrong with Peterborough, we have men in high places, that are not fit for the jobs and then we sit back and grumble.

Thanking you Mr. Editor,

"OBSERVER."

OUTDOOR ARTIFICIAL RINKS

Sir: Regarding Mr. Ferguson's offer about the proposed artificial outdoor rink, it seems to me that the City is taking a very short-sighted view. The City is putting up 14 natural ice rinks. It will probably cost $15,000 or $20,000 to put up and maintain these rinks for the winter. The kind of winter that we have had for the last five or six years the children will be lucky to get 20 nights of skating. If this is true it will cost the city approximately $1,000.00 for each night of skating.

According to Mr. Ferguson it will cost $50,000 to put up such an artificial outdoor rink. Four or five of these rinks put up in different parts of the city would cost approximately $200,000. They would not have to be built all at once but could be constructed one rink every one or two years until there was one in each section of the city. Having artificial ice would give the children a skating season of three to four months. Also these rinks could probably be used for roller skating in the summer. The city, if it felt it was necessary, could charge a token admission, five or 10 cents, to use these facilities and would probably take in enough money to pay for the upkeep and maintenance of the rinks.

As to the city's argument that the Memorial Centre will take care of any such needs, when the Memorial Centre is built, there will not be enough time available to allow the children to skate. All of the available time will be taken by other organizations. Civic Arena will be used for hockey by the minor hockey, church leagues and other leagues unable to have enough ice time now. The Figure Skating Club would probably be interested in obtaining more time than is now available and possibly the Curling Club would be interested in using Civic Arena.

In these days of increase assessments and high taxes, constructive long-range thinking by the council and the realization that money spent on natural ice rinks is being melted down the drain by our mild weather, these facts would be appreciated by the taxpayers.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Before the mountains were brought forth, or even Thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, Thou art God (Ps. 90:1,2.)

Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

For a I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an alter with this incription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands.

Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he need any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things . . .

For in him, we live, and move, and have our being: as certain also of our own poets have said, For, we are also his offspring.

Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device. (Acts 17: 22-25, 28, 29.)

And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God. (II Cor. 6:16.)

O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches . . .

The glory of the Lord shall endure for ever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works . . .

I will sing unto the Lord as long as I live: I will sing praise to my God while I have my being. (Ps. 104:24, 31, 33.)

✧ ✧ ✧

In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

Prove all things; hold fast that which is good . . .

And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. (I Thess. 5:18, 21, 23.)

No Future in Canada

(Le Canada, Montreal)

The people of Canada are unanimous in rejecting McCarthyism, which is a mental touble. Where the Gouzenko incident is concerned, it may be observed that every sector of public opinion has reacted unanimously . . . the whole press of Canada has gone to the defence of Mr. Pearson and approved the policy followed by the federal government. That should be enough to demonstrate that there is no place in Canada . . . for McCarthyism and hysteria. We are democracies and we intend to remain so . . . If Mr. Gouzenko wants to remake his career by American television that is nobody's business but his. But we are opposed to Senator McCarthy and the baby-Hitlers that eat out of his hand coming to make their careers in Canada.

Would Censure Churchill Gov't

LONDON (Reuters) — The opposition Labor party decided today to introduce a motion calling for censure of the Churchill government for its handling of African colonial affairs.

Debate on the motion may come next week after Prime Minister Churchill returns from the Big Three Bermuda conference.

Since Conservatives are behind the government on the issue, there is little chance that the government will be overthrown.

The motion, drawn up after some indecision on whether to present it, expressed "grave disquiet" over the expulsion last month of the kabaka (king) of Buganda, Musetta II, from his African territory.

Labor members said the Buganda crisis is just one of the objects of opposition alarm at the government's colonial policy in Africa. Handling of the Mau Mau terrorist campaign in Kenya, exile of the ruler of the Mamangwato tribe of Bechuanaland and plans for federation of eastern and central Africa may also come under fire.

Pilots Unharmed After Jets Collide

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—Two jet planes from Selfridge Field air force base collided over southeastern St. Clair county today. Both pilots parachuted to safety.

Their F-86D jets were demolished after falling 20,000 feet to the ground.

The pilots were uninjured. They were returned to the base near Mt. Clemens in a helicopter.

They were Capt. Henry W. Jones, about 30, of Phenix City, Ala., and 2nd Lieut. Robert L. Buss, 23, of Hoskins, Neb.

Senator Would Like TV At Sessions

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia) said Thursday in the Senate that he hopes Parliament never brings television into its sessions or committees.

Such broadcasts, he said during the throne speech debate, sometimes lead to the truth being hidden and often to it being stretched.

"I hope we do not follow the United States and bring television into our halls of Parliament or into our committees for if we do men and women will become actors. . ."

Exports Drop $31 Millions

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's exports declined by $31,500,000 during October, reflecting a drop in shipments to the United States, Latin America and continental Europe.

October's shipments dropped to $347,857,000 from $379,357,000 last year, bringing the 10-month 1953 total to $3,456,521,000 compared with $3,570,305,000 in the corresponding period last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

A survey of imports will be published later.

Exports to Britain increased slightly in October to $55,514,000 from $50,643,000 a year ago, but the 10-month total, at $562,280,000, was down $75,000,000 from last year's $639,921,000.

Canada's shipments to the U. S., which had been rising steadily earlier this year, eased by $8,000,000 in October. The 10-month total was up.

Cattle Prices Down $1 During Week

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were $1 or more lower on steers and heifers with a heavy carryover at the Ontario stockyards this week. Calves and hogs were steady while lambs gained 50 cents.

A moderate cattle run of 8,114 head was added to 1,000 carried from last week. Included in fresh arrivals were 2,200 westerns, mixed killers and stockers. Prices were steady on a few good choice cattle Monday but a heavy holdover caused prices to slip for the rest of the week. Choice light and weighty steers made $20-21 Monday, one lot $21.50, but sales did not pass $20 for the rest of the session. Good steers $19-19.50, mediums downward to $17; good heifers $17.50-18; plain steers and heifers downward to $13, boners as low as $9; good cows $10; a few $10.50; canners and cutters $5-8; good heavy bulls $11.50-12; a few $12.50; plain light bulls $9-11; choice fed yearlings opened $22-23 and closed at $21-22, mediums $17-19; stockers were steady on some sales and up to $1 on others; good stockers and stock calves $17-18, one lot of calves $18.50; plain stockers $12-16.

Calves totalled 2,393 head, including 800 westerns; choice vealers $24-26; medium to good $16-23; plain downward to $12; grassers $9-10.50.

Sheep and lambs totalled 2,342 head; lambs gained 50 cents at $22.50-23 for good ewes and wethers; bucks $1 discount; heavies $2-3 discount; culls $15-18; good light sheep $8-10; culls downward to $4.

Hope Diabetics Soon Produce Own Insulin

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Charles H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin, told the Empire Club Thursday that there is a real hope that diabetics may be able to produce their own insulin.

This might be done, he said, by repairing the damage to the cells of the body which ordinarily produce the insulin needed to maintain the chemical balance of the body.

Results in this research to date, he said, are encouraging.

Your Children's Aid Society

A Weekly Column Written in the Interest of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society

The recent controversy about sparing the rod and spoiling the child made the staff members of the local Children's Aid Society pause for a moment. Maybe that is true after all. Then they thought of Tommy.

Tommy was ten years old, old enough to know that something was very wrong in his home. He knew that the other boys' dads didn't go away for 3 or 4 days and then come home sick and acting funny. And his mother was always crying, or getting mad at Tommy and his brothers and sisters—they could never do anything to please Mom. Things sure were a mess.

He remembered the day that lady came to the house, she said she was from the Children's Aid. Tommy had been so scared he grabbed the other kids and they ran away to hide. His dad had always said he was going to send them away. Funny thing was though that nobody came after them, and when Tommy and the rest of the kids crept back into the house his mother didn't get mad at them,—she just looked at them and said it was alright—everything would be alright.

Tommy sat and thought about that for awhile. Maybe it would be alright—that Children's Aid lady came around quite often and she wasn't so bad. Mom seemed to like her and she always felt beter after she talked to the lady. Mom was nice to Dad too, they didn't get sick as many times as he used to. Maybe this Children's Aid lady was making things better. Tommy decided he would have a talk with her the next time she came to the house. Maybe he could help to make things better for Mom and maybe the lady would be able to persuade Mom that he does need skates like the other kids. Then everything would be alright.

What did that lady from the Children's Aid do that made life better for Tommy and the other children in their home? Had the "rod" been used?

Next week the Children's Aid Society would like to tell you how they helped Tommy and his family.

Want Polio Outbreak Called Emergency

OTTAWA (CP)—E. G. McCullough (CCF — Moose Mountain) suggested in the Commons Thursday that Alberta's poliomyelitis outbreak is serious enough to call for special federal help as a "national emergency."

He said he understands there are not enough civilian doctors available to deal with the outbreak, and he asked Health Minister Martin if doctors in the armed services could be used.

Mr. Martin said he would reply later.

Aces Juveniles Take Two In Minor Puck Play Against IOOF, Norwood

The juvenile Aces of the PMHA hung up a double victory at Civic Arena last night as they blanked the Oddfellows 5-0 and came back an hour later to whitewash Norwood 7-0. In their first fray, Kane scored from Chambers in the initial inning, Ferren tallied in the second, and then McFadden got two and Godfrey one in the third, the latter, Brooks and Doris earning an assist each. They drew four of the seven penalties. The Aces' second scrap saw Godfrey count from Kane to open play, with Ferren and Parry then tallying in the second period, Kane having as assist. Ferren threw in two in the third and Godfrey and Strickland one each, as Floyd and Kane each gained an assist. The winners drew three of the four penalties.

Martin-Hewitt Aces and the midget Shamrocks drew 2-2 in a tidy tilt. Ferguson scored in the first period for Aces, while Stewart and Armstrong tallied in the opening stanza for Shamrocks, Daly aiding on one. Early in the third chukker, Ferguson again dented the hemp to sew it up. Each side drew three penalties.

Another melee saw Shamrocks roll to an 11-0 triumph over Norwood, the victors getting six of 11 penalties. Stewart and Heron scored in the first period, while Darling, Pace and Forestell counted next heat, an assist going to Mahoney. In the third period, Baker got two, and Heron, Olmstead, Armstrong and Darling one each. An assist apiece in the last frame went to Baker, Stewart and Casey.

SHAMROCKS WIN

Shamrock bantams beat Optimists 6-2. Nichols, McCormick and McFadden tallied in the first chapter, Copping and McCormick each getting an assist. Hamilton added one for them in the second, while Doughty and McFadden lit the lamp in the third, Tucker earning an assist. For the losers, Heffernan got one from Ruttan in the second, and Hatton scored on McCabes pass in the third. The victors drew two of the three penalties in the clean contest.

An earlier bantam tussle saw Aces win 3-0 from Shamrocks. It was 1-0 in the first frame when Fitzgerald tallied from Billingsley. Finnie and Allen scored in the third, the last one being on a penalty shot. The losers were given four penalties and the winners one.

Hotelmen Plan To Pay For Big Dinner

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hotel Association decided Thursday to pay for cost of meals at the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association's third annual sports celebrity dinner for crippled children next Feb. 18.

Wes McKnight of radio station CFRB, dinner chairman, said the donation will make certain that all proceeds from the $25-a-plate event go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. The amount will depend on the number of diners but it may run to $5,000 or more.

TO SELL 800 TICKETS

McKnight said it is hoped to sell 800 tickets for $20,000, compared with a net of $12,700 from the 1953 dinner last March.

The association has not completed its line-up of celebrities but the preliminary list includes: Tom Burns, native of Hanover, and only Canadian to hold the world heavyweight boxing title; Cyclone Taylor old time hockey star; Lefty Gomez from baseball; Ken Watson of Winnipeg, Canada's outstanding curler; Torchy Peden, former six-day bike racer.

Terry Sawchuk's Comeback Sets Amazing Record

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings, a self-admitted "flop" in last spring's Stanley Cup playoffs, is compiling an amazing comeback record.

The 23-year-old netminder has given up only 29 goals in 20 games —an average of 1.45. He also has turned in five shutouts, but most important, he has regained his confidence.

After the Wings were upset by Boston Bruins in the playoffs last April, Sawchuk said:

"I've been a flop all year but I'll be back—and I'll be the best!"

Sawchuk is back—and he's the best.

He posted his third straight shutout at home Thursday night, blanking New York Rangers 4-0. He made 27 saves, at least half a dozen robbing the Rangers of "sure" goals.

NO EXPLANATION

Sawchuk, who hasn't been scored upon in Olympia Stadium in 211 minutes and 24 seconds, is at a loss to explain his comeback.

"It's the finest start I've ever had," he said after Thursday's game, "but I'll be darned if I know why. Maybe it's my weight. I weigh 177 now compared to 165 last season. I couldn't even work up a sweat last season."

Sawchuk has been a more relaxed goalie this season. He displayed mid-season form even in the first exhibition games.

Slashed across the knee, he missed three games earlier in the season. His replacement, Dave Gatherum, gave up three goals in three games.

This gives the Red Wings 32 goals-against in 23 games and puts Sawchuk into the lead for the Vezina Trophy.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

All the columnists in the Central Ontario senior "B" puck group have been remarking lately on what a race is developing and on the many upsets occurring as the schedule moves into another month. Scribe Carver of Belleville says in part: "This senior "B" group is liable to develop into a dogfight of the bulldog type before the playoff bugles sound. This department doubts if there is a closer-matched group in Ontario, and that goes for the senior "A" setup. That may be had to believe but statistics should remove doubt from the minds of the sceptics. In the over-all picture, nine games with a single goal margin have been played. Three games with two-goal margins are in the books, and two of these games saw goals scored in the dying seconds after the losing team's goalie had been withdrawn."

* * * * * *

He adds: "While it would appear as if Oshawa are making a more or less runaway of the group lead just now, the road is getting tougher all the time. Other teams are gradually hitting their stride and the powerful contingent from Oshawa had to go all out to beat Petes last meeting and then lost to Orillia. Belleville beat Oshawa and last start downed the second-place Kingston Goodyears. There isn't a pushover in the group now. We have talked with coaches and managers of all teams in the group and, regardless of the standing at present, all are confident that there will be the dangest dogfight for playoff berths ever seen in senior "B" hockey in this district."

Makes Sense For Once

For some years we have made it a point not to see eye-to-eye with the bard of Bella Villa, but must go along with his thoughts on this subject at present. It certainly is a hot scramble right now with more upsets than Hallowe'en. Mind you, we've seen some keen races before in this grouping, and last year's was plenty warmish at the finish with every club but Orillia right in the thick of it to the final week. Something similar is shaping up now in the circuit if injuries don't cripple one or more clubs as the schedule progresses. Oshawa built up a sizeable early lead, but they were plenty potent last year, also, and yet Kingston took it all. The other clubs are starting to crowd the Truckmen plenty lately.

* * * * * *

As for the TPT Petes, they didn't get off to a fast start but they're coming now. They've beaten 'em all but Oshawa, and only lost out to them last start by a goal in the final second of play on Oshawa's home ice. We believe Eddie Redmond's men will yank out a victory here tonight against the classy Kingston Goodyears, OHA champs last season. It won't be a walkaway, you can bet your bottom buck on that, but Petes have the potential and are clicking better the last few frays. If they go right this eve they'll humble the fast-stepping K's to creed closer to that second-slot position in the loop standing. Petes then trek to Belleville on Saturday.

Action By The PMHA-ers

In the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association slate of games at Civic Arena last gloaming, the juvenile Aces pulled the iron-man stunt of playing and winning two tilts, both by shutout counts. They blanked Oddfellows 5-0 and, after an hour's rest, returned to daub Norwood 7-0 with the whitewash brush. Godfrey, Ferren, Kane and McFadden led the attack. Midget scraps saw Shamrocks and the Martin-Hewitt Aces draw 2-all, while the Shamrocks downed Norwood 11-0 as they played a pair. The bantam Shamrocks won 6-2 from the Optimists, and a previous bantam tussle went to the Aces by 3-0 o'er Shamrocks. The Monday six p.m. bantam fray is between Optimists and the Aces.

A morning account out of Toronto lists the 1954 slate of officers for the Water Ski Association. Directors include Mrs. Norma Gordon of Bobcaygeon, as well as V. S. Milburn and Dave Price of Toronto, both formerly of Peterborough. Terry Hill of this city is one of the regional vice-presidents, representing the Kawartha district. This aquatic sport, requiring much training and skill, has become quite popular the past few years, more and more fellows and girls trying out the water slats at high speed. An Ontario trial meet—ere the big CNE competition—was held here last August, with Alf Pink prominent in the organization of it.

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sometimes you can almost convince people that Detroit Red Wings are human. Only two weeks ago somebody scored on Terry Sawchuk on Detroit ice. Two days later they even lost a game in Montreal. At Chicago last Sunday the Black Hawks beat Sawchuk four times—while yielding only nine goals to their opponents. But there is a growing suspicion in National Hockey League circles that despite these occasional manifestations of humanity the Wings bear no more resemblance to ordinary man than the Piltdown fossil.

New York Rangers, victims of a 4-0 shutout at Detroit Thursday night, fired half-a-dozen labelled shots at Sawchuk that appeared to be turned aside only by the force of public opinion.

Although it was common knowledge that the Howe-Lindsay-Reibel line and defenceman Red Kelly are the only scoring threats in the Detroit line-up, three of the four goals against New York were counted by people named Aled Delvecchio, Vic Stasiuk and Johnny Wilson. The fourth goal by Howe was the only one they had a right to expect.

CANADIENS FRUSTRATED

Montreal Canadiens, who normally would consider a 5-1 victory over Toronto a satisfactory night's work, must have shared the Rangers' feeling of frustration.

Montreal fans have watched the Habitants knock off Detroit three times in as many visits, making it hard for them to understand why the Canadiens are in second place, a point behind the Wings.

They were world-beaters against the Leafs Thursday night, scoring four times in the first period with Maurice Richard counting twice and setting up Ken Mosdell for a third tally.

RUBS IT IN

Just to rub it in, Johnny McCormack, the defensive expert whom the Leafs peddled to Montreal two years ago, set up the fourth goal by Floyd Curry and scored one himself in the third period after Rudy Migay connected for the lone Toronto marker.

Boston Bruins drew within a point of the third-place Leafs by whipping Chicago 3-1 before a good mid-week crowd of 13,110 fans.

Last-period goals by Dave Creighton and Milt Schmidt gave the Bruins their victory after Joe Klukay matched Billy Mosienko's opening Chicago counter in the second frame. The loss was the 20th in 27 starts for the last-place Hawks and their fifth meeting with Boston without a win.

GRAIN PILEUP — Grain worth about $300,000 lies on the ground near the elevators at Makepeace, about 20 miles northwest of Bassano, Alta. The huge pile of grain, for which there is no room in the plugged elevator, belongs to Wilbur Griffith, of Calgary. This situation, though generally on a smaller scale, is repeated in many other sections of Alberta due to the heavy crop this year. Note how the grain piles dwarf man at right.

Must Know Russian Tongue To Be Able To Travel In USSR

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—Russian isn't a language you pick up casually, the way Canadian soldiers learned the essentials of French, Italian and Dutch during the Second World War.

Yet knowledge of the language is more important here. The only people who speak English are officials assigned to deal with foreigners. Even ordering a meal is mostly guesswork unless you know a bit of Russian.

It's a tough language. "B" sounds like "V" and "H" is "N." "P" is "R" and "C" is "S." A "y" downstairs is "oo" but moved above the line it's "tsch."

COACHING HELPED

Six years' intermittent coaching by sculptor William Koochin of Vancouver and Brilliant, B.C., has helped but I've had to work my way up from top to bottom through the hotel menu to find out what the list means.

Deciphered phonetically, some items are almost like the English—"soup," "salat," "roast beef," "carp," 'omlet," "coffee" and "cacao (cocoa)."

Something that sounds like "boolyon" turns out to be "bouillon," and "entrecote," "filet," "escalope' and 'cotelette' are the same as on Canadian menus, adopted from the French.

CAVIAR ACCIDENTAL

Solyanka is a soup of many ingredients, a little acidic. Beef stroganoff is diced meat in cream sauce. I ordered caviar without knowing it. In the hors d'oeuvres section of the menu was something called "eegra." That's caviar in Russian.

Getting toast is a problem. A girl told me to ask for "toast—just as in English." I got it one morning, then the order "toast" brought me only white, rye or black bread. Until one day I asked carefully for the "stchoat," meaning the bill, and that brought toast once, anyway.

There is no food rationing in Moscow but the cost of living is high in terms of foreign exchange at four rubles to the dollar.

A room at the Metropole Hotel costs 45 rubles a day. One Western newspaper man who inherited a small flat from his predecessor pays 7,000 rubles a year ($145 a month) rent. I was told by UPDK, the government office which provides accommodation and services for members of the diplomatic corps and other foreigners, that I'd be lucky to find one at twice the price.

New Pills Help Heal Severe Stomach Ulcers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A six-ply pill described as a new and promising treatment for stomach ulcers was shown today to the American Medical Association.

It combines four different antiacids to counteract excess stomach acids causing or worsening the ulcers. The fifth element is an oat meal extract which binds the acid-fighters together and releases them slowly for about two hours. The sixth ingredient is a gummy material which forms a protective coating over the lining of the stomach or the duodenum, the first part of the intestine.

These new pills, not yet on the market, have relieved pain within a few days in most of more than 250 patients treated so far according to the exhibit being staged by Drs. Leo. L. Hardt and Frederick Steigmann of Loyola University and Cook county graduate school of medicine, Chicago, and Clarence A. Maaske and Robert Grover of the University of Colrado school of medicine, Denver.

HELP ULCERS HEAL

The pills are known to have helped the healing over of ulcers in the stomach, Dr. Hardt said. X-rays of many patients show no ulcer scars in the duodenum.

Used separately, some of these produce undesirable effects, Dr. Hardt said, but the combination so far had shown no bad effects. Patients take about 24 pills a day, usually before and after meals, and before bedtime.

2 Non-Confidence Votes Defeated In House; Now Tackle Legislation

OTTAWA—(CP)—The Commons has ended the throne speech debate and now tackles government legislation. The way was cleared Thursday after members defeated Progressive Conservative and Social Credit non-confidence motions in the government, the latter drawing support from 11 Conservatives. The PC motion, defeated 153 to 56, said Canada's welfare depends on free competition and urged policies to "restore" markets and promote world trade.

Liberals, CCF and three Independent members voted against the motion, which received Social Credit support.

Eleven Progressive Conservative however, lined up with Social Credit members on that party's non-confidence motion, opposed by Liberals, the remaining PC members under Opposition Leader Drew CCF and Independent members. The vote was 193 to 25.

PC MOTION AMENDED

The Social Credit motion amended the PC motion by changing the words "free competition" to "private enterprise" and adding a request that Canada accept sterling payment for her exports.

A week earlier the Commons defeated a CCF non-confidence motion criticizing the absence of national health insurance proposals in the government's legislative plans for the session.

Thursday's divisions ended the throne speech debate which has occupied the Commons for three weeks since the session began Nov. 12.

Three government measures which received first reading Nov. 16 head the long list of bills now to be considered.

The three bills will permit material printed for the Aug. 10 election to be used for by-elections and elections in the Northwest Territories; provide for federal chartering and control of interprovincial or international pipelines; and provide for appointment of auditors for the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Drew, speaking on the Social Credit motion, said he could not personally support it.

NOT BINDING

This was taken as an indication that his views were not binding on other members of the party.

He said the proposal for acceptance of sterling had not been defined and there was evidence the United Kingdom would not agree to the open-end deal apparently involved in the suggestion.

The PC party repeatedly had sought means to permit convertibility of sterling and dollars. This problem had been a "log jam" in Canadian trade. But a general acceptance of sterling payments for Canadian exports might delay the time when convertibility would be possible.

SEES NO DIFFERENCE

Mr. Drew said he saw no difference in the meaning of "free competition" and "private enterprise," terms involved in the Social Credit motion.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said his party could support proposals for part payment in sterling but not unlimited sterling payments as proposed by the Social Credit party.

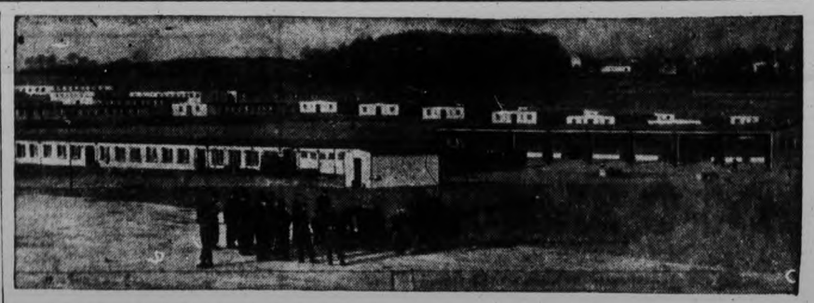
The 11 Progressive Conservatives who voted for the Social Credit motion included: John Diefenbaker, Prince Albert; C. W. Hodgson, Victoria, Ont.; Harry O. White, Middlesex East; Michael Starr, Ontario; Andrew E. Robinson, Bruce; John A. Charlton, Brant-Haldimand C. D. Coyle, Elgin; and Wallace Nesbitt, Oxford.

Plane Prepared For St. Laurent

MONTREAL (CP)—Technicians have been at work more than three months on the silver C-5 aircraft that will carry Prime Minister St. Laurent on a globe-circling tour early next year.

The RCAF's most cherished aircraft, the big transport will be a home - away - from - home for the prime minister during the trip, first such tour by a Canadian prime minister.

The C-5 was used by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh during their 1951 Canadian visit. It also took Trade Minister Howe and a party on a tour of South America, and External Affairs Minister Pearson to India and Ceylon.



Among the alterations for the forthcoming trip is a living compartment for the prime minister. Built in the mid-section, the compartment will contain mahogany furniture, a desk and chair and two sofas that can be made into comfortable beds.

Auction King Farouk's Treasures

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Egyptian government has good news for anyone with a yen to own Frederick the Great's snuff boxes or the imperial easter egg that the last czar of Russia gave his wife.

The treasures of King Farouk are going on sale. Samid Ahmed, the press attache, said he's convinced this will be the biggest thing of its kind ever.

The auction will be held in Cairo from Feb. 12 to March 31, 1954, and although the Egyptians would like to have buyers there in person, they're also ready to accept bids by mail.

Eight thousand, five hundred coins and medals in gold and 160 in platinum. Also four ancient roman gold bars.

Ahmed said the money would go into a special fund "to raise the standard of living and for social reforms."

London Times Says

Mackenzie King Obstacle To The Unity Of The Empire

LONDON (CP)—Mackenzie King must go down in history as the "principal obstacle to the unity of the empire," says The Times in reviewing the biography of the late Canadian prime minister, written by Bruce Hutchison and just published in Britain.

"The powerful and United Canada of today is his monument," says The Times, which terms the work a "vivacious narrative." It adds:

"All his life, Mackenzie King was the rock on which attempts to articulate the British Commonwealth foundered.

"This biography (Mackenzie King: The Incredible Canadian) should establish King as an even more complex, versatile and commanding character than has been usually appreciated, even by those who realize that he was the most consummate player of the parliamentary game since Walpole—with whom he had some affinities.

"It does not make him lovable."

"SAUCY" READING

A. J. Cummings of The News Chronicle says the biography will appeal most to Canadians in recording King's political manoeuvres, but it makes "saucy" reading.

Cummings recalls his conversation with the Liberal leader at the half-way mark of the 1939 royal tour of Canada, when King spoke of his fear that war might split Canada on the question of alleg-iance to Britain.

"Now I am relieved," Cummings quotes him as saying. "I know all is well. The country will support Britain."

Malan Republic Plan To Wait For A While

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters)—Plans by Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's Nationalist government to turn South Africa from a dominion in the Commonwealth into a republic will wait until a "substantial majority" of the country's population is in favor of it.

This pledge, given recently by Malan, allayed fears in a large section of the country opposed to Malan's Nationalists.

In the general elections last April Malan's Nationalists received only a minority of the total vote although they won an increased majority of seats.

Ardent republican Johannes Strydom, minister of lands and probable successor to the aged Malan as prime minister, has preached moderation and patience over the issue.

WITHOUT VIOLENCE

Malan himself in a speech to the Orange Free State congress of the party said a republic would have to be achieved democratically without violence and with a minimum of division among the people—and without the likelihood that it would be reversed at a later general election.

Malan's conception of a South African republic is one within the Commonwealth although more ardent republicans would like to sever all association with Britain.

Malan maintains there is no reason to break with the Commonwealth for greater freedom. He recently told the South African Parliament: "The Commonwealth gives us the greatest freedom we could wish for."

Find Horsemeat Loses Appeal In West

CALGARY (CP)—Horsemeat has lost its appeal for western Canadians.

The western section of the Council of Canadian Beef Producers says that of 33 shops licensed to sell horsemeat in cities between Winnipeg and Vancouver in 1951, only three were operating early this year.

With high prices ruling the beef market in 1951, horsemeat—at savings of 30 to 40 cents a pound for dinner meat — offered a strong economical appeal, but in most cases the shops found the demand indifferent.

Shops still operating when the CCBP made its survey included one each in Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton.

UK Millionaire Importing Fish To Wage Price War

BY TOM CULLEN

LONDON— (NEA) —Millionaire George Dawson denies that he started the Korean War, even though he cleaned up a fortune on it. But he proudly admits hat he started a war that everyone enjoys—a price war in the fish industry.

It is Dawson, single-handed, vs. the Fish Monopoly of Britain. It's being fought with fish—and also with cheque-book and fountain pen for Dawson is using his personal fortune to defy a two-year-old ban on fish imported from Iceland. The ban was imposed by British trawler owners in 1951 when they were excluded from 5,000 square miles of Iceland fishing grounds.

This week, as Dawson landed his first boatload of cod from Iceland, he was hailed as a national hero. British housewives made him their pin-up boy, as he showered them with free fish.

The roly-poly, five-foot, 44-year-old cockney has not always been the darling of the British public. At one time he was wanted for questioning by Scotland Yard, the French Surete and the U. S. House of Representatives. American Congressmen accused him of making a $1,000,000,000 profit on the resale of American war surplus goods.

Nor has he always enjoyed basking in a sunlight of publicity. Like Harry Lime of "The Third Man" fame, Dawson has preferred the shadowy enclaves of Vienna, Hamburg and Antwerp, slithering out of reach of the law at the twang of a zither.

FIRST OFFICE

With his sausage legs tucked beneath a Louis VIX desk at No. 35 Berkeley Square, Dawson admited that it is the first office he has ever owned.

"All my life I've made my deals in bars," he says candidly.

Starting at the age of 12, when he rented out his bicycle, Dawson has made —and some say, lost—two fortunes. He's now starting on his third.

Fortune No. 1: By buying up broken-down trucks in junk yards and fitting the useful parts together, he was able to sell complete machines, himself acquired a fleet of trucks. At the age of 30, he owned a Rolls-Royce, a Bentley and his own airplane.

Fortune No. 2: Dawson got into the scrap business after the war by buying up a lot of self-sealing aircraft tanks. He split the tanks open, ripped out their rubber linings and sold the rubber as scrap.

In Norway he bought an entire surplus depot, including a fully-equipped hospital, which he turned back to the Norwegians.

Later he bought up vehicles sold by the Americans to a German company and sold them back to the Americans at a fancy price. The Korean War had rocketed their value.

As to Fortune No. 3: the fishing business, Dawson is keeping his fingers crossed. "I may not make as much out of fish as I did out of surplus, but I'll make enough," he says.

LOSING MONEY

Meanwhile, in his price war to undersell British producers, Dawson is losing money on his Iceland cod. He's building his own $300,000 processing plant at Grimsby, setting up his own sales organization, will quick-freeze some of the fish to sell abroad.

"If the trawler owners try to stop me," he warns, "I'll fly the fish in from Iceland."

Dawson has gone into the Icelandic fishing business pretty thoroughly. He is making a first-hand study of the best white wines to drink with fish, compiling a personal cookery-book of fish recipes, and planning an exhibition of Icelandic art in London.

As a cockney, Dawson genuinely loves fish, has been known to send his Rolls-Royce down to the docks for two fillets of hake and a bobsworth of chips.

Commenting on the present "fish" war, the Sunday Times recently observed:

"This is not, as the Irishman said, a private fight. But the policeman is looking the other way, and a good thing, too. If the price of fish comes down in the shops, good luck to it."

House Of Ill Repute Figures In Police Inquiry

SARNIA (CP)—A notorious house of ill-repute figured in evidence heard Thursday at an official inquiry into the law enforcement methods of the Sarnia detachment, Ontario Provincial Police.

Deputy Commissioner W. H. Lougheed, presiding on the three-man board of inquiry, declined to divulge details of the evidence, but admitted the house had been mentioned.

He also confirmed a report that evidence included a mysterious note found by city police during investigation of a believed suicide in a Bluewater Water Hotel room.

The deputy commissioner said the inquiry will probably conclude today. Although he would not identify witnesses who appeared Thursday, he did say that none of the nine officers of the OPP Sarnia detachment had yet been interrogated. Evidence from these men will be heard today, he said.

NO PUBLIC INQUIRY

Commissioner Lougheed said he saw no possibility the current probe would give rise to a public inquiry into the methods of the Sarnia detachment.

A stenographic report of evidence was being taken and when transcribed would be submitted to the Ontario Provincial Police commissioner, E. B. McNeil, in Toronto, he said.

Any public report of the inquiry or its findings would be made by the commissioner, it was announced.

With deputy commissioner Lougheed on the board of inquiry are George V. Clubbe, London district inspector and Leonard Neil, Toronto, staff inspector.

Inspector Neil visited the Sarnia detachment to make a preliminary investigation shortly after Louise Blackhall was found dying in her Bluewater Hotel room with a bullet wound in her stomach and a .38-calibre "police positive" lying on a table beside her.

NOTES FOUND

Two notes were found in the room. One, which was on the table beside the gun was believed written after the shot was fired and before the woman became unconscious. It is believed to have been in the nature of a farewell note to a man.

The second note, discovered later, is the one involved in the current inquiry. It was found by city police and turned over to Inspector Neil.

There is a possibility that the contents of the notes may be disclosed at an inquest into the death of Miss Blackhall.

Crown Attorney S. A. K. Logan said that "while it certainly looks like suicide, there have been so many rumors flying around we will have to call an inquest."

Crowd Courtroom

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The air was neither literally nor figuratively clear in court Thursday. The sitting was interrupted every hour while windows were opened and spectators cleared. Judge J. A. BELLEVILLE (CP) — Douglas and Griffin Ketcheson of Sidney township, Thursday were presented with a $50 cheque for first prize in the Hastings county woodlot competition this year. Zone Forester W. E. Edwards of Napanee described the 50-acre bush as "an outstanding example of the value of a well-managed woodlot." The bush has been managed by the Ketcheson family for five generations.

Alberta Defers Gas Export To Eastern Canada Points

By GRAHAM TROTTER

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta has enough surplus natural gas to feed the hungry Ontario and Quebec markets but has deferred its export approval on the premise that the two big companies vying for pipeline rights should amalgamate in one over-all project to the east.

After this decision was announced Thursday night by Premier Manning, Trade Minister Howe said in Ottawa it was a wise move and that the federal government will try to expedite the amalgamation as soon as possible. The premier said Prime Minister St. Laurent also concurred.

Mr. Manning made the announcement while releasing the provincial conservation board's report, which said Alberta now has available for eastern export approximately 3,500,000,000,000 cubic feet of deliverable surplus gas.

The board said this is enough to meet the requirements of either Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., or Western Pipe Lines Ltd., but added that neither of the companies has yet proved establishment of the necessary assured markets to meet Alberta requirements. The provincial government agreed.

CONSIDER EXPORT GAS

While denying Alberta gas to eastern Canada temporarily, the provincial government will consider shortly the conservation board's recommendation that further minor export to Montana be permitted.

The board said it is prepared to issue, with the approval of the government, a 21-year permit to Canadian-Montana Pipe Line Co., wholly-owned subsidiary of Montana Power Co, for export of gas from the southern Alberta Pakowki lake field where there is 334,000,000,000 cubic feet surplus to the province's needs.

Canadian-Montana already is shipping Pakowki gas to Montana, but to defence plants only. This five-year permit to pipe 43,800,000,000 cubic feet as a defence emergency measure terminates in April, 1956. If approval is given by the Alberta and federal governments and the U. S. Federal Power Commission, the additional gas will pass through the existing $3,500,000, 75-mile pipeline.

WON'T AFFECT PROJECTS

The board said this export "will not significantly affect the proposed large-scale eastern export projects." Likewise, export to Montana and expected full-scale export to eastern Canada later will have no affect on plans of Westcoast Transmission Co., which awaits only a go-ahead from the U. S. power commission before building a $100,000,000 line to pipe Alberta Peace river gas to Vancouver and the U. S. Pacific Northwest.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line Co., which planned a $270,000,000 all-Canadian route pipeline to Toronto and Montreal via Regina and Winnipeg, sought a maximum of 365,000,000,000 cubic feet daily under a 25-year permit.

Western Pipe Lines Ltd. applied for 275,000,000 cubic feet daily for 30 years for a pipeline which would carry southern Alberta gas to Emerson, Man., and then south to Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska. It said the pipeline would be extended to the Toronto-Hamilton area in the fifth year of operation and to the balance of eastern Canada in the sixth year.

Instead of these alternatives, the Alberta government suggested amalgamation of these proposals into one project for construction of an all-Canadian pipeline from southern Alberta through Regina and Winnipeg to the Ontario and Quebec markets, with a connecting line running south from Winnipeg to the Minneapolis market areas.

Norway's Mountains Make Television Reception Unusually Difficult

Norway's first experimental TV station does not open until next year. Then there will be a two-year study of results before regular television programs are considered.

There's no competition because the Norwegian Broadcasting Corporation, run by a government-appointed body, has exclusive right to erect and operate radio stations and plants in Norway for transmission of both sound and pictures.

But television presents new problems because of reception difficulties in the mountainous terrain. The technical tests intended to run for two years are considered necessary to solve these problems.

When it does come, Norwegian television is expected to follow the two cardinal rules laid down for radio—the promotion of education and entertainment.

Broadcasting in Norway was started by a private company in 1923, and other companies entered the field later. Parliament in 1933 set up the Norwegian Broadcasting Corporation as an independent state institution which took over the activities of the commercial companies.

With no commercials and no sponsored programs, the national corporation derives its chief revenue from a licence fee paid by listeners. With a fee of about $3 annually revenue amounted to almost $2,500,000 in the last fiscal year. Additional revenue comes from a 10 per cent stamp duty on sales of receivers and radio parts.

National programs originate in the modernistic "Broadcasting House," mecca for sightseers in Oslo, but regional program centres in various parts of the country provide local features for the national program which runs 11 hours a day. In addition, regional secretaries are in charge of programs transmitted by local stations in other cities.

The radio broadcasting covers the country from 27 transmitters in the long and medium wave bands, and five shortwave stations, plus special programs from four stations beamed to Norwegian seamen on the world's oceans.

A variety of programs is prepared especially for organized listener groups in town and country; pamphlets covering the different subjects are supplied free of charge, and the "school of the air" supplements the instruction available in elementary and secondary schools.

In line with its responsibility as a public institution the broadcasting corporation presents non-partisan reports on parliamentary debates, with tape-recorded excerpts from speeches.

In charge of daily operations is the director-general, appointed by the government. The whole set-up is governed by the five-member board appointed by the government. In addition there is an advisory broadcasting council composed of 15 members representing various parts of the country, which meets twice a year. Of the latter body, four members are chosen by parliament and the rest by the government.

Plan Correspondence Course For Assessors

WATERLOO (CP)—A correspondence course for Ontario assessors is being considered.

Eric Hardy of Toronto, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, discussed the plan Thursday at a meeting of district 9 of the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario.

He said an association committee has been working on the project for a year and it is expected the course will be made available next fall. Details would be ironed out at an association meeting in Toronto Saturday.

Teach Horses Use Snowshoes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some horses have been taught to use snowshoes on northern British Columbia winter trailus and Morley Shier has produced snapshots of horses so equipped to convince doubters.

Mr. Shier said he first saw a horse on snowshoes in 1919 when he was hiking from Stewart, B.C., to Premier mine.

Later he saw several pack trains of horses with snowshoes and was given one of the shoes by J. (Bill) Crawford, tewart merchant

Mr. Shier said at one time round boards, solid on the horses' feet, were used, but later these were changed to iron. Now horses' snowshoes are made of three-quarter inch iron pipe, 12 inches in diameter, with chains to the centre and clips for the toe and side. They work on the same principle as men's snowshoes.

At first a horse is troubled, but soon learns the trick of putting one shoe over the other in walking on snow. When a shoe gets loose, the horse will stop look back and wait for an adjustment.

Polio Patients Morale 'Magnificent'–Nurse

EDMONTON (CP)—The morale of polio patients in Royal Alexandra Hospital was described as "magnificent" by nurse Kathleen Pinko after a visit to the isolation department where 19 iron lungs were being operated.

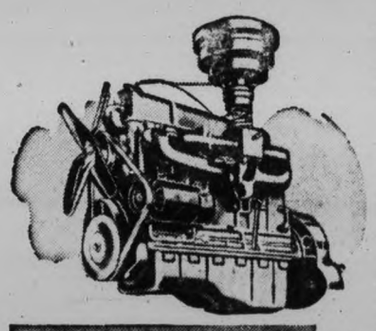
"I could not help feeling the atmosphere of magnificent morale, from the fighting patients to the fighting nurses," Miss Pinko said.

One night the power failed and student nurses helped pump the iron lungs by hand Doctors and medical students are on duty 24 hours a day.

With the city gripped in a polio epidemic, the hospital observes strict protective technique so that there is a minimum of danger to hospital staff.

Tougher Treatment

LONDON (CP)—P. F. Remnant, Conservative MP, introduced a private bill to amend the law banning possession of a dog by anyone convicted of cruelty. He wants the law extended to cover all pets, and the maximum fine for cruelty increased to £100 plus three months in jail.



Cheese Prices Up

STRATFORD (CP)—Cheese prices advanced to 33½ cents a pound on the western Ontario exchange here Thursday. All boardings were sold. Offerings were 329 white, 1,020 colored and 888 specials. Next exchange session is Dec. 22.

Calls McCarthy Threat To Democracy

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said Thursday in the Commons that one threat to democracy in North America is typified by Senator Joseph McCarthy.

His statement was greeted by loud applause and desk-thumping from the Liberal, Progressive Conservative and CCF benches.

Mr. Coldwell referred to a recent speech in the House by John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) in which the Social Credit member had said McCarthy was attacked because he had tried to dig out from government such "Communist top-notchers" as Dean Acheson, former U.S. state secretary.

Mr. Coldwell said again to loud applause, that "this kind of propaganda" bred ill-will and distrust among countries.

It was a "pity" that a man of Acheson's stature had been "pilloried and vilified" by a member of the Canadian House of Commons. Mr. Coldwell added that he never had thought he would have the honor of defending such a man as Acheson.

Rules Parking Lots Have Responsibility

TORONTO (CP)—Printed warnings on the back of car checks at parking lots that the lot is not responsible for theft does not exempt lot owners from all responsibility, Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow ruled Thursday in an Ontario Supreme Court judgment.

Mr. Justice Barlow awarded Edward Dewart $2,768 damages in a suit Dewart brought against the 400 Parking Systems Ltd. in whose lot he left his car last March. The car was stolen from the lot and never recovered.

His Lordship ruled that car checks are not contracts and that the onus is on the parking lot to show that reasonable care is taken to prevent theft.

Still on Job

CANBERRA (CP) — Brigadier H. G. Pollard, former Australian commander in Korea, said in an interview the Australians in Korea are busily digging in so they can hold the line in case of a new outbreak. Morale was high because they now had all conveniences, he added. A rest and recreation centre had been built on the scene of one of the fiercest battles of the campaign.

WHAT A JOB—Since the abolition of capital punishment in Germany, there's been a shortage of anatomical material for schools and hospitals. To ease the problem, a small factory near Baden-Baden started a rapidly growing business making bones and skeletons out of plastic. Here a factory worker puts the finishing touches on one of the models.

Alberta Oil Reservations Total 28,880,000 Acres

This is the area on which the provincial government holds petroleum and natural gas rights and may be leased to individuals or companies.

The Alber[illegible]ment first got into the business in May, 1928, when it was authorized by Ottawa to issue what were then known as prospecting permits.

Under the regulations at that time, a total of 1,920 acres was leased to each application.

This was found inadequate, however, and in January, 1936, the regulations were amended permitting larger areas to be farmed out. This was followed in September, 1936, with the replacing of prospecting permits by reservations allowing areas up to 50,000 acres.

Five years later new regulations were established for the reservation of petroleum and natural gas rights for geological and geophysical exploration.

An applicant was permitted to hold in his own name at any one time three reservations and the maximum area of a reservation was increased to 200,000 acres.

These regulations were claimed to have been largely responsible for exploration and development that followed in Alberta.

Following the discovery at Leduc, which ushered in the "big boom," the number of reservations which could be held by a person or a company was reduced to two, each covering not more than 100,000 acres. This prevails today.

While exploration is continuing to the satisfaction of the mines department, the reservation may be renewed without any rental payment every four months during the first year and every three months for the second year, at seven cents an acre for each of the first and second quarterly renewals and eight cents an acre for each of the last two.

A reservation may not be renewed following termination of the second eight-cent renewal unless drilling is being conducted on the reservation.

If oil is discovered the holder of the reservation must apply to lease the area surrounding the well within three months of discovery and before other drilling may be undertaken.

Summons For Drivers Blocking Main Streets

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto motorists who block main intersections while arguing over responsibility for accidents will be summonsed in future on charges of obstructing traffic.

Traffic Inspector Robert Kerr said Toronto's streets and traffic conditions do not permit this type of obstruction.

He said that, after an accident, drivers should move their vehicles to a side street or out of the line of traffic, particularly in cases of minor damage.

Grain Delivery Quotas Extended

OTTAWA (CP) — Extension of grain delivery quotas in western Canada, allowing delivery of an additional two bushels an acre, was announced Thursday in the Commons by Trade Minister Howe.

He also announced restoration of the car order book system, suspended last Oct. 19, under which farmers can place orders for railway boxcars at country grain elevators.

Both the increased delivery quotas and restoration of the car order book system will become effective Dec. 14.

The two-bushel quota, which Mr. Howe said was being announced by the Canadian wheat board, is in addition to the initial three-bushel quota allowed on this year's grain crop.

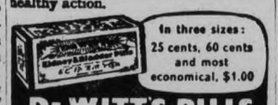
The minister said "considerable progress" has been made in providing space at country grain elevators to enable farmers to complete the delivery of the initial quota.

Head-On Crash Fatal

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto man was killed Thursday and another man injured in a head-on collision between a truck and a car about 20 miles east of here. Dead is James Hicks, driver of the car, Elmer Cyril Maude, 30, of Mount Hope, was taken to hospital with back injuries.

Fined For Supplying Liquor To Minors

CHATHAM (CP)—Josh Bloss of Petrolia was fined $50 and costs when convicted Thursday by Magistrate I. B. Craig of supplying liquor to minors.



The charge arose from police investigation into the Tupperville party Oct. 3 in which there was about $300 damage caused to the home of Austin Forshee.

Three boys from Wallaceburg charged with consuming were freed when there was no evidence to support the charges.

A charge of wilful damage against another youth was dismissed and a charge of theft against one youth was enlarged until next Tuesday for trial at Wallaceburg.

Canada Should Help Asians To Help Selves

"Communists have found that collective farming is not as good as free enterprise. We hope that as time goes on our way of life will show itself to be superior. If it is best, it is up to us to prove it."

That is a quotation from the summary of the Central Smith Forum on the subject, "The Struggle For Men's Minds," broadcast Monday night. Seventeen members attended at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rowland. Discussion leader was Elmer Telford.

Further comment was: "Canada could send to Asiatic countries tools and technicians to help Asians help themselves. We could also bring Asian students to Canada, train and educate them ,so they could go home and act as teachers, especially in agriculture and medicine."

Those ideas are repeated more or less in the reports from other Peterborough Forums, especially the proposal of bringing groups of people into this country to observe and study the efficiencies our Canadian farmers have developed.

Twenty-two of Stewart Hall members were present at the home of Stewart Whittington, with George Oliver leader. One of their suggestions was: "Try to get more of the better educated to come and take courses in our method of living, and then take the knowledge and expereince back to their own countries . . . "If the wealthier counties provide money and equipment, help train technicians and leaders for under-developed countries, they would soon be able to raise their own standard of living."

All of this is comparatively new thinking by Ontario farmers. The world is pressing in on them with problems their fathers little knew.

COMMUNICATIONS PIONEER — W. D. Neil, retired general manager of communications, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, was thanked in Montreal by officers and members of The Canadian Press for many years' co-operation in the development of the national news service. Mr. Neil (left) is presented with an inscribed silver tray by F. I. Ker, former president of The Canadian Press. Centre is Philip Fisher of The Southam Newspapers.

Maple Row Forum, six present, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Robinson, said in part: "Canada needs to be educated in how to share what they have with others."

Coldsprings Forum, 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ferguson, Mrs. W. Sutton leader: "Continue technical aid and self-help to benefit people as a whole to be progressive and self-sustaining, and not use these people as a supply of man power."

Beaver Forum, 13, at the home of James McConkey, Mrs. Sherman Northey leader: "If each year a considerable number of students received the opportunity of visiting Canada for a few months, and let them be separated into individual rural and urban homes, they might be favorably impressed with the democratic way of life . . . They would be able on regrouping to compare notes and might agree that democracy had something to offer."

22 AT DONEGAL

Donegal Forum at the home of Raymond Begg, with Mrs. Begg leader: "The government of Canada could make a settlement with our western farmers for surplus wheat, and send it to Asiatic people at a price within their reach . . . We should be willing to trade with foreign countries. We could send more men and women trained in agriculture to teach Asiatic countries better ways of farming."

Few Casualties In Big Jet Operation

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) —Operation "Becher's Brook"—the ferrying of 400 Canadian-built Sabre jet fighters across the north Atlantic—is just about finished.

The air ministry expects the last of the swept-wing fighters to cross safely by the end of December. It hopes to wind up the complex, year-long operation, which borrowed heavily from Royal Canadian Air Force know-how and "co-operation," with light casualties.

Trials and tribulations of Becher's Brook are outlined in an air ministry report, paying direct and indirect credit to the RCAF whose personnel pioneered the trans-ocean fighter transport system using stepping stones at Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and Scotland.

Pilots were given special training in Canada, completed in just over a month "thanks to excellent co-operation from the RCAF." And 12 RAF-piloted Sabres left Bagotville, Que., early in December last year, with the RCAF in operational control and the United States Air Force providing communications and other facilities.

ONE CRASHED

Three of the 12 were left behind en route to Britain and a fourth crashed. The RAF decided to reorganize operation "Becher's Brook" from the ground up.

More pilots were added. They were given among other training a special seven-day survival course in Labrador. The RAF moulded a new system based on the RCAF leap-frogging of ground crew to maintain and refuel the fighters.

Says the report on "Becher's Brook," named after the most formidable obstacle on the Grand National steeplechase course at Aintree, England:

"The new organization had to be flexible enough to control aircraft and men spread over 2,000 miles and to cope with the frequent communications blackouts caused by magnetic storms It must not only train its pilots for the specialized flying, but build them up to withstand the mental fatigue of frustrating delays caused by weather and other factors."

Subsequent flying time has averaged about 6½ hours, although some flights took as long as two weeks between St. Hubert, Que., near Montreal, to Britain. The route touched Goose Bay, Labrador, Bluie West One, Greenland, Keflavik, Iceland and Prestwick, Scotland.

375 MADE CROSSING

The survival training hasn't been called into use. The air ministry doesn't say how many planes cracked up, but unofficial sources estimate four or five only were lost, most in Scotland. More than 375 of the original 400 have made the crossing.

The RCAF completed "Leap-frog" without losing a plane and now has a successor named "Random" It will supply the spares and replacement craft for the four fighter wings—one in England, one in France and two in Germany. It will also handle the all-Canadian Sabre, equipped with the Orenda engine, which is scheduled to replace the planes now used by the fighter wings. Shipment is expected to begin after Christmas.

McCarthy Criticism Inflames Eisenhower Administration

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing Senator McCarthy has said or done in these first nine months of the Eisenhower administration inflamed it so much as his recent criticism.

But the Wisconsin Republican was using just a couple of new matches. It was an old one, relit, which made the administration jump the highest.

What was new in his broadcast a week ago can be stated briefly:

1. He declared himself an issue in the 1954 congressional elections. He told his audience to vote Republican if they approved of him, Democratic if they disapproved.

2. He contradicted President Eisenhower who had said he hoped Communists - in - government wouldn't be an issue in those 1954 elections. McCarthy said it would be an issue.

WAY HE SAID IT

But when in that broadcast he undertook to tell the administration how to handle its foreign aid program, he wasn't saying anything new at all. That was his relit match.

Perhaps it was the way he said it, and the fact that he was talking over television and radio instead of in a statement from his office, which evoked retorts from Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

In a statement Sept. 23 McCarthy suggested the United States end all aid to Britain and other allies unless they stopped trading with Red China.

That was precisely what he said in his broadcast, and what he had been hammering away at for months.

"PERFUMED NOTES"

In his broadcast he asked sarcastically if the Eisenhower administration was going to try to get the war prisoners freed by sending "perfumed notes" to the Communists.

He suggested the United States force the Chinese to give up the prisoners by ending all trade with them by the allies. He said the United States should shut off aid to the allies unless they needed trade with the Reds.

In May Dulles replied saying he was against urging "upon our friends and allies additional restrictions upon their trade with the Communist world even in terms of non-strategic items."

This week, on Tuesday, Dulles said approximately the same thing: That the United States has no right to dictate her allies' trade policies.

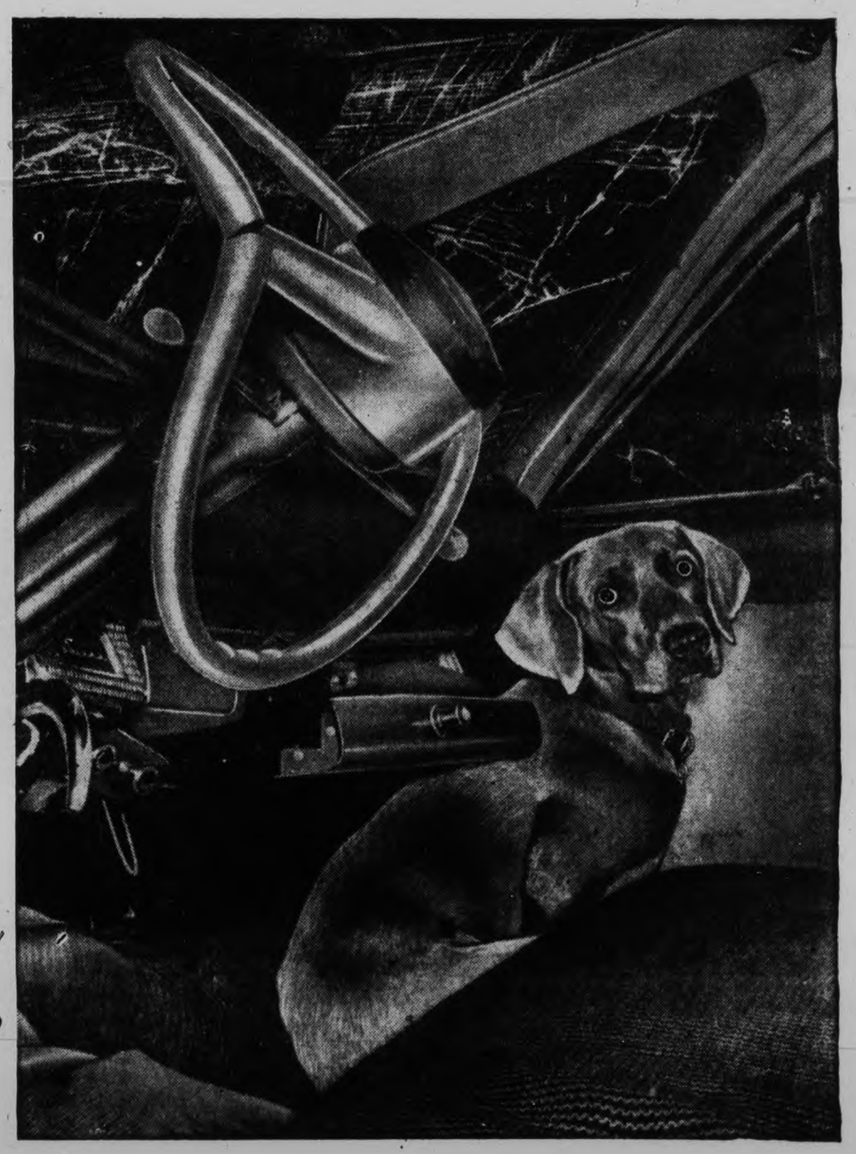
Minister, 2 Others Build Manse Quickly

HANTS HARBOR, Nfld. (CP)—A minister and two of his parishioners have built an eight-room manse here, cheaper and faster than most building firms would have done it.

Exactly four months passed from the time the first sod was turned until the house was finished, the cost was $4,500

The lay minister, A. A. Smith, drew plans for the house and took an active part in its construction. He was the cement mixer and bricklayer. Daniel Tuck and Fred Snook did most of the actual construction, holding up only when supplies were delayed in reaching the outport.



The house has large rooms, a modern kitchen and a full-height basement which includes a garage.

Mayor Plans Visit

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The mayor of Windsor, England, will visit here during this city's 100th birthday celebrations in 1954. Mayor Arthur Reaume said he received a letter from Sir Cyril Dyson that he and Lady Dyson will arrive April 15 for a 10-day stay.

"Gee! why don't he come out?"

A wrecked car. A crowd gathers, and a child pipes up. "Gee! Why don't he come out?"

Before the child can get her answer, chances are that some grown-up will first have to get the full story from a newspaper.

Then, for the first time, the child will learn that the dog refused to leave when his master was carried to the hospital, injured.

Being on the spot is not much better than seeing one or two photographs of the action, or seeing a headline about it, or hearing a brief announcement.

All of these can whet your appetite for news, but they cannot satisfy your hunger for the whole story.

• This goes for advertising, too. The brief message that hangs in the air . . . or brief headlines here or there . . . may indeed have a momentary interest.

But the newspaper ad carries the brass-tacks quality, the urgency of the newspaper itself.

Like a news item, the ad can be examined and re-examined. Can be read any time. Anywhere. Can be clipped and carried in a pocketbook.

And just as the newspaper speaks the special language of the town it mirrors, the ads themselves have the same important local quality.

Add to all this the fact that the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town, not just fractions of audiences, and you know why the newspaper is the nation's most effective advertising medium.

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

This message prepared by BUREAU OF ADVERTISING, and published in the interests of a full understanding of newspapers by The Peterborough Examiner.

Israel Sets Up Legations In Far East

By FRANCIS OFNER

TEL AVIV (OFNS)—Israel is to set up a legation in Burma within the next few weeks. This will be the second Israel legation in the Far East—it follows the opening of that in Japan a year ago—and is part of Israel's plan to make up for its isolation from Arab neighbours in the Middle East.

The offcial Israel view is that, despite Jewry's two thousand years of exile, the roots of the nation have remained in Asia. And besides spiritual ties, Israelis believe there is scope for practical co-operation between them and Far Eastern countries. They see possibilities of using the know-how and technical skill of Israelis in helping to develop Asia. The country's achievements in co-operative farming and land settlement, it is felt here, may be of great use.

Politically, it is hoped to soften the anti-Israel tendency which dominates the Arab-Asian bloc in the United Nations. And so far, Israel's closest relations in the area are with Burma—which, like Israel, is governed by anti-Communist Socialists.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS

Relations with Burma began to develop a year ago when a delegation headed by U Kyaw Nyein, secretary-general of Burma's ruling party, visited the Jewish state. This was soon followed by a more friendly attitude towards Israel on the part of the Burmese delegation to the United Nations, as well as by further mutual visits by prominent Israelis and Burmese. The foreign minister, Mr. Sharett, headed his country's delegation to the Asian Socialist Conference at Rangoon last year.

Israel also seeks the friendship of India. In March last year, Dr. Walter Eytan, director-general of Israel's foreign ministry, visited the Indian premier, Mr. Nehru, in New Delhi. This was followed by a number of mutual gestures—a group of Indian officials came to study agricultural methods here, an agreement was concluded on an exchange of students under a joint scholarship scheme, and an Indian warship returning from a Coronation visit to Britain paid a courtesy visit to the Israel navy at Haifa.

India extended diplomatic recognition to Israel in September, 1951, but it was not until last spring that the first Israel consulate-general in India was set up, in Bombay. Israel has no diplomatic mission in India.

The development of Israel's trade relations with Japan is still in the initial stage, but the Israel minister in Tokyo, Mr. Joseph Linton, is said to be striving to pave the way for economic co-operation. Before his present assignment, Mr. Linton, was minister to Australia.

Israel, like Britain, has recognised the Peking government, but no diplomatic relations with China have been so far established.

The choice of its first minister to Burma reflects the importance attached by the Israel government to the promotion of closer relations with the Far East. It has chosen Mr. David Hacohen, a member of the Knesset (parliament) who is known as a close associate of the prime minister, Mr. David Ben Gurion. Israelis hope that his economic experience and political standing will prove valuable in stimulating the development of closer ties not only with Burma but with other Far Eastern countries.—(Copyright).

GREETINGS FOR THE BLIND — For the first time some 250,000 blind persons in the U.S. will be able to receive tailor-made Christmas cards. By running the fingertips over the raised dots, a blind person can read the greeting and the signature on the card. The Boston, Mass., company is producing them on a non-profit basis and plans other cards for birthday greetings, get-well wishes, Easter and other holidays.

Toronto Laboratories Make New Influenza Vaccine

TORONTO (CP)—The development of an influenza vaccine by the Connaught Laboratories in Toronto may someday make it possible for the general public to be inoculated against the virus.

Although it is not yet ready for general use the vaccine has been used on armed services. Results are still being assessed.

Last winter Dr. George Dempster who is responsible for the production of the vaccine at the Connaught Laboratories, inoculated 100 nurses and 80 medical students who had volunteered for tests. The 180 persons showed an appreciable increase in the antibody levels of their blood but because there was no influenza epidemic in Canada this year Dr. Dempster was unable to make any important assessment of the protection afforded by the inoculations.

WORKING SINCE 1918

The Connaught Laboratories have been producing the vaccine since the pandemic outbreak of influenza in 1918-19. Latest factor in the fight against the 'flu is the haemoglutination test. The test shows the antibody level of the subject's blood.

Research in the production of a vaccine for influenza is subsidized by defence research board grants. Last winter the laboratories provided enough vaccine to inoculate 3,600 servicemen, most of them in the RCAF and the navy.

But production of the vaccine is limited. Maximum output of the laboratories during the last war was 3,000 doses a day. Protection is also limited, lasting, at best, for about one year.

Harnessing Atom

OSLO (CP)—Dr. Gunnar Randers disclosed that Norwegian and Dutch scientists at the atomic research institute which he directs near Oslo now are working on plans for building an atomic generator of 5,000 kilowatt size. He said only atomic energy could replace the world's dwindling power resources in future years.

Where Does Man Stand?

Piltdown Found To Be Hoax Real Java Man Discovered

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that "Piltdown" has been exposed as a hoax, where does man stand in his knowledge about evolution?

The answer: just about where he did before the famous fossil skull was found to be a fraud.

In fact, the exposure clears the air. Physical anthropologists have been viewing Piltdown with skepticism for years.

When the pieces of skull and jawbone were found in an English gravel pit near the Sussex village of Piltdown between 1912 and 1915 some scientists concluded they were parts of the same creature who lived anywhere from 50,000 to 500,000 years ago.

On the basis of evidence then at hand, Piltdown seemed to them either a superior type of sub-human or a sub-normal type of true human. Yet his head was curiously different from those of other prehistoric men found in various parts of the world.

Dr. Harry Shapiro, head of the department of anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, says: Piltdown "never was consistent with other data. He was out of line chronologically. His removal, instead of weakening, in effect strengthens our knowledge of the evolutionary process."

IDEAS UNDISTURBED

Prof. Ernest A. Hooton, Harvard anthropologist, says the hoax "doesn't disturb our ideas of human evolution at all. If it is right that the head is a fake, it loses all its significance and removes a very puzzling link."

In the study of mankind's evolution through fossils the most important discovery was made in Java in 1892 by a young dutch physician, Eugene Dubois. He found the Java man skull—an ape man twice the size of a gorilla who prowled the volcanoed slopes of Java possibly 750,000 years ago, a real missing link between ape and man.

About the same period another giant peered out of a cave near modern Peking. Remains of a 1,000-pound brute with over-size jaw and under-size brain, even bigger and tougher than Java man, were discovered in 1929 by Franz Weidenreich.

A third giant was added to this company in 1948 when Robert Bloom found its petrified remains in South Africa.

In 1921 the remains of Rhodesian man were found in northern Rhodesia. He stands as an ancestral type of modern man, about five feet 10 and stoutly built. But his brain space was small, his face reminds you of a gorilla's.

In 1949 various pieces of the Piltdown skull were given a fluorine testing. This is done with a tiny dentist's drill which extracts small amounts of fossilized bone which are tested chemically.

With advances in methods of fluorine testing Piltdown recently underwent his final examination. Then the world learned that fragments of the cranium are genuine remains of a primitive man but the jaw is from a modern ape and deliberately faked.

The quintuplets were four heifers and a bull.

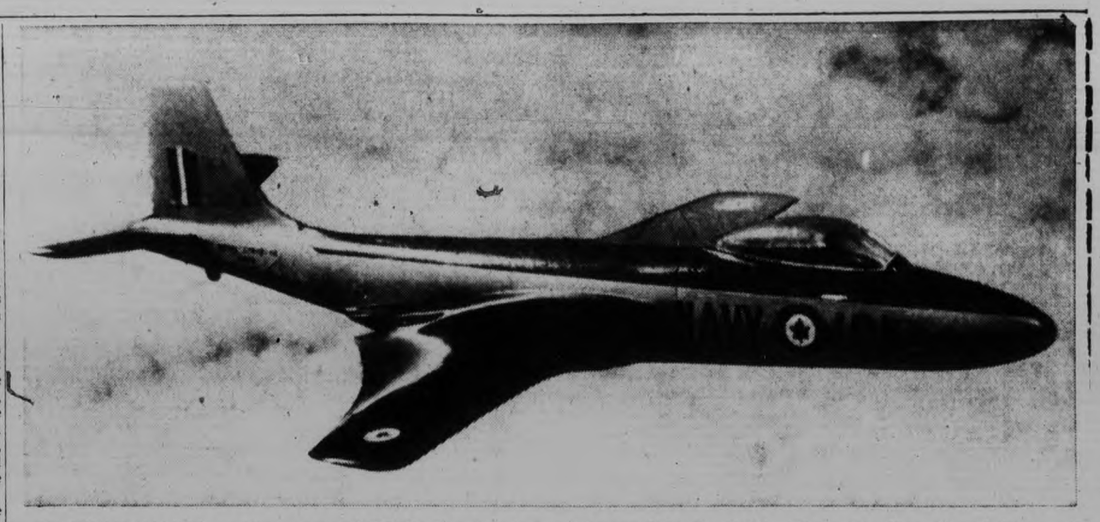
Stolen Goods Supply Evidence, Jailed 2 Months

Faced with an overwhelming quantity of merchandise reported stolen from the Empress hotel, Boris Tipe, 36, of 186 Edinburgh St., was sentenced to two months in jail when he was convicted in magistrate's court for theft.

He was charged specifically with stealing six knives, six forks, six spoons, cups and saucers, wine glasses and beer glasses, linen, tea, hot chocolate, 16 steaks, five pork chops and four veal cutlets.

After weighing the evidence, Magistrate W. R. Philp decided there was no proof Tipe stole the beer glasses.

Explaining the presence of the rest of the articles in his apartment, Tipe said he found the knives, forks and spoons, the linen and the dishes in the Empress garbage. It was his job there to put out the garbage.



ENTITLED

Because his job entitled him to one meal a day at the hotel and because he never had that meal, Tipe said he was entitled to the meat found in his refrigerator. Commenting on the number of steaks he explained he "seldom ate steaks."

"Isn't is rather peculiar," remarked Crown Attorney Bradshaw, "that only six of everything was found in the garbage?"

Magistrate Philp thought it was a little peculiar, too, especially after looking at the accused's criminal record which included convictions on theft and receiving stolen articles.

He expressed his doubt in Tipe's story by imposing the two-month sentence.

Police Hearing Opens In Sarnia

SARNIA (CP)—An investigation opened today into "the nature of law enforcement" by the nine-man detachment of Ontario provincial police here.

The closed hearing, ordered by commissioner E. B. McNeill, is being conducted by deputy commissioner W. H. Lougheed.

Commissioner McNeill has denied the investigation is directly connected with the death two months ago of a girl found in a hotel room with a new revolver nearby.

Deputy Commissioner Lougheed said the investigation involves the entire detachment.

"No charges have been laid," he said, "and it is important the case be conducted with as little publicity as possible."

Meanwhile, Chief James Torrance, Sarnia police, said it has been definitely established the gun found near the body of Louise Blackhall, 24, is not a police revolver although it is a type commonly used by police.

10 Per Cent Youths Drinking Alcohol

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. John Linton of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation, said Wednesday night that one in every 10 persons who start drinking before they are 21 years of age will become a "problem drinker."

Mr. Linton, secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation, spoke at a session of the federation's annual convention.

"Of course older persons are to blame for the situation," he said. "The people, as always, are only following in the footsteps of their elders."

New liquor laws and more rigid enforcement of existing ones might be one way to at least "lessen the danger," he said.

Rev. F. B. Wells of Oshawa, delegate from the Canadian Temperance Society, said churches should work together against the rising threat of alcoholism.

Defends U.S. Gov't In Seaway Dispute

KITCHENER (CP) — Robert Saunders, Ontario hydro chairman, said Thursday the United States government is in no way holding up St. Lawrence river power development.

He said "only the selfish interests of a few" in the U. S. are opposed to the power program. He said in a dinner speech the commission has received the utmost co-operation from President Eisenhower and his government.

Mr. Saunders said he still has faith in the U. S. government's intentions with regard to the power development.

"I believe we shall be able to get under way on the project next June or July," he said.

Shares Jump 200 Per Cent As Oil Found

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Shares of the Ampol Petroleum Company of Australia jumped almost 200 per cent this morning in the greatest rise in the history of Sydney stock exchange following announcement of the discovery of oil in an isolated section of the Commonwealth's west coast, 600 miles north of Perth.

First announcement of the discovery was made in San Francisco by Standard Oil Co. of California, which has an interest in Ampol.

Significance of the discovery is pointed up by the fact that Australia now uses 100,000 barrels of petroleum products a day—all of which must be imported.

The Ampol managing director, W. G. Walkley, said the discovery "is too far-reaching to predict what the future holds out."

"It is of the utmost importance to Australia's economy."

In Sydney, Ampol climbed past 30 shillings to 47. The late market had buyers at 48 shillings, with sellers asking 50.

Ampol shares first came on the market in mid-July, at one shilling. Early October rumors of an oil find sent the shares up to 16 and in November the stock jumped to 23s 6d in Melbourne and 19s 6d here. Since then—until today—it had been fairly stable at around 16.

Difficult Dilemma

Should High Arts Split Billing With Hot Dog

KITCHENER (CP) — Wagner with wieners. Faust with frankfurters. Should the high arts split billing with the lowly hot dog?

The point was pondered by the Kitchener auditorium commission today. On hand was a complaint that the sale of frankfurters had added nothing to the recent "Cavalcade of Music" presentation directed by Andre Kostelanetz.

Commission members, used to such meaty problems, mustered enough comments to indicate a vote of confidence in the homely hot dog.

H. M. (Bob) Crosby, manager, pointed out many persons at such events drive long distances to attend. They appreciate the sustenance of a frankfurter, he said (with some relish).

The manager also pointed out the wieners and buns were sold only at booths.

"Oh, that aroma," said Fred Dreger.

"And oh that noise" said another member as commissioners speculated on how the crunch and crackle might have crumpled a cadenza.

Need Uniformity In Assesments

KITCHENER (CP) — Eric Hardy of Toronto, director of the Citizen's Research Institute of Canada, said Thursday the Ontario government should take over the complete job of assessment in municipalities or extend regulations to achieve uniformity.

Speaking to the assessing officers of Ontario, he said underassessment of property was common in municipalities today and the provincial government must take the responsibility. He believed county assessors should have greater powers over local municipal assessors.

He said many assessors had a tendency to under-assess because of "certain political pressures towards keeping assessments low." Such pressures were "not necessarily bad" and were often openly acknowledged by the Ontario government.

Transferring Plant To Quebec Site

KITCHENER (CP)—B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Canada, Ltd., today announced it is transferring its footwear manufacturing operations in Kitchener to the province of Quebec, beginning in January. More than 400 employees will be affected.

Ira G. Needles, president, said a working agreement has been reached with a Quebec manufacturer for the production of Goodrich brand footwear, using Goodrich designs, specifications and technical knowledge. Name and location of the manufacturer was not announced.

Mr. Needles said high production costs, of which labor was a principal factor, had placed the company in a non-competitive cost position as compared to other footwear manufacturers, adding that the average wage of Goodrich footwear workers was substantially higher than the average Canadian wage for such work.

New Company Doing Special Atomic Work

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A new company, formed by three others, is doing research aimed at developing high-temperature materials needed for atomic-age weapons.

The three firms, the Carborundum Co. of Niagara Falls, Firth Sterling Inc. of Pittsburgh and American Electro Metal Co. of Yonkers, N. Y., are making patent rights and technical know-how available to the newly-organized Barolite Corp., which is studying heat-resistant metallic compounds known as "borolites."

Carbides, borides, and aluminides—all part of borolite's program—are reported to show promise of withstanding temperatures ranging from 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit for turbo-jets up to 7,000 degrees for rocket nozzles.

Bill To Extend Gold Mining Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—Mines Minister Prudham today gave notice to the Commons of a bill to extend emergency gold mining assistance through 1954.

This aid, amounting to about $17,000,000 a year, is given "marginal" gold mines whose production costs are close to the selling price of gold, $35 an ounce in United States funds. The assistance for each mine is calculated under a complex formula.

The current gold-aid legislation would end this year. Prime Minister St. Laurent recently announced the 1954 extension.

RCMP Personnel Get Pay Increases

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP headquarters today announced pay increases ranging from $10 to $100 monthly for the force's 4,353 service personnel.

An official announcement said the increases resulted from a survey of living conditions which "emphasized the urgent need for an upward adjustment in the pay of all ranks."

The RCMP pay boosts, which became effective Dec. 1, follow similar measures taken recently in the armed forces and in the civil service.

The president welcomed the members, asked for their co-operation, and invoked the aid of the patron of the CWL, "Our Lady of Good Counsel."

After a few games of bingo had been played, lunch was served.

Deranged Mother Shoots Children

BRIDGEWATER, N. S. (CP) — RCMP said a 39-year-old mother, whom they described as "apparently mentally deranged," shot and wounded her three children, then turned the gun on herself early today.

An officer said the woman was laboring under the delusion that all her children were suffering from cancer. As a result of the shooting her 12-year-old child is in critical condition. The mother and the other two children—ages 3 and 1—are given a good chance of recovery.

All victims were taken to hospital here. Later the two most seriously wounded were moved 70 miles to Halifax for special treatment.

BETHANY (ENS) — December meeting of the United Church Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Wright with 24 members present. Mrs. Mansell Finney presided for the devotional and business period.

Will Accept Rule Now By Regency

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—The top ministers of this British African province say they will accept rule by a regency but still are "requesting" the return of their deposed monarch, Mutesa II.

Britain exiled the 29-year-old, Cambridge-educated ruler Monday after he demanded that his Buganda province be split from others in Uganda protectorate and that a definite date be set for the granting of Buganda's independence. Mutesa now is in London.

The Buganda premier, treasurer and chief justice said Thursday that they still regard Mutesa as their chief but "are not going to fight" his ouster. They were prepared to swear in a new parliament and serve under a regent.

PROVINCE CLAM

The mineral-rich province of 5,000,000 people remained calm, but a political storm brewed in London. The opposition Labor party distributed a motion censuring the government for its handling of the situation here and in violence-ridden Kenya colony.

The Conservative government, in an unusual step, reproached the Opposition Thursday night because it failed to carry the motion through to a showdown vote in the Commons. The Labor party decided to hold it in abeyance for fear of aggravating the situation in Buganda.

In Jamaica, Prime Minister William Alexander Bustamante said that, on the basis of available information, the British action in Uganda "appears to have been hasty and could have been avoided by love and understanding."

Queen Salote Sends Message To Elizabeth

SUVA, Fiji islands (CP)—Queen Salote of Tonga, darling of the Coronation crowds for riding in an open coach in pouring rain, has sent a message to Queen Elizabeth assuring her of the warm welcome awaiting her in the Fiji islands.

In a radio message to the liner Gothic, which was due to cross the equator today, Queen Salote said she hopes the welcome "will in some small measure repay the heart-warming and overwhelming kindness I received from your majesty and the people of the United Kingdom."

The Fijian government has denied a newspaper report that Indians living in Fiji have been refused the opportunity to express their loyalty to Queen Elizabeth.

The Indian weekly Pacific Review had said the absence of a separate welcome for Indians had "a sinister aspect."

Blames Moral Squalor For Brigade Trouble

VICTORIA (CP) — Capt. J. A. Davidson, home on leave after a year as padre to Canadian troops in Germany, says young men thrown into an atmosphere of "moral squalor" caused much of the trouble in the 27th Brigade last year.

The padre, who was attached to the 1st Canadian Highland Battalion at Hannover, said in an interview Thursday night that the trouble had been caused by young soldiers, "just plain bored," looking for adventure. He estimated the number of troublemakers at about 20 per cent.

"The large majority was a credit to the army and their country."

Parliament Passes Bill On Aussie Flag

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Parliament Thursday passed a bill making the star-spangled blue ensign with a small Union Jack in the corner the official Australian flag.

The flag has been in use as Australia's flag for many years but hitherto has lacked formal recognition.

The bill makes the same flag, on a red background, the official merchant marine ensign. It also preserves the right of citizens to fly the Union Jack if they want.

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

Newmarket's Don Willson fired a long shot that hit the wire screen behind Nationals' goal. The puck landed on top of the goal and slowly rolled forward. While the crowd roared warning, goalie Ginger Hall peered from side to side as the puck slowly toppled, struck his back, and bounded into goal. Newmarket went on from there to win the Canadian Championship".

Prison Labor Building Soviet Tunnels

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese war prisoners returned from the Soviet Union said Thursday the Russians are buliding two undersea tunnels to link Sakhalin island, 30 miles north of Japana, with the Siberian mainland.

One tunnel is intended to span the 150 miles between Aleksandrovsk on the island and Voestskaya Gavan, they said.

They said they thought the other, apparently designed for carrying oil, would link Mikolayevsk, with the Sakhalin oil-producing centre at Okha. The strait is about 20 miles wide at this point.

USE ONLY RUSSIANS

Only Russian convicts were being used in the project, they said.

Working conditions were so severe in the tunnels, the Russians told them, that a normal working day was only four hours. Convicts were given three days' reduction of sentence for every day in the tunnels, they said.

After Stalin's death, they asserted, guards had to kill 700 prisoners to quell a revolt which will delay completion of the tunnels until next year or 1955.

Thieves Steal Fur Coat From Store

$450 Coat Taken Off Window Model During Rush Hour

Three daring thieves walked into Pulver's Ltd., Thursday then walked out a few minutes later with a $450 fur coat. The theft went undetected for 40 minutes.

By the time clerks noticed the coat was missing from a window display, the trio, two men and a woman, had made good their escape in rush hour traffic.

Mrs. Beatrice Stone, store clerk, told police two men and a woman entered the store about 5:15. The two men remained near the window while the woman approached Mrs. Stone regarding the purchase of a coat.

They walked together to the middle of the store where the clerk showed the unidentified woman some coats. After a few minutes inspecting the coats, the woman decided "she'd be back tomorrow."

At this point the remaining man said to the woman: "Come on, I want a beer" and they left.

About 5:55, someone noticed the coat was missing and called police.

Plan To Beautify River Banks Gaining Favor

A. L. Malby's question about the ownership of riverfront properties within the city is an indication of activity by the committee which is enquiring into the possibilities of beautification of river banks in Peterborough.

It was asked at the meeting of the city planning committee Wednesday night. Women's Civic Study Group called a public meeting in the summer of which this river committee is an offshoot now willing to go to work if they can find something to grasp.

Their members last Sunday afternoon motored up and down the river from Little Lake to the Auburn dam.

Possibly these citizens might be impressed by the appeal of a project which has been privately proposed occasionally for about 15 years. So far it has failed to gain approval in official and spending quarters.

BIGGER LIGHTS

It is this: replacement of the ordinary lights around Crescent St. with illumination sufficient to redeem the darkness of the lake at night. From the Ashburnham shore and other parts of the city the present string is only a row of dim bulbs, lacking strength enough to create any attractive effect by night across the water.

Objection to this idea was a criticism of extravagance without concern for the beautification by light of the sweeping curve of Crescent St. beyond the border of the lake.

The reply to Mr. Malby was offered by City Engineer Chalmers who has prepared a new map of the city, in convenient size, and has it off the press. From city hall sources the information will be supplied to the river committee.

One of the substantial owners of riverfront is the Quaker Oats Company who have made a substantial investment in beautification north of Hunter St. There has been some intimation that they may be considering transfer of the bankside to the city.

Peterborough's Application For Television Being Heard

OTTAWA (CP)—Hearings opened today before the CBC board of governors on six applications for privately-owned television stations—two each in Port Arthur, Ont., and Sherbrooke, Que., and one each in Peterborough and Charlottetown.

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of governors today reserved decision on six applications to operate privately-owned television stations in Port Arthur and Peterborough in Ontario, Sherbrooke, Que., and Charlottetown.

Also on the agenda were five applications for private radio stations, none from Ontario.

The first application called was that of Brookland Co. Ltd., for a station on channel 22 in Peterborough. The company includes Senator W. Rupert Davies and Roy Thomson, who both have newspaper and radio holdings.

TWO OPPONENTS

The application, which came before a previous meeting of the board, was opposed by H. H. May, Toronto radio personality, and W. D. Byles, Toronto. A recommendation on it at the previous meeting was deferred.

H. L. Garner, appearing for the applicant, said the board has the company's assurance that enough funds will be available.

Referring to talent, he noted that Robertson Davies, playwright, actor and editor, has an interest in the Peterborough station. He is editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

The station would be able to operate 40 hours weekly at the start, increasing that time later.

Joseph Bonnie, representing Mr. May and Mr. Byles, recalled that Mr. May first enquired about a station in Peterborough in 1951.

His clients' application had not been completed yet because surveys indicated that coverage plans would include only about 15,000 sets.

He urged the board to recommend that a VHF channel be established in Peterborough and in the meantime that the Brookland application be deferred.

DEFERMENT OPPOSED

Mr. Garner said in reply that repeated requests for a deferment were "silly." It only interfered with what others planned to do. That was understandable since Mr. May and Mr. Byles were not Peterborough residents. Their interest in Peterborough was "negligible."

Mr. Bonnie said that was not true and that both lived in Peterborough for six or seven months of the year.

His clients expected to make an investment of more than $320,000.

Weather Baffles Plants, Birds As Mercury High

Nature is baffling everyone this year.

Flowers are blooming, shrubs are leafing, and even the birds are restless. One little robin is a long way from Missouri; he was last seen flitting about the Kirkland Lake district.

Mrs. Tom Nurse, 1 Lansdowne St., picked three marigolds from her garden today and is now enjoying December blooms in her home. Elsewhere, piles of decayed leaves are being shot with green as tulip bulbs sprout through their winter covering.

Noon temperature today was 44 degrees, 13 degrees higher than the same date a year ago. During the last four days the city's average temperature has been nine degrees above last year's for the same dates.

The mercury recorded eight degrees above average on Monday, dropped one degree to seven above on Tuesday, went up to nine degrees on Wednesday, and on Thursday jumped to 13 degrees above average.

High temperatures are expected to continue until sometime Sunday afternoon or evening.

LITTLE WINTER BUYING

With the unseasonal temperatures, business remains poor. Winter stock remains piled in every basement and on display in every window, but few are buying. And while retailers are suffering, contractors are having a hey-day. Because of the mild weather, jobs, which would normally be curtailed this time of year, are continuing at top speed. Suppliers are also enjoying prosperous days as the demand for their goods continues.

If the thermometer reaches the 50 degree mark in Northern Ontario today, the inhabitants will have experienced a record smasher. Pansies and pussy-willows are blooming in the North Bay region. Even the normally frigid White River area has been enjoying balmy 40 degree weather this week.

Lack of frost has made many of the northern logging camps inaccessible. No roads can be built until snow and ice have hardened river, lake and swamp surfaces.

Should the warm weather continue, Northern Ontario just might experience its first green Christmas.

Holdup Men Plead Guilty To Two Charges

Two hold-up men caught in the act last Friday were remanded one week for sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp Thursday. Both men, Gordon Norman, 19, Sherbourne St., Toronto, and Edward Bishop, 44, of Vancouver, pleaded guilty to charges.

Norman was charged with assault with intent to rob, and Bishop, armed assault with intent to rob.

Testifying against the two accused was Cres Sproat, operator of the men's wear store in which the two attempted their holdup; and PC Arthur Beardsmore.

Sproat described how Bishop held a gun on him and told him: "This thing will blow quite a hole in you." Though the accused demanded the keys to his car, Sproat refused them, then, in passing his phone, pulled it off the hook and yelled: "Help! Police! Robbery!"

RAN AWAY

Even though he "broke all records to the front door," the youthful Norman beat him to it and ran away. Sproat held Bishop on the inside of the door and when he tried to get out the back door, tackled him in the laneway and held him.

Norman was picked up later by police officers.

PC Arthur Beardsmore in describing the gun said it was an air pistol capable of penetrating three-quarters of an inch of pine at 20 yards. The accused corrected him by saying it was a .177 calibre rather than a .22.

Norman was described by Crown Attorney Bradshaw as "only the hanger-on" in the hold-up. He had no crimnal record and had met Bishop only 24 hours prior to the incident, the crown pointed out.

Both men were remanded one week for sentence.

Elderly Farmer Beaten, Robbed Of $1,060 In His Home Near City

Arthur Williamson Selling Possessions, Cattle To Retire From Farm Had Unusual Amount of Money In Home

Arthur Williamson, a 69-year-old North Monaghan township farmer, at 1 a.m. today was attacked and beaten by three unidentified men who robbed him of $1,060. Because he is crippled by arthritis, Mr. Williamson has been selling his cattle and other possessions on the 20-acre farm he rents in North Monaghan. So he had an unusually large amount of money in his house when the robbery occurred. Though kicked three times on the head, kicked on the leg and slightly cut from a knife jab, Mr. Williamson did not require medical attention. He is just nursing a few bruises and a deep grudge against the men who roughed him up and stole his savings.

For 30 years Mr. Williamson, a bachelor, has been farming there. Most of his income has been from the sale of dual purpose, Durham cattle. No longer able to actively work his farm, he was preparing to move this weekend from his farmhome, 50 feet south of Sherbrooke St. W., to room and board at Mrs. Carrie White's home, 200 yards away.

Apparently aware of his plans, the thieves got to him first, gave him a beating, ransacked his house, and took $60 from his pants' pockets and another $1,000 from a bedroom trunk.

OPP Constables Harold Armstrong and Gordon Gray closely questioned Mr. Williamson last night and again today for some clue as to the identity of his attackers.

"It must have been one o'clock when I heard them," Mr. Williamson said today. "I was asleep in the bedroom when there was a banging at the door. I got up and was just in the kitchen doorway when they droke down the door and rushed in.

"Two of the men were carrying flashlights. I made a grab for the flashlights and one of the men struck me on the jaw—with his fist, I think—and I went down in the corner of the room.

"Then they kicked me: twice here (pointing to his left cheekbone); once on the leg; and the worst of all was a kick in the throat (slightly to the right of his adam's apple).

"My throat's sore inside and my gums ache from the kicks on the side of my face."

FOUGHT BACK

Though dazed by the assault, the elderly cattleman fought back briefly. Somebody threw a blanket over him as he lay on the floor, and then one of the trio stood over him with a skinning knife—picked up in the kitchen.

While the other two men ransacked the bedroom the third kept Mr. Williamson subdued by keeping a blanket over him so he couldn't see and the man jabbed away at him with the knife. The guard apparently took a sadistic delight in jabbing at the elderly man's body, including his arms and his bare feet. All the time a flashlight was shone in his face so he couldn't see his attackers or what was going on.

Then Mr. Williamson heard the two searchers say something about "money, money," and they came

Gov't May Allow Veterans To Sell Small Holdings

The federal government is considering a suggestion that veterans be permitted to sell off small holdings acquired under the Veterans' Land Act in cases where taxes have been increased.

Veterans Affairs Minister Hughes Lapointe said in the House of Commons in Ottawa on Thursday that, while the suggestion is being considered, no decision has yet been reached. He was answering a question by Gordon K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough).

The problem has become particularly acute in cities such as Peterborough, Ottawa, Brantford and Kitchener, which have annexed land from neighboring townships. About 300 veterans are affected in Ottawa.

30 AFFECTED

When Peterborough annexed a portion of Smith township this year, upwards of 30 Veterans' Land Act small holdings were brought into the city, nine on Sunset boulevard and others on Hyland road, Fairbairn, Hilliard and Cameron streets.

Prior to 1946, veterans purchasing land under the scheme were required to buy a minimum of half an acre. In 1946, the minimum was raised to between two and three acres, depending on the value of the land. The majority of the annexed holdings are from two to 2½ acres in size. Only one or two are half an acre.

The act requires the owners to retain all the land during the amortization period of 10 years or sell the entire parcel. So far as is known, none of the annexed holdings have been sold yet.

The land on the holdings is assessed as agricultural land but few of the veterans owning them are farmers. Most of them work in the city and do not work their surplus land.

SPACE HEATERS FLOODED

Flooded space heaters were reported at two homes early today. One at Albert B. Middleton's home, 660 Reid St., and the other at Fred Walker's, 426 Wolsley St. The firemen waited for the oil to burn up and then left.

Bicycles Clutter Garage, Await Owners

If 32 boys and girls who own bikes don't soon pick them up from the police station, then they might be disappointed.

That, briefly, is the warning issued by police who have a large stock of unclaimed bicycles ranging from racing models to a tricycle. It would only take one auction sale to get rid of them and release valuable garage space.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Forms to Discuss 4-H Club Work . . . Federation of Agriculture Annual At Norwood Wed., Dec. 9 . . . Ontario Federation Convention, Toronto, Jan. 5-7 . . . Peterborough Shorthorn Breeders Meet Wed., Dec. 16

From the sustained evidence in their own communities, Farm Forum groups should have an approvi.. answer Monday night to the broadcast subject: "Are our farm youth programs succeeding?"

Graduates of those clubs, which only recently have assumed the name 4-H from their counterpart organization in the United States, have grown up through the ranks of Junior Farmers into married life. Generally they bear the stamp of Club experience in their responsibility to farm and home, their neighborhoods, their church and municipal life, and broadly in their sense of citizenship.

They gradually gain social maturity, free themselves from hampering diffidence, and acquire a degree of confidence that enables them to associate easily with others. They learn many values from their very first project such practical elements as what constitutes a good calf, good land, grain, fundamentals of economy, care of implements, and altogether a basic appreciation of the job they have to do.

WHAT OF LEADERSHIP?

The topical questions suggested in the Forum Guide apparently assume satisfactory accomplishment in this practical phase of 4-H Club affairs. They are more pointedly asking whether the farm youth programs have been producing community and farm organization leaders; young people with an interest in public affairs and international relations

Forums should have an interesting period of discussion in arriving at their estimate of the worth of the Clubs for rural boys and girls. They should not pass too readily over the important detail of the completion of projects, that spirit of application which carries through to Achievement Day.

Apart from these phases of the enterprise which is backed by many of Canada's great industrial, mercantile and financial organizations, the 4-H Clubs are a great national junior community.

65,215 YOUNG CANADIANS

With 65,215 boys and girls enrolled in 4,869 clubs, they show a membership increase of 6,509 since 1952. And it was glowingly significant at the recent Royal Winter Fair that the provinces of western Canada are deeply interested in their Clubs. The results of the final competitions demonstrated that fact. The western youngsters took home more than their share of honors.

That is an impressive intimation to the rest of the nation, the vision of those thousands of boys and girls in all the provinces pledging in their formative years the 4-H dedication:

"My Head to clearer thinking,
My Heart to greater loyalty,
My Hands to larger service
My Health to better living,
For my club, my community and my country."

No wonder the purposes of the 4-H Clubs have attracted not only the extension services of governments but also the personal support of many of the foremost men in Canada. It is likely that Forums, always seeking an outlet for their desire to promote the well being of their communities, will seriously propose a deepening of personal assistance in furthering the aims of their own young people through 4-H Clubs.

Banquet To 4-H Clubs

More than 120 4-H Calf and Swine Club members were guests of Northumberland Holstein Club at a dinner in the Morganston United Church hall last week.

The guest speaker, Prof. D. R. Campbell, BA (Oxon), head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, OAC, was introduced by Lindsay Anderson of Massey-Harris Farms, Millikken, a former Campbellford Calf Club leader. Ralph Banbury, Brighton, agricultural representative, was chairman.

Prof. Campbell strongly advised the keeping of farm accounts as the only way a farmer could determine whether he was makikng a profit. This was especially true if a man had two or more enterprises, one of which was falling behind while the others providing a profit In that case a farmer would be losing on one of the branches of income. He suggested that older sons on the farm might help in taking over the accounts for their parents.

To lower costs of production, Prof. Campbell said, it was often the small things that make the difference. "We may have expensive machinery and good buildings and equipment, but sometimes the methods we use in doing the work add to the cost. So, saving of time in operations becomes a considerable factor."

He cited an example of two farms where 18 cows were milked in similar sypes of barns.

One farmer walkekd 497 miles a year in his work, the other 281 miles in much the same work. Prof. Campbell said labor was the unit of cost that had increased most since 1939

Don't Know Neighbor

By implication Roy Jewell of the London (Ont.) Free Press expresses doubt of ever finding general and correct information of Canada in the United States.

At a weekend meeting of farm radio directors and extension people one man made the statement that the U.S. was the only country printing the dollar.

"Later at dinner our group included a representative of an American agency who still did not believe until Bob Carbert of CKNX, Wingham, showed him that ours was a dollar and cents currency, and that this strange dollar he was seeing was worth just a little more than Uncle Sam's.

Another individual whose position with one of the great U.S. farm groups is next to the top man, classed Canadian and British radio in one and the same category."

Mr. Jewell remarks that international understanding may not be as understanding as we sometimes assume.

Herefords Average $872

Twenty-six Hereford cattle averaged $872 at the sale last week "white faces" bred and raised by Wilf J. Edgar and Sons at their Little Red Deer Farm west of Innisfail, Alberta, a week ago. Gross receipts were $22,675.

Sixteen females averaged $937.50. and ten bulls, including several calves, $777.50.

Three head, two females and one male, consigned by Parsonage and Holmes, Innisfail, averaged $716. Six calves, none more than six months old, consigned by Loughbreed Bros., of Bowden, averaged $324. A big crowd swamped the accomodation of the sales ring.

Top price was $1,650 paid by Albert Cox of Consort for Miss BA Mixer LRD 5G, a 17-month old heifer in calf by Bright Mixer out of Miss Real. The sire of calf was Wetmore Halfflight, imported from England, jointly by Edgar, Parsonage and Holmes. He is by Marlow Banket sired the grand champion bull again this year at one of largest of England's bull sales.

Speaker At Stirling

George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farm, Oshawa, will be the speaker at the annual meeting of Hastings County Holstein Breeders, Stirling Community Hall, Wednesday, Dec. 16, beginning at 10.30 a.m.

GRAND CHAMPIONS AT ROYAL—Rockwood Rocket Tone (left) was Grand Champion Holstein bull, and Spring Farm Juliette the Grand Champion Holstein female at the Royal Winter Fair. This was the third time that both Rocket Tone and Juliette had won this honor. Rocket Tone was bred by Rockwood Holsteins, St. Norbert, Man., and is owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association, Belleville, Ontario, while Juliette's breeder and owner is J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, Ontario. Juliette is one of the immortals of the Canadian show ring, having been shown each year of her life, and has not missed being nominated for All-Canadian. Altogether she has won six All-Canadian awards and one reserve, a record that has not been matched by any other Holstein cow in show ring annals. Rocket Tone was also Grand Champion at the recent International Dairy Show at Chicago, where he was described by the judge as "a very rare animal."

Every Cheese First Grade Pine Grove's Record Awarded New Irwin Trophy

It was awarded to Mr. Andrews for the highest average grading score and the best workmanship during the season from May 1 to Nov. 15 this year. His average grade was 93.859, and the workmanship score, including factory maintenance, appearance of cheese, etc., was 99.8 points out of a possible 100.

The presentation was made on Wednesday night at the dinner concluding the 26th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers and the British Empire Dairy Show at Belleville.

Mr. Andrews also won the Bank of Commerce silver tray, gracefully engraved, for the same high performance that earned the Irwin Memorial, highest average scoring cheese for the season.

The late James L. Irwin was for many years the chief dairy grader for Central Ontario, and actively assisted the Cheesemakers in their organization. His paramount interest in the dairy industry was further demonstrated in the institution of the British Empire Dairy Show. Jim Irwin did more than his grading responsibility called for toward maintaining and improving the Cheddar cheese of his district, and also the spirit of its dairy farmers.

The cheesemakers of the Campbellford-Peterborough area, of which William P. Moore of Campbellfod is instructor, were awarded the Griffin Shield for winning the largest aggregate of prize money within the Central Ontario Association.

MADE 2,000 CHEESE

Mr. Andrews shied at a picture of himself and the Irwin Memorial Trophy today. It was urged not so much as the prize itself, but for the remarkable achievement of the perfect score for the 1953 season at Pine Grove. The factory's production was more than 2,000 cheese, and every one of them was of the first grade. That was a 100 per cent performance, not one second grade cheese in the entire make.

Mr. Andrews said that without the co-operation he received from his 60 patrons, from the dairy instructor W. P. Moore, and also from his helper, Nicholas Van Weston, only a year out from Holland, he could hardly have expected to bring back two trophies from Belleville this week.

"I'm proud of Pine Grove's patrons," Mr. Andrews said. "They are farmers from Douro, Dummer and North Smith, and they supplied the quality of milk that is necessary for top grade cheese.

"Mr. Moore has been consistently helpful, and I certainly appreciate his interest and guidance. I have also been happy in having Mr. Van Weston as my helper at the factory. I came across him one day in Lakefield a year or so ago, and he has proved to be a real good man."

WON PUBLOW TROPHY

To the Examiner, Mr. Moore said Howard Andrews was a successful operator at Pine Grove.

"He was the first winner of the George Publow Trophy three years ago for the highest average score for that season in Ontario.

"The awards presented to him this week are proof of the quality of Pine Grove cheese, and his score of 99.8 points for workmanship was practically perfect. That includes the good condition of the plant and equipment, sanitation, and other requirements in a factory. They have a good team up there at Pine Grove. Mr. Andrews insists on the receipt of milk of the right quality, and I know that his patrons willingly do their best to keep up to that standard. They produce premium cheese, and that is what we want to maintain the place of our Ontario Cheddar in the market."

Last of Peterborough's factories, Pine Grove is not only continuing a long tradition—it has raised it at a time when the records show increasing consumption of cheese in Canada.

Mr. Moore remarked that the convention of the cheesemakers and the Empire Dairy Show reflected a lift of spirit as a result of the recent sale of 10,000,000 cheese to Britain by the marketing agency of the Ontario Cheese Producers. There is only a slight surplus of cheese in storage for the winter— and the price on the Belleville exchange this week moved up to 34 cents.

Frankford Boy At 4-H Rally

Robert Burkitt, Frankford R.R. 2, was representing Hastings county this week at the National 4-H Conference in Chicago. The young people attending this convention were chosen everywhere in the United States and Canada for their all-round participation in 4-H Club and Junior Farmer activity.

Robert Burkitt has been in the club work since 1947. He has completed nine 4-H Club projects, in calf, swine, grain, grain corn, and forestry. In 1951 he was a member of the Hastings 4-H grain team in the inter-club competition at Guelph, ranking seventh as a team.

This year he was a member of the second place swine team in the 4-H provincial judging competition.

Robert has been active member of the Sidney Junior Farmers since 1947, and was president in 1951, county director that year, in 1952 he was vice-president of Hastings Junior Farmers Association, and is now its president. He has been active in grain judging at Belleville "Ex" this year, and in the C.N.E. junior swine judging competition he was 1953 winner.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Burkitt, Frankford R.R. 2, and is 19 years of age.

62 Holsteins To Venezuela

Sixty-two Holstein cattle have left Oakville for St. John, N.B., where they will be transferred to ship for delivery to Venezuela.

All the animals in the Diaz group have either completed qualifying R.O.P. records themselves, or are from dams that have completed R.O.P. George Clemons, secretary of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, reported them a high class lot of cattle, and should prove satisfactory to their purchasers.

Distribution was widely placed among Ontario breeders. A few of them from the Peterborough district are: Edgar T. Buck, Norwood; R. T. Currelly, Port Hope; Mary Duncan, Whitby; F. C. Motley & Son, Belleville; Maurice A. Edgerton, Burketon Station; D. C. Johnston, Grafton; Murray P. Holtby, Port Perry; W. B. Holtby, Port Perry.

Only one bull was included in the consignment, Brownholme R. A. Jubilation, brought from Sheffield Farms, St. George, Ontario. He is a son of the Excellent cow Raymondale Susie who has a two-year-old 365 day record of 18,029 lbs. milk and 731 lbs. fat with average test of 4.05% butterfat.

This is the third shipment of Canadian Holsteins to Venezuela.

A FORMER CHAMPION at the East-Central Ontario Holstein Championship Show at Peterborough, Illehee Sovereign Supreme, from the herd of H. C. Closkey, Queensville, brought $2,600 at the Royal "sale of stars." The buyer was Rosendo Aja, of Mexico City. He was named All-Canadian three-year Holstein bull in 1952.

MISS JEAN NOBLE, Bowmanville, home economist of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the counties of Durham, Victoria, Northumberland, Peterborough, is retiring at the end of the year, for a teaching course that will qualify her for Collegiate Institute and High School appointment.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS FOR 1954

Several Musical numbers—An invitation is extended to the ladies.

Vote Walter Sloan for Reeve of Dummer Township

To The Electors of Dummer Township.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Having been requested by a large number of Ratepayers to let my name stand for Reeve, I have decided to do so.

I have been a Councillor for a number of years and Deputy-Reeve for 1953, and have always taken a keen interest in the affairs of the Municipality. Although I live in the eastern part of the Township, I have always tried to be fair and just with the Ratepayers, regardless of what part of the Township they reside in.

I am the only Representative on the Council from the Centre and Eastern sections of the Township, and I feel, in fairness to the Ratepayers, this large section should have representation on the Council.

Owing to the short time at my disposal Election Day being December 7th, I may not be able to see you all personally; so I take this opportunity to solicit your Vote and influence. And if elected, will work for the best interest of the municipality.

Wishing you, one and all the Compliments of the Season.

Respectfully yours,
WALTER SLOAN, R.R. 1, Norwood.

McCarthy Says

Communists In Government To Be Next Election Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy stuck by his criticism of administration foreign policy today and called on Americans who feel as he does about "blood trade" with Red China to make their views known to President Eisenhower.

He said he thinks Eisenhower "is an honorable man" and "will follow the will of the American people if that will is known to him."

And, in further disagreement with the president, McCarthy declared that Communists in government will be an issue in next year's elections and "the most important political issue for many years to come."

McCarthy urged, too, in a statement that State Secretary Dulles "re-appraise our whole policy" toward allies dealing with Communist China.

NOT AFTER LEADERSHIP

But he declared at the same time that any suggestion he was challenging Eisenhower's leadership of the Republican party "is both ridiculous and untrue." He attributed this idea to "our political enemies."

McCarthy replied in a prepared statement to the blasts delivered at him in the last two days by Eisenhower and Dulles. He added an appeal for Americans who agree with him to write or wire their views to Eisenhower.

The Paris treaty of 1783 officially closed the American Revolution, recognizing the new United States.

Liberals Plan To Divide Into 2 Groups

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Re-organization of Western Ontario Liberal Association into two groups is to be completed not later than Feb. 15, it was decided at an executive meeting Thursday.

The association approved the split at a meeting last April, and their decision was ratified by the Ontario association later.

When the division is complete, Brant and Brantford provincial ridings will go to the Southern Ontario Liberal Association, and the 23 ridings in western Ontario divided.

Western Ontario Liberal Association (North) will take in the ridings of Bruce, Grey North, Grey South, Huron - Bruce, Wellington North, Wellington South, Waterloo North, Waterloo South, Perth and Huron.

TO ARRANGE MEETINGS

WOLA (South) will take in Windsor Sandwich, Windsor Walkerville, Essex North, Essex South, Lambton West, Lambton East, Kent West, Kent East, Middlesex North, Middlesex South, London, Elgin and Oxford.

Committees were set up at the executive meeting to arrange for meetings in each district to set up the new organizations.

For WOLA (North) Frank Harbor, Kitchener, Russell Daly, Guelph and Chester Little, Atwood, will make necessary arrangements. For WOLSA (South) Clarence Nichols, Blenheim, Sidney Clunas, Chatham and Jack Burgess, Wallaceburg, will be in charge.

Says Speeches Out Of Place

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Reid (L—British Columbia) Thursday charged in the Senate that many of the speeches concerning the Harry Dexter White and Igor Gouzenko cases were "quite out of place."

"It must be remembered that we in Canada are very close neighbors with the United States and much that we say is taken literally," he said during the throne speech debate.

His reference was to the controversy concerning White, a suspected spy, and Gouzenko, Russian embassy cipher clerk whose information touched off Canadian spy trials of 1946. The controversy culminated in an exchange of notes between Canada and the U.S. on whether Gouzenko should testify for a U.S. Senate sub-committee.

"It is my belief that much of what has been said on this subject borders on interference in the political realm."

All-Canadian Route For Gas Criticized

OTTAWA (CP)—A British Columbia Liberal Thursday charged in the Senate that government insistence on an all-Canadian route for a natural gas pipeline means that B.C. will get no gas.

Senator Thomas Reid said during the throne speech debate that he does not see why governments are insisting on an all-Canadian route for a gas line "yet when it comes to oil no notice is taken of where oil goes to."

He noted that an oil pipeline has recently been completed from Edmonton to Vancouver but that about 100 miles from Vancouver a branch is being built into the United States where a $5,000,000 refinery is being constructed.

"But when it comes to natural gas. . . they say it must be an all-Canadian route."

Can. Factories Strike In Sympathy With U.S.

TORONTO (CP)—Some 700 employees of three can manufacturing plants here remained off the job today after a walkout they said was a "demonstration" in connection with a strike in the United States.

The workers, members of United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) struck Wednesday and met today to map plans to continue the walkout. They are asking a 12-cent hourly wage increase.

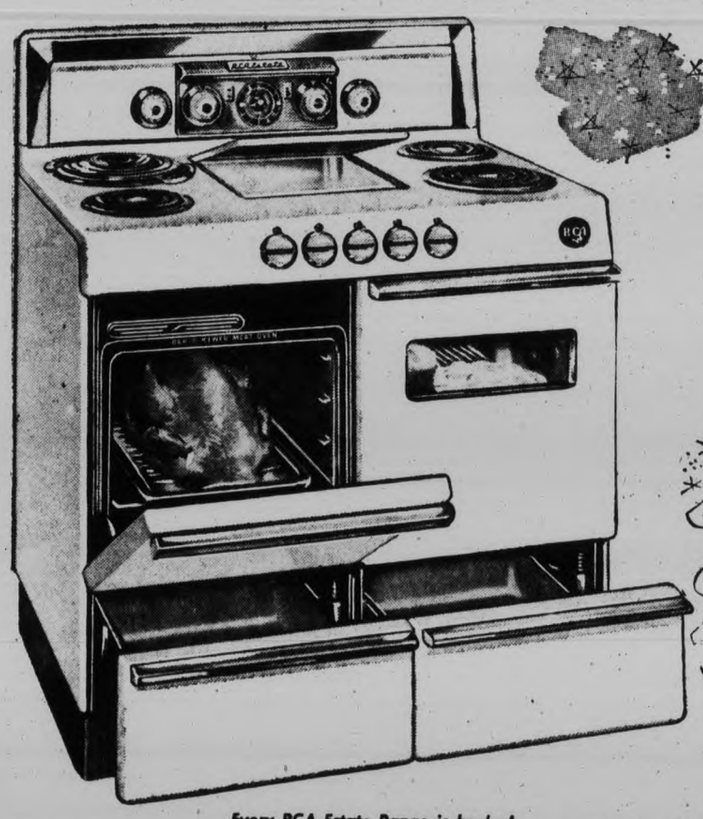
Workers in the United States are on strike from 68 plants of the American Can Company and Continental Can Company. They are members of a CIO union. Workers who walked out here were employed by Continental.

An official of American Can at Chatham, Ont., said his company's four plants in eastern Canada would not be affected by the strike because they were organized by a different union. American Can plants are in Chatham, Hamilton, Simcoe, Ont., Montreal.

Under Ontario labor law a strike is illegal until conciliation processes have been exhausted.

Citrus Industry Hit By Car Shortage

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A can shortage faced the U. S. citrus industry today as the result of a strike against can manufacturers. No settlement is in sight.



The strike by the CIO United Steelworkers at 73 plants of American Can Co. and Continental Can Co. in the United States and Canada has almost throttled production.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadians are building a $75,000,000 pulp and newsprint plant in New Zealand.

It is for the Tasman Pulp and Paper Company, a government-sponsored plant, and is being built at Kawerau, 200 miles south of Auckland.

British Columbia engineers and paper specialists and plant personnel have all participated in the project. The mill was designed by Sandwell and Company of Vancouver.

Canadian firms ave provided $1,568,000 worth of equipment for the job, most of it manufactured in eastern Canada.

The Canadian engineers commute 8,000 miles between Vancouver and Kawerau, coming home to head office to confer with their chiefs.

SUPERVISED JOB

The mill is modern in design. Production will be 75,000 long tons of newsprint, 50,000 long tons of pulp and 72,000,000 board feet of lumber. All raw material will be from man-made forests.

HOME MARKET

The major market for the mill's products will be in New Zealand with any surplus made available to Australian markets.

A score of Canadians, mostly British Columbians, now live in the mill colony at Kawerau.

Rents are high in New Zealand, Mr. Barton said, but food costs are lower than in Canada. He pays $155 a month for a furnished home but milk and meat prices are cheaper than here, he said.

There are plenty of jobs in New Zealand, but wages are only about half of prevailing Canadian rates.

Pushing Work On Big Dam In Saskatchewan

MOOSOMIN, Sask. (CP) — Thickly wooded hills of the Pipestone valley near this eastern Saskatchewan town show raw scars as work on the province's largest earth-fill dam continues.

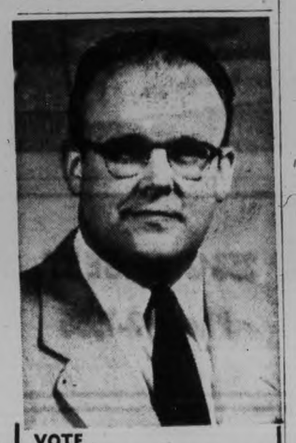
When completed in 1955, the 45-foot structure will stretch 1,700 feet across a neck of the valley, controlling the flow of Pipestone creek. A Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration project, the dam is expected to cost $415,000.

It will control the flow of the stream to provide stock-watering facilities for large livestock herds in the district. Although no irrigation is planned, enough water will be available to handle 1,200 acres.

SHOWS INTEREST

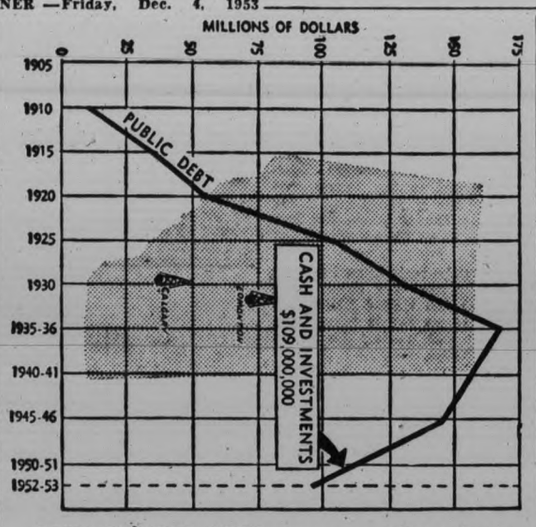
The Manitoba government has shown interest in the project because it will control periodic flooding near Oak lake into which the creek empties.

During the last three months, tractors trailing scrapers have gouged away the scrub oak and poplar from the hillsides and eaten 80 feet into the hills to provide a chute for the dam's concrete spillway.



The earth barrier will hold back enough water to cover 9,000 acres to a depth of one foot. Provision wil be made for flood storage.

Big Sanctuary



MONTAGUE, P.E.I. (CP)—Thousands of Canada geese, black ducks baldpates and teal occupy Harvey Moore's roadside pond at Commercial cross but visitors may "shoot" only with cameras. The birds eating so much that the province is helping to pay the food bill.

Human Touch

WINNIPEG (CP) — Teachers must know their subjects, but they should also know their pupils, says Dr. J. M. Brown, curriculum director of the Manitoba education department. "If a teacher intends to teach John arithmetic, she must know arithmetic, but she must also know John," he said. "And John in many respects is very unlike arithmetic."

Royal Favor Brings Corgi Into Ranks Of Popularity

By VALERY GIBSON

LONDON (AP) — Britain has 3,750,000 dogs, according to official population.

Dogs have free rights in London's squares and parks, for there is no law obliging them to be kept on a leash. They are allowed in most hotels and restaurants. They are carried free in many cities' buses and for only a small fare on the subway and railways.

The Royal Family keeps six dogs. The Queen has two, the Queen Mother one and Princess Margaret three. Their favorite breed is the Corgi, the Welsh cattle dog with the pert ears.

Thanks to royal favor the Corgi ranks high in popularity throughout the country. It is in fourth place along with the Boxer and the aristocratic miniature poodle favored by Prime Minister Churchill. Above it, in third spot, comes the Pekinese.

Kennel club officials believe the high cost of keeping a dog is causing gradual changes in breeding. While the number of dogs has remained more or less constant for 15 years, the number with pedigrees has doubled. Officials say prospective owners feel that if their dog is going to cost them so much they might as well go all the way and buy a blueblood.

Official figures disclose that there is no money in dog breeding, yet the country has 20,000 registered breeders.

Vigorous Parson

LYNEAL - CUM - COLMERE, England (CP)—Rev. R. Egerton has closed the Sunday school here and at nearby Welshampton, Shropshire, because he says "The Sunday school has become an end in itself, which is not bringing the children to church." Some church wardens resigned in protest.

Product Planning Needed By Today's Manufacturer

Industries are faced with a greater need than ever to manufacture products that will be acceptable to their customers, the Kiwanis club were told at their luncheon meeting in the Empress hotel Thursday.

Gone is the day when companies could be satisfied with the manufacturer's opinion of the quality of a product, according to J. D. Willis of the CGE.

A native of Edmonton, Mr. Willis is a graduate of the University of Alberta. He took the test course at the Peterborough works of CGE and later joined the sales staff at Toronto head office. He rose to the position of manager of the company's industrial division at head office and last year became manager of product planning in the apparatus division.

On January 1, he will return to Peterborough as manager of the motor and control department, under the new set-up brought about by the reorganization of the company into six self-contained departments, three of which will be at the Peterborough works.

NEW PRODUCTS

It is no longer sufficient for a company to build a better mouse trap and tell about it, Mr. Willis told the Kiwanis club, referring to the advertising era which began at the first of the century. It is necessary to find new marketable products or the result will be unemployment of both capital and labor.

In a recent survey of 200 United States firms, it was revealed that of every five products which had gotten past the engineering stage, only one was marketed successfully.

As a specific example, he mentioned the purchase by CGE of two types of household refrigerators in the early days of domestic refrigeration. Everyone in Peterborough was familiar with the result.

Women did not like the appearance and dust-collecting qualities of the tops and the company had to adopt a flat-topped style of refrigerator.

"People have become very choosy," he said, "and we must find out what the people like. There is a practical necessity for making each salesman more effective by giving him products to sell that are more acceptable."

In the next 10 years, Canada is faced with an increase of 20.2 per cent in population, 20.4 per cent in the labor force, 18.9 per cent in employment, 46.9 per cent in the gross national product and 61.5 per cent in the index of industrial production.

To meet these expanded conditions will require more complete mechanization to ensure maximum production of each member of the working force. At the same time, if there is to be a 60 per cent increase in the production of goods, every model will have to be checked before it is manufactured to ensure that it will meet public acceptance.

Selling is no longer considered as one factor as distinguished from design and manufacture, the speaker said. Selling has to be built into the product from the beginning.

"With us," he said, "this centres around the product manager, whose task must cover every phase of the company's business."

Mr. Willis was introduced by Art Malby and thanked by Charles Archibald.

Circularize Numbers On Ransom Money

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP has circularized across Canada the serial numbers of some $300,000 ransom money still missing in the Bobby Greenlease kidnapping case.

RCMP sources said the serial numbers of the missing U.S. bank notes had been given to major banks and hotels from Halifax to Vancouver, but that special emphasis had been placed on Ontario.

It was noted that some of the missing bills were recovered recently in northern Michigan. Soon afterwards the RCMP, working in co-operation with the FBI circularized the serial numbers.

Carl Hall and Bonny Heady have been entenced to die at Kansas City, Mo., for killing the young boy.

Ethel Merman Misses Theatre, But Very Happy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's a long way from the bright lights of Broadway and Hollywood to the crisp air of mile-high Denver, but Ethel Merman has made the transition and she's never been happier.

The veteran musical star is a proud resident of the Colorado capital since her marriage to Bob Six, airlines boss whose headquarters are there.

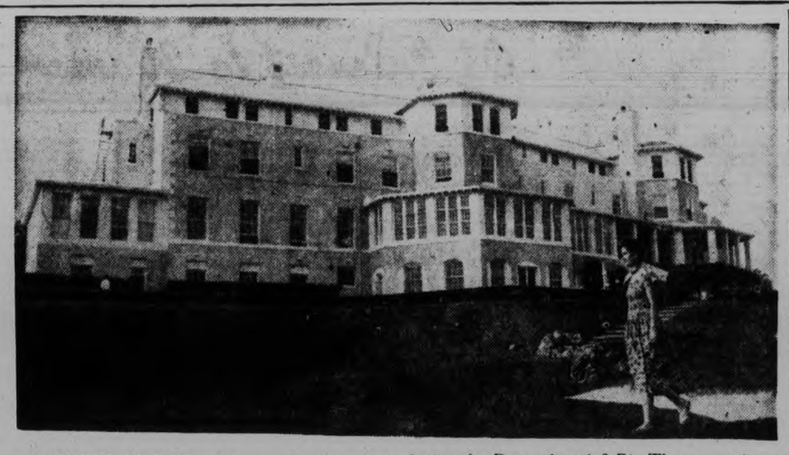
"I love Denver," she said emphatically. "I don't think I've ever been happier in my life. The air is simply wonderful; it's the mile-high city, you know. I was in New York last week, and oh, it was terrible. The smaze or smog or whatever you call it. You can hardly breathe.

"Yes, I miss the theatre a little, but happiness is more important. My kids are going to public schools now, instead of the private schools they went to in New York."

NO MORE BROADWAY

Like Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, who have moved to Portland, Me., Miss Merman said she will commute to the entertainment capitals.

"I'll do some TV in New York or Hollywood and come here (Hollywood) for a picture now and then," she explained. "I'll spend the rest of the time with my family in Denver."



What about doing a Broadway show?

"Never again," she replied. This may be a blow to Broadway, where she starred in an amazing succession of hits. But she added: "Nobody is indispensable."

Some of her old stage pals find it hard to believe this. Some time ago, producer Leland Hayward cautioned her to read a book called "The Last Resorts" as a future stage possibility. Irving Berlin was to do the score and Lindsay and Crouse the book, the same crew who turned out "Call Me Madam." Berlin even pitched a couple of the songs at her when she visited New York.

But Miss Merman turned the deal down with a smile. "My family is more important," she explained.

The lusty songstress is in Hollywood to renew an old acquaintance with Jimmy Durante. She'll appear on his TV show Sunday night, and he'll return the favor on one of the two hour-long shows she will do here after the first of the year.

Suggest Special Committee To Decide On Crops Grown

HAMILTON (CP)—A resolution recommending the setting up of a committee composed of vegetable growers, canners and marketing experts from the provincial and federal departments of agriculture, with a view to advising growers what crops should be grown, was passed Thursday at a convention of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board.

Sponsors of the motion, growers from Lincoln, Welland and Haldimand counties, said they felt much surplus would be done away with if such a committee studied the known markets for canning crops. Then they would be in a position to advise growers what crops to plant and what amount to produce.

Reports given to the meeting indicated many growers had tomatoes left in the fields this year when canners were unable to handle all that had been produced.

A resolution urging that canning contracts for tomatoes, corn and peas be flexible by 10 to 15 per cent, was turned down. Most growers said that when a canning contract specified a certain number of acres of any particular vegetable, that was what should be grown.

A resolution pertaining to prices for next year's canning crop was introduced but was not put to the meeting, the feeling of the majority being that such a motion might hinder negotiations with canners.

A. N. L. Butler, of the horticultural experiment station, vineland, said growers should, if they wanted to produce good crops, apply the recommended amounts of fertilizer to their land. Growers who had applied the proper amount of fertilizer, he said, had produced a considerably greater crop over a four year test period. A disease control program was also important.

Rejects Criticism Of Israel Bond Sales

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport said Thursday that criticism of using Sunday to promote the sale of state of Israel bonds is "ridiculous."

He was replying to a letter from A. S. McGrath, general manager of the Lord's Day Alliance who said buying and selling bonds on Sunday is "injurious and a danger to the Sunday privileges of all Canadians."

Officials of the Israel bond drive said no sales will be made on Sunday, named Big Day of Jerusalem Week by civic proclamation to promote sales of the bonds. The bond officials said canvassers will go from house to house Sunday giving information only.

Sailor Charged With Assault

THOROLD (CP)—A Great Lakes sailor from Thorold was charged Thursday with assault of an unidentified woman as police pressed an investigation into discovery of blood-stained female clothing and what appeared to be bloodstains in the sailor's automobile.

Police began an investigation when the blood-stained clothing of a woman, including lingerie, was found beside the Welland canal. Officers, however, could learn of no women being reported missing in the area.

Further investigations led to the discovery of the sailor's car parked at the seamen's union hall here and police said there were blood stains in the interior of the vehicle.

Dempsey To Wed Wealthy Widow

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Jack Dempsey and wealthy Mrs. Estelle Auguste of Palm Beach, Fla., Thursday announced they will marry soon.

At a press conference in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Mrs. Auguste, a pretty blonde, said:

"I really think it's so wonderful to at last find a real man. In my orbit I've met so few of them."

WED BEFORE CHRISTMAS

The couple said the wedding date has not been set, but that it would be some time before Christmas.

"She is a wonderful girl," Dempsey said.

Dempsey, 58, has been married three times previously. Mrs. Auguste, 42, has been married twice before. Her last husband, the late Harmon Spencer Auguste died four years ago leaving her a fortune.

Reserve Judgment On Army Payment

BRANTFORD (CP)—Judge D. J. Cowan Thursday reserved judgment on an attempt by the federal government to recover $41.90 from John William Bishop of Lynden.

The government claimed it overpaid Bishop that amount in gratuities after his discharge from the Canadian Army in 1946.

L. T. Pennell, acting for the crown, suggested the action was a test case hinging on the fact that the crown can do no wrong.

Lieut. S. Amos, administration officer of the Canadian Army pay corps, Oakville, testified the army made a mistake in 1946 and paid Bishop $212.12 in gratuities instead of the $170.90 he was entitled to.

J. A. Warren of Hamilton, acting for Bishop, introduced evidence that Bishop received three notices from the government, each asking for a different amount.

Keep Kids Busy To Help Ease Holiday Excitement

We begin to hear about Santa before Thanksgiving, and the excitement builds up until we're all about ready to explode. To take some of the tension off and to get into the spirit of the holiday yourself, let the children help with preliminaries geared to their ages and skills.

There are lots of things kids can make and do for Christmas. A book just published and ready for the market is full of simple ideas and materials for making paper chains, a jolly balloon Santa, Christmas cards, ornaments, the Nativity scene and so on.

All a child needs is scissors and a roll of tape or a paste pot to turn out any of several decorations. Your own childhood pleasures will suggest other simple activities.

We usually get a very small tree early just for the children and it's decorated to the hilt several times. Colorful paper chains made from four-inch strips of bright paper looped into circles and pasted or taped to form the links are easy to make. So are the old-fashioned cranberry chains or popcorn strings threaded with big needles on stout thread.

Ornaments to dangle on the branches can be made by pasting pretty pictures or colored paper scraps on cardboard. Cut them out, punch a hole for thread to hang them up. Heavy aluminum foil borrowed from the kitchen and cut into star shapes or taped into cones make dazzling and unbreakable ornaments.

An idea I got from the new book takes two or three sticks of gum with paper wrappings removed. The silver-foil sticks are taped together in triangles with a tape loop for hanging. Of course, my problem is how to keep the gum out of little mouths long enough to make the doo-dads.

A jolly, bouncy Santa Claus takes a red balloon and a piece of cardboard. If you don't have a picture of a Santa head to cut out, you can make a rough approximation with red crayons on white paper.

Cut out the cardboard in the shape of big feet. Punch a hole in it and cut a narrow slot. Blow up the balloon, pull the neck down through the hole, twist it tight and anchor it in the slot. Tape the head on top.

If you want to put yourself in solid with the kindergarten set, plan a rainy-day session baking gingerbread men. A neighbor gave me a set of small cookie cutters in tree, reindeer, Santa and gingerbread-men shapes.

I roll the dough thin and let the kids cut and decorate their own. Bowls of raisins, slivers of dried apricots and frosting (made largely from powdered skim milk, a little sugar and milk) spurs the decorative talents.

A Fur Coat Santa Claus?

To those Santas who are planning on tucking a fur coat under a Christmas tree, Leo Ritter, noted authority on furs, answers some important questions:

Question: Is the full fur coat going out of style?

Answer: The enormously full tent coat is no longer as smart as the coat that fits smoothly through the shoulders. The definitely fitted coat is coming in stronger than ever, and is now designed to look slim, but fits easily over suits. The fitted coat, properly proportioned, is a real long-range investment.

Question: Is the new three-quarter silhouette practical and becoming in fur?

FULL LENGTH

Answer: In the average woman in the North or the woman with only one fur coat, I would say no. Either a full length coat or a hip-length jacket will give better service than the in-between length.

Question: Is one of the new blonde furs a good year-round, all-purpose choice?

Answer: For campus wear and as part of a fur wardrobe, the blonde fur is wonderful, but here again the best investment for all-purpose wear, minimum care and becomingness is the darker fur that blends with the hair, the complexion and the whole wardrobe.

EASY TO CARE FOR

Answer: Extremely so. They are also highly adaptable to the new silhouettes, easy to care for and long wearing.

Question: What about collars and sleeves? Are there significant trends in these?

Answer: Simplicity and moderate size in collars are always in fashion. While the deep turned back cuff sleeve is still shown, the straighter tapered sleeve is the one which will look best for several years to come.

15,000 Species Of Orchid Known Around World

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Any young man who has emptied his wallet to buy an orchid may be comforted to know that in 1890, in London, England, £10,000 was paid for a rare, white orchid from Brazil.

Dr. R. H. Manske, research chemist for the Dominion Rubber Company, at Guelph, Ont., showed a "Great-grandchild" of this costly Brazilian plant.

Dr. Manske, whose hobby is raising orchids, was speaking to the Kitchener - Waterloo Field Naturalists Club and showed 10 different orchids He said more than 15,000 species of orchid are known and 5,000 hybrids are registered with the botanical gardens in London.

WIDE PRICE RANGE

Most Canadians can see about 12 species of orchids in flower shops across the country. They come in many different colors and range from 25 cents to $20 a bloom.

A flower shop belonging to one of Toronto's large department stores makes a specialty of orchids. Manager Albert De Volder says orchids are shipped with their stems in small glass tubes full of water and sealed with rubber to keep the air from the bottom of the stem.

"If flowers are taken out of water, air sometimes goes into the stem," he said. "It is then sealed in when the flower is returned to water, creating an air bubble and weakening the stem."

Asked why orchids don't have fancy names as do roses, Mr. De Volder said, "The orchid is queen of flowers and doesn't need gilding with fancy names."

TAKES NINE YEARS

Orchids stick to names of individuals, or such tongue twisters as, "odontoglossum" or "vanda coerulea." The latter is a small orchid of a delicate "porcelain" blue. It looks like a waffled nylon fabric and is usually available in the fall.

Mr. De Volder says, "If you want to raise orchids as a hobby, start young. It takes about nine years to get a blossom if you start from seed."

February is the large production month for most orchids here and it is possible to get a couple of labiata or trianae for $2.00 or even less at that time

How To End Friday Blues

Friday social engagements sometimes are the bane of a busy woman's life. Especially if one is past 40, she may feel more like flopping into an easy chair than going to a party.

Next time Friday night blues hit you, remember that you need a change of pace, not inaction. Provided your health is good, you can put the spring back into your walk in minutes.

Here is what you can do:

After cleansing your face thoroughly, cover it with a tissue oil; one made of vegetable and mineral oils is excellent. It will both cleanse the pores and stimulate the blood. You might also apply an eye cream.

Saturate a face towel with hot water and wrap it around your face. After one minute replace it with a towel that has been saturated with cold water. It, too, should be kept on one minute. Repeat with each towel three times.

Now, ignore that easy chair and relax the beauty way: with head lower than feet. If you do not have a beauty board, an ironing board is an adequate substitute. Prop one end carefully on a hassock. Place cotton pads soaked in cold witch hael on your eyes. After 15 minutes, you will be ready for a full evening of lively relaxation.

Routine Helps Unsightly Nails

If you are willing to spend a few minutes every day, you can do a great deal toward making your fingernails lovely. Since nails take four to seven months to grow, don't expect quick results.

Use nail enamel from the outset. Even though you may not want ot call attention to your nails now, the enamel will help to protect them. Incidentally, the claim that nails should be allowed to 'breathe' is false; nails do not 'breathe'.

Set aside a certain time each day, perhaps right after your bath, for massage. Massage a nail cream into the base of each nail with the cushion of your thumb. Using a gentle, but firm, rotary motion, continue massaging until you feel warmth beneath the cuticle.

It is important to develop a consciousness of your nails so that you can protect them from breaking. Open bobby pins with the cushions of your fingers instead of with the nails; use a pencil for dialing telephone numbers; push back the cuticles every time you dry your hands.

Your nail enamel will help you to disguise poorly-shaped nails. Wide nails appear more slender when the polish does not completely cover the sides. Fan-shaped nails seem oval when the polish covers the nail near the cuticle, and is applied in a straight line to the top so that the sides are exposed.

PINEAPPLE RICE PUDDING

One-half cup pre-cooked rice, 1 flat can crushed pineapple (1 cup, undrained), ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup nonfat dry milk, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon vanilla, ½ cup raisins, dash of nutmeg.

Place rice and undrained pineapple in saucepan. Stir in salt and nonfat dry milk powder. Add water and mix well. Place over low heat and bring just to boiling point. Lower heat and let simmer for 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in butter, vanilla and raisins. Cover and led stand 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold topped with a sprinkling of nutmeg. INVENTION TYPEWRITER— It might not be exactly what the teacher ordered for use by a student of touch-typing, but this typewriter, made in 1870, still does a proper job of writing. Now on display in Copenhagen, Denmark, it was produced by Malling Hansen and was still in use during the Second World War shortage.

PCVS

A meeting for Grades 10, 11 and 12 Vocational, was held Wednesday evening by the Home and School Association of PCVS with representation of both parents and students present.

Chairman, Mrs. Clare Collins, vice-president, opened the meeting by warmly welcoming everyone, followed by Principle C. S. Browne, who spoke briefly on the need for cooperation between parent, school and student.

Mrs. Collins then introduced the first of three speakers, Mr. W. T. Hardill, vice president of sales from Western Clock Co. Mr. Hardill chose Qualifications of Salesmanship as a topic, stressing the fact that everyone is a salesman in his work. Honesty is all important to both employer and customer. Enthusiasm in one's work also adds to a sometimes lonely life away from home, where often a salesman is the only contact between employer and customer.

The second speaker, Mr. George Batley, office manager of Canada Packers Ltd. spoke on office management. Mr. Batley outlined important qualifications for office work. Character and the ability to work as a team are all important—adding that boys and girls should work in positions suited to their ability and participation in church, school and community affairs is vitally important.

The last speaker Mr. John Sparrow, superintendent of Apprentices from CGE outlined opportunities in apprenticeship and aptitudes stating the importance of ones first position, if not suitable, the tendency to stray from job to job. Training and proper counseling in schools for positions suited to his home community is necessary.

Mr. Sparrow went on to say that opportunities through apprenticeship in manufacturing firms is great. Industry will never be to the point when it won't require skilled help, hence the need for completion of education is all important to the student entering apprenticeship.

A question period followed. Speakers of the evening were thanked by Mrs. V. Reynolds on behalf of the Home and School, also Mrs. P. Martin, president of P.C.V.S. Home and School, added a few words of thanks.

Among the teachers present were—Miss V. Burgess, Mrs. H. Toole, W. Switzer, D. Brown, H. Moebus, J. Rutherford, A. Shearer and O. Simmers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Goodson and her committee.

Christmas Cake Wreath

While some of us try to postpone the thought that Christmas will soon be upon us, we must eventually bow to the inevitable and start giving it some consideration. First of all comes the decision of what Christmas cake to make—in order to have it baked far enough in advance to mellow to its full richness. This delicious, light English friut cake is indeed a thing of beauty when decorated like a Christmas wreath. To do this, top with wine frosting, decorate with silve dragees and top with a bright green or red bow.

ENGLISH FRUIT CAKE

5 cups vitamin enriched flour.
2½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon mace
1 cup shortening
1⅞ cups brown sugar
3 eggs, well beaten
1 teaspoon lemon extract
3¼ cups sultana raisins
¼ cup sliced candied orange peel
¼ cup sliced candied lemon peel
¼ cup sliced citron
¼ cup sliced candied pineapple or cherries
1 cup chopped walnut meats
1 cup grape juice

Sift vitamin enriched flour, baking powder and mace together 3 times. Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add lemon extract, fruit and nuts; mix well. Blend in dry ingredients in small amounts alternately with grape juice, beating thoroughly after each addition. Pour into a 10-inch tube pan lined with greased brown paper. Bake in slow oven (300°F.) 2 to 2½ hours. For wine frosting: Blend 2 tablespoons butter with 3 cups confectioners' sugar. Add half a teaspoon of nutmeg and enough port wine to moisten the icing to spreading consistency.

Leading British Houses Bring Cotton To The Fore

By VICTORIA CHAPPELLE

Bold steps are being taken by the cotton interests in Britain to bring their goods into the forefront of the world's high fashion market. The famous silk house of Jacqmar has produced some novel cotton fabrics which are being used exclusively by Brenner Sports, while the firm of Frederick Starke Ltd. has linked up with Whitworth and Mitchell of Manchester, and is using exclusive ranges of this firm's Avon cottons. Both fashion houses will be marketing these cotton models throughout the world.

The Jacqumar-Brenner collection mostly consists of models for town wear and the formal view of cotton is given by princess coats which are snugly fitted with bell-shaped skirts and softly curved crescent sleeves. A coat in white madcella has a light speck of black in the weave which is emphasized by a black gros-grain collar and black buttons. Elegant town ensembles here are typified by a sleek sheath dress in white pique spotted with black, with a matching lined, straight jacket. Town suits with slim skirts and soft-shouldered pockets are made in a variety of printed cottons with the accent on abstract pen-and-ink designs. The printed cotton duster coat with controlled full-ness flowing from a soft shoulder-line will be another favourite.

Brenner Sports is also introducing ginghams and shirtings. These include fabrics striped in colour and white for beachwear, including very brief shorts and narrow turnups, and enormous patch pockets with matching skirts and tailored blouse, and jeans with a matching blouse. Woven crinkle stripes also provide a bright flash of colour in full skirts of black and white patterned dresses. Flower or leaf designs of the type normally printed on silk are another feature. Three-dimensional roses stand out on dark grounds, and these cottons are made into wide-skirted dresses with softly folded strapless bodies over which are worn matching boleros moulded to the figure. Velvet banding is an unusual trim on some of the silky-handling printed cottons.

Whitworth and Mitchell, who market their Avon cottons under the name of Wemco, have been working for more than a year with Frederick Starke on the new Avon cottons which have just been shown in piece-good form. This collection of cotton fabrics was planned, designed, tested for washability, everglazing of various intensities, shrinkage, color-fastness and crease resistance.

The main part of this collection, christened Frederica-in-Cotton, consists of elegantly-styled day dresses which are mostly intended for beach wear but could be as easily worn for informal occasions. Others are designed for informal evening wear and summer entertaining, with beautifully modelled little boleros to hide strapless tops when necessary.

The beach-wear is interesting because it is of the type to which no-one could take exception. It is of washable, wrinkle-shedding, everglazed cottons which barely need a touch of the iron, I am informed, and consisted of interchangeable items—halter tops or strapless tops, briefs, short bloomers or jeans, well-fitting skirts, and, as a rule, tiny jackets which complete the outfit.

The Frederica sun-into-evening dresses include several in the new Wemco paperweight ice cottons frosted with a delicate tracery of gold which is guaranteed to withstand every washable effort to remove it. All these models are in the half-tone colors which promise to be so popular with delicate but decided prints consisting to a great extent of different aspects of "pen and ink scrawls" and "doodles."

These dresses are notable for the moulded diaphragm line and the focus on the bustling which is achieved by inner bodices and jackets fastening immediately below the bosom. Crescent shaped sleeves stress the stand-away necklines, and, in order to help the fit, the straps on sun dresses are movable—three spaced button holes at the back are provided.

In addition the housecoats have a good wrap-over to give the same snugly fitting line and the fullness is pushed to the back of the skirt.

Create Own Accessories

To spark her basic-built wardrobe, the smart girl includes one or two high fashion notes. To extend it, she accessorizes carefully.

Many girls do not care to invest heavily in accessories to vary their costumes. Their reason is that one might just as well buy other dresses with the money.

But the girl on a budget does not have to buy expensive accessories to be chic. If she is willing to give a little time to hunting, she can find numerous bits with which to enhance her dresses.

For example: Leopard belts are costly but leopard buttons are not. Besides, a few of these buttons arranged on a plain belt or at the neckline will have a very individual look.

One may use a handsome collection of scarves to set off her costumes. In fact, she might use them exclusively so that they seem almost a trademark.

Should this be your wont, while buying the different designs and shapes that appeal to you, quickly increase your collection by making some from remnants.

Once your friends become aware of your enterprise, they will gladly contribute their sewing scraps. For the largest piece, you will need a 21-inch square. Use the styles you now own as patterns; handroll them and in minutes you will have added to your accessories without spending a penny.

St. Luke's Girls Present Nativity Play

St. Luke's Church Year held their Christmas party Wednesday in the parish hall. Feature of the evening was a nativity play put on by members of the Girls Auxiliary and the Junior Auxiliary.

The play was exceptionally good, especially the costumes and scenery which were improvised by the girls themselves.

As the play was enacted members of the Junior Auxiliary sang carols. In the choir were Helen Hamilton, Jacqueline Calvin, Margaret Vint, Carol Morrison, Linda Morrison, Sandra Allen, Patsy Roberts, Sandra Hope, Belinda Brown, Mary Sue Fields

Miss Anita Mason directed the play and Eleanor Watson played the Piano. Mr. Bob arvey was responsible for the lighting.

The girls Triple Trio of PCVS under the direction of Mr. M. J. Curtis sang three numbers. Pianist Mr. Clark Armstrong played the Warsaw Concereto and two solos wer sung by Mrs. Wilkinson.

The program closed with bango selections by Mr. Gordon Minty. Canon Gilling was master of ceremonies and entertained the audience with his ready wit.

On behalf of the Church Year Mrs. William King presented a cheque to the church warden for the organ fund. Mrs. King gave a vote of thanks to all who helped in the entertainment.

Much credit is due to Mrs. Fraser Watson who was responsible for the evening's program. Mrs. R. Tuck and her asistants served lunch.

Parson Addresses Trinity Group

Trinity church Women's Federation met Wednesday evening in the church parlor and was addressed by the Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell. The Christmas theme was carried throughout.

Mr. Maxwell spoke on preparing ourselves to receive the Christ child, and the Christian meaning of Christmas. Mr. Maxwell was introduced by Mrs. J. H. Moebus.

The devotional was given by the combined groups of Mrs. W. H. Magee and Mrs. E. D. Westbye.

With Mrs. R. Clayton as leader Christmas hymns, Joy to the World, and Away in a Manager were heartily sung. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Clayton followed by prayer by Mrs. C. L. McIntyre. Offering and dedication were by Mrs. R. S. Taylor and Mrs. T. Stanley.

The federation choral group sang several Christmas selections under the leadership of Mrs. E. J. Johnston with Mrs. K. R. McVeety at the piano.

Mrs. C. H. Huffman read the Christmas story while the choral group sang background music of Christmas carols.

Mrs. Westbye tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Maxwell and those taking part.

President Mrs. V. Skitch conducted the business.

A report on the slate of officers for the coming year was given by Mrs. J. M. Lynch. The tea table was attractively decorated in keeping with the Christmas season when the groups in charge served dainty refreshments.

Wear Low-Cut Dresses At Own Risk Judge Says

LONDON (CP) — Women who wear daring, low-cut dresses should be prepared "to support the bodice by hand if necessary," a London court ruled Thursday.

Judge Wilfrid Clothier added that the buyer of such a dress must be prepared to accept the hazards, put up with a certain amount of discomfort—and pay the dressmaker.

A dressmaker was suing two women for payment for strapless gowns made for them to wear at a wedding at which they were matrons of honor. In a countersuit for damages, the women claimed the gowns were immodest and improperly made.

Shapely Mrs. Irene Bonstein, her hands covering her bosom, modelled her gown in court.

GRAVITY DEFIED

"What keeps it up?" asked Judge Clothier.

After a good look he concluded it was held in place "by the shape of the bust." He added:

"It must seem to anyone that such support is precarious. It is meant to attract men, and a lady who selects such a dress . . . must even be prepared to support the bodice by hand, if necessary."

Mrs. Bonstein had complained that the neckline was so low that she found herself in mental distress and could not take part in the dancing at the wedding reception.

The judge ruled that the dress "left the bust as fully exposed as decency would permit," but added that he could see no grounds for complaint.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

LETTER: . . . please find enclosed recipe for Queen Elizabeth Cake requested. . . . I have not tried it . . thank you for all your help . . . Rosemary B.

ANSWER: I have shortened your letter reluctantly . . . thank you for your pretty compliments and immediate response to my S.O.S.

QUEEN ELIZABETH CAKE

(Courtesy Rosemary)

One-quarter cup butter or shortening, 1 cup white sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 small teaspoon soda (M.M. note: this should be 1 level measuring teaspoon soda), 1 cup finely cut dates, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour 1 cup boiling water over dates and soda. Cool. Add other ingredients. Spread on pan 9½ x 12½ and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Then cover with the following which has been boiled 3 minutes: 5 tablespoons brown sugar, ¼ cup cocoanut or Krumbles, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons cream. Brown in oven.

NOTE: Also in the mail came letters from Muriel M.; Miss Charles J.; June W.; Evelyn G.; D.E.G. giving the recipe for Queen Elizabeth Cake. You are a grand crowd and I appreciate your quick support. Miss Charles J. thinks 1 teaspoon soda is a bit too much. Evelyn G. thinks ¾ cups boiling water makes the cake a little less moist, and that 40 minutes baking at 350 deg. F. is correct. I have enough versions of Q.E. cake to make one whole folder for it now. Thank you all.

QUESTION: Would you be kind enough to send me your recipe for pumpkin pie? I can't begin to tell you what a marvellous column you have . . . I have a whole drawer full of your recipes . . . Margaret McM.

ANSWER: The recipe below will please both of you I hope. It is not highly spiced, but you could add ¼ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg if you want a spicy pie.

PUMPKIN PIE

(Filling for One 10-Inch Plate)

One and one-half cups canned pumpkin, 2/3 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 large or 3 small eggs, 2 cups whole milk. (If you would like a richer pie use 1 cup each milk and cream or top milk). Add spices, sugar and salt to pumpkin. Beat eggs and add milk to them. Stir into pumpkin mixture. Pour into large deep pie plate which has been lined with plain pastry with high fluted edge. Bake at 450 deg. Fah. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fah. for another 35 minutes or until filling is fairly firm at centre.

LETTER: This is in reply to your request for METROPOLITAN CAKE

Two-thirds cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, ½ cup chopped raisins, ¼ cup currants, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 1 teaspoon flavoring. Method: Cream the butter and the sugar well. Add the beaten egg yolks. Sift the flour before measuring, then sift it once more with baking powder. Add the flour alternately with the milk in small amounts. Beat after each addition until batter is smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Fill two 8-inch layer pans with 2/3 of the batter. To the remaining batter add the spices, corn syrup, chopped raisins and currants. Pour into a third layer pan. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Put together with spice layer in centre. Ice with brown sugar icing.—Grace L.

ANSWER: Thanks Grace. You were the only reader who sent me this, so far.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 16, and in love with Roger, who is 17. Perhaps it is just puppy love, but we really do like each other and get along very well. Our problem is that his mother and father are very strict. They won't let him go out with a girl, or even mention such a thing. His parents and my parents are very good friends. I've talked the matter over with my folks and Dad says he'll speak to Roger's father. Do you think that would help matters?

G. N.

AWAIT FATHER'S TALK

ANSWER: There's no fundamental reason why a 17-year-old boy shouldn't have girl friends. I think Roger's parents are being a bit overcautious. Your father's suggestion is a splendid one. By all means encourage it. He needn't come right out and say you and Roger want to date, but he certainly could ascertain the reasons against the boy's friendship with girls. Your Dad might ask if it would be all right for Roger to squire you to a holiday dance, or party, or to see you home from a group gathering.

Parental co-operation, such as being shown you, would help many teensters overcome obstacles that they alone can't hurdle. Parents are often just uncertain of how much freedom their children should have. Sometimes they grant too little, more often they permit too much. Discussions with other parents would help everyone to adopt a moderate course.

DEAR MIS SDIX: My father recently hired a young man of 19, who is conceited and handsome. When I met him I was very casual, but on later encounters I was a little more friendly. Now we've been out twice together, and he tells me he's afraid of letting himself be interested in me. He does a lot of teasing.

TESSA

ANSWER: The boy is carrying on a mild flirtation and you are making the big mistake of becoming serious about him. Can't you learn to be as airy as he is? If you're making your infatuation too apparent, he'll only redouble his efforts to tease you. I'd say he had a few years to go before getting serious about any girl and he's facing the fact with mature judgment. You do likewise.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 61, my husband is 69, and we've been married 40 years. We were very happy until six months ago, when he met a girl of 25, whose reputation isn't too savory. He's been seeing her constantly ever since. Now I'm trying to get a legal separation—I don't want a divorce. I want to protect our property. Am I doing right?

I. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'd say you were acting wisely. Arrange your affairs so that Dad has little money to spend on the girl, and she'll soon give him his walking papers. It's too bad some men can't see what fools they make of themselves when they think they can win the love of a girl young enough to be their granddaughter. Your man isn't the first to be caught like this, but bear in mind that the erring hubby invariably returns to the family hearth.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a single girl of 21, and am not happy at home. My family shows me no affection, won't let me have friends at home, or let me get a job. They say they need me home, but they don't. Is there any place where I can get a job that provides living quarters?

ROSE L.

ANSWER: With the domestic qualifications you listed, you certainly will have no difficulty getting a job. I think it's a good idea, too, since your sisters are imposing on your good nature. Why not try a hospital? Interview the personnel managers at the institutions in your city. They probably would be glad to hire a competent girl.

Crowley; south group Mrs. Vertie Kennedy and north group, Mrs. Hal Argue and Mrs. J. H. McKnight. The Rev. A. M. Butler presided for the election of officers.

Each group in town reported. Allocations at the beginning of the year for the north and south groups were $125 each and for the town group, $250. All exceeded their allocations. The south group raised $199.26. Their leader, Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, reported that they had catered for a wedding, sponsored a play and sold Christmas cards. The north group, whose leaders were Mrs. J. H. McKnight and Mrs. H. Argue, raised $226.30 by holding a rummage sale, sponsoring a play and giving members bags in which to put odd cents.

The town group, whose leader was Mrs. Chester Fisher, raised $453.91 by holding a rummage sale, collecting $2 from each member, catering for a golden wedding, holding afternoon teas, and serving refreshments at an auction sale. All three groups shared in the proceeds of a performance of the operetta.

As well as their separate projects, all three joined together for putting on the bazaar and serving a turkey dinning to the 500 bushel potato club when $545.14 was raised. The total raised for the whole association for the year was $1,420.61.

The association's big undertaking was the laying of a new cement floor in the Sunday school hall, the installation of hot and cold running water and of two washrooms.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds, Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Mrs. H. Argue, Mrs. J. M. McKnight and Mrs. McMillan.

Hamilton Club Wins Trophy After 20 Years

HAMILTON (CP) — Ivan Eastman's Thistle Club quartet Thursday brought the Hamilton club its first Seniors' Trophy in 20 years of seniors bonspiels. Eastman skipped his rink to a 9-5 victory over Peter Gilbert's Chatham rink in the first event final.

The win was the rink's fifth without a loss as the three-day tournament finished.

The Hudson-Ross Trophy, second event prize, went to J. L. Tutton, whose Galt rink disposed of the defending cup holders from Toronto Royal Canadians skipped by R. A. McCowan 10-8.

The rink skipped by Rev. R. T. Young of Brantford took the Doolittle Memorial Trophy. They pulled ahead in the late stages of a close game to defeat W. G. L. Hardie's Hamilton Thistle club rink 12-6.

The Eastman rink swirled into the finals on the strength of a resounding 20-1 semi-final decision over C. E. Fleming of Galt. The Gilbert rink had eliminated H. Lockhart's Sarnia entry 13-4.

Minors In Action In Marmora Rink

MARMORA (ENS)—One midget and two juvenile games provided the bill of fare at Marmora Arena on Wednesday evening. The midget clash was between Norwood and Stirling resulting in a win for the latter team by 5-1. Ingram got the two counters for the winners in the first period, Pohebrickny getting an assist on the first goal, Austin tallied in the second on a pass from Scott. Stirling scorers in the third were Reynolds assisted by Buck and Austin on Kidds pass.

Flinton and Stirling Juveniles furnished the second game and the verdict again went to Stirling the score being 4-1. Palmer for Stirling found the net on McGees pass after six minutes of play. McCrory scored in the second on McGees assist and Anderson got another on Parks assist.

In the third McGee scored unassisted and Lessard beat the Stirling goalie as he received a pass from Hasler.

Havelock and Marmora juveniles wound up the evenings series, the homesters winning by 8-1. Marmora led by one goal at the end of the first, Bedore registering on Darrahs assist. Marmora added three more in the next period. Paranuik scored unassisted and later added another on Mantles assist Bedore got the other goal of the period, putting Rannons pass to good account.

In the third, Havelock spoiled Kouris chances of a shutout as C. Chase tricked the home goalie on a pass from K. McMillan. However the homesters doubled their score adding goals in the following order, Mantle, from Jones and Paranuik; Jones from Paranuik; Jones from Mantle and Paranuik unassisted. Paranuik thus pulled the hat trick for his team.

Belgium Wins Right To Play In Final

Mercurys Trample Niagara 5-3 With Spurt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's open season for the Trappers in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association and Ab Demarco's snares are catching most of the game.

The veteran campaigner bagged three assists as North Bay Trappers trimmed Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 7-2 in North Bay. The night's catch increased Demarco's total to 51 points—almost twice as many as his closest competitor in the scoring race.

The victory also increased the winning streak of North Bay Trappers to four games and left them six points behind first place which is shared by Sudbury Wolves and Sault (Ont.) Greyhounds.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Owen Sound Mercurys rebounded with three goals in the last 10 minutes to defeat the luckless Cataracts 5-3 in Niagara Falls.

HOT LINE

Gosselin, the league's leading goal-getter, climbed up to third in the scoring race by notching three goals. Hogan, who was the fifth leading scorer, scored a goal and collected four assists to take over sole possession of second.

FIGHT FROM BEHIND

The Cataracts, who fought from behind a 2-0 deficit to take a 3-2 lead on Nick Dubick's three-goal effort, fell apart in the last 10 minutes.

Jerry Reid scored his second of the night to tie the game, Bill McComb won it and Buck Forslund wrapped it up. Tommy Burlington, who was in on four of the Owen Sound goals, scored the other for the Mercurys.

Indians are at Sudbury in the NOHA tonight. Windsor Bulldogs play the Sailors in Sarnia, Stratford Indians meet the Maroons in Chatham and the league-leading Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts travel to Hamilton to play the Tigers in the OHA.

RUNNER TO RETIRE

MELBOURNE (AP)—John Landy Australia's great miler, said Thursday he plans to retire from running at the end of the Australian track championships in February.

"Training requires about three hours work each day," the slender, 24-year-old Melbourne veterinarian science student said. "I simply think it is too much."

Landy said he will continue his efforts to break his mark of 4:02.1 with three races before Christmas and several races after the new year leading up to the national event.

He will run the next three Saturdays at Olympic Park here where a year ago he ran the third fastest mile on record, just seven-tenths of a second off Gunder Haegg's world mark.

"No, I am very sorry I won't be running in the 1956 Olympics down here and, as much as I would like to, I won't be able to run in Americe," Landy said. "I have had many nice invitations but I can't do it."

Landy finished his final college examinations this week. He plans to concentrate on running now for the next two months and predicts he may better his 4:02.1 mark, although he talks dubiously of a four-minute mile. Then he plans to pursue a veterinarian career.

MAN VS HORSE JAN. 16

British distance runners will hold the intercounties cross country championships at Epsom that day and one activity will be to time some of the runners to see how fast they can go around a turf race track.

In 1936 the horse Mahmoud set the record for the 1½-mile Epsom Derby course of 2:33.8—or 35.1 miles an hour. The only comparison British runners have thus far to go on is Gordon Pirie's 6:35.8 time for 1½ miles on a regular cinder running track. His average speed was 13.2.

TOM FOOL TOP HORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Fool, winner of 10 straight races and $256,355 for the Greentree Stable this year, was named as the American champion race horse of 1953 by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations.

The selection was made by a board of 18 racing secretaries. Tom Fool gathered 34 of a possible 37 votes, with the other three going to the champion three-year-old colt, Native Dancer. Tom Fool was the unanimous choice in his own division—colts and horses four years and older.

REJECT DRAFT PROPOSAL

ATLANTA (AP) — Baseball's minor leagues have rejected a proposal for unrestricted drafting of first-year players.

The amendment to the major-minor league code was proposed by Frank Lane, Chicago White Sox general manager, on behalf of the Sox Memphis farm.

The vote on the Lane amendment was 18-18 but it required a three-fourths vote of the leagues to be carried.

Another proposal, more revolutionary in scope, that called for unrestricted draft of all players also was turned down. This was proposed by Dallas of the Texas League.

REJECT RICHMOND AGAIN

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—President Frank J. Shaughnessy of the International League Thursday spiked the second attempt by Harry Siebold to give Richmond, Va., an International League ball club.

Siebold had offered to buy the Springfield, Mass., franchise and move it to the Richmond outskirts, just beyond the 10-mile territorial limits of Eddie Mooers' Richmond franchise in the Piedmont.

Siebold made his bid for the Springfield franchise after Mooers had rejected his offer of $225,000 for the class B Piedmont franchise in Richmond.

FINISH B.E.G. TRACK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Construction was completed Thursday on the first of three major building projects for the 1954 British Empire Games here, a $90,000 cycling track.

Built of laminated yellow cedar, the banked track is 250 metres in circumference—6½ laps to the mile—and is 31 feet wide. Seating capacity will be more than 4,000.

Still under construction are a $300,000 swimming pool and a $1,500,000 stadium.

Says Canada Could Take Gold Medal

TORONTO (CP)—Alex Wilson, one of Canada's great middle distance runners of 30 years ago, says luck and a leaf out of the book of United States track teams could put Canada in the gold medal class in the 1956 Olympic Games.

Wilson, a native of Montreal and now track coach at Notre Dame University, said Wednesday there are several good track prospects for the games in Australia provided they keep on the run.

"Our top-flight athletes would be in great shape by 1956 if they stick to their training," he told a forum of Ontario high school coaches.

SOME POSSIBILITIES

He mentioned that athletes such as Rich Ferguson of Toronto and Don McEwen of Ottawa were five years away from their peak at the time of the 1952 games in Helsinki. Both attend the University of Michigan.

Wilson suggested that a team should be organized to tour Europe in the years between Olympics to give athletes something to shoot for and an idea of the kind of competition they will meet.

Also, he suggested that Canada should concentrate on what he described as the "softer" events such as the hurdles.

Lasses' Bowling

S. Beatty had high three of 655 and Dorothy Woods rolled 643, in the YMCA senior girls' bowling circuit this week. D. Woods' 283 was best single, while Mary Flaherty rolled 270, S. Beatty 262, M. Bogue 254, Shirley Heckman 283 and B. Kay 225.

In the Lucky Strike Bowling League, 3-1 wins went to Parsons, Gibbons, Knights and Miles over Callaghan, Butcher, McBride and Reed, as Graham and Dunfield tied 2-2.

Best triples were: J. Steen 618, M. Watson 606, A. Reed 602, I. Miles 585, M. Hollowell 577, H. Powell 570, M. Knights 559, J. Gibbons 551, J. Sedgewick 536, S. Millar 530, D. Clark 524, D. Hanley 515, E. Butcher 510, V. Triggs 510; best singles: I. Miles 276, H. Powell 273 and 210, S. Millar 240, J. Steen 234 and 218, D. Jobe 231, J. Sedgewick 230, M. Watson 230, D. Clark 214, A. Reed 213 twice, M. Knights 210, L. Beavis 208, G. Gibbons 203, V. Triggs 202, D. Hanley 202, N. Graham 201.

Kusserow Half On All-Star Team

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP)—The choice of Lou Kusserow as one of the halves on the first-string line-up and the almost complete domination by the Big Four stand out today as the high spots of the eastern all-star teams.

The number of Big Four players picked on the first and second teams was the greatest since the selectors—football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the senior football cities—began picking the squads for The Canadian Press.

The Big Four captured 23 of the 24 positions and, as has been the case in the last several years, the first team is composed entirely of players from that league.

In contrast to previous seasons the Ontario Rugby Football Union and the Intercollegiate failed to hold their own with the Big Four for berths on the second team. They usually filled at least three or four positions but their showing this season has never been as bad.

COLLEGIANS OUT

The ORFU placed the only non Big Four player on the dream teams and the intercollegiate union failed for the first time to win at least one spot on one of the teams.

The ORFU player who made the grade was Dick Gregory of Toronto Balmy Beach, the league's leading scorer. He was picked as one of the halves on the second-string line-up.

The experts, whose votes were weighted to give equal balloting strength to each city, turned to the Big Four all-star offensive team, with one exception, for the first team.

Joe Scudero, Toronto Argonauts speedy back from the University of San Francisco, got relegated to the second-string squad when the selectors picked Kusserow to replace him. Kusserow played stellar offensive and defensive in the backfield for Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

CLUTCH PLAYER

His inspired performances, especially on offence, reached a peak in the clutch games and he showed the selectors they made no mistake in picking him with a great effort in the Grey Cup game. On the last play he saved Hamilton's Grey Cup win over Winnipeg with a jarring tackle which knocked the ball out of the arms of Tom Casey only two yards from the Tiger-Cats' goalline.

The first team:

The second team:

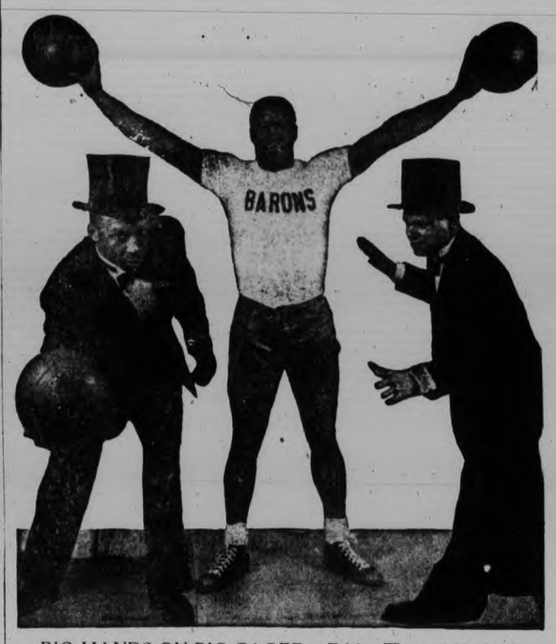
See All-Out War Starting In U.S.-Canadian Football

CALGARY (CP)—Two Calgary sports editors, commenting on the loss of sensational Negro halfback John Henry Johnson of Calgary Stampeders to San Francisco 49ers say it is possibly the opening salvo of an all-out war between American and Canadian professional football.

Signing of Johnson, voted most valuable player in the Western Conference this year and one of the top four candidates for the same all-Canada award, was a reversal of the trend of recent years.

Previously, it was Canadian clubs which irked the U.S. National League interests by picking up choice American professional and college stars.



In some cases there were claims and counter-claims about some of the import stars jumping American contracts. In John's case, only a one-year contract with Stampeders was involved.

RAVE NOTICES

"It was strictly a move to deemphasize Canadian football and it certainly succeeded," said Frank McCool, sports editor of The Albertan. "Johnson's exploits for a cellar-dwelling team drew rave notices from one end of the country to the other."

Said Gord Hunter, sports editor of The Herald: "We have it on good authority that the NFL will hold a secret meeting to formulate more plans aimed at stemming the flow of American talent to Canada."

Hunter said that although Johnson's salary was never made public, it was believed in the neighborhood of $10,500 for 1953 and "it is believed the Calgary club was willing to go as high as $15,000 to bring him back next season." McCool quoted Stampeder manager Bob Robinett as saying: "We offered John Henry a salary exceeding the amount 49ers pay their top halfback Hugh McElhenney."

BIG HANDS ON BIG CAGER—Eddie Thomas, towering centre of the New York Black Barons' basketballers, holds a basketball high out in each hand as easy as most men would grip two softballs. The colored cagers (playing a tricky, exciting brand of the hoop sport along the lines of the famed Harlem Globe Trotters) are presently on an exhibition tour of Canada.

Extend Kitchener Deadline On Greenshirts Decision

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener hockey fans have been given until midnight Saturday to decide whether the Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts will continue in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, OHA president Tory Gregg said Thursday night.

Originally set for Friday, the deadline was extended because the OHA said it was impressed by the campaign in Kitchener to keep the team there.

The club was sold to Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League last Monday because of poor gate receipts even though the team was in third place in the standings. Several of the players have already left for junior teams in Quebec. But Frank Selke, managing director of the Canadiens, said he would allow the Greenshirts to continue operating in Kitchener for $13,000.

PROMISING OUTLOOK

From his Wingham home Gregg said "there's quite a move on foot in Kitchener now. The situation looks much more promising and for that reason we have decided to extend the deadline."

The OHA president said that several prominent citizens have appealed to Selke to reduce the purchase price of the club. Plans are also materializing to hold a mass meeting in Kitchener aimed at convincing 2,000 or more junior hockey fans to purchase season's tickets.

"I wouldn't be surprised if they did it," Gregg said. "Things look much better now but we'll wait until Saturday to see what happens."

out of the bedroom with their loot. They tied his hands with a raincoat belt, tied a towel around his head and mouth, and also bound his feet. Then the trio fled.

The theft may have been planned for several days. Two nights ago a couple of men came to Mr. Williamson's house, where he lives alone, and wanted him to open the door so they could speak to him. He told them to come to the window and talk, but after a whispered conference the men went away.

UNTIED HIMSELF

"I kept working away at the belt and finally got my hands free," said Mr. Williamson. "Then I untied myself."

He put on a pair of pants and walked as quickly as he could to Mrs. White's home nearby. (He is so badly crippled with arthritis that he walks with a cane. This affliction, along with the bruises he received in the kicking, made his movements painful and slow.) He waited patiently while Mrs. White got dressed, then told her his story, and she called the OPP.

The police are handicapped because the flashlight in Mr. Williamson's face blinded him and he was unable to identify any of the three men or give a description of them.

"The men must have known the money was there and that I was going to move this weekend," he said today. "I hope the police catch them."

Big Three Agreed On Desirability Of Russian Talks

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda —(AP)— Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel pondered each other's views of the Soviet aims and actions at their separate suites within the Mid-Ocean club today while rain drizzled down outside. These views, expressed in a frank roundtable discussion that opened the Western Big Three conference Friday night, were reported to be: Churchill—The West must remain strong and alert and not lower its guard, but at the same time internal difficulties in Russia make it urgent that the Western powers seek exploratory talks with the Soviet leaders at every level.

Eisenhower—The tactics of the Kremlin have changed since Stalin's death, but Premier Georgi Malenkov is continuing the basic aim of world conquest. Therefore the West must keep up its guard.

Laniel—Russia now is preoccupied with internal difficulties, especially with efforts to boost farm production. The implication was that Soviet expansionism is less active for the nonce.

Although these positions show show slight divergencies of views between the three powers, it was reported they are basically agreed on two main issues—the necessity for maintaining Western strength, and the desirability of seizing any opportunity for sincere talks with Russia on the great issues.

It was learned the Big Three feel that a rejection of any opportunity to negotiate with the Soviets would be against the interests of the peoples of the free world, who want peace. It was understood, however, that the respective governments are on guard to avoid frustrating talks which could only raise false hopes and deceive wishful millions.

DISCUSS NOTE

The foreign ministers—Georges Bidault, Anthony Eden and John Foster Dulles—met for an hour and 45 minutes this morning to go over their reply to the Soviet note of Nov. 26 proposing four-power talks in Berlin late in January. It was authoritatively reported they are prepared to accept and that a reply will be heading to Moscow as soon as it has been approved by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The foreign ministers' session, results of which were not immediately made known, preceded by six hours the second meeting of their chiefs.

In addition to the Russian note, Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel may consider Far Eastern issues, among which future policies toward Red China, the Korean peace situation and recent Red hints at peace possibilities in Indo-China stand out.

The draft of the reply to Russia's Nov. 26 bid for a conference at Berlin was understood to agree to the idea of a meeting. The question of whether the reply should specify an exact date for the get-together was reported still under discussion.

The draft rejects Russian arguments that the European Defence Community is an aggressive move by the West. The EDC scheme calls for formation of a six-power European army, including German troops. The draft also emphasizes that the aim of the West is to discuss the unification of Germany and an Austrian independence treaty.

Air Crash Kills 21 Passengers, 12 Survivors

An airline company spokesman announced today that 10 of the 12 known survivors, including Paul J. Douglass, 26, a courier for the United States embassy in Paris, have arrived in Madrid and are in hospital. Doctors forbade anyone to talk with the survivors, and the extent of their injuries was not immediately disclosed.

Listed among the survivors is Jose Marie Oriol, prominent Spanish industrialist and developer of the "Caterpillar train." Those in hospital also include the pilot, copilot, mechanic, radio operator and four passengers, all Spaniards.

The Roman Catholic parish priest of the tiny mountain village of Somo Sierra found the wreckage early today. He reported 12 survivors. Those who reached the hospital here had to make their way down through rugged mountainous terrain during the night.

There was no immediate word of the fate of the two British passengers, Charles Barret of Barcelona and Victor Northing.

STRUCK PEAK

The plane, a British-built Bristol operated by the Spanish Commercial Aviation Company on a flight from Bilbao to Madrid, smashed into a rain-shrouded towering peak before the plane was due in the Spanish capital, 60 miles to the south.

The priest told of great difficulties finding the plane in the fog, drizzle and freezing weather and called the crash spot a "Dantesque scene of desolation."

FRANCO RUSHES AID

Gen. Franco, Spanish chief of state, personally directed his ministers of foreign affairs, justice, air and army and the chiefs of his civil and military staffs to the scene to direct rescue operations.

Survivors reported the plane's right engine burst into flame after it struck the mountain. The flames spread, and the plane exploded just after the injured woman was dragged from the wreck.

Hints Change For Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday hinted that the government may be moving away from party appointments to the Senate.

In filling the current 13 vacancies in the upper house, he said, he is looking for a general policy that will strengthen Canada's confidence in the Senate.

Mr. St. Laurent was talking to a delegation from the Dominion joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brotherhoods, whose annual submission to the cabinet asked for labor representation in the Senate.

Mr. St. Laurent, in the first public indication that he and his advisers are thinking of getting away from political appointments, said that filling the vacancies is "giving us occasion for careful consideration."

"We are studying very closely methods of filling the vacancies, and we are trying to determine some general policy that will . . . strengthen the feeling throughout the country that the Senate is a good thing."

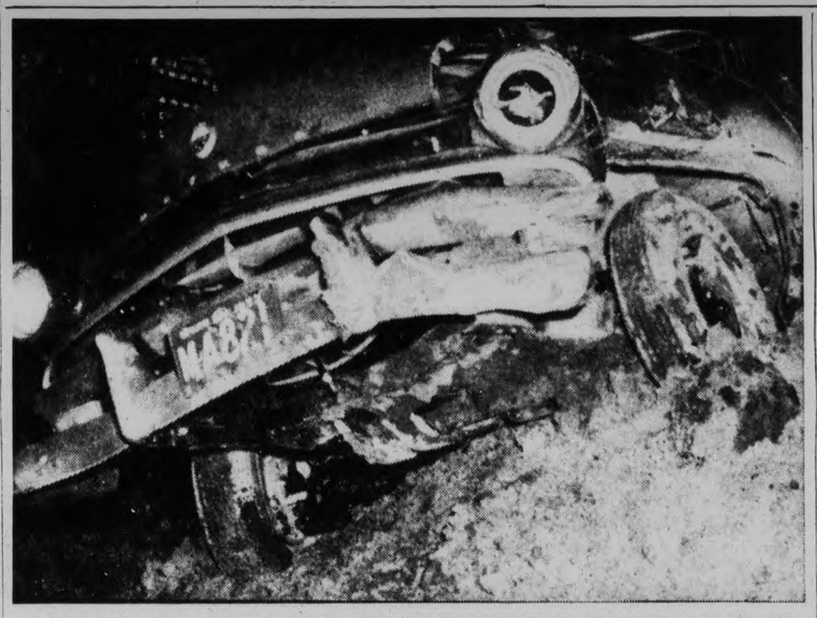
Telegrams Favor McCarthy 2 To 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today it has received 4,346 telegrams in response to Senator Joseph McCarthy's write-the-president appeal. It said they were running a little stronger than two to one in support of the Wisconsin Republican's stand.

Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said that as of 11 a.m. EST the count showed 2,992 were favorable to McCarthy's demand for a crackdown on allies trading with Red China and 1,354 were opposed.

In addition, Snyder said the White House had received approximately 1,500 letters, but there had been no breakdown yet on the letters.

Snyder also reported that Western Union had informed the White House it had a backlog of 3,500 messages yet to deliver at 11 a.m.



Dismiss Application From Lindsay Union

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario labor relations board today announced certification of a union at Smiths Falls, directed a vote at Prescott and dismissed an application from a Lindsay union.

United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) were certified to represent workers at Joseph Sankey and Sons, Canada, Limited at Smiths Falls after a cross check of evidence presented to the board.

The vote was ordered at RCA Victor Co. Ltd., Prescott, to decide on an application by International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) to represent the employees.

The board turned down a similar application by National Union of Public Service Employees at Lindsay hydro-electric system.

CHARGES MAY BE LAID by the OPP after an accident Friday afternoon at Downer's Corners in which two Otonabee residents were injured. Above, is shown the damaged 1953-model car owned by Harold Wells of RR 1, Omemee. Wells was making a left turn out of the "flat road" in Otonabee when he was in collision with an eastbound car driven by Donald J. Manley, 26, of Lang. Manley and a passenger, Mrs. Donald Coltman, 27, of RR 3, Keene, both received knee injuries. Both vehicles ended up on the north shoulder of the road, mired in mud and earth that had been thrown up by workmen digging the trench for the extension to the water main.

Two Occupants Injured In Car Collision

Two Otonabee people were injured late Friday afternoon in a two-car collision on Highway 7, just west of Downer's Corners.

Given outpatient treatment in St. Joseph's Hospital were Donald J. Manley, 26, of Lang, an injured left knee; and Mrs. Donald Coltman, 27, of RR 3, Keene, a cut below the left knee cap requiring several stitches to close, and a bruise on the right side of her head.

The accident occurred at 5:15 p.m. when Manley's eastbound 1936-model car came into collision with a 1953-model car, driven by Harold Wells, 29, RR 1, Omemee, that was making a left turn onto the highway from the "flat road."

The impact knocked both vehicles off the north side of the highway into the mud and soft earth put there by the utilities commission who are tearing up the ground for the water-main extension.

Damage was mainly to the front of both vehicles. Manley's car received $100 damage, and Wells' car, $450 damage.

THROWN FORWARD

Manley and Mrs. Coltman, riding in the front seat of the eastbound car, were thrown forward and injured. Two other passengers—Carl Edwards of Lang, and Harold Emery of RR 3, Keene—were just shaken up.

The four occupants of the 1953 Meteor—Wells and three passengers: Dave MacDonald of Coe Hill, Gerald Campbell of Rose Island, and Arthur Woods of Apsley—were also just momentarily stunned and shaken up.

Wells, who had just bought some lumber from his passenger, Campbell, was returning from the site in Otonabee where he is building a house, when the accident occurred.

OPP Constables Tom Armitage and Ken Barber investigated. Charges may be laid against Wells as a result of the collision.

Defence Commitments Bar Extended Social Security

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, replying to labor demands for extended social security, said Friday Canada "just can't do it" while meeting defence commitments. He said the government plans to continue its "pay-as-you-go" policy, and he indicated the government feels this could not be carried through if it were to grant $1,000,000,000-a-year requests for such things as health insurance.

Requirements for defence including North Atlantic Treaty obligations, the prime minister said, "are about half of all we can raise in taxation in Canada at this present time."

The prime minister's remarks were directed to the joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brotherhoods in reply to its annual legislative submission. Wednesday, he gave somewhat the same reply to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, though in more general terms.

Earlier, meeting the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of labor, he said the government will consider a request for the establishment of a royal commission to investigate the difficulties of the Canadian textile industry.

And for the present he set aside the CCCL's request for a Canadian ambassador to the Vatican, though he said he believes Canada some day will appoint one.

Cold Wave Grips Prairies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Warm air blew into the Maritimes Saturday, boosting temperatures to the low 50s which weather officials said may set records. The prairies, however, were cold with temperatures as much as 28 degrees below freezing.

The warm air on the east coast came from Ontario and parts of Quebec which for the last four days enjoyed similar high temperatures. A high of 55 at Toronto Friday broke the record for Dec. 4 and 52 the day before tied the Dec. 3 record. Ontario and Quebec will continue to enjoy unseasonably high temperatures through Sunday.

Temperatures in the central provinces are still higher than normal today, with 40-45 degree highs expected in southern Ontario.

The Prairies are cold. The high expected at Edmonton was 4 above zero, Regina 13, Calgary 14, and Winnipeg 9. Vancouver, with climate tempered by the Pacific enjoyed a balmier 40.

Gale Force Winds Batter N.Y. State

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Winds of gale force carrying rain and hail lashed western New York state Friday night and early this morning, knocking down trees and causing power failures in some places.

Gusts up to 76 miles an hour were reported by the weather bureau.

Trees were uprooted in several places here and on nearby Grand island, where traffic was reported blocked for a short time. A large display window in a Buffalo store was smashed by the wind.

A brief but violent electrical storm struck nearby Tonawanda, but no damage was reported.

Brief power failures were reported in several centres, and water flowed curb-deep in some streets.

Tell Japan Keep Hands Off

LONDON (AP) — Royal Navy veterans angrily told a Japanese salvage company today to keep hands off the bomb-blased hulk of two British warships sunk by Japanese planes in the Pacific war.

London newspapers reported sailors were shocked by the offer of a Tokyo company to raise and sell for scrap the wrecks of the Repulse and Prince of Wales.

Admiral Sir William Tennant, who commanded the Repulse when it went down off Malaya in 1941, told reporters:

"The Repulse is the grave of 440 officers and men—magnificent officers and men—of the ship's company, and I would like her to stay where she is."

Ex-Cuban President Freed Under Bond

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba's former president, Carlos Prio Socarras, and his interior minister were free today under heavy bonds on a charge of conspiring to export arms and implements of war from the United States without a licence.

"The implication is quite clear that these munitions were to be used for a revolution in Cuba," said United States district attorney James L. Guilmartin.

Prio was released under $50,000 bond and Curti on $25,000 bond.

Three Thugs Loot Beer Store

2 of Staff, Customer Slugged With Gun Butt

MORISBURG (CP)— Three tough-talking bandits looted the Morrisburg beer store of Friday's receipts after slugging two staff members and a customer over the head with a gun butt.

Police said the thieves took about $600, including $263 from the wallet of manager William Prime, 35, former mayor of Carleton Place, and $110 from that of clerk Ted Smith, 45.

After leaving the main street store in the east end of this St. Lawrence river town 28 miles west of Cornwall, they apparently made a clean getaway.

Prime said the men entered Friday night while he and Smith and Smith's 53-year-old brother, Gordon, the store cashier, were preparing to lock up for the day. One went over to the desk as if to make out an order slip.

Another, wearing a dark ski cap and a short leather jacket, walked over to talk to Prime.

NO JOKE

"The man who came up to me had a gun," Prime said later. "He said, 'This is a holdup, lads.' I looked at Gord and we both laughed. We thought it was a joke but it definitely wasn't."

At gunpoint, the three members of the staff were hustled into an adjoining storage room and ordered to lie face down on the floor. One of the bandits stood guard over them, one stayed in the lobby and the third rifled the cash drawer. Before they left, the robbers ripped the telephone wires from the wall.

Harry Tindall, 30, entered to buy some beer and through an open door saw the three employees on the floor. Just as he caught sight of them, one of the gunmen told him:

"Okay—you, too."

With a gun trained on him, Tindall joined the others on the floor.

"Don't move or you just have five minutes to live," one of the holdup men warned him.

"I didn't move," Tindall said later. "I thought they were going to shoot us all."

The bandits then slugged the Smiths and Tindall with a gun butt, knocking the Smiths unconscious and leaving them lying in a pool of blood.

Police said they believe the trio escaped in a waiting car. All the robbers were of medium build and between 20 and 30 years old. Two wore ski caps and the third a beret.

Russian Liner 'Sabotaged'

BERLIN (AP) — The West Berlin Free Jurists Committee reported today that an ocean liner scheduled to join the Russian merchant fleet in two weeks has been sabotaged in an East German Baltic port and is in danger of sinking.

The 21,000-ton ship, sunk in the Second World War and raised by the Russians, is said to be caught on a shoal in the Warnemuende harbor and listing badly.

The Free Jurists, an anti-Communist underground group, said it had learned that the ship, now named the Sovietski Soyus, was due to be placed in Russian service on Dec. 21, Stalin's birthday.

The committee said anti-Soviet workmen cut the steel cables holding the big ship in its anchored port and also opened the flood calves "several days ago."

Charge Flagrant Disregard of Law For 7-Year Period

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario municipal board ruled today that the nearby town of Oakville has borrowed $458,000 illegally during the last seven years. Board chairman Lorne Cummings said: "I have never seen such flagrant disregard for the laws of the province of Ontario." The board rejected Oakville's application for approval of a debenture issue to pay back money borrowed from banks for local improvements. Mr. Cummings said the town council did not ask for approval of the municipal board on the improvements.

He said the board would not authorize debentures to pay the loans now even if Oakville held a referendum.

"Somebody stands to lose," he said.

REEVE "ASTOUNDED"

Oakville will hold municipal elections Monday. Reeve Lachlan McArthur has been elected mayor by acclamation to succeed James Black in 1954.

Reeve McArthur said he was "astounded" when he looked into the figures when he became reeve.

"I told Jim (Black) that we might face a public inquiry. He shrugged it off and said there was nothing to worry about."

Mayor Black declined to comment.

Mr. Cummings said hundreds of Oakville taxpayers benefitted from local improvements built with the money borrowed since 1946 but they cannot be charged now for past years. Some had paid no taxes for the improvements.

Racial Quarrel Fizzles Out

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP) — Bermuda's racial quarrel over the Queen's visit last week appeared to have fizzled out today and both whites and coloreds said they thought time would solve the issue.

After a stormy 2½-hour session in the Assembly Friday night, Dr. E. F. Gordon, a colored member, withdrew his motion of censure against the governor and the executive council for their failure to invite any of the colored population to the dinner honoring the Queen.

Gordon warned the House, however, that white slights of colored was the sort of thing which had strengthened communism in such areas as southeast Asia, east Africa and the Middle East.

Friday night two Negro statesmen attended a formal banquet given by Governor Sir Alexander Hood in honor of Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower, French Premier Laniel and their foreign ministers.

French Forces Take Fortified Village

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—The French high command announced today that French forces have captured the fortified Indo-Chinese village of Muong Khoua, 82 miles north of the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang.

The announcement said heavy losses had been inflicted on the Communist-led Vietminh troops, who took the village in the valley of the Nam Pak river last April.

The communique said 50 bodies had been left on the battleground by the Vietminh and that many others had been wounded. The village garrison, after fighting free, started a retreat toward the north along the mountain paths, where French planes continued the attack.

Italy, Yugoslavia To 'Normalize' Their Frontier

ROME—(AP)—Italy and Yugoslavia today agreed to take immediate steps to "normalize" conditions along their frontier.

Both countries had reinforced border troops during recent tension over the disputed Trieste free territory.

It was the first positive step taken by the two countries toward solution of the thorny Trieste issues.

TROOP WITHDRAWAL SEEN

The communique said Pella and the Yugoslav minister had considered possibilities of returning conditions along the Italian-Yugoslav frontier to normal.

During their conference both governments agreed it is opportune to proceed immediately upon simultaneous action which will be completed "within a short period."

Presumably this would involve withdrawal of some troops from the frontier. Both countries have separately suggested this.

Premier Pella said shipment of strategic materials to Yugoslavia, blocked since tension between the two countries mounted, will again be permitted.

Four Injured At Welcome

COBOURG (CP)—Four persons, including two Ottawa football players, suffered minor injuries Friday in a two-car collision on a crest of a hill near Welcome.

Ed Yablonski of the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four union and Pete Karpuk, who started the season with the Riders before being fired, were riding in one car. They suffered facial lacerations.

More seriously injured was the driver of an eastbound car, William Fraser of Brownley, Alberta, who sustained a broken hip. His wife received a broken nose and broken wrist. They are in Port Hope Hospital. Provincial Constables Frank Clough and Lyle Erskine of Cobourg investigated.

High Winds Put Shed On Top Of Big Barn

Farmer Keith Bush in Sydney township 10 miles northeast of here estimated thousands of dollars damage to his property in gales that lashed this area during the night. The 20-by-30-foot shed landed on the sloping barn roof, then was blown off and smashed in pieces.

Delight or Nightmare

Europe's Freakish Weather Driving Tourists Crazy

LONDON (AP) — Western Europe's most freakish winter in years developed today into a tourists' delight—or nightmare.

It all depended on which direction they were travelling whether to take along a bating suit, raincoat, fog mask—or chains for their cars.

Britain brought the widest variety—Indian summer in southern England, drizzle and fog in the north, and below-freezing temperatures and icy roads in Scotland.

Dutchmen were swimming in the North sea in water as warm as on a summer day. Parisians sojourned in sidewalk cafes without topcoats. Strawberries were blooming in Belgium.

FOG IN SCOTLAND

Gale warnings were sounded for areas off the northwest coast of Scotland. Inland, a thick blanket of fog paralyzed much of west Scotland with traffic at a standstill on the Clyde, and train, bus and air schedules disrupted.

From the south-coast resort of Brighton came a report the temperature reached 82 degrees Fahrenheit in the sun at noon.

The weather bureau attributed the unusually mild weather to air masses moving from the Sahara. Winter sports resorts on the continent have been hard hit.

Canadians Shoved Aside

U.S. Writers Favored At Garrison Ball

OTTAWA (CP)—Socially prominent Ottawans turned out in force Friday night for the Garrison Ball, a main social event of the capital's winter season. Life was there, too, and that had repercussions.

The New York magazine months ago was granted permission by the ball committee to take pictures exclusively up to 10:30 p.m., on the dance floor. Until that time, photographers for other media, including the capital's newspapers, were restricted to the ballroom balcony.

Two papers, The Citizen and Journal, decided not to take pictures and announced that they will publish only the names of the 10 debutantes presented to Governor-General Massey, guest of honor at the lavish affair, put on annually by the officers of non-permanent militia in the Ottawa garrison. About 500 other guests attended.

Life photographers recorded the event in color film for a special "Life goes to a ball" feature to appear in a forthcoming issue of the magazine.

In previous years, photographers for the Ottawa papers were free to mingle with the dancers, snapping pictures immediately the ball started.

NOT INCLUDED

Original plans did not allow for any photographers from Canadian publications to take pictures anywhere. They would be free, however, to take what shots they could arrange after the ball was over.

When objection was raised the ball committee relented to the extent of permitting Canadian photographers to use the balcony. None, however, would be allowed on the floor.

Said Brig. M. B. K. Gordon today: "If you allow one newspaper in, you have to allow them all. We just could not do it."

(Ottawa has three newspapers —Journal, Citizen, Le Droit.)

Brig. Gordon continued: "This thing has got to be dignified. It's not a football game."

Now Waiting Answer By Gouzenko

Pearson Has Delayed Departure To Paris Till Decision Made

OTTAWA (CP)—Will he or won't he? That's the short form of the question: Will Igor Gouzenko agree to a secret meeting in Canada with representatives of the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee?

As far as is known, Gouzenko isn't saying.

He was quoted Friday by the Toronto Telegram in these words: "I will give it careful consideration and announce my decision in a day or so."

Friday night, there was some speculation here that Gouzenko has agreed to a meeting with U.S. spy investigators. This arose from the fact that two high-ranking RCMP officers met with Justice Minister Garson for 2½ hours.

But Mr. Garson declined to say whether arrangements for a meeting between Gouzenko and the sub-committee were discussed. To a question whether Gouzenko had agreed to a meeting, the minister said he had no comment.

Government sources said major week-end developments in the case were unlikely.

ROUTINE REPLY

The Canadian government probably merely will inform the U.S. State department it has received its Thursday note and that it is asking Gouzenko if he wants to be questioned by Senator William Jenner and Robert Morris, chairman and counsel, respectively, of the sub-committee.

The Thursday note, received here Friday, said Jenner agrees to Canada's conditions for a meeting with Gouzenko, one of them being Gouzenko's willingness.

External Affairs Minister Pearson postponed his scheduled departure Friday for the North Atlantic alliance conference in Paris, presumably to iron out the final U.S.-Canada exchanges in the Gouzenko case.

Mr. Pearson has rescheduled his departure for Tuesday, giving him an opportunity Monday to make a statement or reply to any questions on the Gouzenko case in the Commons.

Foil Manoeuvre Of 40 Red PoWs

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied explainers today whipped an apparent manoeuvre by 40 pro-Red war prisoners to disrupt the United Nations command's interview timetable, but failed for the fourth straight day to win back one of the converts to communism.

South Korean Army officers blocked the slowdown tactics by fellow countrymen who refused to return home, and talked with 40 prisoners before the 4:30 p.m. deadline. But their score remained zero with 130 South Koreans interviewed. Another 198 remain to be called.

The Allies probably will start meeting with the 22 reluctant Americans and one British captive in eight or nine days.

Today's defiant Korean prisoners demanded longer explanations and refused to leave interview tents when South Korean officers ended attempts to woo them home.

The explainers solved the attempted slowdown by simply walking out of the tents and moving on to talk with other prisoners.

Coughlin Breaks Long Public Silence

DETROIT (CP)—The Rev. C. E. Coughlin, the Hamilton-born "radio priest of Royal Oak" in the 1930s, broke a long public silence Friday to advocate a guaranteed annual wage and tax exemptions for production-line workers.

Oddly, Father Coughlin's plea for a guaranteed annual wage parallels a major goal of the United Auto Workers (CIO). It was for bitter radio attacks on the UAW that Roman Catholic superiors silenced him as a public speaker in 1939.

23 Flee Red Zone

BERLIN (AP) — Twenty-three East German Communist policemen, including three officers, fled to West Berlin Friday to seek political asylum, western authorities announced today. Their arrival brings to 63 the number of fugitives from the Soviet zone arriving in West Berlin during the first four days of this month.

Fireman Set Fire

MAUBEUGE, France (Reuters) Police said a $14,300 farm fire near here was set by fireman recruit Oscar Rossignol because he "longed to fight his first fire." But Rossignol never did battle with the flames. He was sent back to the station because he had forgotten his helmet. Now he's charged with arson.

OUCH—THAT HURTS! — Sympathy is more than skin deep here as two-year-old Marilyn Wilkins closes her eyes to bear the pain for her pet Cocker pup Tiffin as he gets an anti-rabies inoculation. Tiffin, one of the hundreds of dogs to receive the inoculation during the current San Diego, Calif., preventative campaign, doesn't seem to mind the pain half as much as his young mistress.

Watkins Re-Elected To OMHA Executive

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Minor Hockey Association at its annual meeting today re-elected president O. M. Weichel of Elmira, Ont., and the entire executive by acclamation for another year of service.

Re-elected besides President Weichel were first vice-oresident Fred Norman, Simcoe, second vice-president Bert Hick, Lindsay; third vice-president Jack Oakes, Strathroy, secretary J. L. Chrsitie, Toronto, and treasurer Dr. Leon Hipwell, Toronto.

Re-elected to the executive committee were J. E. C. Austin, Stouffville; Frank Cudmore, Wallaceburg; Frank Doherty, Thorold; Ted Elmes, Galt; Doug Patterson, Stirling; G. V. Simmons, Gravenhurst and Albert Watkins, Peterborough.

Contractor Remanded On Fraud Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Harry J. Girdler, 50, a Toronto electrical contractor, today was remanded for two weeks on eight charges of defrauding the Ontario hydro commission of a total of $3,275.

Police said the money was paid for conversion of electrical equipment that never existed. They said investigation into other accounts for similar work is continuing.

Police said items were added to a list of equipment in some houses and the owner's name forged to the list.

Blazing Phantom Ship Sails Off Nova Scotia

CAPE JOHN, N.S. (CP) — The phantom ship of the Northumberland strait is sailing the seas again, her slender masts spouting fire and ablaze from stem to stern.

The old three-master has been reported sighted from this village twice within a week.

Mrs. Aldon Langille looked out her window one night when the strait between the mainland and Prince Edward Island was windscuffed and choppy.

She said she saw the phantom ship, gliding up the strait, fire streaking from her rigging and hull. Her neighbors watched the ship for an hour.

ALL RESIDENTS WATCH

Two days later, just after supper, nearly all the residents watched the blazing vessel that has been sighted as long as dwellers along this coast can remember.

"It has to be seen to be believed" the villagers claim.

There is a difference of opinion as to the identity of the ship. Some people say it is the phantom of a pleasure ship that was destroyed by fire during a drinking bout many years ago.

Others will tell you that it is a Scottish immigrant ship that set sail for Nova Scotia in the 18th century and became lost at sea.

SOME SCOFF

And, of course, some people say it's an optical illusion. Or that it's caused by gases breaking through the water from the submarine coal fields.

Once, many years ago, several sea captains from the nearby town of Pictou set sail to investigate the weird spectacle. When they neared, she vanished.

Flaming ships are not uncommon in the Maritimes. In New Brunswick residents will tell you about the ghost ship that sails the Bay of Chaleur.

Mariners say that the appearance of a phantom ship usually precedes a severe easterly storm.

The weather office, however, predicts improving weather.

Mexican Radio Station Tells Orillia To Get Off Air

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ontario radio station operator Friday told the CBC board of governors that he has received a letter from a Mexican radio station telling him to get off the air.

G. E. Smith of radio station CFOR Orillia read the letter to the board during hearing of an application to increase his daytime power to 5,000 watts from 1,000 watts at 1570 on the dial.

He said he read the letter so the board would know why he plans to ask later for a nighttime power increase to 5,000 watts to offset interference from radio station XERF, Villa Acuna, Mexico which also occupies 1570 on the dial.

Mr. Smith said the letter came from the Inter American Advertising Agency in Del Rio, Tex., which he described as the station owners although the letter said the agency was sales representative of station XERF.

A copy of the letter said the advice of the writer, R. D. Bosquez of Inter American "is that it would be to a great advantage for radio station CFOR to move off the frequency of 1570 kilocycles since this channel is assigned to Mexico by the Havana international treaty as a class A channel and Canada has no business assigning any station on this frequency without violating the terms of the international treaty."

"I repeat my advice and am asking you to please convey this to the owners of radio station CFOR that it will be for their best interest to move because as you stated in your letter the interference caused by XERF to them is tremendous."

Mr. Smith said he has checked with the transport department and has been told that the XERF owners are "under a misapprehension" that the channel belongs to Mexico under the Havana agreement.

Mr. Smith urged the board to recommend an increase in his daytime power now so he could better serve Parry Sound and Huntsville. His station's signal was being interfered with by a radio station in Grand Rapids, Mich., and he was losing listeners and revenue.

The board reserved decision on this application and several others concerning radio. They included one by G. C. Nicholls of station CHLO St. Thomas to transfer control of the station to Ernest M. Warwick of Blenheim.

J. W. York of Ottawa appeared on behalf of radio station CKWS Kingston, CHEX Peterborough, CJKL Kirkland Lake, CFCH North Bay and CKGB Timmins which seek to change the name of the licence-holding company without affecting control of the company.

Finds Answers To President Deluge Paper

TOLEDO, O. —(AP) —After a frantic seven-hour deluge of telephone calls, the Toledo Blade cut off its switchboard at midnight and sent home 40 exhausted men and women who had been trying to keep up with the overwhelming response to a "phone your letter" suggestion made on the front page of Friday's Blade.

More than 10,000 persons esponded to the uggestion that "since Senator McCarthy did not ask those who agree with the president to write, The Blade will make that request."

The offer came in response to the suggestion the Wisconsin Republican made Thursday that Americans critical of some phases of the administration's foreign policy should write the president.

INVITED 'PHONE CALLS

The paper asked readers to telephone if they wished their names signed to the following letter:

"Dear Mr. President: We supported you before and we do now. We still like Ike."

In keeping with its independent position in politics, The Blade offered to forward also any messages approving Senator McCarthy's stand. The final score at midnight was 9,870 signatures for Eisenhower, 324 for McCarthy, for a total of 10,194.

Few Brave Chill To Go To Market

Sellers outnumbered customers at today's market. Brisk winds following the unseasonal thunder storm Friday night kept the usual Saturday morning crowd to a minimum.

Christmas trees made their first appearance. There were two lots of trees for sale, at the average price of $1 apiece. Sales were not too high, but undoubtedly the warm weather experienced during the week, has slowed up the Christmas spirit. Things should take on a different note by next Saturday.

Prices and produce remained about the same as the last few weeks. Egg prices were up slightly with Grade A extra large selling as high as 60 cents a dozen. The prices ranged down to 45 cents for mediums.

In the poultry bracket, chickens were selling at 48 cents a pound, ducks at 50 cents, geese at 55 cents and turkeys at 60 cents a pound.

Apples were just a plentiful as ever. Bushel baskets of Spies and MacIntosh Reds were selling at $3.50 to $3.75, Snows and Talman Sweets at $2.75 and Delicious at $3.25.

Potatoes were 30 cents a basket and from $1.25 to $1.40 a bag. Bushels of parsnips and carrots were selling at $1.50. Baskets of Spanish onions were 50 cents each.

Port Perry Juniors Share Group Lead

LINDSAY (ENS) — Port Perry Flyers advanced to a first place tie with Lindsay juniors by turning back the Lindsayites for the second straight time, 7-1, at Port Perry Friday night.

The Flyers moved into a 5-0 lead in the first period, scored two more in the second, but were shut out 1-0 in the third.

Romanuk led the Flyers with three goals. Singletons went to O'Connor, Copeland, Myles and Attersley. Goalie Ross Howe of the winners turned in a great game as the Lindsayites had chances throughout, only to be turned back when they reached his crease.

A sidelight on the accident: The boundary between the city and Otonabee township runs down the centre of the highway at that point. The north side is in the city and the south side is in the township. As the point of impact was beleived to be on the south side, OPP Constables Armitage and Barber did the necessary police work. Watching their work with a professional eye—and helping to direct traffic—was City Constable William G. Scott, who would have been in charge had the accident been just a few inches to the north.

Executive Does Big Business Using Telephone In Car

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A man telephoned the offices of one of the Rockefeller brothers not long ago and told a secretary, "This is William Zeckendorf. May I speak to Mr. Rockefeller?"

"I'm sorry, Mr. Zeckendorf," the secretary said. "Mr. Rockefeller is out. May he call you back?"

"No, he can't!" said Zeckendorf. "I'm in my car and about to board a plane."

Doing business on the phone while speeding from here to there could be called eccentricity in some men. But Zeckendorf, president of the real estate firm of Webb and Knapp, explains it simply. "Time," he says "is the greatest asset I have."

By thrifty use of time, Zeckendorf in 11 years has raised Webb and Knapp from a local firm $127,000 in the red to a country-wide real estate empire with 42,000 stockholders and an estimated net liquidating value of $60,000,000.

BYPASSES SECRETARIES

Like his ideas, Zeckendorf is big. At 48 he stands six feet and weighs 250. The telephone is to Zeckendorf what the brush is to the painter. By-passing his secretaries, he places and takes most of his own calls, flipping from outlet to outlet like a television addict.

In a recent 45-day span Webb and Knapp made headlines thus:

Acquired the Chrysler building, the Chrysler building annex and the Graybar building for more than $52,000,000.

Disclosed plans to build the world's largest office building over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks here for about $100,000,000.

Bought a big department store on 34th street and leased it to another department store.

Announced a $35,000,000 shopping centre at Roosevelt field on Long island.

Born in Paris, Ill., a third-generation American of German background, he grew up in New York. In 1938 he joined Webb and Knapp, a firm of four partners founded in 1922.

By 1947 he was president of the firm. In 1949 he bought out his partners for $6,000,000.

Polite Bandit Robs Bank In $400 Holdup

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—A polite man robbed the branch of the Bank of Montreal here of between $400 and $500 Friday, and escaped with an accomplice in a black automobile.

Police said the six-foot holdup man stepped aside to allow a woman customer to precede him as he moved to the cashier's wicket shortly before closing time.

He handed cashier Jeannette McInnis a note saying she had "10 minutes to turn over all the money."

When the girl hesitated, he told her "For God's sake, hurry up."

He said he had a gun in his pocket. Miss McInnis said one of the pockets of his trench coat bulged.

She handed him a handful of $10 bills. As he turned to leave, the girl pressed her foot on the alarm button. Police came within four minutes but by that time the bandit had disappeared.

Miss McInnis described the man as between 25 and 30, "clean-cut, good-looking, smooth talking." About a dozen persons were in the bank when he entered.

Queen Victoria's Cousin Founded German City Now Texas Vacation Spot

New Braunfels, a pleasant oasis, founded by Queen Victoria's cousin between San Antonio and Austin, is "Germany in Texas". Though it is on the Pan American Highway, the vistior should watch for the right intersection just across the Guadalupe River. The town is serene and uncluttered; rich in history; unique in vacation opportunities.

It lies between the coastal plains and the Edwards plateau in south central Texas. A shift in the earth's surface some millions of years ago caused a portion of the plateau or tableland to slip down and resulted in the Hill Country seen northwest of the highway.

One of New Braunfels' greatest claims to fame is that of having the shortest large river in the world. The Comal River is 3 miles long and all within the city limits. It has its source in the Comal Springs with its 300,000,000 gallons of pure water daily—no mean distinction in this arid country. The river flows through Landa Park, supplies power for mills and was the reason for the city's founding to begin with.

The city was founded in 1845 by German immigrants under the leadership of Prince Carl of Solms-Braunfels. The Prince was one of a group of German noblemen under whose patronage the Association for the protection of German immigrants in Texas (the Aldesverein) was formed. It was a time of political stress in Germany.

SPRINGS CAUGHT FANCY

The Society sent Prince Carl to Texas to negotiate for land grants. Families were recruited and sent to Galveston, the first contingent arriving in 1844. Unsettled conditions in the New Republic and the looming war between the United States and Mexico over the annexation of Texas, upset Solms' plan for moving the pioneers to these grants.

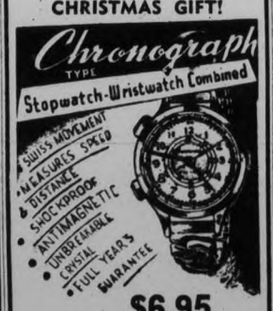
He heard of Comal Springs, called Los Fontanas, and went there ahead of the immigrants. He was so impressed with the beauty of the place, 30 miles from San Antonio, that he purchased the land for $1,111—$500 down. On March 21, 1845, the pioneers crossed the Guadalupe and New Braunfels was founded. Within 10 years a paper, schools, churches and cultural societies were flourishing.

Today there are three hotels, several summer camps and a number of motels. The prices begin at about $2.50 single and got up to $15 for kitchenette suites sleeping four. Cafes are in the moderately priced ranged, full meals starting about $1.35 and plates of fried chicken or barbecue at $1.

ENJOY GUEST RANCH

Going from Landa Park on Route 46, a 15-minute drive into the Hill Country will solve the problem of how to see ranch life and still give you a maximum time to enjoy your holiday. This drive takes you past a real German Biergarten, which serves sausage made from the original recipe enjoyed by Prince Solms, out to a guest ranch which has horses, a swimming pool, a meal for about $2 and lodges.

Five minutes from the centre of town is Landa Park where there is swimming, fishing, boating, dancing, a fully equipped playground for children and a golf course. The swimming pool is spring fed and part of the Comal River.



UNIQUE PARK

This park, unique for Texas, was originally a portion of the estate belonging to Harry Landa. Picnickers from San Antonio would come to Landa's Pastures, as it was known, to cool off beside ancient cyprus trees. Landa eventually sold it to the city and it became a park.

Known as the Beauty Spot of Texas, New Braunfels retains a distinct old-world charm, despite its industrial and commercial development. The city nestles at the brink of the Balcones Faultline from which in undulating rolling hills of unmatched grandeur the Edwards Plateau stretches westward. From the faultline promontory which rises 200 feet above the city gush the crystal clear Comal Springs.

Watered by the stream, huge moss-draped trees, centuries old, stand along the Comal's banks and shrubs and flowers make it a garden of exquisite beauty. There is a tranquil atmosphere there that mixed with the friendliness and charm of the Texas people, make it a visit to remember.

Officers Face Costly Uniforms

OTTAWA (CP)—Army officers soon may be required to spend upwards of $150 to bring their full dress uniforms to specifications. In the case of a lieutenant, that amounts to eight months worth of the pay increase he received last month.

If a new provisional full dress order is approved, said an army spokesman, officers from 2nd lieutenant to lieutenant-general must buy:

It was learned that army ranks are fast taking sides on the issue—those in favor and those opposed.

Asked how much the additional equipment, for use with the regular "dress blues," would cost, the spokesman said "at least $150."

Guard Falls Asleep Gets 14-Day Detention

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (CP)—A Bermuda militiaman has been given 14 days' detention for falling asleep while on perimeter guard duty at the Mid-Ocean Club, site of the three-power conference, it was announced Friday.

He was found Wednesday night sleeping at his post on rocks near the bench by the guard commander several hours after the arrival of Sir Winston Churchill.

Lt.-Col. J. C. Astwood, commander of local forces, said the offence normally would have called for court-martial and the sentry could have received up to two years' detention. In view of the man's good record he was given only a 14-day detention.

Three Truck Drivers Sentenced To Jail

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Three Windsor truck drivers, convicted by a jury of damaging a trucking company vehicle during last summer's truck strike, Friday were sentenced to jail terms.

Edward Thibeault and Edmund Craig, described by Crown Attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald as the ringleaders of a group of strikers who overturned a parked truck, were each sentenced to two months in the county jail. The third man, Clayton Meyers, was sentenced to one month.

Defence Counsel L. A. Deziel said the case will be appealed.

Safe Margin

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The town budget for 1953 estimated parking revenues from meters at $14,200. The November intake of $1,481 brought revenues for 11 months to $15,311.

Request Commission Investigate Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor Friday called on the federal government to set up a royal commission to examine the textile industry.

In a brief prepared for presentation to the cabinet the CCCL said textile workers have been working short-time for months and there have been mass layoffs in many plants during the last few weeks.

The group, whose 100,000 membership is largely in Quebec, asked establishment of a commission to investigate employer claims that foreign competition is to blame.

Newlyweds Honored

CENTREVILLE (ENS)—A large number of friends gathered in Centreville hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. McMahon, who were recently married. Progressive euchre was played.

A studio couch was presented by Ken Dawson from the community. Henry Jewison read the address. A lamp was presented from the LOL by Russell Kidd, with Alf. Nelson reading the address.

All Right Then, DON'T Vote

We have grown tired of urging people to use their vote, every time a Dominion, provincial or municipal election comes along. We have come to doubt the validity of the usual advice 'Vote as you please, but vote!' We do not think that the votes of people who have to be goaded or coaxed to the polls are worth having, and we feel that as a general thing it would be better if people who have no real interest in voting stayed at home. If they are politically and democratically dead, why try to galvanize their corpses into a semblance of action on election day? Let them stay at home and keep out of the way of those who know what elections are all about, and how a vote should be used.

* * *

Our advice to our readers concerning the municipal elections on Monday, therefore, is this: if you are not really interested in the outcome, if you do not care how Peterborough is managed, and if you are content to be the toy of fate and the creature of citizens with more initiative and brains than yourselves, stay away from the polls. You are a mere hanger-on of municipal life, and your opinion does not matter. If, on the other hand, you care about what happens in this city, and want to see your tax-money intelligently and savingly used, vote as wisely and thoughtfully as you can.

A Million Dollars To Advertise Canada

The Federal-Provincial Tourist Conference asked Ottawa for more money to stimulate tourists to come to Canada. The Minister and his Deputy said that there could be no increase next year in the Dominion Tourist Bureau's appropriations. This amounts to $1,528,450 for the fiscal year 1953-54. Two-thirds of this goes for advertising and other publicity—a little more than a million dollars. It is a lot of money.

The reason given for not increasing the money available to the Tourist Bureau was that defence expenditures next year "will not allow much leeway for additional expansion" of the tourist-baiting service. This, it seems to us, is tantamount to saying that the present use made of the money is not good enough, since, in the implied opinion of these gentlemen, to spend more money would be a drain on the national exchequer away from defence requirements.

Every crowing cock knows that it pays to advertise. If it does not pay it is not good advertising. So Canada's advertising of herself ought to be a paying proposition. Admittedly the profit-and-loss account of national advertising for tourists cannot be estimated as definitely as can the effects of the advertising crow of a rooster; you cannot count the tourist eggs. On the other hand, we cannot withhold a suspicion that Canada's tourist advertising is not good enough. We have noticed some of the advertisements which the Dominion Tourist Bureau inserts in expensive American magazines—costly for advertising space. We refer, for example, to advertisements in the sophisticated New Yorker. The Canadian advertisements have looked as dowdy, cluttered and old-hat as a Victorian-Canadian wardrobe. Perhaps it is not a bad idea to give sophisticated Americans the notion that Canadians are a bit stuffy, quiet and backward; the New Yorkers might be attracted to Canada by such qualities. But they will not be won here by a stuffy advertisement; it has to be done smartly, intelligently, subtly.

Another fault with some of the Canadian advertisements in American magazines is that they try to say too much about too many parts of the country. This fault has also marred some British advertisements in the States, where England, Ulster, Wales and Scotland are each advertised at once. In this business, regional jealousies at home should be ignored. Let us face it: Quebec has more attractive tourist areas than Alberta; B.C. more than N.B.; Ontario more than Saskatchewan. Why advertise what will not sell, what you cannot even give away? And why advertise points three thousand miles away from each other in the same lay-out? Let the railways and T.C.A. do that.

What the Dominion Travel Bureau seems to need is not more money but better advertising campaigns. If the Bureau requires instruction in this highly-skilled and competitive field, let it take some hints from experts, like its Italian and French counterparts.

Honest, Upright And Holy Ontario

We have no figures on the matter later than those of 1950, but since there has been no improvement in the manners and morals of this Province since then, the following 1950 figures are valid.

Ontario then had 30 percent. of the total population of Canada.

In that same year Ontario had 40.8 percent. of the total of indictable convictions in Canada.

In 1950 Ontario had 52.1 percent. of non-indictable convictions in Canada.

In the same year Ontario had 51.9 percent. of the sum total of convictions in Canada.

That is the record—with less than a third of the total population of the country, the Province had more than half the total of law breakers who were brought to court and found guilty.

It may be argued that the record is not as black as it appears. In comparison with other provinces, some people might say, the police in Ontario are better at catching law-breakers and the courts sterner in judgement on them. Whatever truth there may be in this it does not hide the recorded fact that 630,383 persons in Ontario were law-breakers in 1950. Most of them were guilty of offences against traffic regulations, it is true, but 33,797 were guilty of illegal intoxication, other tens of thousands committed other non-indictable offences, and 12,818 were guilty of crimes.

And yet we call this Province "good".

3-D In Your Magazine

Comic books are now being published in what is called 3-D—third dimension, the dimension of depth. You buy the pulp and with it a pair of paper spectacles with cellophane windows, through which the old-fashioned but newly popularized third-dimensional illusion is supposed to kick you in the eye.

The fad is also entering picture magazines. One published in England came to us this morning. A pair of viewers (cardboard, green and red windows) was attached and you turn to 31-34 where faded, blurred photographs are provided, put on your magic lenses, and lo! the dancing girls are jumping right out of the window, the young lady falling down stairs is throwing her handbag at your head, and the headlamps of a car are waking into life a sleepy English half-timbered village.

It is interesting, but not really as good as grandmother's old stereo views. The fault is not with the pictures but with the cardboard goggles. They can give you the heeby-jeebies in ten straining seconds, and a headache in twenty. We do not recommend them to anybody who values his eyes, nor for children whose parents are concerned with their offspring's health.

We suspect that 3-D in magazines will have a short life. The image quickly loses its novelty and the spectacles one has to apply are nothing but a nuisance. Newspapers have decided not to bother with 3-D print. The cellophane goggles falling into your morning porridge would give the gruel a dimension not intended by the oats, and who in this age is going to take time or trouble to read the evening pictures through cellophane goggles? Some news has enough distortion without adding another dimension to it.

The Church And Union Politics

Mr. C. H. Millard, of the United Steelworkers, has been critical of the stand which the churches in Timmins have taken in the strike in the gold mines there. We can understand that Mr. Millard would be glad to have the moral force of the churches behind his 5,000 gold miners; indeed, in any strike, church support is helpful, and sometimes it is forthcoming. But the churches are showing themselves more and more reluctant to ally themselves with striking groups, and if Mr. Millard does not know why, he is not the shrewd man we take him for.

The moral force of the churches depends entirely upon its discreet use. If the churches jump into every fight, their support soon loses its value. If a church is going to take sides in a labour-management dispute, it must be very sure that a real moral issue is at stake. But, as the years go by, and the labour movement becomes increasingly a struggle for power in matters which are not, by any stretch of imagination, moral issues, the church is going to withdraw from it.

A church might very well throw itself into a struggle which meant the difference between poverty and a decent life for many people; indeed, when the union movement was in its infancy, the churches frequently did so. But is a church to get into a struggle for a few cents more an hour, and a checkoff? Does anybody really believe that a church exists for such purposes? The church might very fittingly answer Mr. Millard that the day for strikes and union action which deprives men of jobs and wages is a thing of the past. Arbitration is now established on a better level than ever before in history, and those who do not like peaceful means of settling labour-management disputes can hardly expect the churches to follow them in that opinion.

Deposing Kings

By COLIN LEGUM

THE BANISHMENT of the head of the State of Buganda, and the declaration of a state of emergency through Uganda, which was announced by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Oliver Lyttelton, in the British Parliament this week, is likely to set off a serious storm in a part of Africa which is already gravely disturbed.

Uganda's eastern neighbour is Kenya, where the state of emergency proclaimed as a result of the Mau Mau (secret terrorist) rebellion is already in its second year. Its northern neighbour is the Sudan, whose election results show an inclination not to be part of the British Commonwealth. And memories of the violent controversy which followed the decision to banish the Paramount Chief of the Bamangwato of Bechuanaland, Seretse Khama, are bound to be revived, since the conditions of banishment imposed on the thirty-year-old Kabaka (the King of Buganda), Mutesa II, are almost identical.

The Kabaka, who graduated at Cambridge University two years ago, only recently accepted the full responsibilities of his office. He is accused of being unwilling to cooperate with the British Government on the terms laid down in the Buganda Agreement of 1900.

THE MAN who made the grave decision to banish the Kabaka is Uganda's progressive Governor, forty-four-year-old Sir Andrew Cohen, who has the reputation of being a radical in colonial affairs. He has often been accused of trying to push African constitutional advance too fast; an accusation made frequently against him, especially over developments on the Gold Coast, which he fostered while he was in control of the African Department of the Colonial Office.

Certainly it is impossible to accuse Sir Andrew Cohen of being oposed to African independence movements. He has hitherto been regarded as a champion of responsible African nationalist causes.

THE TROUBLE in Uganda goes back over many years; but the immediate cause of political discontent in the British protectorate is due to a statement made in an off-hand manner in the course of an after-dinner speech by the Colonial Secretary in July, 1953. On that occasion Mr. Lyttelton declared himself in favour of the principle of East African Federation, to embrace Uganda, Tanganyika and Kenya. This speech, coming soon after the imposition of Federation in Central Africa, produced violent reaction in Uganda.

African opinion in Uganda has always been strongly opposed to any closer association with its neighbours, especially with Kenya, because of the fears of domination by White settlers. Once before, in the 1920's a similar proposal was strongly opposed. So intense was the opposition that in 1932 a Joint Select Committee of both Houses of Parliament was set up to hear the views of the people of Uganda. As a result the Federation proposals were dropped; but a few years later an East African High Commission, which included Uganda, was set up. Although passively accepted, it has always been viewed with intense suspicion. And the raising of the issue by Mr. Lyttelton was like a red rag to a bull.

Uganda, which is roughly the same size as Britain, is divided into four provinces of which the Kingdom of Buganda has traditionally been the dominant political force. Buganda has a unique political system ruled over by its Kabaka. He is advised by a Lukiko, the equivalent of an African Parliament. Buganda—which enjoyed supremacy over its neighbours in what is now Uganda—became a British protectorate by negotiation in 1893. This was confirmed by two treaties—the first in 1894, the second in 1900. This brought Uganda into association with Britain through the Foreign Office.

UNDER the 1900 agreement, wide powers of self-determination were allowed the Kabaka, subject only to the condition that he should agree to "cooperate loyally with Her Majesty's Government in the administration of Buganda as a province of the protectorate." So long as he does this, the British Government undertakes to recognise the Kabaka as the native ruler. The gravamen of the Governor's present charge is that the Kabaka has refused this loyal cooperation; therefore recognition of his right to rule is withdrawn.

The sequence of events leading up to this alleged refusal to cooperate was as follows:

✧ ✧ ✧

THE LUKIKO was summoned by the Kabaka to consider the statement on Federation made by Mr. Lyttelton. An immediate demand was made for an assurance that the Colonial Office would drop any idea of Federation. The Governor, empowered by the Colonial Secretary, made a statement which was not entirely satisfactory. Meanwhile a fervent political campaign was launched using the Federation issue as a pretext to strengthen the position of the Kabaka and his Lukiko.

THE GOVERNOR had recently introduced far-reaching constitutional reforms which gave greater powers to the Legislative Council, which is the unitary organ of government in Uganda, and which has greater powers than the Lukiko, which is simply an advisory body to the Kabaka. This was done in agreement with the Kabaka. But the feeling began to grow that the Government-dominated Legislative Council was becoming more powerful than the Kabaka's council; and even the Governor's assurance that the aim was to develop the Legislative Council into an independent Parliament with the aim of self-government did not diminish feelings of jealousy and suspicion. These were also fanned by fears about large-scale industrial development which has been started in Uganda.

The next move by the Lukiko was to demand that Buganda, which has been transferred from the Foreign Office to the Colonial Office in 1903, should again become the responsibility of the Foreign Office. This step was considered necessary to emphasise that Buganda was not a colony. A demand was also made that a date be fixed by which time Buganda could look forward to self-government.

BOTH these demands were rejected by the Governor. His reason was that to concede them would be to split Buganda from the rest of Uganda and destroy the idea of a unitary State. Thereupon the Kabaka refused to nominate Buganda's representatives who are to sit on the Legislative Council (he had previously agreed to do this and had for some years been in the habit of so doing). This act of defiance has resulted in his immediate banishment.

It is difficult to predict what may happen in Buganda. The Kabaka is not a strong person, and he has not endeared himself to his people; but his position is not dissimilar from that of British kings: allegiance is to the crown, not to the person who wears it.

THERE HAVE been two serious riots in Buganda since the war. The immediate cause of both riots was internal political divisions among the people of Buganda themselves. But the riots have left a heritage of political discontent.

The most recent were provoked by the Bataka. The Bataka is a body made up of the heads of the various clans. They jealously preserve their right; and although the Bataka has been proscribed as an association fo tribal elders, its underground organisation is still strong. Its members also have a political representative in Britain.

Such a situation is obviously explosive, and will require strong, positive measures if violent opposition is to be avoided. Much depends on the ablity of the Governor and on the role which the Uganda National Congress decides to play.

The Congress is not particularly friendly to the Kabaka and his court and is hostile to the Bataka. If Congress supports the Governor in his determination to give Buganada a political democracy in a place of a monarchial autarchy, the political situation will be transformed; but events hve moved so swiftly that at first confusion is likely to predominate.

Japan's Birth Rate Problem

By CHESTER WILMOT
(Foremost Military Correspondent)

(This is the third of a series of three articles)

ALTHOUGH the Japanese Government may be reluctant to curtail domestic consumption by adopting a policy of austerity, it has been ruthlessly practical in tackling Japan's population problem. Since the war there has been a phenomenal decline in the death rate, which has fallen from seventeen per thousand in 1937 to 9.14 per thousand in 1952—a rate lower than that prevailing in the United States.

This decline has been due chiefly to the greatly improved health and sanitation measures introduced by the Americans during the Occupation and continued by the Japanese. Over the same period the number of births has declined from thirty per thousand in 1937 to 23.6 in 1952; but this decline is not as great as the fall in the number of deaths. Today, therefore, Japan has an Occidental death rate and an Oriental birth rate with a consequent natural population increase of more than a million and a quarter a year.

To meet this problem the Government in 1948 legalised the sale of contraceptives, and instituted a campaign for education in family planning; but this legislation had little effect on the growth of the population. Accordingly, in May, 1952, the Government amended the Eugenics Protection Law, which since 1940 had made abortion legal in certain circumstances. This amendment authorised doctors to carry out abortions on their own responsibility and without reference, as in the past, to the public health authorities.

THE RESULT of this drastic policy has been to bring about a vast increase in the number of legalised abortions. The total rose from 246,000 in 1949 to 636,000 in 1951 and to more than a million last year. Moreover, the Ministry of Welfare and Health admits that the total number of abortions—legal and illegal—is considerably greater and may be as high as two million a year. This alarming development is accepted by Government and people alike as a harsh but unavoidable necessity.

The manner in which the Japanese are endeavouring to solve their population problem indicates that, if compelled by circumstances to take stern measures to control internal consumption and to foster exports, the Government would take the necessary action and the country would support it. But so long as their economy is bolstered and their foreign trade account is balanced by U.S. spending, the Japanese people see no reason to make the necessary effort on their own behalf.

It would be dangerous, therefore, for Japan's competitors to underestimate the challenge that will develop in the markets of the world when the Japanese people regain the sense of national purpose which made them so formidable in 1937.

Letter To The Editor

THE ASSESSOR EXPLAINS

Sir: There seems to be a rumour circulating throughout Peterborough that the Mayor and Council of our fair City directed me to re-assess in accordance with the Government Manual.

Strange as it may seem, while the Assessment Commissioner is appointed by the Council, and paid by the Council, nevertheless he is responsible only to the Ontario Assessment Act; as a matter of fact the Mayor or any member of Council may be unseated for any undue influence with the Assessment Department.

Yours truly,
J. E. DAVIS,
Assessment Commissioner.

Venezuelan Milestone

The new Venezuelan highway, the great $60,000,000 poject linking the capital city of Caracas with the port of La Guaira, is today being dedicated. Instead of a road 25 feet wide, climbing 3,000 feet from the sea by way of 219 hairpin turns, the taveller will have at his disposal a 74-foot, four-lane highway that has no sharp curves at all but goes straight to its destination via tunnel and bridge, cutting the time of travel from approximately 75 minutes to 20.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: for praise is comely for the upright . . . For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth. He loveth righteousness and judgement: the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord. By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth . . . For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast. (Ps. 33:1, 4-6, 9.)

He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heavens by his discretion. (Jer. 10:12.)

An American Opinion

AFTER A BIG STORM, January 13th, 1908. When people talk about an "old fashioned winter" they think of piles of snow like these. George Street may have seen the end of such snow as this, because today the streets as well as the sidewalks are kept clear down to the bare pavement, so there is no residual snow on top of which another big fall may come. In 1908 when these pictures were taken, horse-drawn sleighs could use the main streets most of the winter, and mothers pushed their infants up the street in baby cutters. Since the war there have been several big storms such as these pictures give evidence of, so perhaps Peterborough is not in the banana belt yet. The photograph at the left was taken from near the corner of Simcoe and George, looking north on George. The four discernible store names on the west side are Routley's, which sold wall paper, crockery etc.; Grafton's, then as now, men's and boys' clothing (it was then having a "Big Bargain Sale"); Robert Fair and Company, then as now, women's wear and drapery, though now the Golden Lion sign over the door has disappeared; and Cressman's store, then one of the biggest departmental stores in Peterborough, vying with Turnbull's on the n-w corner of Simcoe and George. The photograph at the right was taken near the corner of George and Charlotte streets, looking south. The men at the left are standing at the corner. The single building under the street banner advertising "Driving Park, Jan'y 21 & 22" is the present annex to the Eaton store. Dr. E. V. Wood And Other Hockey Sports Recall Great Year 1927 At The Brock Petes Had Olympic Crown Within Reach

By HARRY THEOBALD

The nearest Peterborough ever got, and probably will ever get, to a hockey Olympic crown was the night of Wednesday, February 23, 1927, at Brock St. rink.

That affirmation was of the manner and mood of reminiscence when Vern Morphet and Dr. Edward V. Wood brushed off their memories of Connie Smythe and his University of Toronto "Grads", their narrow escape from defeat against the Petes that winter, and finally their winning of the hockey title in the Olympic games of 1928.

On a recent leisurely trip to Ottawa, Mr. Morphet called on Dr. Wood who was president of the Peterborough Hockey Club that winter. Elders of the fans, at least those whose memories reach clearly 25 years into the past, may imagine the presiding spirit of that part of the session in Dr. Wood's home, lingering regret for the loss of a series by so close a margin that the element of luck could conceivably have turned the victory to Peterborough, and finally the senior OHA title. All that and the Allan Cup, too, and eventually the Olympic honors—a world championship.

"BATTLES LONG AGO"

'Just two fans of a quarter of a century ago, in the recollection of an opportunity that came mighty close to the Peterborough Hockey Club of that winter of 1926-27," Mr. Morphet remarked to the Examiner. "We didn't get the crying towel out. The intervening years had brought resignation, but we mulled over those two games with the Grads that seemed to us, and close to conviction, as having settled the Olympic decision at the Toronto Arena Gardens and here at home. We tied them 1-1 there, and they took the game here, blanking us 2-0, on goals that still look fluky in memory."

Peterborough had wound up the scheduled season with a game they dropped to the Grads by 10-0. The goalkeeper was a CGE test employee named Hall. As recalled by Mr. Morphet, Joe Dwyer forgot his skates, and the sub went in for his only game with the team. The Toronto sports writers threw that score out of their reckoning as the playoffs aproached. And they had the right dope on the Petes as the first game proved, a tie, in Toronto.

DWYER IN THE BOX

Trottier scored for the Grads in the first period, and Bogardis tied it up at two minutes in the second.

The ice at the Brock was sticky for the second game. Grads got a break in the first period when Joe Dwyer drew a minute penalty for charging out from his goal and into Trottier. Bert McLeod drew the net assignment for that minute, and just as Dwyer was leaving the penalty box Porter flipped the puck past McLeod. Hudson scored the second at 17:30 minutes in the middle period from a scrimmage near the Peterborough goal. Someone said the puck was kicked in.

Fred Craig commented in his write-up of the game that "luck and our penalties, rather than Grad superiority" accounted for the measure of difference between the two team on that night's play, and on ice that turned soft. The Grads went on to knock off Kitchener, who had eliminated Preston, for the OHA senior championship.

In his Wise Cracker column, the late Mr. Craig as sport editor of the Examiner, interjected the barbed bit: "I've never yet seen a goalkeeper stop a shot in the penalty box". The Grads put Kitchener out of the running by a margin of six goals on that final OHA round.

The former Varsity men went the Allan Cup route without anything like the opposition they had run into at Brock St. One of the teams was New Edinburgh of Ottawa, and another Fort William.

In his comment prior to that game, F.D.C. wrote: "Fort William is all that separates them from a sea voyage next year (1928)", referring to the Olympic hockey at St. Moritz.

TWO-GOAL DIFFERENCE

To the very end of the season, The Wise Cracker (F.D.C.) wrote briefly with a lack of conviction that Connie Smythe's team showed any marked degree of class over the Petes. About March 19, he was still gloomy: "When it's all checked over, Mac, the closest call the Grads had all year was from the Petes which held them to three goals in the series, and was just nosed out. If the local lads had known just when to put on the pressure in that round, the chances is a lot of Janes's be getting a bunch of souvenir postcards from the Swizz fairlyand next winter, and the Petes would be eating that smelly cheese with lots of holes in it."

So, Vern Morphet said: "Those were some of the details Doc Wood and I were recalling, when another hockey season was some weeks away, and the Petes were starting out again in their district. The Peterborough Hockey Club has a long history in the game, and I hope the fans of today give it the support the management and players deserve".

JACK PORTER'S LETTER

Dr. Wood brought out of the letters he has kept one dated April 8/27, 162 Crescent Road, Toronto: "Dear Dr. Wood—On behalf of the Varsity "Grads" allow me to extend our sincere thanks for the splendid message you sent us during our Allan Cup series in Vancouver.

"We appreciated it the more fully as we know it came from a Club which was nearly as close to representing the east as we were.

"The attendance out west was a real homage paid to amateur hockey, and the series was a fitting final. Thanking you again, I remain, Yours Sincerely—John C. Porter, (Capt.)".

Bert McLeod contributes some supplementary information. Jack Porter retired from hockey after the Grads won the Olympics and is now an executive with the Robert Simpson Co., Toronto. Dr. Joseph Sullivan, the goalie, is an eye, ear and nose specialist in Toronto; Ross Taylor took up law; Hugh Plaxton eventually became a member of Parliament; Dr. Lou Hudson has been a physician in Timmins. Of the Petes, only Bert McLeod and Ken Kane are living here.

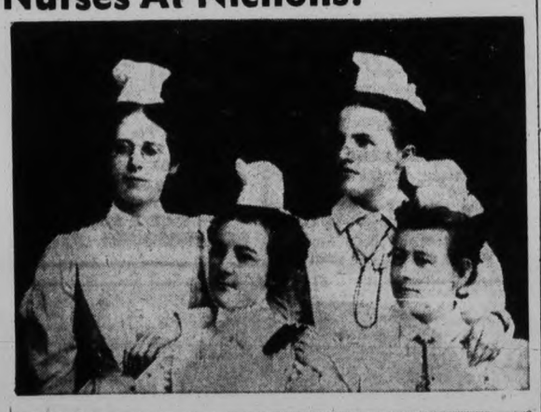
Mr. Morphet said that he and Doc Wood thought their session might be of interest to the hockey fans who remembered the Grad games, and should also be a record of information for the younger crowd.

JUST MISSED FAME

"Our thought was that those Petes just narrowly missed the top flight of fame in amateur hockey, but of course we don't want to take anything away from the achievement of Connie Smythe and his Grads".

Subsequently Dr. Wood submitted a financial statement of all receipts and expenditures to the Club and the team.

The statement was ampified by a review of the 1926-27 season "which we began in the hole over $400".



The executive raised $1,650, paid the outstanding accounts leaving a balance of $300 "to be carried by the team as agreed".

"It took a good deal of effort on your officers' parts, and we are indebted to the men who donated both large and small amounts, but we are glad to help.

"The gates were discouraging. Just look at the playoffs—$575 for both games. Take from this $135, our expenses to Toronto, and it leaves $440. It has been only by careful management that we have been able to come out on top. I regret we did not go further. I think we had the team, but the breaks went against us.

"We have the satisfaction of knowing we are as good as the Grads. I regret that there is not a larger balance. However, with a clean sheet for next year and no Grads to spoil the gates (kitty-bar-the-door of the pro style) you can look forward to a good season. Stick together and the Allan Cup is yours in 1928".

FRANK HALBUS

Professor Halbus At Cihu-on-the-Trent Three Lives As Runner, Musician, Teacher

By BILL REID

CAMPBELLFORD—It was the noon hour, and we had come to Hastings to interview Frank Halbus in his home, Cihu-on-the-Trent. We knocked at the kitchen door, and found his wife making pancakes, and the "professor" as he is called in the village, playing his violin. We apologized for the intrusion, and they explained their paint-clothes, and the hurry-up lunch.

"You see," said Mrs. Halbus, "We have a big job fixing up this ninety-year old house, and we do want to get it attractive as soon as possible. We have to do most of the work ourselves." Mr. Halbus explained that the work of painting and the effect of it on his hands was detrimental to violin playing, so in between he was limbering up.

"Do you play much?" The interview was taking place in his comfortable livingroom, lined with books, and painted in soft green. The window gave a lovely view of the Trent river, and the rolling hills on the opposite shore. "More now than ever before," replied Mr. Halbus. "I've found a new role, giving my musical services to my young friends at their weddings. As the guests are entering the church, that is the appropriate time for violin music with the organ. Two weeks ago, I played some of the liturgical classics at the United Church in Mimico. Last spring, I was at a United Church in East York, and all seem to agree that this kind of music creates the right atmosphere of expectancy for the bride. It keeps me in touch with Toronto, and youth, and makes me practise."

SPORT, TOO

The professor went on to say he started the study of the violin at nine with the late Ivy Kerr. She insisted on a lesson every day for an hour for one month, and thereafter two a week for years. At ten, he was playing at Frank Yeigh's travelogues to large audiences in Ontario.

"The same year that I started music, I won the city championship in the 100 yards dash. Sport and music are a queer combination, but there is rhythm in both. There was a splendid school orchestra at Harbord Collegiate, and at 15, I was soloist there. At the same time, I became the Interscholastic track champion of Ontario.

"Then at the University of Toronto, I was concert-master of the University Symphony Orchestra, also a member of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Frank Welsman, and strange as it may seem, was sprint champion of Intercollegiate and Canadian Track Athletics. Then in 1911, I was sent to England for the Coronation Games representing Canada, and became British Empire champion. And to keep up the music combination, I played solos on board ship with the ship's orchestra, and in England at Crystal Palace."

His 1911 championship was the British Open in the quarter-mile run, which took place at Stamford Bridge. This feat gained young Mr. Halbus considerable publicity back in his native Canada.

On his return to Toronto he saw his trophies and picture displayed in Ryrie Brothers jewellery store or Yonge Street. He walked in and was given the position of assistant advertising manager off the bat. Frank Halbus continued his career in advertising writing with various firms and agencies until the financial crack in 1929 which "drove me to teaching at Brantford Collegiate Institute."

TEACHER

He qualified as a teacher at the Ontario College of Education, and thereafter he was appointed to the staff of the University of Toronto Schools and the College of Education.

"In this capacity I brought to bear all my experience in athletics, business and education. Being a graduate in the honors course in English and History, I taught history at U.T.S. the first year. But my athletic experience was sought in training the boys of U.T.S. and eventually I became a teacher of physical education, with lectures on the theory of it, in the Ontario College of Education.

It was as P.T. exponent and theorist that brought Professor Halbus into fresh prominence and made him known to thousands of teachers across the Province who took summer courses in P.T. or attended the ordinary winter sessions of the College of Education.

"What does such an interesting and active background do for a person on retirement?"

"It gives one a philosophy of life. You must learn how to live in retirement as you have learned to live in other stages of your life. It is like a new job, you have to work at it. It is not an escape into leisure, which may become boredom, but an experience for which there must be sufficient planning."

Mr. Halbus seems to have the answer in his preparation for this day of his freedom from compulsory duties. His experience gave him a knowledge for training men to become teachers of Physcial Education in the province. He has special interest in the classics, and taught the Greek ideal of a physical prowess allied with an intellectual. Athletics are only a means towards the end — a strong citizenship with a sportsmanship attitude towards others. His career at the Ontario College of Education gave him a strong, healthy body with which to enjoy his retirement on the physical side of life.

An international group of spiritual leaders caught his attention, and every summer he attends a camp, called C.F.O., held in many different beauty spots in America where an international followship is promoted. In New Hampshire mountains, he met Dr. Frank Laubach, the eminent teacher of illiterates in Asia, and from him caught thhe significance of service to humanity by a club-name, Cihu, meaning phonetically, "can I help you?" His house in Hastings is called "Cihu-on-the Trent". His wife writes a weekly column called, "Cihu", in the Norwood Register, and he himself, takes care of the editorials in the same weekly. Then, again, winter in Flordia is now possible, and being planned, where a resurgence of spirit and fresh hope is gained for a promulgation of the Cihu philosophy in a country environment.

"How did you happen to buy a house in Hastings, Mr. Halbus?"

"I don't know exactly, I must have bought the scenery."

CAPITAL STOCK FOR GRAVY AND SAUCES, FROM A HAM BONE.

WHEN A ham has been cut to the bone, cut off all the bits of meat that are not rusty, whether fat or lean, throw the rusty pieces into the pig-tub or to the fowls, break the bone in pieces, beat the meat with a rolling-pin, and put the whole into a saucepan with a quarter of a pint of broth or gravy; then cover it, and stew gently, occasionally stirring it well, to prevent its sticking to the bottom. Then strain off the stock and bottle down in old pickle bottles, to improve gravies or sauces of any description. This is essentially a good "extract of ham" cheaply obtained.

As lately a sage on a fine ham was repasting
(Though for breakfast too savoury I opine),
He exclaimed to a friend, who sat silent and fasting,
"What a breakfast of learning is mine."
"A breakfast of learning" with wonder he cried,
And laugh'd, for he thought
him mistaken;
"Why, what is it else?" the sage quickly replied,
"When I'm making large extracts from Bacon."

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

One of the County's crack deer hunters, Ray Miles of Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, told me this week that this season was the most disappointing he had ever experienced in 42 years of hunting.

His party shoot over land in the Ouse Lake area and, where a hydro line was cut through it a few years ago, they planted clover seed to induce deer to browse there. With plenty of feed, therefore, deer should have been attracted but there was nary a one this fall.

"Wolves have cleaned them out in that spot just as they have in many other areas," said Ray

He told me of evidence of many deer kills on Stony Lake in winter and during the past winter has driven about on the lake ice to locate and bring home partly eaten carcasses for his dogs. He has found several.

We got to discussing the increase of the wolf bounty, now $35, wondering if the recent $10 increase in this figure was an attraction to wolf hunters or not.

Ray claimed that snaring by experts was the ideal predator control and with the sizeable bounty offering a few hunters with know-how should be able to make themselves some fair money and have a lot of fun. He declaimed mass amateur wolf hunts as a waste of time and plumped for two-three hunter parties with trained dogs. Ray also thought that increasing the wolf bounty did nothing to increase the take of wolves and that it was also a waste of taxpayers' money. We agree heartily with Ray on this.

The Peterborough Pigeon Racing Club flocked to an interesting evening on Friday at the home of secretary Bert Nattress, so president Ivan Elliott tells me. Members took several birds to the party and had them judged by a competent panel and wound up with a film screening supplied by the RCAF, about carrier pigeons. This seldom-publicized club is worth cooing about occasionally.

Pickerel poachers making like duck hunters were active on Rice Lake marshes right up until the end of the shooting season, December 1.

Game wardens were wise to them and many the cold night they patrolled the dark water in a fast boat and made some pinches, too. They depended in large measure on deputy-wardens ashore who are generally year-round residents and thereby see plenty that is going on.

Such an alert man is Harold Wilson of Highland View Lodge. A few nights before the duck season finished, the Wilson family were awakened by noisy poachers in a boat in the deep bay below the lodge.

It was 3 a.m. Harold rolled out of his warm bed and watched flashlights playing in a boat.

"Gimme my pants," he whispered to his wife, and he raised so much fuss that his wife and son Mel got dressed and joined him at the boathouse.

The poachers, apparently lost, steered right to the Wilson's wharf and the boat had no sooner come alongside than Harold turned his light on them and warned:

"This is your last night for this, boys."

The boys wished it had been, for, they were Game Wardens Vic Harris and Ken Tolmie.

The moral of this tale is that one can never tell what one is going to pick up in the dark, including game wardens.

Petes Come From Behind To Beat Kingston In Speedy 6-5 Senior Tilt

Spotting Kingston Goodyears a 4-0 lead in the first part of their OHA senior "B" game here last night, the TPT Petes fought back furiously to eke out a 6-5 decision before a good-sized crowd. Kingston led 2-0 in the first period and 5-3 going into the third when the Redmond men banged home three unanswered goals to grab the verdict in a fast, clean contest. The decision left last year's provincial champion Goodyears in second place behind Oshawa, and it pulled the Petes up into a third-place tie with Orillia (who beat Oshawa twice this week) ahead of Belleville. The Goodyears remained here overnight to journey to Orillia for a game tonight, while the Petes go this evening to Belleville.

LED THE SNIPERS

Gus Leonard and Chum Fryia notched two goals each for the Petes, with Bill Crowley and Rod Belisle getting one apiece. Playing coach Ed Redmond set up plays for three goals, while Fryia and Leonard had two assists each, single assists going to Bert Hill, Doc Prentice and Toodie Greenlaw.

Don Bellringer counted a pair for Kingston, as John Myke, Don Murray and Jack McKeown lit the lamp once each. Kenny Partis was hot to aid on three, Bob Londry helping on a couple, and Clint Tinkess, Bellringer and George McGregor one each.

The Petes argued hotly over a goal they calimed they scored in the third period, the light going on, but Referee Jim Crombie wouldn't allow it. Kingston drew four of the six minor penalties in the tilt. Joe Watts, of Kingston, suffered a two-switch gash near the eye in the initial inning, and Roy Armstrong, of Petes, had a thigh injury in the second.

SCORED FIRST

Myke tallied the first one at 13.23 with a quick shot on Tinkess' corner passout. McKeown made it 2-0 shortly on fine combination in close with Partis and Bellringer. Penalties to Crowley for slashing, Ohlke for tripping and Watts for holding the puck didn't prove costly in the first frame.

Bellringer dangled in fast to score two early in the second, Partis aiding on both, and Londry being in on one. Wats was back from a tripping penalty when Crowley broke the egg for Petes on a speedy thrust with Hill's passup. Fryia got another from Leonard and Redmond on good passing but Murray got it back from Londry and McGregor on a corner passout. Fryia again finished off a good combination play with Leonard and Redmond before the frame ended, both goalies going in fast play.

TIED AND WON

Peterson and Johnson drew holding penalties in the third but no damage resulted. Leonard backhanded one home on a play with Redmond and Fryia as the Petes caught fire and roared in repeatedly on sharp passing plays. They argued hotly over a disallowed goal halfway through, and some fans threw papers on the ice. When play resumed, Rod Belisle tore around defence with a pass from Prentice to blast home the tying marker at 11.08. Less than a minute later, Leonard took a backhand poke at a passout from Fryia on a play started by Greenlaw, and the disc caught a net corner for what turned out to be the winning marker. Kingston fought back fiercely the rest of the way, and each side in turn came close a couple of times but it ended that way. Teams:

Kingston — Goal, Johnson; defence, Londry and Watts; centre, Murray; wings, McGregor and Ohlke; alternates Partis, Bellringer, Reid, Myke, Tinkess, Stewart, McKeown and Nicholson.

Petes — Goal, Donlevy; defence, Redmond and McMaster; centre, Leonard; wings Fryia and Greenlaw; alternates, Hill, Collins, Crowley, Prentice, Belisle Peterson Munroe, Montgomery and Armstrong.

Referees—B. Cain and J. Crombie. The summary:

Will Ask Bruins To Purchase 'Jr. A' Franchise

KITCHENER (CP) — A hockey executive here said Friday night Boston Bruins will be asked to try to buy Kitchener's junior A franchise from Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Pat Roberts, a member of the Kitchener Minor Hockey League executive, said he was told the Bruins might be interested in taking over the franchise of Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts.

Canadiens bought the Ontario Hockey Association club last week and transferred several star players to their farm clubs in Ontario and Quebec.

"We hope to contact the Bruins' management immediately," Roberts said.

SATURDAY DEADLINE

OHA President Tory Gregg and business manager George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association have set Saturday night as the deadline for arranging the deal.

"I could dispose of 100 shares at $25 apiece right now," Roberts said. "Many other offers of assistance have been made but we couldn't possibly raise the amount of money required before tomorrow night."

Frank Selke, managing director of the Canadiens, said he would sell back the franchise for $13,000.

WOULD CONTACT BOSTON

"Tory Gregg told me it was not necessary to raise the entire sum by Saturday night," Roberts said. "Because we are working against time, my suggestion is to contact Boston Bruins officials as soon as possible."

He added:

"The Bruins would have to try and make a deal with Krank Selke. If they're interested we could give our answer to the OHA."

Boston previously sponsored Barrie Flyers and Waterloo Hurricanes. Last year they backed the OHA Junior A Oshawa Generals who disbanded this year when the Oshawa arena was destroyed by fire.

Hombre Levels Sights On Atkins

Stemming out of this week's feature match Hombre Montana demanded a chance to tackle Fred Atkins alone. Atkins was more than ready, so this pair will headline next Wednesday's wrestling show at the Brock.

Fans who watched this week's bout—and the crowd was a record—were quick to see in Montana one of the best grapplers to ever show here. Big and powerful—he weighs 325—Hombre is amazingly fast and clever, showing a barrel of stuff.

In Atkins he will meet up with one of the toughest matmen in the game. The hard rock Aussie travels at top speed at all times and gives his opponents a rough passage. The match is a natural and should draw another huge crowd.

Hi Lee, who has been mowing his opposition down with monotonous regularity, takes on a hard opponent, Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, in the semi-final. Geohagen may be the one to halt Lee's winning streak.

Trenton, Points Take Wins In TVL Contests

MARMORA (ENS)—Hockey fans witnessed another thrilling double header at the Marmora arena on Friday evening in the pre-season TVL schedule. Madoc opposed Trenton and the much awaited Point Anne and Compbellford clash took place. In the first of these tussles the victory went to Trenton by the score of 6-2. McDonald, A. Scott and Jones were aggressive for the winners and Carswell, Nickle and Brown showed up well for Madoc. Both goalies gave a good exxhibition in the nets and the crowd which swelled to 300 by the close of the doubleheader felt there was value for their money.

PT. ANNE WINS

The second game of the evening went to Point Anne who downed Campbellford by the score of 7-2. The margin might have been greater but for the good goalkeeping of Nelson. Point Anne set a fast pace for the game and scored three goals in the first before Campbellford responded by dint of fine combination. Jacklin, Gilmour, Strahan, Goyer and Hull contributed most to their team's success. Blake and Eadie were goal-getters for the losers and, with Payne and Herrington, did most of the offensive.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The major league player pension fund and the minors' radio-television problems dominated baseball talk as the minor league convention ended Friday and the big leaguers headed for New York for next week's meetings.

Most startling news at the annual winter gathering was the player-commissioner dispute that threatened the existence of the pension fund. When the player representatives walked out on commissioner Ford Frick because their lawyer couldn't attend, and Frick countered with the news that the majors were considering junking the pension plan, a bitter controversy flared.

Frick, taken ill at the meetings, is back in New York preparing for the meetings where the majors will vote on naming a committee to study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

NO MORE MEETINGS

Allie Reynolds of New York Yankees and Ralph Kiner of Chicago Cubs, the league player representatives, returned to their homes with no apparent plans for further meetings with Frick.

The minors are optimistic that the majors will act favorably on their petition for controls of commercial radio and television broadcasts into their territory.

Senator Edwin Johnson (Dem.-Colo.) has drawn up a plan which was adopted unanimously by the minors. It would bar big league commercial radio and TV over a station in a minor league city when the minor club is playing at home or away but would give complete freedom to any non-commercial (sustaining) broadcasts.

"They've got to go along with us," said Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League.

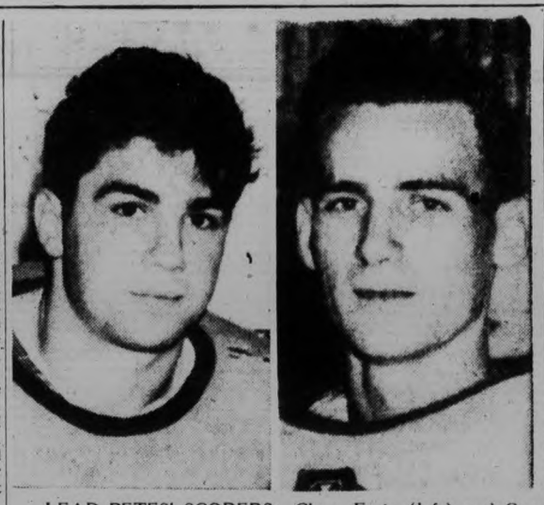
VANCOUVER GETS OPEN

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Canadian golf Association announced that its 1954 open championship will be played July 14-17 over the Point Grey course at Vancouver.



The championship precedes the British Empire Games, scheduled for Vancouver July 30-Aug. 7.

REDS THROW PARTY

SANTO DOMINGO, Chile (AP)—The Russian delegation which came here without notice to attend the World Modern Pentathlon Congress gave a party Thursday night for the principal delegates from the other countries—the United States, Argentina, Brazil, Sweden, Chile, Uruguay, Britain, Switzerland and Hungary.

The refreshments: Vodka and caviar.

LEAD PETES' SCORERS—Chum Fryia (left) and Gus Leonard led the TPT Petes in their exciting 6-5 OHA senior "B" triumph over Kingston Goodyears last night, each scoring two goals and having two assists in a fine performance. The win put the Petes into a third-place tie with Orillia, with Kingston still holding second spot in the keen group race.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Dear Santa Claus—As the mails clog up toward Christmas we'd better get his off early. The missus says that's how come you missed us last year as we'd let our letter to you go too late. In case your subscription has run out we're sending you a free copy of today's paper. Let's not have any slipups this time, eh, S.C.? That rather lengthy list we sent you last year should be on your files, and we can still use any of the 27 items mentioned. Or all of them. Eddie Redmond says he could use two more fast forwards, but then he can write his own darned letters. Anyway, we doubt if the CAHA would okay a branch-to-branch transfer from the North Pole to Central Ontario.

* * * * * * *

One other thing, San' old man, when you're doing up our woollies, mitts, ear muffs, etc.—could you put in a cage and one of your birds? You know the kind, the Kee-Kee bird, found only up near the Arctic. It could be safely kept at Civic Arena and its wild cry would fascinate hockey fans. We had to pass up an offer last summer from a tourist hailing from the deep south who offered at a reasonable figure one Ho-Ho bird, but we didn't think it would live in this clime. It's cry, too, is peculiar as it slides up and down the equator calling hoarsely: "Ho-Ho-holy smoke but it's hot!"

* * * * * * *

From Arctic To Civic

But your Kee-Kee bird, S.C., could survive the winter nicely here and look no worse by spring than we do. Hockey fans here would applaud sympathetically as this buzzard-like bird flapped about the arena screaming: "Kee-Kee-Christmas but it's cold!" A friend of ours in Toronto, named A. C. Joseph, had a poem last summer on the Kee-Kee bird in the hospital troops' digest (known as "The Rovin' Pigeon") and we'll borrow a bit of it:

The Eskimos tucked in their igloos
Toss fretfully in their sleep,
And their huskies asleep in a snow bank
Start burrowing away down deep.

For this cry is so awe inspiring,
It freezes the blood, I'm told,
As the Kee-Kee cries to the Arctic:
Kee-Kee Christmas but it's cold!

Anyway, Santa, do what you can for us, and our best to Mrs. S. C. and yourself. Smooth sledding.—CJP.

* * * * * * *

Returning rapidly from a fanciful flight to the North Pole, let's take a look at the local puck scene. Next thing on tap in an OHA sort of way is the junior "B" joust here Monday eve at 8:30 in Civic Arena. Young Petes, who trek tonight to Collingwood, tackle Lindsay in the Monday melee, a grand resumption of fast and furious feuding betwixt these well-matched rivals. Last meeting was on Scugog ice and the Lindsay lads yanked out an 8-7 verdict in the dying seconds of the game. It should be the turn of the Creighton crew on their sheet to grab a close one to start off the week. It's real lively hockey and rates a lot of fans.

* * * * * * *

But Hard On The Heart

An oldtime fighting finish pulled one out of the fire for the TPT Petes here last night as they spotted Kingston a 4-0 lead in the first half and then won out 6-5. That never-say-die spirit gave a goodly crowd quite a lift as the Redmond crew fought furiously against stiff opposition to earn the verdict. They had two goals called back on 'em, too, one in particular burning up the boys. Watts and Amy suffered injuries in the speedy, clean contest, and both sides were ready for a rest at the final gong. Goalies Donlevy and Johnson were kept on the jump as K's and Petes bored in hotly in the last half. The Petes outplayed Kingston in the first period but couldn't hit the net and were down 2-0 when the frame finished. But they made few mistakes the rest of the route.

* * * * * * *

On the attack, Gus Leonard, Chum Fryia and Eddie Redmond went best, but fellows like Bert Hill, Bill Crowley, Doc Prentice, Rod Belisle and Toodie Greenlaw were in on the scoring, also. Bellringer and Partis shone for the losers. A dandy tussle to take and it shows the TPT-ers are definitely on the upgrade. If they can just win tonight in Belleville they'll be hard to stop. Petes and Orillia are tied for third slot now a game and a half back of Kingston, the K's being three back of Oshawa. Belleville rest in the cellar one and a half games back of us. The peculiar schedule doesn't call for Kingston to appear here again for two months, Feb. 5, whereas Petes trek to the Limestone City three times before then!

Conquered Moose

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — Magistrate R. J. Abbott didn't need a gun to get his moose this autumn. A moose attacked his car as he was slowly climbing a hill, and broke the windshield. The magistrate jumped out with an ax.

Collis, Lindsay Victorious In Girls' Loop

Collis defeated the Nurses 48-28 while Lindsay Neill's yanked out a 26-22 verdict over CGE in two lively Girls' Basketball League fixtures last evening at the YWCA.

Nurses held Collis in the first three quarters of the opening tussle by use of a real close zone defence, Collis being unable to connect on long throws. In the final quarter it looked as though Nurses, in trying to check their rivals up the floor, loosened their zone play, 10 points resulting by P. Stewart through centre in three minutes. Nurses were too tired to fight back then.

It was 8-6 in the first quarter for Collis, Nurses led 16-15 in keen play at the half, while Collis were in front again 26-21 going into the final frame. P. Stewart had 16 points for the winners, J. Dunk 12, S. Bestard 12, B. Rumble four, N. Rose and M. McIlveen two each. J. Bell led Nurses with 15 points, B. Peryer had seven, M. Flavalle four and B. Lewis two. Teams:

Collis—N. Rose, P. Stewart, J. Dunk, B. Rumble, J. LaPointe, S. Bestard, M. McIlveen.

Nurses—M. Flavelle, J. Bell, J. Elgette, B. Peryer, B. Lewis, N. Heard, A. Thurston, D. Mark.

CLOSE FIXTURE

The nightcap was close all throughout, and rough as both sides checked closely up the floor. They threw the ball around plenty but didn't pass up to par. Lindsay led 7-5 in the first quarter, 11-8 halfway through and 21-13 to end the third quarter.

E. McBrien topped the winners in scoring with nine points, S. Algar clicking for eight, M. Owen four, D. Copp three and J. Humphries two. Dot Jackson led Electrics with eight points, as Madge Jones got four, Joan Pearson three, M. Batley, H. Miller and Kay Calladine two each, and Joan Brunt one. Teams:

CGE—J. Brunt, J. Phelan, K. Calladine, H. Miller, L. Aiken, A. Aiken, M. Hodson, J. Pearson, M. Jones, D. Jackson, M. Batley.

Lindsay—S. Algar, J. Humphries, D. Coppy, M. Vanstone, E. McBrien, D. Jordan, H. Robertson, P. Hodgins, M. Owen.

Soccer Fans May Expect Revolution In The Game

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Qress Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Indications are that English soccer is in for a revolution.

The handwriting was up on the walls of Wembley Stadium long before Hungary smashed her 90-year, record of soccer invincibility at home against all foreign teams.

The originators and professors of the soccer arts exported their product all too well. They were defeated by a band of state-trained pupils and the blame for the 6-3 lacing has been spread across the entire structure of English soccer.

TAUGHT A LESSON

"We had this defeat coming to us," said Walter Winterbottom, team manager. "I hope its lesson will not be lost on club managers and players. League football must become faster and more accurate—and we must provide a settled team."

It must be decided whether soccer is to be played for fun or as a "national success," he added, and the solution lies with the 92 football league clubs, independent and amateur organizations.

"Unless they demand training by their players and more practice with the ball, England cannot hope to compete with the highly-organized continentals."

The authorities, still digesting the defeat, are scheduled to meet early in January. The Football Association has asked leading club managers to state frankly then what they think should be done to revitalize the English game in the face of a marked South American and Continental progress.

"It was Agincourt in reverse," noted The Times sadly in discussing the way the Hungarians shot like archers, dispelling the myth that European teams couldn't kick a ball. The Hungarians themselves paid tribute to Scots-born Jimmy Hogan, 70-year-old soccer coach who was with the team four years.

Sports writers agreed that if England's team is to stay close to the top—the world soccer cup will be played in Switzerland next summer—the system of juggling the team every game will have to be abandoned.

WANTS PERMANENT TEAM

Eric Stanger of the Yorkshire Post wrote:

"At the start of every season let a squad of 18 players be selected from whom the likely England team will be chosen. Let them live together, play together and train together for weeks at a time."

Stanger suggested they could play for their clubs on important occasions. The Football Association would pay their salaries.

Desmond Hackett of The Daily Express said players get "flabby mentally and physically on 8½ hours a week practice.

Arthur Oakley of the Football Association and a director of first-division Wolverhampton Wanderers was quoted by Hackett as saying:

"If the players put as much spirit into their play as they put in demanding more money, we would soon have some great teams."

Hackett disagreed and accused club directors and managers of responsibility for the week-long "soft" schedule asked of players.

England's team—and those of Ireland, Scotland and Wales—is selected several days before international matches and spends a few days training and playing together. Hungary's red-shirted team has been together more than three years.

New Split In Receipts Not Acceptable

KITCHENER (CP)—A proposal for a new split in gate receipts is unacceptable, the Kitchener auditorium commission was told Friday in a letter from the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Senior A Hockey club.

The auditorium proposes to give the club 70 per cent on the first $2,000 and 50 per cent on receipts over that amount.

Joey Giambra KO's Jimmy Herring In 4th Round

Giambra, fifth ranking middleweight contender, caught the 21-year-old Herring with a right flush to the jaw, sending him flat on his back.

Herring clambered to one knee as Miller's count reached eight and started to rise as nine was tolled. Herring appeared to be up just a fraction of a second before Miller said 10.

SATISFIED WITH REFEREE

Herring's manager, Ralph Cuomo ran around the apron of the ring yelling "no, no, no." Herring turned to the referee and shouted "Ray, no, I was up in time."

Asked for his reaction to the count, Boxing Commission Chairman Bob Christenberry said: "We had a good referee in there, a former fighter."

Giambra weighed 158; Herring 160½.

Lach Cracks Leg Bone Canadiens Now Running Out Of Centres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens, a club that doesn't quibble about dollars and cents when bartering with hockey players, is running out of regular centres. The Canadiens, in second place in the National Hockey League, counted only two centres today for their two-game weekend series against Boston Bruins. They have lost the services of Elmer Lach, out with a cracked leg bone. The 35-year-old veteran injured the leg Nov. 26 and X-rays showed the break Friday. He will be out until early January.

It was a big blow to the Montrealers. They were juggling lines to fill in for centres Jean Beliveau and 22-year-old Dickie Moore.

And, to make matters worse, they will go against the fourth-place Bruins in Montreal tonight without defenceman Dollard St. Laurent. He suffered a broken nose in a game against the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night and may be out for a week.

THREE GAMES TONIGHT

In two other games tonight, the leading Detroit Red Wings meet the Leafs, and the fifth-place New York Rangers travel to Chicago for a game against the Black Hawks.

On Sunday it will be Canadiens at Boston, Toronto at New York and Chicago at Detroit.

The Canadiens, only one point behind Detroit, will keep centre Paul Masnick for a while. He was called up from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League last week. Johnny (The Goose) McCormack is the other pivot man.

Moore suffered a shoulder fracture early in the season and Beliveau came out of a game in Chicago Oct. 22 with a cracked fibula near the ankle.

Rev. F. G. Ongley Takes Over At St. John's

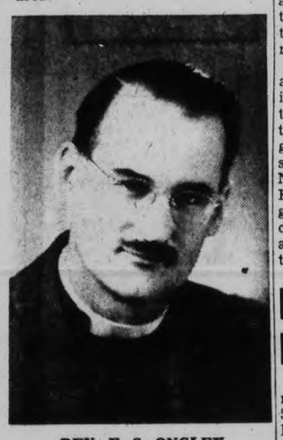
On Sunday the Rev. F. G. Ongley will enter the pulpit of St. John's Anglican church as the new rector of the parish. He succeeds Archdeacon W. P. Robertson who, however, will continue for another year as rector emeritus.

Mr. Ongley, who comes to Peterborough from Brandon, Manitoba, will be formally inducted 8 p.m. Wednesday, in a special service at the church with the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, bishop of the Toronto diocese, officiating.

After the induction service a reception will be held in the parish hall where the congregation can meet their new rector and his wife.

Mr. Ongley was born in Hamilton and he was ordained after graduating from Trinity College, Toronto, in 1939. His first parish was St. Clement's in North Toronto. Next, he went to All Saints' church in Collingwood.

RCAF PADRE



For 5½ years he was a padre in the RCAF, serving overseas in England and Germany.

After he was discharged in 1947 he was appointed rector of St. Matthew's Cathedral, Brandon, Manitoba. And he remained there until he was appointed to the Peterborough parish.

Mr. Ongley is married to an Ottawa girl, the former Frances Brittain. They have three children, two of school age: Edwin 12, Catherine 10, and George, two months.

At present the new rector and his family are busy getting settled into the rectory.

His first impressions: "We've had a wonderful welcome. We've certainly been delighted by the reception—both by the people and by the weather . . . Really we're coming home because we know this area."

Boy 4, To Fly Back Alone To Canada

SWANSEA, Wales (Reuters) — Little Frazer McInnes, who'll be four next week, will fly home to Canada all by himself, but he's had to wait a whole year to do it.

Frazer's grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Charles Parfitt of Swansea, brought him back with them after a visit to his parents in Brockville, Ont., last year. He couldn't go home earlier because he was too young.

But on his birthday next week he will comply with an airline regulation stating all unaccompanied passengers must be at least four.

Vandenburg Ailing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg has been placed on the "seriously ill" list at Walter Reed Army Hospital. Hospital officials said the retired air force chief of staff took a slight turn for the worse two days ago. In 1952 he underwent a serious abdominal operation for causes which were never officially stated.

Push Campaign Oust Guerrillas

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations political committee Friday night wound up its Burmese debate, urging that efforts be continued to get Chinese Nationalist guerrillas troops to give up their arms, get out of Burma. The United States promised to throw its weight behind the effort.

The proposal, carried 51-0 with only the Soviet bloc and Syria abstaining, also urged all states to refrain from giving aid to the irregulars, who took refuge in Burma after the Communist conquest of their homeland. Burma accuses them of looting its land and harrassing its people.

Burma claims there were originally some 12,000 Chinese Nationalists inside its borders following their retreat from Red armies in their own homeland. Burma charges the refugee forces have been supplied and directed from the Nationliast Chinese stronghold of Formosa — a charge the Taipeh government denies. Agreement recently was reached for the disarming and evacuation of 2,000 of these troops.

Farm Machinery Workers Farmers Combine In Need

A recent brief of the steel and automobile workers' unions of Hamilton and Brantford "was one of the best I have ever seen presenting the case of farmers", V. S. Milburn, Toronto, told the Peterborough Milk Producers Friday night.

The brief submitted to the federal government proposals which the Unions recommended for the reviving of employment in factories producing farm implements.

"I felt that they told our story more effectively than we have been able to do ourselves," Mr. Milburn said.

The factory employees urged, in part, that the government endeavor to enlarge the export of both farm machinery and farm products. Their Unions approached the Federation of Agriculture for support of their brief, which, in turn, was passed on to its county branches. Peterborough Federation several weeks ago indicated approval of various clauses.

"With their income they are able to engage skilled people competent to write briefs of that kind," Mr. Milburn said. "Those Unions came to us to try to get helpful remedies for us and themselves. There has been a great deal of unemployment in farm machinery plants as a result of the decline in the buying power of farmers. It is significant of improved understanding of our interdependence that they are more conscious of the importance of the buying power of farmers, and that means farm income.

NOT TO BLAME

It was evident from their brief that they realize that farmers are not responsible for the increase in the cost of living. In it, incidentally, they tell our story more effectively than we have been able to do."

Although the circumstances were regrettable, Mr. Milburn said there was at least some gain in better relations from the fact that the industrial worker realized probably more than ever before that he is largely dependent on the buying power of agriculture.

"It is important we should be able to get together, and I feel that we have made some real progress as shown by the Unions asking us to endorse their brief."

Another striking development this year, Mr. Milburn said, was a gathering trend within the dairy industry of Canada to set up an equalization fund for the support of its groups. It was talked about a year ago, but fell through. Ontario Whole Milk Producers suggested that they contribute ten cents per 100 pounds of milk, and the other groups proportionally. Administration was to be by their representatives. If such a fund had been available there would probably not have been a drop of 10c in cheese.

BETTER THAN LOSS

Mr. Milburn said it was surely better to build up a fund than to take a loss by being unable to provide support for dairy products when it was needed.

"Groups are getting together to ask the government for amending legislation to enable them to take the check-off on a percentage basis. Others like yourselves will be asked for your approval of this policy."

The experience of the Cheese Producers had pointed up a means of solving the export market problem by the enterprise of farmers. "Eventually it is believed we will be able to get away from government, and dependence on them, and sell abroad that part of our products that can't be sold at home—just as industry does. This whole project affects what you get for milk right here."

A motion by Harry Jackson and Howard Clark went so far as to endorse the principle of setting up a proposed equalization fund. It carried unanimously. As Mr. Milburn said, the details have to be evolved, legislative amendment secured, and then the scheme will be referred back for producer approval.

Henry Sharpe spoke of the action in the United States to extend the seasonal set-aside for the financing of dairy promotional plans and publicity. Across the border, dairy interests were making the collection the year round.

A motion by Mr. Sharpe and Richard Coughlin recommended to the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League consideration of a similar course. It was also adopted.

MORE ADVERTISING

The June set aside, Mr. Milburn said, was larger than ever this year, and Mr. Sharpe urged that the advertising of dairy products to the consuming public should be more broadly sustained.

Another resolution requested the Milk Producers League to carry on negotiations for maintenance of the present price agreement in the Peterborough market.

Eddie Butler was chairman of the meeting. He and Mr. Milburn were re-elected to their respective offices. They have been together at the head of the Peterborough Milk Producers continuously since 1928, a service of 26 years that has grown in the appreciation of the producing membership.

Harry Jackson said he believed that through the connections of Mr. Milburn, the Peterborough Milk Producers were kept better informed than any similar branch in the province.

"I have said it before," Mr. Milburn told the largely attended meeting, "that since leaving Peterborough for Toronto I have received various honors, but there is none that I am more proud of than being secretary of the Peterborough Milk Producers Association."

Delegates to the annual convention of the Milk Producers League, Jan. 7-8 in Toronto, are: Stuart Nelson, Morris Telford, Court Lillico, Harley Cathcart and Mr. Butler.

The members also decided to send John Edmison and Harold Lewis to the dairy shortcourse at O.A.C., Guelph, during the week of the Christmas vacation.

Newspaper Strike Enters Second Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York City newspaper strike entered its second week today as negotiators and federal mediators renewed efforts to resolve a deadlocked wage dispute between publishers and photo-engravers.

New Yorkers seemed increasingly lost without any major local daily to read, although television and radio has been striving to fill the news vacuum created by the walkout which started last Saturday.

After Friday's negotiation meetings all parties reported "absolutely no change" in the situation.

Later in the day, officials of striking Local 1 of the International Photo-Engravers Union (AFL) and other unions affected by the walkout held a two-hour session. After it ended, Thomas Murphy, executive vice-president of CIO Newspaper Guild Local 3 commented: "Things look no better today than last week and they were bad then."

LOSSES ARE HUGE

The strike, especially during this pre-holiday season, has caused losses in merchandising, advertising and wages running into many millions of dollars.

Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade journal, said editorially Friday that the New York City newspaper unions were "completely irresponsible" and had "suppressed a free press."

The trade magazine said the Taft-Hartley labor law should be amended to ban strikes in any communications industry, adding that "mandatory arbitration is called for. Communications are the lifeline of this country."

GUILD MAN REPLIES

From Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Joseph Collis, president of the Newspaper Guild, issued a statement which said in part:

"Free press, apparently is construed by the publishers to mean they are free to publish when they wish, and free not to publish when they wish. . . .

"Some of the papers in New York are afraid to publish. This has been demonstrated by the fact that two papers which previously published have been whipped into line by the closed shop of their own union. . . ."

Collis was referring to The Herald Tribune, which voluntarily closed down two days after the other six major city newspapers, and the Long Island Star-Journal, which stopped printing Friday when its stereotypers refused to handle comics and news to have been carried as paid advertising from the six strikebound newspapers.

Jet To Attend Show

LONDON (Reuters) — The Canberra jet bomber which won the England-New Zealand air race in October will fly to the United States next week to attend the 50th anniversary celebration of powered flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. The air ministry announced Friday night that the plane will be handled by the race-winning crew —Flt. Lt. R. L. E. Burton, pilot, and Flt. Lt. D. H. Gammon, navigator.

OLD AND NEW — Forty-one years of aviation progress in the form of a jet-powered Boeing B-47 zooms past a 1912 pusher-type plane piloted by its owner, Billy Parker, of Bartlesville, Okla. Parker's craft can be kept airborne for 90 minutes, can reach a ground speed of 65 miles an hour and has a ceiling of between 8,000 and 9,000 feet. The Boeing has knifed through the stratosphere at 794 miles an hour, and can operate at altitudes of above 40,000 feet.

McCarthy Disputes White House Returns

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy kept an eye today on White House tallying of returns from his "tell it to Eisenhower" plea for messages from the American people how they stand on foreign policy.

But he seemed to have abandoned his earlier announced plan to send a message himself to President Eisenhower, now attending the Big Three conference in Bermuda, if the McCarthy tally keeps running ahead of the White House count.

"I think the president himself should be informed," the Wisconsin Republican senator had said Friday night shortly after he charged, and the White House denied, that someone on Eisenhower's staff was making a short count through an "honest . . . but grievous mistake."

HAPPY TO SEE REVISION

But later, after the White House reported receipt of more telegrams and a backlog of others, McCarthy said:

"I'm happy to see the revised figures. We'll check our figures back and forth and I think they'll finally jibe."

McCarthy called for letters and telegrams to the president Thursday after repeating his contention that United States aid should be stopped to any Free-World countries which trade with Communist China. He said Americans who share this view should tell it to Eisenhower.

EISENHOWER DISAGREES

The president and State Secretary Dulles have taken the position that attempted coercion of allies would endanger Free-World unity.

Late Friday, Murray Snyder, assistant presidential press secretary, said 1,500 telegrams had been received up to 4 p. m., as well as about 50 letters. He said he would announce today how many favored McCarthy and how many upheld Eisenhower and Dulles.

He said he had learned that 2,087 telegrams had been delivered by midnight the night before, and that many hundreds more were delivered during the day. He said he also had learned there was a mounting backlog of about 1,700 other messages.

Snyder at first stuck to the 1,500 total, but later said it had risen to 2,030 by 8 p. m. He said Western Union told him it had a backlog of 1,800 more.

SUPPORT EISENHOWER

The Toledo (Ohio) Blade, meanwhile, found itself swamped with requests after offering to write letters for its readsrs who support Eisenhower.

In a page-one display Friday The Blade suggested "let's all write the president" and invited phone calls from readers who wished their names signed to this letter:

"Dear Mr. President: We supported you before and we do now. We still like Ike."

The Blade also offered to forward any messages backing McCarthy's stand.

By 7 p. m. Friday night it had 3,034 names listed as supporting Eisenhower and 49 indicating support for McCarthy.

McCarthy said his own office had received about 200 telegrams Friday. He said they ran at the rate of about 50 to 1 in favor of his stand.

Police Uncover Abortion Mill

MONTREAL (CP)—A 26-year-old blond woman was sought by police today as the operator of an abortion mill which they say was responsible for the death of an unmarried girl.

Det.-Capt. Henry Bond, head of the homicide squad, said the wanted woman was out on bail on another criminal operation case when the search began. Other detectives said informants told them the mill may have been handling as many as eight abortions a day.

Four other persons were taken into custody and police said one of these, still being held, assisted in the fatal operation. The three others, released after signing declarations, may serve as crown witnesses.

The unwed mother was operated on last week-end and later died in hospital.

Provide Free Skating For School Children

WARKWORTH (ENS) — The Business Men's Association met in Carlaw's hotel.

C. W. Young of Brighton, public school inspector of Northumberland county, was guest speaker. He gave the basic requirements of a good teacher and other educational matters of current times.

Plans were made for the turkey bingo on December 18 in the town hall. Arrangements were discussed for the Santa Claus entertainment.

It was decided to provide free skating on Saturday afternoons for all public school children.

St. Andrew's YWA Holds Meeting

NORWOOD —(ENS)—Monthly meeting of the Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. H. Morgan, who was in charge of the program.

The first item was a reading by Mrs. Morgan "What Star Is This?" This was followed by a hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and a prayer by Mrs. W. Bongard. Mrs. Gordon Rothwell gave a reading "Christmas Letter".

The scripture, St. Luke 2:8-20, was read by Mrs. Harry Kavanagh. Miss Ruth Davey sang a solo "Dear Little Stranger".

The topic "What We Can Do to Help Africa" was given by Mrs. R. D. Duncanson, concerning the needs of the Christian church in Africa and in what ways the Western Christians can help.

Mrs. S. Cassidy gave a reading on "Keeping Christmas". Mrs. Burtt gave another reading, 'Christmas and Nothing to Give." Mrs. Morgan gave another reading, "Christmas Eve."

Mrs. Cecil Cuthbertson was in charge of the business part of the meeting. The roll call showed an attendance of 23, 17 members and 6 visitors. A hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful" was sung.

Mrs. Morgan and her joint hostesses, Miss J. Campbell and Mrs. Burtt served lunch. A vote of thanks was tendered to these ladies and also to Mrs. Morgan for opening her house for the meeting.

Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Average wholesale prices in the United States as reported by the bureau of labor statistics rose two-tenths of one per cent during the week ended Dec. 1. The index advanced to 110.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Higher average prices for farm products and processed foods were largely responsible for the increase.

To The Electors

In the interests of fair play, I would like to express my views on city affairs and to offer a few reminders to the electors of this city before Election Day, December 7th.

On nomination night last week, a few of our aldermen showed very poor taste in mentioning the shortcomings of Mr. Graham. Might I remind these men that Mr. Graham was, as an alderman, responsible to the electors of our city, not to the council. We were well aware of Mr. Graham's character when we elected him to the council a few years ago.

Mr. Graham's fortitude and determination to clean up our affairs at City Hall more than offset any faults he may have. After all, we know the state of affairs at City Hall and a few strange things that are going on, and yet we do nothing about them except talk about them on the streets, boot them around, ridicule the responsible official and shake our heads.

It is the general opinion of most of the public with whom I have discussed these matters, not only in Peterborough but in three other cities in Ontario, that most of this mess is created by one city official who is not elected by the people. Yet year after year we go to the polls and support the candidates who have placed this official on his high pedestal.

When Mr. Graham first resigned from the council, he brought these matters to our attention and stated that he would be a candidate for alderman at the next election, to see if the electors were behind his clean-up policy. So what happened at that election? Mr. Graham was re-elected and drew a very handsome vote. Remember? Or do you want to?

For this reason it is the electors of this city (yes, you and I!) who are being judged and I sincerely hope that we measure-up when we go to the polls December 7th. I am sure Mr. Graham's only desire to be mayor is to enable him to do a clean-up job that he found impossible to do as an alderman from lack of support at City Hall.

Mr. Graham as mayor could not ruin our city in two years, but on the other hand he could do a lot of good if we give him aldermen who have the courage of their convictions and who are not satisfied with present city affairs.

Sportsmen Will Honor Billy Hewitt Watched Canadian Sport Grow 60 Years

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP) — Billy Hewitt has watched Canadian sport grow up for more than 60 years and says he still gets "a big kick out of it every day."

Billy's "biggest kick" is due tonight when 500 sportsmen from Canada and the United States will honor him at a testimonial dinner here. It marks Billy's 50th year as secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association, 49 of them by acclamation.

The soft-spoken, kindly-eyed little man, whose colorful career has taken him from a $4-a-week job as copy boy on the old Toronto News, through a 31-year stint as sports editor of the Toronto Daily Star and into administrative positions in hockey, football and horse racing, says he wouldn't "miss a minute of it."

ALL-ROUND SPORTSMAN

Probably no one in Canada has been as close to the unfolding sports panorama as 78-year-old William Arthur Hewitt, son of a clothing merchant—and known affectionately to his hundreds of friends as Billy. Modest almost to a fault, Billy nevertheless takes justifiable pride in the part he has played in the development of Canadian sport.

He nursed the OHA into the big-group of its kind in the world. He played a large role in the formation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Inter-provincial Rugby Football Union and has kept his finger on the pulse of Canadian and international sport from his early teens.

Billy refereed hundreds of boxing bouts in Toronto, managed the old Torontos senior football club for three years early in the century, managed three Canadian Olympic hockey championship teams in the '20s, saw more hockey games than probably any one in the world and has judged thousands of horse races.

PRODIGIOUS MEMORY

He has a prodigious memory and can recount the highlights of Canadian and American sport since the turn of the century. He remembers the days of seven-man hockey when two uprights stuck in the ice represented the goal and when the goal judge stood on the ice directly behind and signalled a score by waving a handkerchief.

He vividly recalls the July 4, 1919, day in Toledo when Jack Dempsey won the world heavyweight title from Jess Willard. He reported it for the Toronto Star. On the same bill was Toronto's Soldier Jones, a hard-punching, wild-swinging tough guy who lost a 10-round decision to Gene Tunney.

"Tunney kept away from Jones for the 10 rounds," Billy recalled in an interview.

But his one love is hockey. "I watched just about every game, professional and amateur in Maple Leaf Gardens from the time it opened in 1931 until 1948," he says. "I guess I've seen more games than most people," he says.

As registrar-treasurer of the CAHA since 1922 he has kept track of the game's stars.

REPORTS TO OFFICE

He reports to his office in Maple Leaf Gardens every day—six days a week during the hockey season and five in the summer months. He would make it a six-day summer-time job but there's no one to talk to in OHA offices during that period.

Billy Hewitt was born in Cobourg, May 15th, 1875, and moved to Toronto four years later. At 14 he got an after-school job as copy boy on the Toronto News, rose to become sports editor of the four-page hand-set newspaper, moved to Montreal as sports editor of The Herald in 1899, returned to Toronto as sports editor of The Star in 1900 and remained there until 1931.

He was appointed secretary of the OHA Dec, 8, 1903, and to the CAHA post in 1923 after he helped form the organization in 1914. He was patrol judge at Woodbine racetrack in 1905, became chief steward of the Canadian Incorporated Racing Association in 1937 after many years as assistant steward and three years ago was appointed commissioner steward of the Ontario racing commission.

He managed the Torontos football team in 1904 and held the job when the team merged with Argonauts in 1905, until 1907. He was one of the men responsible for calling a meeting to organize the Big Four union into its present team strength—Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and Montreal.

CUSHY JOB NOW

The OHA now has a manager and Billy says with a twinkle in his eye: "He does the dirty work—I just supervise."

The five-foot-four-inch Billy, who says he played hockey and football "whenever anybody was a man short," is recognized by sportsmen as a respected legislator.

His son, Foster, noted hockey broadcaster, gained much more fame than Billy. In the early days of radio, Billy saw the possibilities of that medium in popularizing the game he loves and steered his son towards radio work.

"There isn't a game in the world to match hockey," Billy says. "And I'll take today's type of hockey over that of the ol ddays. The tempo has increased tremendously."

Bowmanville Pair Pull Big Upset

TORONTO (CP)—Local and out-of-town players broke about even in the first and second rounds of the Carlton Club's invitation Badminton B tournament Friday.

Out-of-town players entered the competition Friday for the first time. Semi-finals will start today with the finals Sunday afternoon.

Doreen Redock and Bob Gallagher of Bowmanville pulled one of the biggest upsets, by eliminating Claire Fuller and John Pick of Toronto High Park, 16-17, 15-11 and 15-7 in the third round of the mixed doubles.

Top match in the men's singles was Toronto's Chef Cherney's victory over Gord Ball of Kitchener. Cherney won 14-15, 15-13 and 15-7.

Two Horses Win Heat At Dufferin

Laurel Axworthy, handled by Harold McKinley, went into a long lead at the start of the first heat and coasted home by three lengths. Lynchburg Lady was second and Daisy P. Grattan third.

Bobbie Jane, with Bud Gilmour driving, forced the pace throughout the second heat. Daisy P. Grattan tired after pacing in front most of the way and ended second. Laurel Axworthy was third.

TORONTO (CP)—Errol Russell, an organizer of minor hockey in Sarnia, today was named 1953 winner of the Honor Award of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

In 1942 he organized an outdoor hockey league in Sarnia and later a pee-wee league and a "squirt" league, which last winter each operated 12 teams. He was one of the first officers of the Sarnia Minor Hockey Association.

Guelph Pounds Greenshirts 14-4 In Scoring Spree

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a field day for scorers. Forty-four goals were scored in three league games.

For their third consecutive game Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts were swamped. This time the lowly Guelph Biltmores had a crack at the weakened Shirts as they walloped them 14-4. Kitchener has had 36 goals scored against them in the last three games. The Greenshirts have beaten opposing netminders only eight times during that time.

In other games, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors drew to within two points of St. Catharines TeePees by bouncing the league-leaders 6-3 in St. Catharines and the last-place Quebec Citadelles upset Barrie Flyers 9-8 in Barrie.

Bob Attersley scored four goals as Guelph trimmed the Greenshirts. It was also a profitable night for Ron Howell and Bob Forhan who scored three and two goals respectively. Dave Gardiner, Paul Midghall, Ed Shack, Wally Para and John Gillis notched singles.

Garry Collins, one of Kitchener's few remaining regulars, bagged two for the Shirts with the others going to Bill Wharmsby and Whitey Youngberg.

THREE PAIRS SCORED

Stan Parker, Mike Ratchford and Moe Mantha each tallied twice as the Citadelles counted their first victory over the Flyers this season. Gaston Pelletier, Pat Prestley and Claude Doyon added singles.

George Raneriri led the Barrie attackers with three goals. Bob White, Arnold Smith, Jim Robertson, Cleland Mortson and Ed McQueen rounded out the Barrie total.

St. Michael's victory was also their first over the TeePees. It was the first loss for St. Catharines in 10 home games.

SHARE SCORING

Brian Anderson, Dick Duff, Ken Linesman, Bill Colvin, Paul Knox and Les Duff shared the scoring for the Irish, Hugh Barlow, Elmer Vasko and Jack Armstrong countered for the TeePees.

Barrie plays the Hawks in Galt and St. Catharines meets the Tigers in Hamilton tonight. Quebec travels to St. Michael's and Hamilton take on Toronto Marlboros in Toronto Sunday.

Windsor Smothers Sarnia With 11-4 Win

by THE CANADIAN PRESS

First place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series has been taking a beating from two teams—Windsor Bulldogs and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen—but Friday night things evened up.

Windsor smothered Sarnia Legionaires 11-4 in Sarnia while the Dutchmen fought to a 2-2 overtime draw with Hamilton Tigers in Hamilton, leaving the Bulldogs and Kitchener deadlocked for first place.

Chatham Maroons took a 4-3 home-ice decision over Stratford Indians in the other league game.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Sudbury Wolves needed an extra period to put down the pesky Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 6-4 in Sudbury.

GORDON SINKS THREE

Garry Gordon counted four times for the Bulldogs. Lyle Wiseman and Walt Pawlyshyn potted two each and Johnny Horeck, Art Keyes and Frank Bathgate completed the total. Ollie Haddon, Harry O'Connor, Tommy Jamieson and Vern Gardiner shared the scoring for the Sailors.

Chatham held off a last-period Stratford rally in Chatham. Maroons held a 4-1 lead after a scoreless second period. Frank Bonello, Bill Lee, Danny Blair and Eddie Didone were the Chatham marksmen. Herve Dejordy, Mickey Roth and Lou Bendo tallied for the Indians.

Hamilton scored one goal in each of the first and second periods and then fell apart as the Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, surged back with a pair of markers in the third.

Jack Taylor gave the Tabbies a 1-0 lead in the first and then set up Lloyd Ferguson's marker in the second. Doug Verity put the Dutchmen in the scoring column in the third and Jerry Theberge fired the equalizer six minutes later.

SUDBURY FIRST

Andy Milne notched two goals for Sudbury to lead them into sole possession of first place in the NOHA. Mauno Kauppi added a single.

Windsor and Kitchener will attempt to settle first place at Kitchener, Saturday while Sarnia is at Stratford and Chatham is at Owen Sound Mercurys. Hamilton journeys to Windsor Sunday.

In the NOHA Saturday North Bay Trappers meet the Greyhounds in Sault, Ont., and Sudbury takes on the Lumber Kings in Pembroke. North Bay travels to Sault, Mich., Sunday.

House Moves To Clear Way For All-Canadian Gas Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP)—Government and Parliament are moving to clear the way for a $300,000,000 project to pipe Alberta gas into Ontario and Quebec.

Trade Minister Howe told a press conference Friday he will meet soon with two pipe line companies which must get together if they want to send Alberta gas east.

The Commons also approved a bill providing for federal control over interprovincial and international gas and oil pipe lines.

Among other things, the bill would give the board of transport commissioners jurisdiction over the proposal of Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto to bring in United States gas by pipe line. It would also require federal chartering of interprovincial and international pipe line companies.

WOULD REDUCE VAULE

Government experts have said the entry of U.S. gas into the rich Toronto market would reduce the economic value of a pipe line to the east from Alberta.

Mr. Howe was commenting on the Alberta government's announcement that it will release gas to eastern Canada provided the two major competing companies form a joint operation.

The companies are Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., which has planned an all-Canadian line into Ontario and Quebec and Western Pipe Lines, which would build a line as far as Winnipeg and then send gas into the Minneapolis area.

CANADIAN ROUTE

He emphasized, however, the government's first consideration is to get Alberta gas to the east by an all-Canadian line. A line could be built to ship gas into the American west, but the all-Canadian line first must be assured.

He did not rule out the possibility of the Consumers' gas proposal to import U.S. gas, but said the company must show that its operations would fit into the cross-country pipe line plan.

The president of Western Pipe Lines said Friday at Winnipeg his company would give full co-operation to the proposal for amalgamating operations with Trans-Canada Pipe Lines. The latter company had no immediate comment.

START IN SUMMER

Mr. Howe said he hopes the project can start by next summer and estimated construction would take at least two years.

Meanwhile, the Commons approved in principle a bill amending the Pipe Lines Act. Some opposition members suggested the bill be studied by the railway committee could no tbe formed until late next week and the issue was one of "some urgency."

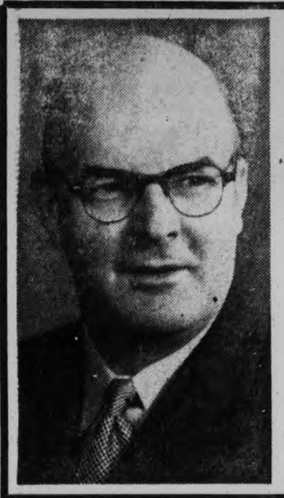
Operation Santa Claus To Start For RCAF

OTTAWA (CP) — Operation "Santa Claus," the RCAF's annual jaunt into the Arctic to bring Christmas cheer to men on Canada's northern frontier, opens next week.

Four RCAF aircraft, flying from Dorval, Que., will carry two tons of Christmas mail to lonely arctic outposts.



Drums of oil will be ignited at each lonely point to guide the planes as they drop the packages of mail and gifts from relatives and friends back home.

Industrials Led Market Upward During Week

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Industrials led stock market activity upward this week.

New York, Montreal and Toronto exchanges showed mostly higher prices in moderate trading with industrial issues the principal gainers. Mines and oils, although not as strong, also displayed an upward trend.

In Toronto, banks were the strong issues as several sessions saw a solid list of gains. Papers and steels were also higher. Liquors, strong for more than a month, eased.

Base metals were led by Hudson Bay on the announcement that it had struck high-grade copper ore at its Flin Flon property. Most other seniors followed, although juniors hung back.

DEPRESSING EFFECT

The long-awaited Edmonton decision on oil-gas exports had a depressing effect on western oils. The Alberta government has declared its willingness to permit exports, but has delayed the granting of permits until facilities and markets are developed.

Toronto golds reached a new low Friday. A few lower-priced specialties made temporary gains.

The New York exchange had the sharpest rise. The week began with a continuation of previous strength as railroads joined the upward trend. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was $1.20 higher at $109.80.

HIGHER DURING WEEK

Montreal industrial issues were higher throughout most of the week, although mines and oils were erratic. Banks, papers, steels and utilities were the strong elements. Metals were a little higher. The Friday - to - Friday comparison showed banks up .66 at 36.28, utilities up .60 at 94.00, industrials up 6.60 at 186.50, combined up 4.60 at 155.70, papers up 10.24 at 782.46 and golds up 70 at 49.55.

The Toronto Friday - to - Friday comparison showed industrials up 442 at 312.58, golds down .32 at 67.13, base metals up .80 at 144.85 and western oils up .64 at 88.78.

On the bond market, issues were moving quickly with both Canadian and United States investors taking advantage of current high rates

Alberta Decision Praised In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario government officials Friday praised Alberta's decision to permit its natural gas to be piped to Ontario.

They said natural gas from the west will enable Ontario industry to continue to develop.

Ontario's next step in the natural gas situation is a complete survey of the potential markets in the province's large industrial plants.

Premier Manning of Alberta announced Thursday his province is prepared to export up to four trillion cubic feet of gas annually and that he favors an all-Canadian line.

Stirling Man Vice-President Of Ont. Creamery Association

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Creamery Association called on the federal government Friday to impose a 15-cents-a-pound excise tax on oleomargarine.

Its resolution said such a step would narrow the price advantage the vegetable oil spread enjoys over butter. Margarine now sells for about half as much as butter.

The convention passed the resolution as the association, representing the producers of 90 per cent of Ontario's butter producers, ended its two-day annual convention.

The resolution was similar in intent to a proposal made to the meeting Thursday by J. J. Creighton of Tatamagouche president of the National Dairy Council, who urged imposition of stiff tariff duties on imported vegetable oils used in making margarine.

Association members said raising the price of margarine would increase butter consumption and help use Canada's butter surplus.

APPROVE ONTARIO BAN

In another resolution, the association expressed its approval of Ontario's ban on sale of colored margarine.

H. H. Leslie of Seaforth was elected president of the 192-member association, succeeding L. A. Reddick of Kemptville.

Vice-presidents for 1954 are J. J. Finnegan, Perth; Harold West, Stirling; James D. Hogarth, Forest; J. S. Tranter, Richards Landing.

WIN $10,000—Two young Windsor architects received congratulations on their winning entry in the Windsor centennial festival committee contest for design of a new civic auditorium. Douglas C. Johnson, 30 (centre), and his partner, Cunningham S. McWhinnie, 29 (right), display the prize-winning design as they are congratulated by George D. Gibson, chairman of the board of judges. The two did not know they had won the $10,000 prize until the committee summoned all seven competing firms to a meeting when sealed envelopes were opened. If the auditorium is erected, the $10,000 will be part of the architects' fee. If the building is not built, the award will be made in cash to the firm.

Special Speedometers Urged For Cars

DENVER (AP)—One thing governor Dan Thornton has been asked to have the Colorado legislature consider next January probably won't prove at all popular with motorists.

The proposal is that all automobile owners be required to install recording speedometers. These would make a permanent record of the speeds travelled.

Period inspections would be made by the state. If the speedometers showed any speed in excess of the legal limit, motorists would be fined.

SENTENCED TO 3 MONTHS

SUDBURY (CP) — Alexander Marois of Sudbury Friday was sentenced to three months in reformatory on a charge of dangerous driving. He was charged after the death in a traffic accident of Frank Villeneuve, 17, of nearby Garson.

United Nations Decide Not To Debate Issue Now

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations political committee turned today to Korea, generally agreed not to debate the issue now but reported split on how and when to recall the assembly should the current Korean peace conference negotiations break down.

There were reports the Soviet bloc might launch a campaign for an immediate debate, but most delegates apparently felt it would be best to avoid discussion. The main fight in the 60-member committee has been over two procedural resolutions.

Both proposals called for a recess instead of an adjournment when the assembly winds up its business next week, but they conflicted on the recall question.

A Brazilian proposal, backed by the United States and its 15 Korean war allies, called for recessing the assembly indefinitely, subject to recall if and when a majority of the assembly considers it necessary. The resolution was said to have the support of the 20 Latin-American members.

INDIAN PROPOSAL

An Indian proposal would recess until about Feb. 9 with the recall decision left up to the assembly president, India's Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit.

A diplomatic source said India's chief elegate, V. K. Krishna Menon, notified the Arab-Asian bloc that his government would regard as unfriendly any state which opposed the Indian move. Menon was said to have read bloc members a telegram to that effect from prime minister Nehru.

A UN informant said the Indians are not too hopeful of getting their resolution through the committee. If they fail, he added, they will try to work out a compromise.

FURNITURE CENTRE

More than one-third of Canada's 1,430 furniture factories in 1951 were located in southwestern Ontario.

Would Convert Park Into Car Parking Lot

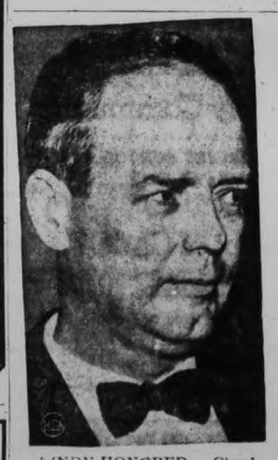
TORONTO (CP)—A plan to convert Exhibition Park into a mammoth parking lot accommodating between 3,000 and 6,000 cars, was suggested Friday by Alderman Joseph Gould.

There are 305,000 cars registered in Toronto and an additional 135,000 come daily into the city from the suburbs.

Alderman Gould said he would put the plan before the controllers Dec. 14.

Will Discuss Election Act Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill indicated Friday that a House committee will be established at a future session to study changes in the Election Act.



He was commenting on a suggestion by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) that the committee be set up this session. The suggestion was endorsed by Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

The discussion arose as the Commons debated the first government measure of the session.

The bill would permit the use of printed election material on hand in any federal by-election or northwest Territories election from now until the next general election. It was given second reading—approve in principle — and passed through the committee stage.

Mr. Pickersgill said the present stocks of election material, based on the election act of 1938, would no longer be useable under the revised statues, effective this year, unless they were made valid by the bill.

It would take six months to print new election papers to conform to the revised statutes and a by-election might become necessary within that time.

LINDY HONORED — Charles A. Lindbergh is the winner of the 1953 Daniel Guggenheim award for "Pioneering Achievements in Flight and Navigation." He was cited for his flight to Paris in 1927, work in mapping domestic and overseas air routes and his technical contributions to this country's aircraft industry.

Coventry Nativity Play To Be Shown In Churches

As a contribution to the movement to "Bring Christ back into Christmas," two Peterborough churches are presenting the Coventry Nativity Play next week. It will be seen in Trinity United Church from Tuesday, December 8th to the 10th, and in St. Luke's Anglican Church on Friday and Saturday of the same week.

The play is being presented by the Peterborough Little Theatre as a non-profit venture. What the Little Theatre receives will simply cover its expenses in mounting and costuming the play. In order that there may be as little suggestion as possible of personal seeking in the performance, all the actors will perform anonymously.

The music for the play is being provided by the Coventry Singers, a group which had its beginning in a choir formed in connection with performances of this play in Peterborough a few years ago.

Performances will take place in both churches, rather than in the church halls. This 600-year-old play was written to be performed in places of worship and a church proper, rather than a theatre, is its natural home.

Tickets may be obtained from members of either of the participating churches, and it is hoped that this celebration of the true origin of Christmas will appeal to many people.

Main Street Topics

INJURES FINGER

Ralph Garbutt, 42, of RR 1, Lakefield, was given outpatient treatment at Civic Hospital on Friday for a crushed little finger. A litter carrier was reported to have fallen on the finger.

LATE SNAKE

A grass snake that should have gone into hibernation weeks ago was seen today by Lyle Black, RR 10, Peterborough, in a woods on his farm near the 11th concession. He was apparently fooled by the warm autumn and when the temperature dropped today, couldn't find his shelter.

ADVANCE POLL

Voters who, in the ordinary course of their business or employment, will be absent from Peterborough on Monday, have until 5:00 p.m. today to cast their ballots in the municipal election for mayor, aldermen and board of education. The advance poll is at city hall.

MAN BADLY BURNED

Robert Meredith, 26, of 255 Swanston Ave., received severe first and second degree burns Friday when some liquid that was being heated spilled over him. The handle of the pot containing the liquid gave way and the contents spilled over him, burning his left hand, ears and back. He is in satisfactory condition in Civic Hospital today.

TO BELLEVILLE

A group of 10 junior YMCA leaders will attend an eastern Ontario leaders' conference at the Belleville YMCA today. Included in the pogram will be a demonstration of compulsory exercises for 1954. An exhibition basketball game between Peterborough and Belleville 'Y' clubs will also take place followed by an eastern Ontario Intermediate 'B' league meeting.

Damage Slight In 4 Collisions

Four collisions, causing total estimated damage of $895 to four vehicles, occurred in the city Friday. No one was reported injured.

Trucks driven by Michael Crebar of Armour Rd. and Gerald W. Carter of 57 Crescent St. collided on Romaine St. The vehicle driven by Crebar sustained damage to the front right fender and body. A fender on the second truck was also damaged.

At Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Rd. a car driven by Mrs. Veronica Persin came into collision with a truck driven by James A. Swift. Both vehicles sustained slight damage to body and fenders.

Two cars were damaged in a collision on McDonnel St. Drivers involved were Louis Mosman of Booth St. and Mr. P. Piercy of RR 3, Peterborough.

A truck driven by Raymond Lush of Baptiste lake came into collision with a parked car on Homewood Ave. Slight damage was sustained by the car.

'53 Building Total Value $4,608,502

School, Church Raise November Total Above Last Year

Building permits issued for construction of Grace United Church and the addition to Queen Elizabeth school raised the total value of permits issued last month 45 per cent higher than for November, 1952.

But the year's total so far is still lower than last year. There were 72 permits issued last month with a total value of $383,917, compared with 58 permits in November, 1952, with a total value of $266,580. Value of permits issued to the end of November this year was $4,608,502, compared with $5,056,826 during the same period last year.

Major item in last year's total was the new $1,451,002 federal building on Charlotte St. Apart from it, the amount of building this year has generally been higher than in 1952. But there was a drop in the number of houses on which construction was started last month. Only half as many permits were issued as in November last year.

IMPROVEMENTS

A large increase in the number of garages being built and permits issued for house repairs, however, indicated that, while the number of houses under construction had reached the maximum capacity of local contractors this year, owners were concentrating on improvements to their property.

There were 10 permits issued for garages last month, with a total value of $3,250; 11 houses with a total value of $94,500; 51 miscellaneous items with a total value of $286,167.

In November, 1952, there were two permits issued for garages, with a total value of $280; 22 houses, with a total value of $218,700; 34 miscellaneous items, with a total value of $47,100.

Estimated cost of Grace United church, on the south-east corner of Howden St. and Monaghan Rd., is $100,000. The exterior is to be of brick, wood and concrete block construction. The contractor is Charles Huffman Ltd. and the architects W. and W. R. L. Blackwell.

The addition to Queen Elizabeth school on Barnardo Ave. will cost an estimated $171,600. It will consist of eight classrooms and offices with exterior construction of brick veneer. Contractor is Walter Mortlock.

May Alter Curve On Hospital Rd.

City Engineer A. E. Chalmers will prepare a report for the 1954 council on the cost of altering the curve on Dobbin Ave. leading to Civic Hospital.

Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL) sent a letter to city council suggesting that the road could be straightened by purchasing a small part of the old Hatton property through which it runs.

They pointed out that the road curves badly and they understand there had been at least one serious accident and many near ones at that point.

The city engineer explained that, in his opinion, the trouble is that it is a reverse curve, sloping outwards, instead of inwards.

Meter Revenues May Be Handled In Separate Fund

City council is going to study a city of Hamilton bylaw authorizing the separate accounting of parking meter revenues and expenditures. The aim is to pass a similar bylaw here.

At present, parking meter receipts and expenditures are a charge against the police department and placed in the general fund. Purpose of the bylaw would be to enable city council to show how much it is costing to operate the meters, as well as what surplus revenues are available for spending on improved parking facilities.

The matter came up in Thursdays meeting of the property committee when Ald. Syd Black pointed out that people were always asking what was being done with receipts from the meters.

Ald. Gordon Farquharson wasn't convinced of the virtues of such a bylaw. He pointed out that it was sometimes thought the gasoline tax should all be earmarked for highway improvements and the liquor tax for the treatment of alcoholism. This just wasn't feasible, he said.

"I fail to see the necessity for a separate accounting," he argued. "We can always obtain a picture of what it's costing to operate the meters. If we avoid a bylaw such as this, we won't be hamstringing ourselves as to how the money is spent.

NO DIFFERENT

"Conceivably, some years we will have a surplus from the meters that we will want to spend on something else. I don't see why parking meter revenues should be any different from any other tax. We can always keep an eye on the parking problem."

Ald. H. S. Longhurst explained that the matter came up when it was found necessary to convert some of the older parking meters to newer mechanisms. The total cost was about $10,000. He said the public weren't always aware that the cost of operating the meters wasn't complete once they had been installed. Two constables were employed to collect the coins from the meters.

"This has always been a charge against the police department," he maintained. "It shouldn't be. We should always know what the situation is."

Mayor Hugh Waddell said there was never any thought of hamstringing council by keeping a separate accounting. He pointed out that Hamilton had a parking problem and had obtained permission from the province to segregate the parking meter account from the general fund and use the surplus for parking improvements.

Cyrano de Bergerac At PCVS Earns Whirlwind Success

Cyrano de Bergerac is a magnificently theatrical play in which Edmond Rostand gives utterance to the very soul of nineteenth century romanticism. It is a play quite untouched by thought or realism; to admit reason into one's consideration of it is to destroy it at once. It lives because it expresses the high spirit of high adventure and sweet renunciation which is so dear to the heart of youth; it is superbly a young person's play, and anyone who fails to respond to the beauties of Cyrano has bidden farewell to much that is finest in life.

All honor, then, to the Senior Dramatic Club of PCVS, which has chosen Cyrano for its 33rd production. This is a play for young people to get their teeth into, and to carry with them through life as part of the fabric of their minds.

DRIVING SPIRIT

The PCVS players bring a splendid, driving spirit to their production which carries them through it at great speed, and keeps the audience breathless. Five imaginative settings, and daring use of the inadequate stage and lighting of the school, give constant refreshment to the eye, and upon the whole the difficult verse is well and clearly spoken. The stage groupings are inventive, the sword fighting is the best we have ever seen in an amateur production, and, taken as a whole, the play is a whirlwind success. It has, in fullest measure, the spirit of youth and daring, and for spectators whose joints are beginning to ache it is at least as good as a fortnight in Florida.

The high-hearted bravado which sustains the play does not serve it too well in the scenes of pathos. The bitterness of death and the anguish of broken hearts are not subjects in which these players are well versed — for which we are heartily glad. But the parts of the play which lie within their scope are performed admirably, and this is quite the best thing PCVS has done on its stage in many years.

In so large a cast individual criticisms cannot be made, but the whole play hangs upon Cyrano, and Eric Jackson played that great role with wonderful spirit. It is one of the most difficult parts in all drama, and it was written to fit the personality and skill of that superb technician Benoit Coquelin. Mr. Jackson has gone right to the heart of Cyrano and gives his immense vitality not only to his own part, but to the whole play. Oryce McIlraith brought charm and repost to Roxane, and a pleasantly low voice. Bryce Larke did well by the ungrateful role of Christian, Dennis Hale was a dignified De Guiche, and John Young supplies some pleasant touches of comedy as Ragueneau, the poetical pastrycook.

"You strip from me the laurel and the rose . . ." cries Cyrano, in his hour of death. Not at all: laurels and roses to everybody associated with this brilliant evocation of youthful romance.

3 In Hospital After Accident Near Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS)—Three persons are in Ross Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries received in a two-car collision at Oakwood, just west of Lindsay, early this morning.

The collision was between cars driven by Albert G. Edwards of Whitby and Lorne Capstick of Lindsay. Details of the mishap are not available but it is believed Capstick was heading east towards Lindsay on High 7 and the Edwards car was proceeding west on the same highway. The collision occurred about 3 a.m. this morning.

The Whitby driver, Albert Edwards, and his passengers, his son, Robert, 20, and his wife, Madeline, both of Toronto, were taken to hospital. The elder Edwards is under observation for a possible fractured pelvis and internal injuries; but hospital officials report his condition improved from the time of admission. His son Robert was treated by Dr. Gorman of Lindsay for lacerations to his wrist and head and released from hospital. Mrs. Madeline Edwards is suffering a possible fractured ankle. Driver of the other car, Lorne Capstick of Lindsay, is under observation for undetermined injuries; but authorities report his condition good.

Dr. G. C. R. Hall of Little Britain is treating the patients. Investigating officer was OPP Constable Jim Hall of Lindsay. Damage to both cars was reported heavy.

The Pay-Off

Apparently those courtesy tickets the police department hands out to visiting motorists in place of parking tickets do pay off. A New Brunswick motorist got one when he parked overtime in the city square. He was so grateful that he put three extra nickels in the parking meter.

Record Vote Expected To Choose Mayor, Aldermen, School Board

Overflow Audiences At Political Meetings Show Citizens' Interest In Several Peterborough Issues

One of the biggest votes in the city's history is expected Monday when Peterborough voters go to the polls to elect a mayor, five aldermen and five members of the board of education. Overflow audiences at both the nomination and civic candidates' meetings have been an indication of an unusual amount of interest among the electorate in what appear to be the major issues of the campaign: re-assessment, the need for new industries and construction of a memorial centre.

Considerable heat has also been generated by the fact that, for the first time since 1950, the voters will be called upon to choose a mayor. There is every indication that a considerably larger proportion of the electorate will cast their ballots than the 42.2 per cent of those eligible who turned out at the polls last December.

BIGGER ELECTORATE

With 962 more names on the voters' list than last year's record total, Monday's vote will undoubtedly be the largest ever recorded here in a municipal election. There are 21,920 people eligible to vote for mayor and council and 16,595 public school supporters to select board of education members.

City Clerk E. A. Outram, who will act as chief returning officer, gave his deputies and polling clerks a final briefing Friday afternoon. Mr. Outram expressed his appreciation to the board of education and separate school board for making teachers available as election officials.

Interest in the municipal election is just as keen among school pupils as their parents, Mr. Outram said. Most of them will take part in mock elections between 9.00 and 10.00 a.m. Monday before being dismissed to allow their teachers to take up their annual duties at the polls, which will be open from 11.00 a.m. to 7.00 p.m.

In this connection, Mr. Outram said it would be appreciated if women voters would attend the polls in the afternoon, if possible, to give working people a chance to vote when they finish work later in the day.

Voters must mark their ballots for at least four and not more than five aldermanic candidates and any number of education candidates from one to five. There will be no contest for the utilities commission or separate school board, which were filled by acclamation.

They have a choice of two candidates for mayor: the present chief magistrate, Mayor Hugh Waddell, who assumed the office by acclamation this year and last, and ex-Ald. Norman Graham, who resigned his council seat in October to seek the higher office.

TERMS EXPIRE

Five members of the 1953 council whose terms expire this year are seeking re-election: Aldermen P. J. (Pat) Anglesey, Syd Black, John Dewart, H. S. (Stan) Longhurst and T. Douglas Miller.

For the board of education, only four of this year's members are asking for votes: G. Wilson Craw, Charles H. Huffman, Arthur Pitchford, and Mrs. Anne Rowell. Chairman Stanley Adamson earlier announced his retirement and will not be in the running.

Following is a list of candidates in alphabetical order, as they will appear on the ballot:

19,000 Canadians Jobless In Strikes For Higher Pay

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Almost 19,000 Canadians are out of work across Canada in strikes for higher wages. Ten thousand of them are lumber workers and 7,000 are gold miners.

Strikes of lumbermen in British Columbia and gold miners in northern Ontario and Quebec which have dragged on for months shows no signs of settlement. But other Canadian provinces are free of such large-scale walkouts, a Canadian Press survey showed Friday.

About 600 paper mill workers are on strike in the Montreal area for a shorter work week. Another 500 employees of a tin can company at Toronto and 250 workers of a similar company at Vancouver walked out this week in sympathy with a strike called in the United States.

Those were the bigger strikes but there were lesser disputes in other industries. The federal government Wednesday sent top conciliators into contract negotiations involving 150,000 non-operating railway workers after their 15 unions could reach no agreement with employers.

B.C. PICTURE

In British Columbia, almost 4,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) were on strike and another 6,000 lumber workers made idle by the walkout. The union wants a six-per-cent increase over the basic $1.29-an-hour rate.

About 215 Shell Oil Company workers went on strike at Vancouver Wednesday for wage increases averaging 10 cents an hour. The members of the Oil Workers' International Union (CIO-CCL) now get $1.50 to $2.21.

American Can Company workers at Vancouver walked out Thursday after 33,000 United States metal workers went on strike earlier in the week for 12 cents an hour more than the basic $1.50.

SYMPATHY STRIKE

At two Toronto plants of Continental Can Company, 500 workers walked off the job in sympathy with the U.S. strike but United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) officials said the stoppage was unauthorized. The factories closed down.

Premier Frost intervened for the first time this week in top-level talks of unions and one company involved in the Ontario gold strikes. He met with representatives of the big Hollinger Consolidated mine and the Steelworkers' union but no decision was reached. The strikes, which have closed down almost a dozen mines, began last July.

Reject Proposal To Replace Sellar

OTTAWA (CP)—The commons Friday rejected by a vote of 97 to 32 a CCF proposal that Auditor-General Watson Sellar replace a private firm of chartered accountants to audit the books of the Canadian National Railways.

The suggestion was made by A. M. Nicholson (CCF—Mackenzie) who opposed the reappointment of George A. Touche and company as CNR auditors.

A government bill for the appointment was given second read-

Diefenbaker Will Wed On Tuesday

TORONTO (CP)—John Diefenbaker, 58, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, will be married here next Tuesday to Mrs. Olive Freeman Palmer of suburban Willowdale, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Carles B. Freeman of Canning, N.S.

The marriage will take place at the Park Road Baptist church here at 7:30 p.m. Rev. C. D. Stone will perform the ceremony.

Mrs. Palmer was born at Roland, Man., though her family lived for five generations in Nova Scotia. A graduate of McMaster University she has been with the Ontario department of education since 1945 and was acting director of guidance when she completed her services recently.

It will be the second marriage for both. Mrs. Palmer is a widow with a 17-year-old daughter. Mr. Diefenbaker, a widower, has no children.

Urge Stricter Pilot Standards

WINDSOR (CP) — A coroner's jury enquiring into the death of the pilot of a plane which crashed, killing two persons Nov. 22, Friday recommended the department of transport be more strict to see dards.

civilian pilots meet medical stan-

The jury found the death of Hen Scholtens, 28, of Sarnia, accidental. The finding would also apply to the death of his passenger, Paul Pentzold, 24, also of Sarnia.

Witnesses said the aircraft a light de Haviland Chipmunk, fell into a spin from a glide and dropped straigh down. The propellor was not turning.

Alfred R. Pinder, department of transport inspector, said it was learned Scholtens was wearing contact lenses when first examined. He said Scholtens was permitted to retain his licence pending purchase of proper glasses.

The jury recommended stronger procedure be taken if the holder of a licence is not up to standard.

Clarify Holidays For Civil Servants

OTTAWA (CP)—Civil servants this year will not work the afternoon before and the day after Christmas and New Year's, the civil service commission announced Friday. Both holidays fall on Fridays.

(The Canadian Press erroneously stated earlier that civil servants would get a full day preceding Christmas and New Year's instead of a half day.)

This time off for civil servants was approved by the cabinet last March. Those who do not come under the five-day week and who normally work Saturday mornings, also will get the Saturdays following Christmas and New Year's off.

4 Men Fined $408 For Picket Flareups

WELLAND (CP)—Four employees of the Stokes division, General Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada Ltd., were fined a total of $408 Friday on various charges in connection with picket line flareups in last month's strike at the plant.

They were Gerald Sullivan, 28, wilful damage, $268; William Garrett, 19, and Wendell Szuch, 29, causing a disturbance, $85 each; and Victor Beck, 33, wilful damage $56.

Danger Of Falls Reduced In Ranch Style Home

STAIRS: The danger of falls is considerably reduced in the new modern ranch style home of today—stairs are eliminated with all the rooms on one level. If you have stairs the short straight flights, such as those found in split level design homes are available. Winding stairs are hazardous—they should be abolished.

All stairs with more than two steps should be well-lighted, covered with anti-slip material and have firm handrails. Treads should be no less than 9½" and the ceiling at no point less than 6'8" above any tread. For maximum visibility, basement and attic stairs should be painted a light colour. These suggestions should be applied out-doors as well.

TRAFFIC and ROOM LAYOUT: Plan your rooms so that there is sufficient wall space to group furniture without obstructing traffic. Halls should be short, straight and well-lighted and without shelves or other projections.

DDORS: Doors open inward and should be so located that they will rest against the wall when opened—and not stand into the room. Sliding doors are excellent preventers of accidents. Swing-door closets should have inside handles and a one-inch air space at the bottom as a safety measure in case a child should lock himself in. The same is true of bathroom doors where a good safety device is a knob which automatically unlocks when turned from the inside

WINDOWS: For proper ventilation be able to open at least 50 percent of the windows. On upper floors have windows at least 30" above the floor. Windows which may be cleaned on both sides from within the house are recommended.

FIRE - SAFE CONSTRUCTION: Built-in fire-safety is a primary rule. Fire-stopped walls prevents rapid spread of flames through walls and under floors. Gas-tight, flameproof flues should line the chimney. Cover the ceiling above the furnace with fire-retardent material.

ELECTRICAL SAFETY: Provide enough electric circuits of the proper capacity to avoid overloading which may cause fire from hot wires or short circuits. Special equipment such as dryers and electric ranges requires heavy duty circuits. In the laundry, kitchen, or bathroom, electric fixtures should be shockproof porcelain or plastic without pull chains. All wiring must be moisture-proof and mechanical equipment thoroughly grounded.

Shockproof wall plugs are especially good where children are concerned. The face of the plug turns automaticaly away from contact with the source of electricity the instant the prongs of an appliance cord are pulled out of the socket. This arrangement prevents young children from inserting a knife or other objects into the open plug.

SAFETY DURING CONSTRUCTION: For the sake of their own safety—and to eliminate one of the builders' biggest headaches—please don't let your children run wild around a construction job.

HEADROOM: Bumped heads were a common cause of accidents in prewar houses, but nowadays builders are making their basement excavations two or three fee deeper, we suggest a minimum height of 6' 4". Pipes or ducts placed along walls or ceiling provide plenty of headroom.

Sentenced For Theft

SUDBURY (CP)—Jay Patterson of no given address Friday was sentenced to nine months definite and 12 months for being in possession of an automobile stolen in Chatham. He was acquitted of stealing a car here.

Butter Stolen

STAYNER (CP)—A new type of thief has appeared in this Georgian bay community. He takes butter. A total of 480 pounds was stolen from dairies here and in nearby Collingwood Thursday night.

Fire Object Lesson

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Fire prevention week here took a strange twist. As members of the fire department were handing out prizes to pupils at Queen Mary public school Friday for their essays on fire prevention, smoke from burning stovepipes began to fill the room. Having learned their lessons by both theory and practice, the children were sent home until the smoke cleared.

Redecorating Your Bathroom Walls

BY MR. FIX (NEA)

In exactly 22 easy steps you can redecorate your bathroom walls with luxurious Carrara structural glass at a cost consistent with modest homes and incomes, if you do the work yourself.

The secret is to install the glass panels only where Carrara's durability, resistance to steam and water, and easily cared-for surface will serve best in the tub enclosure, wash-basin splash panel and along the base of the wall.

Then the rest of the walls and ceiling can be painted or wallpapered as the home owner sees fit.

The glass manufacturer which suggested this approach points out that the handy fellow of the house doesn't have to worry about establishing levels, aligning walls or cutting and fitting at the job. Whether or not the tub is exactly level, the tub panels merely rest on the tub's edge. Base follows the floor with no trimming or leveling.

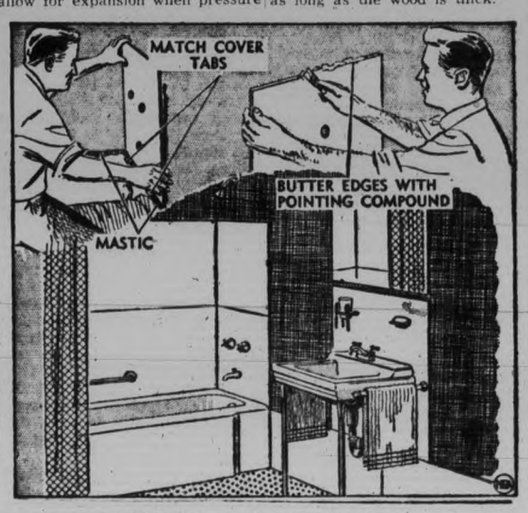
All the cuttings of panels to fit the tub enclosures and of holes in the glass where plumbing comes through the wall will be done by the shop that takes the order. Then the glass is merely cemented to the wall.

This type of installation takes about 63 square feet of Carrara glass in the average bathroom. The glass wall around a five-foot tub (most common size) can be made up of six panels—two back panels, 59¼ inches wide by 24 inches high, and four end panels, 28¾ inches wide by 24 inches high. Base panels are 14 inches high.

The glass is made in a variety of colors and black and white. For installing it you'll need mastic and pointing compound, trowel or mastic comb, putty knife and level.

Three things are necessary before the glass can be ordered. Measure the back wall along thhe tub length; measure the various lengths of base; make cardboard patterns of the locations of plumbing outlets. The patterns are turned over to the dealer for cutting.

Gypsum wallboard walls will support Carrara glass if securely nailed at four-inch intervals. Gypsum board, ⅜-inch thick, should be fastened to studs with four-penny, cement-coated nails.



Carrara glass, when ready for installation, must be coated on the back with mastic, and the trowel or mastic comb is used to make wavy serrations in the matsic to allow for expansion when pressure is applied in setting.

For waterproof seal along back rim of the tub, a thick coating of mastic is applied with putty knife. The bottom back glass panel is placed on cardboard tabs pressed into mastic on the rim. Pressure is applied for proper adhesion to the wall. All other bottom panels are set in this manner.

Upper panels are handled in the same way except that they are buttered with pointing compound on edges that meet another surface.

Q—What size should nails be in relation to the thickness of the wood to be nailed??

A—Nails should be three times as long as the wood is thick.

CARRARA STRUCTURAL GLASS is pre-cut by glass dealers, then merely cemented in place on bathroom walls.

Provincial Workers Get 4-Day Holiday

TORONTO (CP)—Most government employees in Ontario will get a four-day holiday at Christmas.

Provincial Secretary Welsh announced Friday that Ontario civil servants will have the day before Christmas off as well as Christmas Day. As almost all government employees ordinarily have Saturday and Sunday off, they will be free from Wednesday evening Dec. 23 to Monday, Dec. 28.

FORTY PIGEONS WERE JUDGED at a meeting of the Peterborough Pigeon Racing Club on Friday evening. Two of the consistent winners in several of the classes were club president Ivan Ellicott, left, and secretary Bob Nattress who display one each of their best birds. The club held no long flights this season because their 200-odd birds are too young. The longest flight flown went only as far as Campbellford.

Movement To Debunk African St. Nicholas

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—With less than three weeks to Christmas, 1953, there is a movement here to debunk St. Nicholas (alias Santa Claus) as the patron saint of Christmas.

A writer in the official organ of the Dutch Reformed Churches of South Africa describes old Santa as an "unsuitable and senseless figure"—at any rate as far as any claims to being the patron saint of Christmas are concerned.

"St. Nicholas was a 6th century bishop and a great benefactor of the poor," he says. "He was commemorated on dec. 6. with gifts to children. But, because of the closeness of the dates, he became confused with Christmas."

Locked In Ice Box 5 Boys Rescued

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — A macabre sense of humor was responsible for a near tragedy Friday.

It was raining heavily at noontime. Five Stockton high school boys climbed into an abandoned ice box on a lot half a block from school to eat their lunches.

The door suddenly slammed. The boys heard a peg thrust through the hasp and barricades being piled against the door.

School authorities two hours later received an anonymous phone rushed to the lot. They tore off the door. The boys tumbled out, unconscious.

Police chief Jack O'Keefe said they could not have survived more than half an hour longer.

The person responsible has not been found.

Fireman Races To Blaze In Own House Finds Wife Winner Of Dishpan Handicap

COBOURG — (ENS) — Deputy-Fire Chief Bob Fitzgibbon had the unique experience Friday of answering a firm alarm call to his own home. His wife phoned to say there was smoke in the kitchen and she couldn't trace the source. He threw a fire extinguisher in his car and headed for home, two fire trucks roaring along behind him.

Mrs. Fitzgibbon met him at the door with the news that the fire was out. In fact there was no fire at all.

She had left the dish pan on top of the stove with a knife in it. The knife had a bakelite handle. The water boiled dry and then the handle of the knife started to heat up, producing a lot of smoke and a heavy stench.

Mrs. Fitzgibbon, didn't know where the smoke and smell were coming from and phoned the fire department. Investigating further, she found the cause of it all and took it off the stove.

Student Paper Without Staff

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—The Red and Black, University of Georgia student newspaper, has been left virtually without a staff because of a controversy over the publication's stand on segregation in education.

Priscilla Arnold and Gene Britton, acting editor and acting managing editor, respectively, published a farewell issue Friday and then resigned.

Editor Walter Lundy Jr., and managing editor Bill Shipp resigned Wednesday, protesting what they termed "a board of control that would throttle our editorial rights." Miss Arnold and Britton were appointed to replace them.

SAY REGENT MADE THREAT

The controversy which caused the resignations began with editorials assailing segregation. University regent Roy Harris threatened action to cut off the newspaper's appropriation because of the editorial, the publication reported. Harris denied the charge, but criticized the editors for their writings and called them "squirts".

Lundy and Shipp resigned when university officials attempted to set up a board to control editorial opinion expressed in the publications.

Will Be Liable For Damages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Provisions that would hold the New York state power authority liable for any damages resulting directly from the St. Lawrence power project have been summarized in a state department memorandum.

The federal power commission has licensed the New York agency to join Ontario in construction of the multi-million dollar project. There are, however, three pending court suits challenging the issuance of the licence.

One of them, filed by the Lake Ontario Land Owners and Beach Protective Association, contends the proposed development would cause the level of Lake Ontario to rise and damage adjacent properites.

Charles M. Goetz, Washington counsel for the power authority, said the state department memo set forth provisions already established by the international joint boundary commission when it authorized the project and the FPC when it granted the licence.

Woman, 102 To Walk Again

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Mary Jane Start underwent an operation today—at the age of 102. She wants to walk again—for there's work to be done—and the surgeon says there's a good chance she will.

Mrs. Start lives at "Trees," a home for aged women—but she never felt old. She fell down Tuesday while trying to pick up her walking stick and fractured her thigh. Four days confinement was more than she could stand.

It was easy to understand, as her white-haired daughter-in-law explained:

"One of her great pleasures was to wait on the other ladies in "Trees," most of them years and years younger than she but confined to their beds."

Chances are described as "very good" of her being able to walk again.

Work for Retarded Children In Toronto Told To Parents

Mrs. M. McGrath, of Toronto, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the "Peterborough and District Association for Retarded Children," Thursday evening in the Y.W.C.A. with Mr. J. J. Menary presiding.

Mrs. McGrath as vice-president and Work Organizer of the Toronto Association, addressed a meeting of about 50 people, including parents of children and others interested in this particular work.

She spoke as a parent, who has experienced the heartbreak and the hopelessness of realizing that one's child is not normal. She advised parents, that the best way to overcome the natural feeling of self- pity which accompanies the first realization, is to join a parent group and start thinking of others and in this way, start thinking and doing for the child. In this day and age facts of sub-normality are not kept buried and out of sight as in the past.

Parent groups are now operating in connection with classes for Retarded Children in 14 cities across Ontario with six other places ready to organize. Sudbury and Peterborough have recently been admitted to the Provincial Organization. It has been proved to the Ontario Government that there is definitely a need in every community for some degree of education for its retarded children, who can be trained to become useful and good citizens.

In referring to the Toronto Association, Mrs. McGrath told of the early struggles four years ago, when the class opened with 11 children in the Carlton St. United Church School. Enrolment has increased to 92 and the Association rents a house which has 5 classrooms operating morning and afternoon sessions.

Ages of children range from 3 to 18 years. Young adults who had no opportunity of such a school in their childhood, are now being looked after by the Toronto group who operate the former Carlton St. accommodation as a Community Centre, where 16 boys and girls are enrolled for handicrafts and bowling.

When it is discovered that a baby is sub-normal, the mother receives companionship and special training in how to prepare the child for entrance to school. The help and encouragement of non-parents is earnestly needed wherever these groups are functioning.

Mention was made of the extensive fund raising activities which have been necessary almost weekly over a period of time when no government grant was forthcoming. These proved an outlet for the parents who all shouldered their responsibility towards the financing of this project in Toronto to which is now bringing happiness and reward to so many.

Even with the government grant which only became available this year, fund raising activities must continue because of wide field the work covers.

Following the address a film was shown of the children at work and play in the various classrooms of the Willcocks Street school.

During the brief business session in order to comply with a request from the Ontario Association on motion of Mrs. M. Beck, seconded by Mrs. E. J. Walsh, the name of the Peterborough Council shall be changed to "The Peterborough and District Association for Retarded Children."

Donations gratefully acknowledged included $5. from the Grace Mission Circle, Church of Open Bible, the offer of eight school desks from the Auburn Trustee Board, alphabetic blocks from an interested citizen.

The Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A. graciously extend the use of their music room for the class until such time as other accommodation is available. Mrs. Nelson transportations convener, reported 16 volunteer drivers on her list. Anyone interested in driving the children to and from school please call 7182.

The teacher Mrs. Hamilton, spoke on the response and progress of each child and exhibited samples of their work. A Christmas party is being planned for the class.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. E. J. Walsh who was assisted by Mrs. N. Beck, Mrs. J. Davidson, Mrs. J. Menary and Mrs. J. G. Johnson.

To remove mildew from mattresses and upholstery, take the pieces outdoors and brush thoroughly, or use upholstery attachment of vacuum cleaner. Sponge with thick soapsuds or upholstery cleaner or a mixture of equal parts denatured alcohol and water. Don't let stuffing get wet. Dry thoroughly outdoors.

A few drops of kerosene and a little blueing added to the soapsuds will make your windows sparkle. Use a bottle-washing brush for the corners. Polish with clean, lintless cloth.

Mr. And Mrs. Club Holds Annual Christmas Banquet

The Mr. and Mrs. Club of George Street United Church held their annual Christmas banquet Wednesday, December 2, at the United Church in Lakefield.

The blessing having being given by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, a delicious turkey dinner was enjoyed by 103 members and guests. The catering was done by the ladies of Fairview United Church.

Following the short business session the groups proceeded to the Memorial Hall for round and square dancing.

During the evening two skits were presented by Scott Macfarlane. The first one was "A Mock Wedding" which included, Bob Healey, Art Long, John Boswell, Joe Weir, Larry Seili, Garnet Howden, Allan Milburn, Al Metcalf, Harry Race and Don Gray. Music by Russ Foster. Later, "The Four Nighties" sang two numbers. They were Stewart Thompson, Lloyd Wells, Jim Weaver and Les Pultz. Door prizes were won by Mabel Anderson and Jim Henderson. Games played included a spot dance, won by Larry Seili and Birdie Wasson and Eva and Leo Copp; a bag dance won by Peggy and Larry Seili and an "alley" dance won by Birdie Wasson and Harold Barnard.

How To Solve Problem — Leftovers Every Monday

Chicken every Sunday—leftovers every Monday.

We're sure your menus are not as rigidly routine as that, but we're certain, too, that many times you do have a spare drumstick or wing, the "pickin's" of which are still temptingly good.

So here's a way to stretch that leftover chicken around the family table. It's one of those savory one-dish meals that eliminates the need for numerous side-dishes.

Main support of the casserole is prepared macaroni in cheese sauce—the kind you buy in cans at your local grocery store or corner help-yourself. That means you not only can cut work down to a minimum, but you can eliminate the need for seasoning. And you know seasoning is just about the trickiest part of any cookery.

Just in case you want to file this recipe for repeated use—and we're sure you do—here it is in easy-to-follow form:

CHICKEN-MACARONI CASSEROLE

Two 15-ounce cans macaroni in tomato sauce with cheese
1 to 1½ cups diced chicken
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup bread crumbs

Grease 1 quart casserole. Alternate layers of macaroni with layers of chicken. Melt butter and mix with crumbs. Top casserole with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 35 minutes.

How Women's Institutes Keep Christmas

Women's Institutes usually make something rather special of their December or Christmas meeting. As might be expected they frequently have such demonstrations as wrapping Christmas parcels, Christmas decorations, Christmas table centres; and they sing Christmas carols. But they go farther than that. Very often someone reads the story of "The Other Wise Man" or parts of "The Christmas Carol" or even the Christmas story from Saint Luke, though the Institutes, being non-sectarian, are careful not to introduce any religious observance that might not be acceptable to all the members. One institute's theme last year was "Christmas is a Christian festival, not a commercial round of selling, feasting and drinking." In one way or another the institutes seem to emphasize that idea.

The Christmas meeting is a special occasion for hospitality. In many localities every woman in the community is invited, especially any New Canadian woman in the district. Frequently these women are asked to tell about Christmas customs in their homeland or to sing Christmas carols in their own language. It is rather common practice to invite the children of the community and to have special entertainment for them, or to have the school children put on a little concert; and sometimes a shy woman who has not joined the institute will come to this meeting because her children have been invited. With music and story-telling, a cup of tea together and the Christmas spirit very much alive in the gathering, this is usually considered the happiest meeting of the year.

Do they exchange gifts at the Christmas meeting? Not often. It is a more general practice for the members to bring gifts for someone else—the sick and shut-in of the community, the children in the county shelter, the old people in the county home, or patients in a sanitorium. Last year one institute's December roll call was answered with the gift of a toy for a child in hospital; in another branch each woman brought a piece of her Christmas cake to go into parcels for the shut-in of the community. A "shower" of books, games, crossword puzzles and gramophone records for the county home was the happy idea of another branch. They send out Christmas cheer baskets where there is a need for them, or even provide clothing and bedding for families in need. An institute on an Indian reserve gave Christmas cheer baskets to one hundred and fifty persons—ill, aged and children, and layettes and other clothing to patients in hospital.

Very often the Christmas meeting is the time for a donation to some good cause. In institutes where the women used to bring gifts for each other they now bring a donation for the Save the Children Fund or the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Campaign, or the Cripple Civilians or for relief in Korea or Greece or somewhere else. Their whole Christmas activity is out-going—they aren't just having a good time among themselves. Last year one large institute had a turkey dinner for the members and their families, but at the same meeting they voted $10 to the Tuberculosis Seal Campaign, $25 to the Hospital for Sick Children, $25 to the Save the Children Fund, $100 to the local hospital, $15 and clothing to Korean Relief and $25 to the caretaker of their hall, so they could hardly be considered self-centred.

Around Christmas time many institutes take "a party" to the county home for old people. They have found that the residents of the homes enjoy singing and since everyone knows most of the Christmas carols a session of carol singing, with everyone taking part, makes popular entertainment. At one home the Women's Institute along with service clubs and the Salvation Army got the best musical talent in the district to give a concert; but they reported the star feature of the programme was a recitation by a man to show that institute women are not only given to good works, but ninety-six years old. Which goes that they have a good sense of human values.

Advise Girls To Use Metallic Dust To Get Yuletide Sparkle

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the world's most famous beauticians is advising girls to sprinkle themselves with metallic dust. She explains:

"All the excitement of a season (Christmas) when sparkling things are bound to happen is reflected in this star-dusting for eyes, lips, anywhere."

Especially for holiday use, she is merchandising her sparkle dust in gold, silver or multi-color particles, promising a "starry-eyed evening" for the girl who dusts it on over "striking blue" or "striking green" eyeshadow. She also suggests sprinkling your fingernail polish with sequins while it is still wet.

DUST ON LIPSTICK

A bit of sequin dust on your lipstick may not be kissable, but it's bound to attract attention.

Certain hair preparations now come packaged with gold or silver dust to be sprinkled on the hair and held in place by lacquer.

A girl who wants to go all out for Christmas may buy tiny Christmas bells to wear as earrings—they tinkle likke reglar jingle bells. Or she may wear small Christmas tree balls strung together for a necklace or made into earrings.

There are tremendous felt skirts this year on which are everything from Christmas trees to reindeer.

Some of the more daring milliners regularly concoct holiday hats on which are mounted small Christmas trees, angels and champagne glasses, all suitably swathed in sequined veiling.

NOT CONFINED TO WOMEN

The seasonal giddiness is not confined to women, either. If shops and ad writers have their way, every male will be decked out in a red velvet vest with brass buttons this Christmas.

Red flannel nightshirts and nightcaps are presented as standard attire for the whole family on Christmas morning. And of course there is the usual crop of neckties that light up in the dark.

Personally, I advocate leaving the tinsel on the Christmas tree, the bells on the sleigh and the whiskers on Santa Claus.

Lois Sears Delights Crowd With Old Ballads, Carols

Old European ballads and Christmas carols delighted members of the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association, Friday afternoon. They were ably sung by Mrs. Lois Sears, a Toronto born folk singer, to some 90 women gathered in the YWCA auditorium.

Mrs. Sears' program consisted of old English, Irish, Welsh and Austrian folk songs, some of which are quite popular today, and others more obtuse, but all well executed and enjoyed. Mrs. Sears also accompanied herself on the Zither and Irish harp.

The program was divided into three sections containing six songs each. The first two sections were composed of strict folk tunes and the third was a collection of quaint carols.

Clad in a Tudor gown of pink and black, Mrs. Sears instilled a wistful atmosphere the moment she appeared. The harmonious tones of the zither and harp blended well with a strong, clear voice that easily captured the haunting quality of the true balladeer. Such nostalgic melodies as the "Erisky Love Lilt" and the "Bells of Aberdovy" were well pointed by the harsh cruelty of "Lord Randal". Light humor was not missing either as with the singing of the French carol "Here, a Torch, Jeanette, Isabella."

Beside her singing, Mrs. Sears Briefly discussed her instruments, describing the various plectrums used and the means whereby the instruments were tuned and the keys changed.

She was introduced by Mrs. Ford Turner, chairman of the association.

Refreshments were served after the Christmas sing-song, which followed Mrs. Sears' performance. The decorations and refreshments were prepared and served by the members of the Home Arts Guild under head convener Mrs. W. McCreery.

Mrs. Robert Baker, who is leaving shortly for Hamilton, and Mrs. Norman Moncrief, the clubs pianist, were honored by pouring tea.

New Style Plum Pudding

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without steamed pudding. Granted, many of us can't think of eating so sweet a dessert right after Christmas dinner . . . but later on in the day, it hits the spot. Use this recipe this Christmas. It's a "quick and easy" recipe, using all the traditional plum pudding ingredients, and one unusual ingredient. It adds a new flavor that's noticed and appreciated.

PLUM PUDDING

¼ cup sifted flour
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons nutmeg
¾ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon mace
1½ cups cut seeded raisins
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup cut dried figs
½ cup cut citron
2 cup ready-to-eat bran
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1 cup hot milk
¼ cup grape juice
4 eggs, well-beaten
½ pound suet

Sift together flour, sugar, salt and spices; mix with fruits. Combine All-Bran, bread crumbs, milk and grape juice; let stand about 5 minutes. Add eggs and beat well. Chop or grind suet very fine; beat until soft. Add All-Bran mixture and mix well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and fruits. Spread in greased molds, cover tightly and steam 5 hours. Serve with hard sauce or spiced lemon sauce.

Yield: Three 1-pound puddings.

Teachers Guests At Board Dinner

Guests of honor at the annual board of education dinner Thursday night were Miss Mary Jory, retiring as school nurse, and Miss Ethelwyn Dix, primary school teacher.

Among the guests were Mr. C. S. Browne, principal of PCVS, and Mrs. Browne, Dr. Eldon P. Ray, principal of Kenner collegiate, and Mrs. Ray and Mr. Bernard Chambers, supervisor of maintenance.

Mrs. Walter J. Gilling spoke on the Shakespearean festival this summer at Stratford, Ont.

Gifts For One Who Sews

What's new in Christmas stocking stuffers for the woman who sews? Is she in the category: "I'm sure she has everything"? Here are some items new in sewing centres she may not yet have:

—A tailor's chalk pencil holder with refills; it marks clearly; rubs out easily.

—A dressmaker's awl for making eyelet holes—useful for leather which is high fashion!

—"Left'n rite" shoulder pads—give that moulded "non-padded" look so essential for this year, one for each shoulder two styles, one for flowing, t'other for fitted sleeves.

—"Pleat rite" kit for drapes—makes French or box pleats without sewing, tape and hooks for one window, will wash or dry clean.

—Plastic "dress form" cover—to keep dust from your "dress form" judy, covers things too if needed.

—Blazer cord which can be inserted in seams for trimming blazers and jackets, not easily available till now.

—Bobbin boxes, thread boxes and spool holders—new ones are always appreciated.

QUESTION: ...I loathe the smell of yeast, and it seems to me there is a definite odor and flavor of yeast to the finished product. No one but me seems to notice it. My husband can't get enough home-made bread and he says I'm imagining the taste of yeast. Have you ever noticed this tendency to yeast flavor...I would make all my own bread if I could get rid of the odor and taste of yeast... P. M. W.

ANSWER: Your dough is too warm when it rises. That is my opinion and the opinion of two dieticians I talked to after I read your letter. Too warm rising temperature and too-long rising will result in yeasty taste. Your recipe is quite correct. If you care to you could increase the salt to 2 teaspoons. Why don't you try making one batch at night and letting it rise in the basement or somewhere quite cool? Let me know how you make out.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: ... have you a recipe for soup noodles? How long will these keep and how should they be stored? How can I judge how long a cookie can be stored. Often I like to make up several kinds at Christmas. I make a peanut butter cookie often rolled into small balls and flattened with a fork. Have you any recipe for cookies that can be made into balls like these...I would especially like to make a spice and a chocolate cookie using this method.

Madeleine F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your letter was lovely—I have omitted all of the compliments but have not forgotten them. I am mailing you the Hot Rolls recipe and a low-calorie dressing. Some of you people are hounds for work. Here are your

SOUP NOODLES

Macaroni manufacturers us durum and semolina flour, but pretty good noodles may be made from all-purpose.) One and one-half cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and shortening, 3 tablespoons water, 1 egg. These are very exact measurements. Make a well in the flour and add egg, salt and fat. Rub together with fingers, add water form a stiff dough, then knead on lightly floured board until perfectly smooth. Divide dough into 3 parts and roll each as thinly as possible—1-32 to 1-64 inch. Spread rolled dough on cloth and allow to dry partially. Cut into strips 1½ inches wide and stack on top of each other. With extremely sharp knife cut crosswise into fine shreds. Or dough may be rolled like a jelly roll and cut into fine shreds. Let them dry out in single layers. Theoretically these will keep as well as packaged noodles, but it is hard in a house to dry them completely.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

(cookie press or shape)

Cookie dough for cookie press will roll into balls and may be pressed with fork. It must be chilled after mixing and before shaping though. Do not grease cookie sheets. If kept cold these will keep for a month.

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 beaten egg, 2 1-3 cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon each baking soda and salt, 4 tablespoons milk or cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Work the shortening with a spoon until fluffy and creamy, then add the sugar slowly while beating until light. Add the melted chocolate and beaten egg and mix. Sift the dry ingredients together and add them alternately with the milk and vanilla, mixing very well. In very warm weather this dough must be chilled even for cookie press. In any weather it must be chilled to roll it into balls, and press with fork to flaten. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

SPICE BALLS

(cookie press or shape)

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 4 beaten egg yolks, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons each baking powder and cinnamon (Or 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ½ teaspoon each nutmeg and allspice), ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix exactly as above. Press through cookie press or shape into balls (after chilling) and press on pan with fork to flatten, on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 10 or 12 minutes.

DOROTHY DIX

Widow of 60 Complains of Son's Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a widow of 60, with four sons, three married. The youngest one is about to go into service, so when he wanted to marry, and bring his bride here, I agreed. Since I work, I thought it would be nice to have another person in the house. As soon as they moved in, the girl took over. She stripped the kitchen of the linoleum, put all my furniture into one room, and brought in her things. After that, she showed no interest in the house. She leaves dishes stacked in the sink for hours, hasn't put up a curtain or a picture, though she took all mine down, and is out most of the time. What can I do?

MRS. H. J.

TIME FOR ACTION

ANSWER: Lady, you can put your foot down in a heavy fashion and assert yourself in your own home. Don't let the young lady get away with what she's done so far, or next she will be putting you out of your house. I suggest that you tell her that working and keeping house for an extra person is too much for you, and that it would be better if she moved. She'll probably write terrible things to your son, but since the rest of your children appreciate the situation, they can set him straight. If you don't want to go that far, at least insist that your things be restored to their original places, that she is a guest in your home, not a dictator. Don't let the situation continue, or you'll be storing up untold unhappiness for yourself.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: How can one atone for a mistake? Last week I stepped out on my husband, and laer my conscience hurt so much that I told him about it. We have four little girls, and have been a very happy family. However, he won't forgive me. How can I win his love back?

MRS. M. I.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Is your husband a saint? Has he never made a mistake? You have expressed to him your penitence and promised that such an affair would not happen again. Surely he ought to balance one error against the years of faithful toil you've put into being a good wife and mother. You were wrong, there's no question about that, but many persons do wrong once in a lifetime—except "Your husband!"

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been a widow for several years, and recently met a widower who has asked me to marry him. I have eight children, all married. Two of them object to my remarriage. The man doesn't make much money, but he owns his home. Do you think I should marry him, knowing that my children object and might never come to see me?

R. H.

ANSWER: This calls for a family conference. Try to get your children together to air their pros and cons. Perhaps those who object have a valid reason, which might be worth considering.

If you, and a majority of the children, feel you can be happy with a new husband, they'd be selfish to stand in your way, but do listen to their opinions. There may be an angle to which you aren't giving sufficient thought.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My 19-year-old daughter is married, has a 12-month-old baby, and is separated from her husband. She doesn't like housework, but wants to go out all the time, leaving the baby for me to tend.

M. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There's absolutely no reason in the world why your daughter should shift her responsibility to you. If the only way to make her take care of her child is for you to be out of the house during the day, seek a job, even if only part time, or join some organization that will keep you busy. The girl married much too young, probably against your advice, and must now live up to the obligation she incurred. Helping her shirk her duty isn't good for her.

Victorian Influence Strong In U.K. Children's Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Dainty, frilly party frocks with a Victorian influence will be Christmas wear for some of Britain's kindergarten set.

A Swiss voile dress with frilled centre panel in skirt, puffed sleeves and big back bow might tempt any shy three-year-old from her doll collection. An embroidered petticoat shows beneath the hem in grown-up style. The outfit costs about £4.

SMART BEACH SUITS

It seems that British tots this summer can make quite a splash on British and continental beaches, in casual outfits costing just above £1. Young men with a habit of collecting all the dirt there is around can be dressed in a palm beach shirt over terry towelling shorts. The shorts cuff matches the shirt.

In gay reds, blues, white, orange and green, this outfit washes like a duster and costs between £1 and £2 depending on size.

Junior's taller sister might choose a smocked candy-striped dress with frilled neckline and sleeves. In navy and pink, gold and turquoise it's sized from 22" to 32" and costs little more than £3.

Many British parents have been grumbling that children's play clothes in smart styles cost more than average families care to pay for summer wear. As a result this firm has styled a wide range of reasonably-priced clothes that will cover most playtime necessities for both sexes.

FROM £1 UP

Prices range from £1 for colored denim jeans and T shirts to a 'teen-age nylon dress with V neck, four-gore gathered skirt and gathered sleeves, costing nearly £6.

The accent for junior beach wear is as casual as the latest Palm Beach styling for parents. Stripes are used in conjunction with plain fabrics in dresses like the one for an eight-year-old that is a "miniature of mummy's." In red or navy cotton, the dress has a candy-striped sailor collar matching a candy-striped insert at the front of the gathered skirt.

A new idea is the Victorian rose trellis stripe that is used in many garments, including especially feminine rompers for baby. It is also effective in a rose-striped housecoat with contrast quilted collar and pockets. It has a tie sash and the sleeves are tied with bows.

PARTY FROCK—Dainty party frocks like this candy-striped dress with frilled neckline and sleeves will be Christmas wear for some of Britain's kindergarten set. It was one of many party numbers shown in London at a children's fashion show. The dress was styled by the cotton firm (Horrockses) that supplied the Queen with moderately-priced cotton dresses for her round-the-world tour. (CP Photo).

Venetian blinds may be dusted weekly with a lamb's wool duster or a vacuum attachment. Tilt slats down and wipe with cloth or sponge wrung almost dry out of warm soapsuds. Repeat with slats turned up. When badly soiled, put in deep washtub or bathtub filled with detergent suds. Scrub tapes with brush. Let blinds hang free while drying to prevent tapes from shrinking.

Rubber tile floors will last a long time if properly cared for. A quick wipe with a damp mop is all that is required for good, everyday care. Steel wool is helpful in removing any disfiguring marks.

Children Can Make Cards For Xmas

By NANCY CLEAVER

"And, round about December,
The cards upon his shelf
Which wished him lots of Christmas cheer.
And fortune in the coming year,
Were never from his near and
dear
But only from himself."

Perhaps A. A. Milne in his lines in "King John's Christmas" was poking fun at the amount of enjoyment most people get from their Christmas cards! The custom of sending cards is only a little over a hundred years old—but what pleasure countless people receive from them! The popularity of Yuletide Greetings has grown steadily all over the world. In Canada Christmas Greeting cards costing a large fortune are mailed each December.

There is some dispute whether the first Christmas card was a sketch drawn by a Mr. W. C. Dobson in December, 1844, which symbolized the spirit of Christmas or whether the credit for originating a Christmas card should go to Mr. J. C. Horsley who two years later sent an elaborate card to his friends. This had two allegorial designs showing needy folk being fed and clothed and a family group gathered around the festive table.

Many of the other designs which are shown from year to year can be traced far back into the past. Mistletoe, holly and ivy were all esteemed by the Early Britons. Wreaths were used by the ancient Romans. Candles were popular hundreds of years ago with the Jews and were used in their annual "Feast of Lights". The Christians in the Middle Ages likely adopted the use of candles from their Jewish neighbors.

The Christmas Tree may be traced to Germany in the Seventeenth Century. It came to England when Prince Albert erected a Christmas Tree in Windsor Castle in 1841. The early German settlers on this continent brought their love of Christmas Trees with them.

The use of miniature art scenes on Christmas cards has become popular in recent years. Not only reproductions of famous religious paintings such as Lerolle's "Arrival of the Shepherd" or "Raphael's "Madona", but pictures by modern painters are also used. There are several very fine Canadian Artists' Series of cards with fine color prints of typical Canadian scenes. These are of special interest to friends in other lands.

Some Canadian Art Galleries including The National Art Gallery of Canada at Ottawa have colored reproductions suitable for Christmas greetings. These prints can be glued to red or green construction paper. Especially attractive Yuletide Greetings are the following National Gallery Prints: Clarence Gagnon "Village in the Laurentian Mountains"; Lawrence Harris—"Snow"; Maurice Cullen—"Ice Harvest"; F. S. Coburn—"Winter Morning".

Art or construction paper should be bought in large sheets from a printer or a stationary store. Figure out how it can best be cut economically into a size which will fit a standard envelope and still be a good background for your colored print. Too large or too small cards are a nuisance to the postal employees, especially in this rush season.

Christmas cards with informal snapshots of members of the family are quite popular, especially with older relatives. They are always amazed to see how much the children have grown!

A message written in red or green ink on white paper makes a pretty contrast. If a child has learned to block print or to write, do encourage him to send a little note with the Christmas cards to those who remember him at Christmas time. It means so much, especially to grandparents, to know that they are loved and remembered. Christmas cards "keep the grass from growing" on the paths of friendship.

CHRISTMAS CARD DESIGNS—Informal pictures of the family are always very much appreciated, especially by friends at a disatnce who look forward eagerly to our Christmas greetings.

Fresh iodine stains will come out in warm soapsuds. Old stains should be moistened and allowed to dry in bright sunshine. Apply a paste of starch and ammonia to stubborn stains and let dry. Then brush of and launder.

Never immerse a wooden salad bowl. In general, wipe out thoroughly with a paper towel when you're finished with the salad. Occasionally you can use a wrung-out soapy cloth on them. Rinse well and dry immediately and well.

THIS IS THE SEASON OF JOY AND HAPPINESS

Christmas, in spite of our commercialism of this holy day. What music it rings, especially to us whose older children are self-supporting making the joy of giving not nearly as exhausting as when they were little.

Our eldest lad is just back from his tour of duty in Germany. "2nd Lieutenant Mike" brought back gifts for us. Yes, you guessed it "crockery"!

We have a good assortment. Drop in and see for yourself.

Activities Of Years Reviewed By Guild

MILLBROOK (ENS) — The Christmas meeting of St. Thomas' Anglican Guild was held at the home of Mrs. James Godfrey.

Mrs. Percy Hamilton, president, conducted the opening devotions.

Mrs. H. A. Turner, secretary, gave a report of the year's activities. A home baking sale, bazaar and tea and rummage sale, had been held. The first Tuesday of each month Durham film board pictures are shown in the parish hall.

The guild had redecorated the the parish hall and had toilet facilities put in the church basement.

Mrs. T. A. Campbell, treasurer, gave a detailed report which showed that it had been a successful year financially.

Miss Anna Fair presided for the election of the vice-president. Mrs. Ed. Penney was elected. Mrs. Fred Lowery, Mrs. J. O. Medd and Mrs. William Hutchison were appointed to the extecutive committee. The president, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Campbell were returned to office by acclamation at the last meeting.

Miss Anna Fair and Mrs. Douglas Sheppard were appointed the visiting committee for the east end of the village, and Mrs. D. R. Fowler and Mrs. J. Godfrey for the west end. A list of 20 shutins was made, to whom the secretary was asked to send Christmas greetings.

Miss Jean Smith conducted two contests. The first one was won by Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Medd, the second by Mrs. Medd and Mrs. J. W. Wright.

There was a gaily trimmed and lighted Christmas tree and festive refreshments in keeping with the season were served by supper hostesses, Mrs. L. R. Pocock and Miss Elsie Parkes.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. A. Campbell.

NEW BOILER INSTALLED

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — The plant of Canadian Furnace Co. Ltd., has been closed for installation of a new power house boiler, final step in a $1,500,000 expansion program which started more than a year ago. The new boiler will double the steam capacity.

Mayoralty Fight Big Issue In Toronto Vote

TORONTO (CP)—Occupancy of the mayor's chair is the chief question to be decided by Toronto's 351,195 eligible voters in the annual civic election Monday.

Allan Lamport, an ebullient and forthright figure in two years in office, is seeking a third term. His opponent, Arthur J. Brown, has never held a seat on city council.

The four-man board of control also will seek re-election and 16 aldermen, two in each of eight wards, will be elected from a field of 37 candidates. Two in the ninth ward received acclamations.

The 18 board of education seats will be filled from 30 contenders.

Three candidates bidding to unseat present control board members are Joseph Cornish, former alderman who ran fifth in the board election last year; perennial loser Harry Bradley, making his 26th attempt for civic office and Labor-Progressive Harry Hunter, a former Hamilton alderman who came here six years ago.

FOUR REDS RUNNING

Four Communist candidates besides Mr. Hunter are school trustee Mrs. Edna Ryerson, seeking her 10th term; and Robert Lazer, Stewart Smith and Hector MacArthur, all candidates for council.

Little more than 35 per cent of the eligible voters in Canada's second largest city went to the polls last year in Toronto's 120th municipal election.

Two major issues in the campaign are rent controls, which may be taken over by municipal governments when the provincial government steps out of the field next year, and low-rental housing developments.

Mayor Lamport, 49, has opposed rent controls while Mr. Brown has promised the city will adopt a "modified" control under a three-man board.

Mr. Brown, 52, an insurance underwriter who roamed the southern Alberta range as a student preacher around 1925, also urged rehabilitation of depressed areas under the Ontario Planning Act of 1952 which "gives us the right to buy up areas and resell them for housing or commercial purposes."

For the most part, the mayor and his board of control have based their campaign on claims of harmony and unity within the present civic government.

Seeking Early Inquiry Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Charles E. Potter (Rep. Mich.) said today he will seek early Senate action on a request for a full-dress United Nations investigation of Communist atrocities in Korea.

Potter concluded a three-day United States Senate probe of Red atrocities Friday night with an announcement that he could not "conceal my great disappointment in the resolution of censure and the expression of 'grave concern' passed by the United Nations."

He referred to the UN General Assembly resolution adopted Thursday. U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge pushed through the resolution over opposition of the Soviet bloc.

Potter said he will offer in the Senate, when it meets next month, a resolution to ask the UN to "appoint an impartial investigating commission in its next session to bring the Communists found responsible for these inhuman crimes to the bar of justice."

Returns From Tour

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Swinton, Commonwealth relations secretary, returned Friday after a three-month tour of New Zealand, Australia, India, Pakistan and Ceylon. He told reporters on arrival that he had covered "every conceivable subject" in discussions with Commonwealth statesmen.

Report Baby Twin Still Holding Own

LONDON (AP)—Baby Boko had a good night and was more than holding her own today.

The robust three-month-old Siamese twin, whose sister Tomu died shortly after the operation separating them three days ago, was reported "progressing favorably" at Hammersmith hospital.

Dr. Ian Aird, 47-year-old surgeon who performed the delicate operation, cautioned that though the Bantu baby was "very well" this morning she was "not yet free from risk of complications." She is still being kept in an oxygen tent most of the time.

The twins' Nigerian mother, 24-year-old Mrs. Veronica Davies, is a patient in another room at the hospital. She collapsed from nervous strain and grief on the death of Tomu, but now has regained most of her composure.

2 Plead Guilty To Series Of Thefts

COBOURG (ENS) —Appearing in police court Friday on a number of theft charges occurring in Port Hope, Keith Thompson and Robert Walsh of Port Hope were remanded until next Friday to appear for sentence in Port Hope police court.

Thompson pleaded guilty to theft of two car batteries at Port Hope, November 14; theft of an auto rug, owner unknown, during the month of November; breaking and entering the shop of A. J. Henderson November 19, with intent to commit an indictable offence; theft of gas from A. J. Henderson November 19; breaking and entering the premises of Richard Lees October 27.

Walsh pleaded guilty to the same carges.

Chief Constable C. W. Graham of Port Hope testified that Thompson stole some anti-freeze from Richard Lee and it was used in Walsh's car. Gasoline was siphoned out of a truck behind Henderson's warehouse and was put into Walsh's automobile, stated the Chief.

Exposition Attendance Will Top 430,000

CHICAGO (CP)—The International Livestock Exposition ends tonight with indications that attendance for the eight-day show will top last year's total of 430,000 persons.

The last of the champion cattle, sheep and hogs were taken to the show rings Friday. Auction prices were generally higher than a year ago. There were 11,050 animals, worth $10,000,000, competing for $120,000 in cash prizes during the show.

At the horse show Friday night, Black Velvet and Grey Velvet, from ABC Farms, Brampton, Ont., finished second and third respectively in the jumping event. In the ladies' harness event, Scarboro Princess, from Lawrum Farms, Durham, Ont., was second.

Six Airmen Killed

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Six RAF airmen were killed and another seriously injured Friday, when a twin-engined Anson trainer crashed on landing at Newton airfield near here.

Smash Red Plot

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) Police Friday reported the smashing of a Communist plot in the Ruhr valley to protest West German rearmament through widespread strikes. Police said 11 Red leaders were arrested in a series of raids, and the apartments of 87 other suspects were searched.

Duke Number 1 'Pin-Up' For British Bobby Soxers

LONDON (Reuters) — British bobby-soxers have chosen the Duke of Edinburgh as their number one "pin-up," according to a poll announced today by The Daily Mirror.

No. 2 choice was Dirk Bogarde, dark-haired British movie star.

The duke and Bogarde scored high in teen-agers' answers to the question: "If you could have any man in the world as your escort for the evening, whom would you choose?"

Next in line were: British comedian Nax Bygraves; Hollywood's Tony Curtis and Gregory Peck; British singer Dickie Valentine, and movie stars Rock Hudson, Anthony Steel, Richard Todd, and Alan Ladd.

Asked why she chose the duke, one 18-year-old replied: "The duke has a sparkling personality and a sense of humor. He is handsome, intelligent and a sportsman."

There were also some unexpected names. One 19-year-old wanted to go out with the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Entertaining Budgies Bred In Basement Aviary

By JACK FINN

Budgie birds, like children and television sets, are never at their best when someone outside the family circle comes to see them perform, although in "Peter's" case, a little patience brought results.

Peter is a pet budgerigar bird (budgie for short) owned by Mrs. James Turner, 650 Sherbrooke St. But Peter isn't the only budgie in the Turner household. He has about 250 close relations chirping away down in the basement. Most of these are transients however. They come into being in the breeding cages below and find themselves on the wholesale market a few weeks later.

The wholesale business started about two years ago when Mr. Turner decided to acquire some practical means for the further study of genetics. The couple built a bird room in the basement, purchaesd 90 budgies, varying in color from yellow, through greens and blues to violet, and began a systematic production line of the little colored mimics.

A pure white room was furnished with breeding cages and fluorescent lighting. Completed, it closely resembles a third floor hospital room—and the resemblance doesn't end there. Practically every hour of every day between August and May, another little budgie sees the light. The mama budgie lays an egg each day until her nest, which is nothing more than a concave dent in a polished wooden board, contains between six and eight eggs. After the first egg is layed, and before all the eggs are hatched, she is busy laying the second batch.

TWO BATCHES AT A TIME

The Turners find that the quality of offspring is maintained if the prolific hen is removed from the nest after the second batch. She is then placed in the recuperation cage with about 100 other breeders.

To off-set the feeding strain which would normally lie on the female with such a huge brood to feed, nature has seen fit to outfit the male of the species with a regurgitating apparatus as well. In this way both parents can tend to the digestive wants of their young. Once in a while the mother will have none of this, but that, we are informed, is a rare occasion.

I use the term we to include a photogarpher friend of mine who came along to get pictures of the budgie bird. He felt they would go well with his collection of illegally shot deer. But we learned upon arrival, that the budgie is a shy bird that doesn't take kindly to novel sights. One doesn't wear coats, for example, in their presence, if one expects to hear their gay throated chatter. Shock them in such a way and they clam up.

What the shock of a flash bulb would do to their sensitive nature, we could only surmise—with some misgivings. Here we were among some 250 multi-hued warblers. Their concentrated chatter, if a little deafening, informed us that they were in good spirit. We had been in their domain for the better part of two hours calmly discussing their history and habits with their mistress. The birds had not shut up once during that time and we knew that they had taken us for granted.

NOW THE TROUBLE

But now the time had come for picture taking.

Preparations were made with painstaking deliberation. The essential thing was to move slowly and quietly. Any startling movement would undoubtedly prove disastrous.

Perhaps it was the tension—or the possibility that the flesh of the camera would swamp us in feathered fury as crazed budgies bust from their opened cages in bombastic outrage — but friend photographer lost control. His convulsing thumb tripped the trigger and the bulb flashed full in his face.

Seconds passed into minutes and no birds sang. The pulsing silence was only broken by the incoherent mumblings of "crows and black birds" from my stricken companion. He was dumbly staring at row upon row of frozen budgies that sat, and returned his stare, dumb and cold and blind, like innumerable replicas of the sombre Raven.

We lead him from that quiet room, which had so recently been gay and raucous, and went in search of Peter the pet. But Peter was wary of us also. (You could tell Peter was a he because of the blue nose bridge he sported. This is common to all males of the species). At first he defied all persuasions to get him out of his cage, but finally he relented and burst forth and made a round of the house. It looked for a moment as if someone would be beaned, but the budgie found his way back to his perch. It then began to talk. "Pretty Peter—come on Peter—come on pretty Peter". The sarcastic creature was aping our entreaties, but doing nothing about them. Then, in a moment of compassion, he fluttered down to rest on the head of his little master, David Turner.

The bird whisked back to his cage.

More entreaties, threats and persuasions followed and finally Peter complied once more, hesitantly. This time a picture was taken and the bird got his first touch of footlight ego. He began to show off, ring his play bell, roll over like a pup and talk his head off.

All the flash bulbs were gone.

BUDGIE BIRD FARM in the basement of Mr. and Mrs. James Turnbull's home, 650 Shebrooke St., is a chirping, busy place, also very colorful. Mrs. Turnbull, inset in upper photo, is the only person who can enter the large free-flying adult cage but the single family pet, "Peter," is afraid of no one, least of all little David Turnbull, 5, who poses in lower photo with Peter on a favorite perch, someone's head.

Iran, Britain Resume Diplomatic Relations

A spokesman for Premier Fazollah Zahedi's government announced the move, which had been forecast earlier by informed sources both here and in London. It came despite strong internal opposition, particularly on the part of Ayatullah Kashani, powerful Moslem religious leader.

(A communique issued shortly afterwards in London said that following re-exchanging of ambassadors Britain and Iran "will proceed at the earliest mutually-agreed moment to negotiate a settlement of the oil dispute which has recently clouded relations.")

BROKEN BY MOSSADEGH

Relations were broken off 13 months ago by former premier Mohammed Mossadegh as a result of the dispute over Iranian nationalization of properties of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Mossadegh, now being tried by an Iranian army court-martial on treason charges, was ousted last August in a pro-royalist coup.

Announcement of resumption of relations had been expected since a group of leading Iranians, including former cabinet ministers, senators and top business men, approved the move at a meeting earlier this week.

The government spokesman said: "Relations have been resumed inasmuch as both sides are confident that with goodwill on both sides better relations and settlement of any disputes in the past can be arrived at."

TO EXPLAIN TO PEOPLE

Zahedi is expected to make a radio speech Sunday or Monday explaining his government's reasons for the move.

Kashani, long a bitter foe of Britain, declared Thursday that the oil dispute should be settled first and the final agreement approved by Parliament before British envoys be allowed to enter the country.

Kashani told reporters in an interview today: "The Americans have increased pressure on the Iranian government, saying if Iran does not resume diplomatic relations with Britain they will cut the small amount of money given to Iran as help."

"We will not put up with this meanness," Kashani added, declaring that the day of resumption of relations would be considered a day of mourning.

It is highly debatable how much influence Kashani has in Iranian politics today in contrast to his admitted great power during the Mossadegh regime. Kashani was one of Mossadegh's stauncnest lieutenants for the first year of the former premier's 28-month term, but broke with the chieftain when Mossadegh demanded increased powers.

Queen's Visit Annoys Spain

MADRID (Reuters)—The Spanish newspaper ABC Friday characterized Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to Gibraltar at the end of her six-month Commonwealth tour as "an exclusively political gesture which can only be interpreted as an act of clear and spectacular hostility towards Spain."

"This proposed British move proves the intention to reply to Spanish hyper-sensitivity on this subject by an inelegant pinprick," the paper said.

"If Her Gracious Majesty had been coming to Gibraltar as a tourist, we would have welcomed her graciously. But she is coming in accordance with the policy of her government and for state reasons."

Since 1713, when Britain came into possession of the rock fortress by the Treaty of Utrecht, Spain has disputed her right to hold it.

Scores Minority Who Desecrate Forests, Game

MONTREAL (CP)—The "defiant minority" that ignores law to desecrate Canada's forests, fish and game was scored today by Robson Black, president emeritus of the Canadian Forestry Association.

In an address prepared for delivery at an annual luncheon of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, Mr. Black compared those who flout conservation laws to "our hottentot car drivers, answerable only to the whip of community law."

The majority of citizens needed only education to respect conservation, but a defiant minority could be controlled only by "police power, the fear of punishment."

SOCIAL DIVIDENDS

Mr. Black added:

"Quebec's greatest achievement in the care of her natural resources is that a majority of the human caretakers have roused themselves to work with mother nature hand-in-hand instead of fist-to-fist.

"The past 15 years of Quebec's expansion represent a piling up of social dividends from natural resources. Everywhere, better jobs, higher wages, finer communities—the first fruits of great forests and waterpower, tourist trade and mineral riches.

". . . Our homeland has suffered shameful damage, but we still retain our full powers to regenerate and repeat the fruits of the earth. The recovery job will not be done by any five-year plan because we are battling against a heavy drag of tradition and habit.

"A regime of conservation will finally be established in Quebec when the masses recognize it as their only instrument of survival."

Percy Township Votes Monday

George Broadworth, who has been reeve for the past two years, and Cecil Grills, deputy-reeve for the past two years, are contesting the reeveship.

Two 1953 councillors are battling it out for the deputy-reeveship. The two are J. S. Atkinson and William Johnston.

FIVE FOR COUNCIL

Five have qualified for the three council vacancies. They are Eric Merrill, councillor for two years, Arthur Wartman, former reeve and councillor, James Hicks, J. E. Edgar and Earl Nelson.

The voting time Monday will be from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. There are six polls: Norham community hall, Warkworth council chambers, Copperthwaite shop in Dartford, Cobourg Rd. schoolhouse, Stinson's school or Lou Stinson's house, and Ingram's house.

Historical Sketches Prepared For WI

HALLS GLEN (ENS) — The Womens Institute held their Christmas party in the hall. Twenty-five members and five visitors were present.

The president, Mrs. Ralph Hamilton, presided and Mrs. Goldie Drain was pianist. Carols were sung and the roll call was answered with an exchange of gifts.

The program consisted of a reading by Mrs. Howard Hamilton, paper by Mrs. Cyril Scott, a story by Mrs. Chester Hamilton and a contest conducter by Mrs. Allan Oliver.

Mrs. Henry Little, historical research convener, told the members she was planning a new series of historical sketches and asked for their co-operation in contributing items of local interest.

A penny sale realized $7.84. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. E. Bulmer Marks 80th Birthday

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Forty-five members of the family of Mrs. Edwin Bulmer of Smith township gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Northey to honor her on her 80th birthday.

Present, besides many other relatives, were her three sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bulmer, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bulmer and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bulmer; four daughters with their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Herb McIlmoyle, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Northey and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Northey. Another son-in-law, Graydon Northey also attended.

The three-tiered birthday cake was aglow with candles marking the 80 years. It was made by two granddaughters, Mrs. Stanley Hart and Mrs. Alvin Northey.

Mrs. Bulmer received many gifts and messages of congratulations.

The evening was spent playing euchre. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by other members of the family.

Mrs Parsons Heads St. Mark's Guild

WARSAW (ENS) — St. Mark's Anglican church Ladies' Guild met at the home of Mrs. Thomas Davis.

The slate of officers for the coming year was presented by the Rev. L. Delaney as follows: President, Mrs. George Parsons; vice-president, Mrs. Don Davis; secretary, Mrs. Elmer Cooper; treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Cuffe; purchasing convener, Mrs. Thomas Davis.

Plans were made for the centennial celebration of the church.

Mrs. George Parsons won the lucky jar. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Observers Study Pravda Story

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Western observers in Moscow took great interest today in an editorial in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, suggesting that the Western powers and Russia act jointly to ensure European security.

The observers pointed out that Russia referred to this suggestion a number of times in her last note to the Western powers in which she stated her agreement to a four-power foreign ministers' conference.

They added that these references might be straws in the wind indicating Russia's possible continuing interest in some form of "security guarantees."

Commenting on plans for German rearmament, Pravda said it would be a "serious crime" to allow the re-creation of a "dangerous hot-bed of aggression" in central Europe.

But establishment of American bases in Europe was the "greatest and most serious threat to the security of Europe."

Inspection Charge Said Exhorbitant

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—A protest will be sent to the department of Labor regarding the charge for inspectoin of four cold water storage tanks at the Lakefield public school.

This decision was reached at a recent meeting of the board. The charge was described as exhorbitant.

On the request of Principal E. G. Sloan, four new desks will be purchased for Miss Benton's room and two for Miss Madill's, also 200 silencers.

Martin Reddick will be paid $1.00 per trip, a month for carrying charges on a projector for the school's use.

The finance committee recommended payment of accounts totalling $690.41.

Mrs. Clements Heads Presbyterian WMS

The meeting was opened with a hymn. Mrs. Drain said a prayer. The scripture reading was read by Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Sharpe. Mrs. Drain gave a reading from Glad Tidings.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Mrs. Harry Clements; secretary, Mrs. John Selkirk; treasurer, Mrs. Milton Drain; visiting committee, Mrs. Hilliard Darling.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

200 Attend Service For Bible Society

STIRLING (ENS) — Some 200 attended the community service in St. Paul's United Church in the interests of the Upper Canada Bible Society.

The Rev. A. E. Baker conducted the opening exercises and Arnold Wannamaker, president of the local branch, was in charge of the remainder of the service. Guest speaker was the Rev. H. Egerton Young, district secretary. The combined choirs of the local churches led the singing.

Following the service, a meeting of the executive was held.

Mr. Young presided for the election of officers. Mr. Wanamaker was re-elected president and Mrs. R. Williams, secretary. Mrs. Nora Wescott had resigned as treasurer and Mrs. Charles Vance was elected to that position. Mrs. Wescott had been a faithful worker in the society's interests for many years.

Weekend Church Review:

Religion, Citizenship Duties Do Not Clash

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

When one looks upon the history of governments, and even looks out upon governments in various parts of the world today, it becomes obvious that in countries like the United States and Canada there is no conflict between Christian rights and duties and the rights and duties of citizenship.

Here, the better Christian a man is, the better citizen he will be. Christianity and democracy have so much in common as to be in many respects almost identical in their demands of idealism and duty.

But in some other lands today it is not possible to be a lawful and peaceable Christian without the perils and actualities of persecution and even death.

One could hardly have believed that persecutions such as the early Christians endured in the worst days of the Roman Empire would have broken out, again against Christians, in this world of the twentieth century.

We who live in lands where democratic liberties and rights prevail should set a profound value upon our heritage. Yet one cannot observe the whole area of life in such democratic lands without realizing that vast numbers of people, for whom such rights and liberties are available, either set little value upon them or pervert that heritage of freedom by lives of utterly selfish and unsocial conduct, or by downright criminality.

We are far from having built a democracy, ideally operating and sound in every part. Moreover, the nature and extent of the problem of juvenile delinquency darkens a hope for the future that might otherwise be strong, if we could think of each generation improving upon its predecessor.

My father used to say that we ought to be a great deal better than our fathers, because we live in a world of larger knowledge and better opportunities. Yet I should hesitate to say that I am a better man than my father was.

What we might call Christian ideals and teachings are shared and followed, by many who are not Christians. Christianity itself was founded upon Judaism, with its supreme emphasis upon devotion to the commonweal.

And many, who are neither Christians nor Jews in their actual living and in their citizenship show allegiance to the same ideals and values.

What are these ideals and values that characterizes the Christian citizen and set the standard for all?

First of all the demand of rigid honesty in thought and action.

Second is devotion to the common good as against the purpose to grasp for one's self and take unfair advantage of one's fellows. What a record our history reveals in the various forms of unfair exploration to which many are subjected!

Third, good neighborliness underlies all good citizenship. The Good Samaritan is still the great example for the good Christian, the good Jew and the good citizen, whatever his creed, or his lack of creed.

What a nation this might be in strength, power and happiness, if all its citizens were good Samaritans!

St. Giles' Service Will Be Broadcast

The morning service of St. Giles' Presbyterian church will be broadcast over CHEX, for the first time, on Sunday morning at 11.00 o'clock. The congregation, whose home is at present in Confederation public school, first met for service in October 1952. For first 10 months it carried on as a mission and in June of this year was organized as a congregation. A church building is now under construction on Park St. S. The minister is the Rev. Gilbert Smith, who came out from Northern Ireland early this spring and the pianist and choir director is Mrs. G. Wilson Craw.

'NATO Bride' Arrives

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's first bride of a NATO soldier serving in Europe arrived Friday night. She is Mrs. Jack Radford, formerly of lancashire. The couple met in Germany, where the 28-year-old blonde bride was serving in the British Army.

LIVING COSTS DROP — Ending a steady, five-month rise, living costs declined during October, with the consumer price index dropping by one-half point to 116.2 from 116.7, the Bureau of Satistics reports. The decline was due almost entirely to food price drops. The peak of 118.2 was reached in December, 1951, with 1949 prices equalling 100. The dotted line shows the United States consumer index which advanced to a record 115.4 in mid-October of the 1947-49 average. These indices measure percentage changes in each country but should not be used to compare actual levels of prices between the two countries.

Duke Helps High Jinks As Ship Crosses Equator

By GOMER JONES

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh swore fealty to a new ruler, king Neptune, and led the mythical ocean monarch's courtiers in daubing and ducking titled ladies in this ship's swimming pool Friday.

Proudly wearing the blue-and-white apron of an "assistant barber" in Neptune's entourage, the duke played a key part in traditional crossing-the-line ceremonies as the Gothic steamed past the equator toward the Fiji islands on the first sea stage of the royal couple's six-month Commonwealth tour.

The duke personally pushed Lady Alice Egerton, the Queen's lady-in-waiting, into the swimming pool after she had been daubed with flour paste and red paint for repelling and repulsing good-looking jack tars."

SAME TREATMENT

Lady Pamela Mountbatten, another lady-in-waiting, got the same harsh treament for being the daughter of the British mediterranean commander-in-chief, Admiral Lord Mountbatten, "a sea lord not appointed by Neptune."

The initiation is inflicted on everyone who had not crossed the equator before. Queen Elizabeth looked on as an old hand—she had crossed the equator on her trip to South Africa in 1947.

The time-honored rites were performed on several royal women secretaries and the Queen's page and footmen.

Retribution came in the end for Neptune, impersonated by the duke's police guard, Inspector Frank Kelley, who sported the traditional long, flowing beard.

WATCHED CEREMONY

Earlier in the day the Queen and duke watched a similar ceremony aboard the escort cruiser Sheffield through binoculars.

The initiation aboard the royal liner was even more impressive, as befitting the imposing titles of its victims. Neptune, and a naval officer disguised as Queen Aphrodite, mounted their throne to violin music by a pirate with a black patch over one eye—Lt.-Col. Vivian Dunn, Royal Marine music director.

Score Of Cities Holding Elections Monday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hundreds of Ontario communities including nearly a score of cities, will hold municipal elections Monday. In many cases, the voting will settle lively fights for civic offices.

Cities voting Monday include Belleville, Chatham, Guelph, Kitchener, Peterborough, Sarnia, Stratford, Sudbury, London, Woodstock, Brantford, Galt, Niagara Falls, Oshawa, St. Thomas, Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie and Welland. Brockville is among towns voting that day.

A number of others have already chosen their 1954 civic administrations, some by acclamation. The northern town of Timmins was scheduled to have its election today but the 1954 civic government went in by acclamation.

Cornwall, Kingston, Ottawa and Windsor, with two-year terms, have an off year. Hamilton voted Dec. 2. St. Catharines votes Dec. 12, the first time in many years balloting has been held on a date other than New Year's Day, while North Bay and Port Arthur elections will be Dec. 14.

MAYORS OPPOSED

Present mayors are opposed in many centres. Mayor Allan Lamport is challenged by Arthur Brown in Toronto, Mayor Allan Rush by Elmo Curtis in London, Mayor Harry Worton by Joseph Heffernan in Guelph, Mayor Hugh Waddell by Norman Graham in Peterborough, Mayor John Franklin by Alderman John Smith in St. Catharines, Mayor Lawrence Feick by Alderman Bert Davies and Alderman C. H. Meier in Stratford, Mayor Dan Jessup by former mayor W. S. Beaton in Sudbury and Mayor Bernadette Smith by Alderman Harry J. Collins in Woodstock.

A bylaw to stop whistle blowing in Belleville is one of the bylaw questions to be decided in Ontario municipalities. Chatham will vote on a $200,000 extension to the Public General Hospital, Blenheim on a $900 grant for a new bandstand.

Merritton voters will be asked if they want the town to separate from Lincoln county. They are also to be asked to approve a $100,000 debenture issue for a community centre.

A Stratford bylaw vote concerns a $15,000 debenture issue for renovation of the old Stratford General Hospital building as a hospital for chronic cases and to provide additional accommodation for the nursing staff.

VOTE ON BUSES

Woodstock has no bus service at present and ratepayers will be asked Monday whether they want the city to operate one.

London will vote on five questions, including sale of a city-owned railway, building of a community centre and appointment of a city manager.

Two major issues in the Toronto mayoralty fight are rent controls, which may be taken over by municipal governments when the province steps out of the rental field next year, and low-rental housing developments. Mayor Lamport, seeking his third term, has opposed rent controls while Mr. Brown, who resigned as board of education chairman to seek the mayoralty, has made an election pledge that the city will adopt a "modified" control under a three-man board.

Arrest 3 At Gunpoint After Chase In City

PLEADING GUILTY TO ATTEMPTED ROBBERY, these three men, Cecil LaFrance, 20, Donald Clark, 17, and Donald Burfield, 19, were remanded to Dec. 14 when they appeared in Magistrate's court today. They were arrested at gun point Sunday night, after they had driven through a road block near Downer's Corners, by Constables William G. Scott and Jack Wilson. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Eisenhower To Present Big 3 Plan

UN To Hear Speech On Disarmament; Backed By Allies

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to New York Tuesday to deliver a new Western challenge to Russia to join in working out a play of disarmament and atomic control.

With the backing of Prime Minister Churchill and the French leaders here for the Big Three conference, Eisenhower, in a major address to the United Nations General Assembly, is expected to suggest a fresh approach to the internaitonal atomic problem which has been caught in a Soviet-Western deadlock for seven years.

The announced subject for the speech, to be made at 4 p.m. EST, is "perils that confront the world in this atomic age."

The announcement Sunday night that Eisenhower would address the UN caused a sensation dominating the closing rounds of his meetings here with Churchill and French premier Joseph Laniel.

The development overshadowed the shift of the talks today to Far Eastern problems, including France's war in Indo-China and negotiations for a Korean peace conference, and continuing British-U.S. efforts to press the French for early approval of the rearmament of West Germany.

The Big Three talks were due to close today with a communique summing up their work.

Eisenhower will leave Tuesday, flying directly to New York's Idlewild airport. The ailing Laniel, still confined to bed with a lung infection, also will fly home Tuesday if he is able.

Churchill, the conference host, will leave for London late Wednesday.

Eisenhower and Churchill, along with U.S. secretary of state Dulles, British foreign secretary Eden and French foreign minister Bidault, at their sessions Sunday drafted a note to Russia, believed to contain acceptance of a Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin, possibly in early January.

The draft was sent to Bonn for West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer's approval.

In their examination of European problems, Eisenhower and Churchill are reported to have heard a plea Sunday from Bidault for new assurances they will maintain their military strength in Europe and will back France's demands for continued close economic union with the strategic border Saar basin, which Germany wants "Europeanized."

These were given as part of France's price for ratification of German rearmament as part of the projected European Defence Community.

Election Results

Municipal election results will be broadcast by The Examiner over radio station CHEX at intervals throughout this evening and then when the final returns are completed it is planned to have the successful candidates speak.

A bulletin service will be used at The Examiner and the telephones will be staffed to give out results. Polls close at seven o'clock. It will be an exceptionally heavy ballot to count, with 23 names, and progressive results will not be available until eight o'clock.

Businessmen Must Take Lead-Stuart

MONTREAL (CP) — Business men must give some leadership in fostering economic relations between Canada and the United States, R. Douglas Stuart, U. S. ambassador to Canada, said today.

Mr. Stuart, formerly a leading U. S. businessman as president of the Quaker Oats Company, said they must help form public opinion to back up government moves aimed at better trade and other relations.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club, Mr. Stuart spoke on a businessman-ambassador's point of view in Canada-U. S. dealings.

He noted that last month the two countries had set up a joint government committee on trade and economic affairs.

He added:

"The business men of our two countries are facing a highly competitive period. In these circumstances, charges and counter-charges, justified and unjustified, are to be expected.

"The committee will consider such problems among others and recommend to the respective governments the measures to improve economic relations and to encourage the flow of trade between our two countries.

"To make it practicable for our governments to implement such recommendations, they must of course be supported by public opinion.

"For, as President Eisenhower honestly and frankly recognized in his recent address to the two Houses of Parliament in Ottawa, '. . . every common undertaking, however worthwhile it may be, must be understood in its origins, its application, its effects by the peoples of our two countries. Without this understanding, it will have a negligible chance of success. Canadians and citizens of the U. S. do not accept government by edict or decree. Informed and intelligent co-operation is, for us, the only source of enduring accomplishment.'"

Trio Pleads Guilty To Holdup Try

Car Breaks Roadblock Finally Stopped As Police Shoot Tire

By DON GRANT

After crashing a city police road block on Highway 7, then starting a wild 50-mile-an-hour chase through city streets, three young men were arrested at gunpoint on Princess St. early Sunday night following an attempted holdup at J. H. Thirnbeck's service station-lunch bar, on Highway 7, 10 miles east of Peterborough.

Arrested were: Donald Clark, 1047 Monaghan Road; Donald Burfield, Bell St.; Cecil LaFrance, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

They appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. in the police court this morning to face a charge of attempted robbery. All three pleaded guilty and were remanded to appear on December 14.

Thirnbeck gave evidence in court today, telling much the same story as he told the Examiner Sunday.

J. H. THIRNBECK

About 7:50 p.m., Sunday, two men, one dressed in soldier's clothing and the other in civvies, entered Thirnbeck's office and lunch bar.

CAME IN TOGETHER

"They both came in together. The soldier came over first and asked for an evening paper," said Thirnbeck. "I answered "No" and he walked back, telling the other chap, "They haven't any papers."

The other lad stepped over to the small counter.

"The fellow was in civvies. His face was half-covered with a scarf and sock over his mouth and jaw. He started to mumble but I couldn't make out what he was trying to say."

Finally the astonished Thirnbeck made out "Hand over what you got." At the same time the man had his hand in his side pocket as if he had a gun.

The man answered, "I've got a gun."

Girl, 17, Abducted From Car, Feared Murdered

TORONTO (CP)—A province-wide search began today for a 17-year-old girl and a man reported to have kidnapped her, carrying her off in the trunk of a car. Police of suburban Scarborough township said they were told that Marion Joan MacDowell was taken at gunpoint from her boy friend's car on a lonely sideroad Sunday night by a masked man. The boy friend, James Wilson, 19, said he was slugged by what he thought was a gun butt.

Wilson was treated later in hospital for head injuries. Police questioned him most of the night and said they have no reason to doubt his story of the abduction.

STOLEN WALLET FOUND

Officers said robbery was also involved in the abduction near Danforth road and Eglinton avenue on the city's eastern outskirts, where Wilson was parked.

Wilson was forced to hand over his wallet, containing about $10, which was later found near the scene. Police believed the masked man, about five feet eight inches tall, dropped it in his getaway.

About 9:30 p. m., Wilson said, a masked man pulled the door of his car open, levelled a gun at him and ordered him out. The youth stepped out, was forced to give up his wallet and ordered to turn around.

The youth was then slugged on the head from behind.

When he recovered consciousness, he said, he was in the back of the car with the girl bundled in on top of him. Wilson said the man who slugged him drove the car to another east-end laneway.

PUT GIRL IN TRUNK

The bandit stopped the car, went through the girl's pockets, then took her out of the car and placed her in the trunk of another car. He drove away while the youth, dazed and helpless, was unable to offer any resistance.

After he had been questioned by Scarboro police until 3 a.m., Wilson told reporters that he had been out on a date with Miss MacDowell who he had known for two months.

He said after they had been on the sideroad for about an hour and a half, "a man wearing a woollen mask, like a balaclava helmet, over his face opened the door and said: 'This is a stickup.'

"I sat there for a few seconds ignoring the man. Then I turned to the girl and the man pointed a gun at me and ordered me out of the car."

STRUCK DOWN

Wilson complied, was robbed and struck down.

Boy 13, Lands Plane Safely, No Experience

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—A 13-year-old schoolboy without piloting experience flew a private plane Saturday while dozens of fear-frozen spectators—and an ambulance—waited below for a crash.

But Tony Hammond put the plane down with only minor damage and no injury to himself or his horrified passenger, Richard Floyd who was on his first plane ride.

As related by L. P. Broadfield, manager of Rocky Mount airport, Hammond was at the controls of the Piper cub with his foot on the brakes while the pilot, William Gaither, was outside twirling the propeller to start the engine. Suddenly the engine caught and the plane, apparently with the throttle stuck, raced down a runway and took to the air.

SETS DOWN SAFELY

The youngster circled the airport for a quarter hour while a crowd gathered below and an ambulance was called. Then he pointed the nose down for a landing. The plane struck a landing light but settled safely on the field.

Hammond, asked by a reporter if he wanted to fly again, replied, "Sure."

Floyd, 20, the nervous passenger, commented, "I let the boy do all the flying. I didn't know anything about it at all."

Mother Of Four Moira Victim

BELLEVILLE (CP) — A young mother of four children was drowned in the Moira river Sunday when she jumped from a bridge as a freight train bore down on her and four other persons.

Mrs. Margaret Hill, 34, of Belleville and the others were walking across the bridge shortly after 1 a.m. when the freight rumbled across the bridge.

Joseph Clement, 48, of Oshawa jumped into the river in an attempt to save the woman. He swam to shore when he failed to sight her. The others, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boisvert and Carl Brant, ran across the bridge to safety.

Police and firemen dragged the river all day without success. They stopped operations at dusk.

Four U.S. Thunderjets Crash In Bad Weather

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Four Thunderjets in tight formation suddenly shot through low hanging clouds near here early Sunday and slammed into a pine thicket, carrying their pilots to instant death.

Officials at Dobbins air force base in Marietta, Ga., home base of the single-seater Thunderjets, believed the planes got lost in rough, rainy weather. The four Georgia pilots crashed at 12:12 a. m., only a few minutes before they were scheduled to land at Dobbins.

The pilots were all members of the Atlanta Air National Guard unit.

The bodies were found several hundred yards from the charred wreckage, battered beyond recognition.

Heavy Vote Reported In Ont. Centres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Early reports on today's municipal elections in Ontario centres showed a heavy vote in a few places. Skies were sunny and temperatures in the mid-40s in most of southern Ontario.

Officials at Peterborough said a record high vote was indicated by early balloting. Big votes were also expected in Woodstock and Sault Ste. Marie. Light votes were being cast in Sudbury, Kitchener, Thorold, and Niagara-on-the-Lake. A "fair vote" was expected in London.

Voting appeared heaviest where local issues had aroused interest. It was expected the weight of early ballots would set the pattern for the day in most centres.

MAYORALTY BATTLE

At Peterborough, ex-alderman Norman Graham is trying to unseat Mayor Hugh Waddell, elected by acclamation twice previously. Interest is high in re-assessment of the city and construction of a memorial centre. There are 15 candidates for five city council seats and six for the five board of education seats.

Altogether, hundreds of municipalities were choosing their 1954 administrations today.

They included Toronto, where citizens picking their 120th civic administration from among the 74 candidates for 37 council and board of education seats, at the same time were choosing representatives to the metropolitan council which begins official operations Jan. 1.

Arthur J. Brown, former Toronto board of education chairman, is trying to unseat Allan Lamport, seeking his third term as mayor.

SMALL TURNOUT FORECAST

A small advance poll last week led observers to forecast a light vote. Last year's turnout was 35 per cent.

London also has a mayoralty contest, with Elmo W. Curtis opposing Mayor Allan Rush. The 54,000 eligible voters must also decide five questions.

Chou Warns UN Talks Critical

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The Chinese prime minister, Chou En-lai, has sent a message to the United Nations General Assembly warning that the situation in Korea now has reached "critical stage," Peiping Radio announced today.

The Communist broadcast said a seven-point letter had been sent to the U. N. secretary-general, Dag Hammarskjold, and Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, president of the United Nations Assembly.

The letter said explanations to unrepatriated war prisoners by the North Korean and Chinese side were carried out only for seven days.

Yugoslavs, Italians Cut Border Posts

UDINE, Italy (AP) — Yugoslav and Italian troops pulled back today from their emergency positions along the Yugoslav-Italian border in a new move to ease tension over Trieste.

This came 48 hours after the two nations agreed to "normalize" their frontiers as the first peaceful step toward resolving their lengthy feud over possession of the Trieste free territory.

Italy was the first to announce withdrawal and Italian roads leading away from the border were filled with troops, tanks and other military vehicles.

Tanjjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, announced the pullback of that country's forces.

Tornado Wrecks 12 Blocks Leaves 30 Dead, 230 Hurt

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Rescue gangs worked in freezing weather today in a grisly hunt for additional victims of Saturday's vicious tornado that took at least 30 lives. The temperature dropped to 31 degrees in the heatless city and frost covered lawns and other open ground in outlying areas.

National guardsmen on guard duty built fires from the debris that littered the streets.

The two latest victims died in hospitals today and authorities said at least eight other persons remained on the critical list.

Dawn brought the noise of steam shovels, bulldozers and shovels after a heatless, shivering night for the 28,000 residents who piled on blankets. The most serious cases among the 230 injured were crowded into Vicksburg's four main hospitals, warmed by blankets and electric heaters from the city"s homes.

Civil defence and military leaders estimated the damage at $25,000,000.

President Eisenhower declared the city a disaster area, authorizing emergency funds to help rebuild 12 blocks of stores, homes and warehouses.

GAS CUT OFF

One-fifth of the city was without electricity. All of the city was without natural gas—the only heating and cooking fuel for most homes. The temperature dropped to 44 in the city and was near the freezing point in the suburbs.

The tornado broke the gas main. It was repaired late Sunday, but city officials feared to turn it on—because someone might have left a gas jet open.

The twister roared out of the west, cut through the heart of the city, and then died out.

It aimed its deadliest punch at small children. Ten youngsters between the ages of 2 and 10 were among the dead.

The driver of the car, Lyle Hay, also of Stirling, was taken to Belleville General Hospital with a shoulder injury but was released a short time later. No one else was in the car, which was a total wreck.

The car was descending a hill on the gravel road when May apparently lost control. Miss Ingram was thrown from the car and was instantly killed.

Claxton Places Wreath On Runnymede Memorial

RUNNYMEDE, Surrey (CP) — Defence Minister Brooke Claxton of Canada today placed a wreath at the gleaming white memorial in Runnymede commemorating 20,455 Commonwealth airmen who lie in unknown graves. The Queen dedicated Runnymede memorial Oct. 17.

The defence minister stood for nearly a minute with head bowed on the hillside site of the white stone memorial overlooking the Thames river and Runnymede meadow, where eight centuries ago King John signed the Magna Carta.

Earlier the minister was shown around Runnymede by Brig. J. Higginson of the Imperial war graves commission. He paused to inspect a large wreath from Windsor, Ont., lying on one of the windows of the memorial. There was no name on the wreath.

The ceremony was Claxton's first official act since his arrival in the United Kingdom by air Saturday. Sunday night he and Mrs. Claxton had dinner with Field Marshal Alexander, Britain's defence minister, and Countess Alexander, at their country home, Beech Missing, near Englefield Green, Surrey.

Claxton's schedule called for a visit today to the RCAF bases at North Luffenham, Rutland, and Langar, Nottinghamshire, where he was to have presented Coronation medals to four Canadian airmen. But fog closed in over the Midlands and plans were changed, the minister deciding to fly straight to Germany.

Hydro Workers In Lindsay Go On Strike

LINDSAY (ENS)—13 employees of the Lindsay Hydro Electric Commission went on strike this morning, as they threatened in a letter to the commission last weekend.

The group included all the operating employees of the commission, including the sub-station. The group through Fred Kitchen, of Toronto, their organizer, said they were striking for a signed agreement with the commission and union security.

They organized recently as local 31 of Union of Public Service Employees. When they asked for recognition as bargaining agent, the commission invoked section 78 of the labor act, declaring themselves a municipality under the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs Act and therefore not under the provisions of the Labor Act.

The union countered with the strike. The commission's act, they said, freed the employees from the conciliation and arbitration clause of the labor act, and allowed them to take what action they wished. The striking workers, the entire operating staff of the system in Lindsay said, they would remain out until the commission made a move.

An early morning meeting of the commission broke up without a decision being reached and another is understood scheduled for this afternoon. Commission members had no comment to make this morning.

No emergency calls are being handled by the striking workers, but they said they would take into consideration the nature of any call before making a more definite decision on the matter. Both the hydro office and yard on William St. North and the sub-station in the north end of the town are being picketed by strikers, and signs demanding a signed agreement and union security are being displayed by the picketers.

Royal Navy Frigate Takes Ship With Pirate Gang

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Navy frigate Flamingo put a midnight boarding party on the sailing vessel Naram Passa in the Arabian sea last Thursday and captured a pirate gang that had seized the ship from its Indian crew. The story of piracy on the high seas and how the pirates were caught —some asleep in their bunks— was told in an official admiralty announcement Saturday night.

The locale was a remote harbor at the edge of the sun-baked Arabian desert sands on the Gulf of Oman. The ship is a dhow, a high-prowed sailing craft used in Arabian sea traffic.

The admiralty told the tale this way:

CREW PUT ASHORE

A party of Indian seamen staggered into the Arabian town of Muscat and reported the dhow had been boarded by about 20 pirates, some of them armed, and the crew put ashore. The pirates came from a smaller boat under the pretext of distress signals, the Indians said. The dhow, loaded with a cargo of dates, was last seen making southward.

The Flamingo was ordered to search for the captured ship while en route from Aden to the Persian gulf. Her captain was tipped off that the pirates had a hideout in the village of Jadhib.

APPROACHED AT NIGHT

"Village and dhow were approached during that night and some of the crew surprised in their bunks," the admiralty statement said.

"Later next day the whole crew was apprehended."

"HMS Flamingo now has the Naram Passa in tow and is proceeding to Aden with her and pirate crew."

Israeli Premier Resigns Job

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Stocky, white-haired David Ben-Gurion, the "grand old man" of the young state of Israel, formally resigned as prime minister today to become a shepherd in the rugged Negev hills.

The 67-year-old statesman, prime minister since Israel became an independent state in 1948, has given "spiritual fatigue" as reason for his retirement.

Under the Israeli constitution, his resignation involved the resignation of the whole cabinet, but it remains in force as a caretaker government. Mose Sharett, the present foreign minister, has been named acting prime minister until a new government is formed.

Ben-Gurion, a leader of the Mapai (Socialist) party, told President Yitshak Ben-zvi in his letter of resignation that for the first time in the new state's history, he felt Israel was stable enough not to be affected by the resignation of a prime minister.

At this Thirnbeck called, 'Mildred! Get the police!"

"They then beat it, got into the car and went south."

SENT OUT ALARM

Thirnbeck called the provincial police who radioed to cars throughout the district to start looking for the car. OPP Constable Jim Healey was in a cruiser near Emery's station, west of Thirnbeck's station. He went to Thirnbeck's but the holdup youths were away.

Meanwhile the Peterborough police had been alerted and a road block was set up by Moldaver's lumber company on Highway 7. There Constables W. G. Scott and Jack Wilson had the red light flashing on the cruiser, stopping all westbound traffic.

The roadblock had been set up for some 15 minutes and the police were just going to leave when two cars came round the curve, about 1,000 feet east of the cruiser.

"We decided that we'd check check these two, then call it quits," said Constable Scott. "The first car appeared to be slowing down, but the other kept coming just as fast."

"Scott was waving the flashlight. I was waving my arms to stop," said Wilson. "Suddenly the second car darted out to pass the car that slowed down. It was going about 50. I thought the way they were going that they might hit Scott."

Wheeling the cruiser around Scott and Wilson took after the speeding car.

CHASED THROUGH STREETS

"We headed up Lansdowne St. Just at the Locks' bridge we were practically on their bumper. They turned south of the highway and went along Morrow St. to Lock, down Lock to McGill and over to Park St."

There the police cruiser pulled up behind the car, the red light flashing them to stop.

"Just as we drew up, beside and yet behind them, they suddenly put the car into low and broke away again," said Wilson.

SHOOTS LEFT TIRE

The suspects' car kept going though, up Lansdowne to Princess St. where the car stopped, the flat tire had bogged down their escape. They just pulled up to the curb.

The cruiser pulled up. Both Scott and Wilson jumped out with their revolvers pointed at the suspects' car. At gunpoint the policemen forced the three occupants out, searched them and then handcuffed them.

The men were then taken to provincial police headquarters for questioning by Cpl. Joe Hanson, and Constables Gord Gray and Jim Healey.

Will Deliver Mail Day Before Sent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pan American World Airways announced plans today to deliver mail the day before it is sent by using the jet stream, the river of high winds flowing from west to east high above the earth.

Pan American said it would carry out the plan, for stamp collectors and air mail enthusiasts, over its Tokyo-Honolulu route this month.

Each winter, when the jet stream flows fastest, Pan American flies its Stratoclippers non-stop the nearly 4,000-mile distance. En route they cross the international date line, so they land at Honolulu, as far as the calendar is concerned, the day before they leave Tokyo.

Pan American invited the public to send self-addressed air mail envelopes, plus 25 cents for Tokyo stamps, to reach its "Jet Stream Line Service," South San Francisco, before Dec. 20.

Walter Bitten 25 Years Top Butter Maker

NORWOOD (ENS)—At the annual Ontario Creamery Association convention held in Toronto on Friday, a 25-year award was presented to Walter Bitten of Norwood by the dairy branch, Ontario department of agriculture, in recognition of having held 25 first class buttermakers certificates as an appreciation for loyal and efficient services. To win this award the 25 certificates must be gained 25 years continuously.

Mr. Bitten was born in Pidley, Huntingdonshire, England, in 1884. He came to Norwood at the age of 26 in 1910. He returned to England in three years time to get married. He then returned to Norwood where he has lived in the same house for more than 40 years. He received his knowledge of the butter trade at Kingston College. In the spring of 1953 the business was taken over by his son, Arthur. In the year 1952 he made more than 140,000 lbs of butter.

Mr. Bitten is an active member of the Christ Anglican Church where he has been rector's warden for a number of years. In past years he has been on the Norwood school board and on the town council. He is the chaplain of the Masonic lodge in Norwood and is one the public utilities board.

Shopping Centre Taking Place

Locally there is little confirmation of reports that Bank of Commerce, Loblaw's and a gasoline service station will join Simpsons-Sears in their commercial development on Lansdowne St. west of Monaghan Road

A plan of the property and the allotment of locations is commonly mentioned as an accepted fact of the sites of these other companies that are said to be going in with Simpsons-Sears in building up a shopping centre in the block north of Millbrook stub of the C.N.R.

OTHER BUSINESSES

It is reported also that opportunity is inviting one or two other classes of business, a drug store particularly, and it has also been mentioned that a neighborhood theatre would be welcome. How far these phases of the broad project have developed is not known. At the Bank of Commerce, it was said that information of the bank's affairs would be known only at head office.

So far, four national business chains are represented on the plan of the ground layout which has been seen by a number of local business men. They take it for granted that these units are moving in with Simpsons-Sears as the shopping centre takes shape.

Saw U.S. Prisoners In Vladimir Area

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese prisoner of war recently repatriated from Russia said today he saw "American prisoners" in a prison southeast of Vladimir.

Tadashi Maeda, 58, a former navy captain and military attache, made the statement in testimony before the repatriation committee of Japan's House of Representatives.

Maeda is one of 811 Japanese returned from Russia last Tuesday.

"The largest population in the prison was Germans, followed by Japanese, Finnish, Polish, Turks, French, Britons, Dutch, Estonian and American prisoners of war," he said.

He gave no details.

Premier Speaks At Dedication Of New Church

LINDSAY (ENS)—An overflow crowd Sunday attended the dedication service for the new Calvary Temple, home of the Lindsay Pentecostal Assembly.

The building was recently completed after some seven months construction, much of it done voluntarily by members of the congregation.

Premier L. M. Frost paid tribute to the small congregation for their efforts in building the church and stated that he had watched their progress with interest through the summer. He noted the growth of the church community in Canada along with the country's progress in other lines and stated that the strength of Ontario today lies in "the fundamental principles which our forefathers brought to the province, such as their belief in government by the people. Equal opportunity for every man and beliefs in moral and spiritual values that are still with us."

DEDICATES CHURCH

The official dedication was conducted by the Rev. Walter McAlister, of Toronto, general superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada. After leading the congregation in the impressive service, he spoke on "Why a Pentecostal Church?" tracing its history and doctrine.

Others present included the Rev. W. B. Greenwood, of Belleville, district superintendent, who preached at the morning service; Donald Johns, of Peterborough, song leader; the Rev. Fred Parlee of the Peterborough Pentecostal Assembly; A. E. Hick, deputy-reeve of Lindsay; and several district ministers of other assemblies, with a delegation of students from Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, Peterborough, who provided the music, along with Florence Rollins, of Lindsay.

The minister of the church, the Rev. M. W. Holmes, traced its history in Lindsay and outlined some of the facts about the building itself.

The dedication service will continue this week with a youth evangelistic campaign, conducted by the Rev. Fred Parlee.

Quiet Under The Boom

If a nation's wealth is to be measured by its production in relation to its population, Canada has been the fattest of the new-rich. Production has far outrun the increase in population. Canada now is producing twice as much as it did before the war, and two and a quarter times as much as during the peak lush days of 1929. That is the measure of the present boom.

* * *

Mention of the 1929 boom recalls in the same breath the 1929 crash and the subsequent deep and sorry Depression. Canada's production now is more than twice what it was in the other Boom. Does it hold a hint of Bust? No, say the people in Canada who should know how economic and financial winds blow and why. Even the most sombre views of the canniest bank president—mild cautions about possible "readjustment" in the States and its repercussions here, and about stronger competition for foreign markets—even such careful cautions end optimistically. So last week the President of the Bank of Nova Scotia, giving his annual summary to shareholders, said: "There is a real momentum in our economic growth." Underneath the boom is quiet firmness, sound health.

"Precambria"

The new economic and strategic importance of the Canadian north-west territories have increased general Canadian interest in the area. Further, there are more people in the north than ever before and they are developing a proprietory point of view towards it. In other areas of the world colonialism is dying; it is logical that the colonial nature of the Yukon and Northwest Territories should also disappear. Evidence of the new attention is the proposal to rename the Department of National Resources so as to include the northern territories specifically in the name. Two of the first Bills put before Parliament when it assembled this fall related to the Yukon and the NWT.

We now hear rumours of a proposal to establish a big new province—to be called "Precambria". We do not put much stock in the rumour nor think much of the proposal. Such a province, comprising a million and three-quarter miles, about forty per cent of the total land area of Canada, with a population of less than 100,000, would be a physical monstrosity and a political incongruity. Anyway, we see no possibility of either Saskatchewan or Manitoba giving up the northern parts of their provinces to a new Province of Precambria. Riches are being uncovered in those parts, and the existing Provinces will hold on to their own.

Dutch Thrift And Ingenuity

It is pleasant to learn that three hundred Dutch who came to Canada a relatively short time ago are on their way back to their native country to spend the Christmas holidays. Thrifty and industrious people, they have prospered sufficiently to enable them to pay this visit, and we wish them a merry Christmas. In all probability, they will be as good an advertisement for Canada in Holland as they have been for Holland in this country.

The Dutch are among the best class of immigrants to this country which is where one would expect to find people with their characteristic thrift, industry and ingenuity. Their nine-month achievement, for example, in closing the seawall gaps opened by the February floods of this year represents an almost incredible amount of hard work, and ingenuity in using leftover war materials. The most optimistic observers outside Holland thought that a year and a half would be no more than adequate for completion of the task. The Dutch halved that estimate.

The aspect of the situation that we would find discouraging is that this closing of the seawall gaps is only a mere beginning toward solution of the entire problem facing the Dutch. There is the task of pumping out the flooded lands and restoring the soil to fertility. It will likely require two or three crop years before this can be accomplished, and then it may be said that the task has been well begun—no more than that, for the sea remains, and the sea is Holland's problem.

To date, the Dutch have been losing in their battle with the sea. The loss has been slow, about a foot and a half a century, but even that slow rate could mean eventual total loss, unless a solution of the problem can be found. Basically, it is said, the problem is this: Due partly to the slow warming of the Polar regions and partly to the settling of the Dutch land area, Holland is slowly sinking. Oddly enough, Scandinavia and Scotland are rising in relation to sea level as a result of this vast geological movement which, as noted, continues at the rate of a foot and a half a century. And when much of a country's land area is already eleven feet below sea level, as in the case of Holland, eighteen additional inches every hundred years is a very serious matter indeed.

It is unlikely that any Government has ever faced or is likely to face a similar problem of equal magnitude. The difficulties—and the cost—will be tremendous. That much is apparent without the slightest ability to appreciate the engineering and other problems involved. Anyone who has seen the Mississippi River flowing above the heads of workers in the nearby fields can appreciate the plight of a nation with most of its land eleven feet below the level of its boundary sea. At first glance, the odds against the Dutch seem incalculable, but when Dutch history and character are also weighed, there appears to be an even chance that the problem will be solved.

Dairymen At It Again

At the recent convention of the Ontario Creamery Association a Mr. J. J. Creighton who is president of the National Dairy Council sounded the dairyman's old cry for protection against competition. Margarine is of course the great new bogey. Creighton said that tariff charges should be placed on imported oils and oil-bearing seeds which now enter Canada duty free. The reason he wants tariffs put on these seeds is to force up the price of margarine, in which seed oils are used. Margarine costs the householder about half as much as butter does. Make the ingredients of margarine costly by imposing heavy duties and margarine would not be able to compete with butter.

The lobbying of the dairy interests is tiresome. Not contented with bulldozing legislation through most of the provinces forbidding the colouring of margarine, they want to put other obstacles in the way of free comeptition. Why? The same Mr. Creighton said that Canadians' use of milk and cream and "of practically all other dairy products" is increasing. Dairymen have a market for all they produce. What more do they want? It seems as if they want an absolute and utter monopoly.

Consumers must not underestimate the power of these creamery men. Against the wishes of the majority of the people of this Province and of other provinces they barred colour in margarine. They succeeded in Quebec in having margarine shut off entirely. For forty years they bamboozled the Federal government into banning margarine throughout the whole country. Now when they want a big tariff put against the oils used for margarine manufacture, when they lobby for more skim milk powder in "milk bread", and when they seek to get Ottawa to support school lunches (consisting only of milk and butter on milk bread, we presume), Canadian householders must be wary. There seem to be no limits to the greed of these "dairy councils" and "creamery associations". And there seem to be few limits to governmental indulgence of them.

Posobly They Sould Trie Two R's

Farm Forums have planned to discuss tonight the broadcast subject: "Are Farm Youth Programs Succeeding?" The good results of 4-H clubs, Junior Farmers associations and other organizations for boys and girls in rural areas do show that "farm youth programs" are succeeding very well indeed, in some things. One "Program" for country youth — a basic one — seems less successful in some important ways. We refer to schooling.

There came into our hands yesterday a set of examinations written by pupils of a high school in this district. The essays had to do with an extra-curricular activity. The spelling was striking. Here are a few examples; we put the correct spelling in brackets in order to identify the meaning intended by these young people in grades nine and ten of high school:

adentaife (indentify); trie (try); provent (prevent); deased (diseased); socked (soaked); shuvle (shovel); posobly (possibly); baren (barren); rap (wrap); roffe also roof (rough); shood also sould (should); ams (aims); fore (four); surgar (sugar); mose (moss); creats (crates); immportant (important). One of these rural high school boys even managed to spell farm farum.

It seems that one of the "programs" which might beneficially be tried is some firm schooling in reading and writing. We venture to suggest that "farm youth programs" will have even better success when the participants can give evidence of accurate and straight thinking by the written control they have of their language.

Referring to Sir Winston Churchill's 79th birthday, the Montreal Star calls him 'the last of the Titans'. Funny, though, how a new crop of Titans is always turning up, and the oldest is invariably referred to as the last.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

DR. ALBERT Schweitzer, who was recently awarded the Nobel Prize, is regarded by an increasing number of people as the greatest living man, though he himself would shrink from accepting such a claim. Apart from his moral qualities he is an intellectual giant, who has managed to reconcile many apparently divergent streams of thought into a new synthesis. He is the lineal descendant of Goethe and da Vinci—one of that almost extinct race of "universal men". The present-day accretion of technical knowledge has had the unhappy consequence of creating the narrow specialist. Men like Klaus Fuchs, brilliant scientists but political and moral cripples, are more typical of the present age.

Paradoxically enough Schweitzer has found his greatest fulfilment in self-negation. For the past forty years he has served his fellowmen in the steamy heat of French Equatorial Africa as a medical missionary, with only occasional visits to the outside world for raising funds for his hospital. Doctor of Medicine, Theology and Music, his decision to go to Africa in 1913 must have seemed to many of his friends a terrible waste of his talents yet how much richer the world has been as a result.

IT IS NOT my province to assess his achievements in theology and medicine but I can speak of his contribution to music. There have been certain limitations to his activity in this field, though this is scarcely surprising in view of his multifarious interests. He is not a composer, and so far as I know has never written any original music. He is apparently not greatly interested in opera. Developments and trends in music since Wagner are outside his scope; in fact his main interest lies in one particular composer, John Sebastian Bach. With an intimate knowledge of the background of the great Cantor's life he has shed new light on his works.

Although Schweitzer has given countless organ recitals he is not the conventional organ virtuoso. To play the organ, he has said, is "to manifest a will filled with the view of eternity". He quotes his master Widor, the great French organist, as saying, "Just think, I have been insulted. I have been called in a magazine an organ virtuoso. But I am a genuine organist. An organ virtuoso is only a savage among organists".

✧ ✧ ✧

MANY years ago in Oxford I listened to a recital of Bach by Albert Schweitzer on the organ of the Chapel of New College. He took everything at a much slower pace than is customary. Even the grace notes were executed with great deliberation. I cannot say why he did this. The acoustics of the building would certainly have permitted a brisker pace without blurring, though Schweitzer may not have been aware of this from where he sat at the console. The German school is apt to favour a slow tempo, though contemporaries of Bach noted that he liked to take things quickly. Nevertheless there was a certain grandeur and dignity in Schweitzer's playing that is missing with other organists.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOT CONTENT with playing the organ Schweitzer has caused a revolution in organ-building, an art that he has studied thoroughly. He has worked for long at bringing about a reconciliation between the French and German styles of organ, retaining the best features of each. He is particularly well qualified for this task. A native of the disputed province of Alsace, he was brought up in this border land between two great cultures, and thus had the opportunity for observing them both from his earliest years.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE HAS a great contempt for gadgets as such, though he recognizes their use. The important thing to him is the tone and the touch. Here are some of his remarks. "An organ is like a cow; one does not look at its horns so much as its milk". "Good tuners should be paid like ministers, and should occupy such a place in the rank of artists that one artistic tuner should be considered equal to six average virtuosi, since half a dozen of the latter are easier to find than one artistic tuner". "The test of every organ, the best and only test, is Bach's organ music. Let one apply this test, artistically to organ building, instead of trying to imagine how Bach would throw his periwig in the air for joy over our pistons, and then after catching it again, set off to find out from one of our modern organ virtuosi how on the modern organ one can bring everything out of his music."

THE results of Schweitzer's researches into organ building are being felt far and wide. Admittedly he is not followed in certain aspects, notably in his advocacy of the old-style tracker (mechanical) action. But there has been a notable reaction from the type of organ that aped orchestral instruments in favour of a true organ tone. No longer is it fashionable to instal chimes, "harps" and other devices fundamentally alien to the organ, nor is it felt necessary ot boost up the wind pressure in an effort to achieve volume and brilliance (at the expense of quality of tone).

There are two main obstacles to the building of fine organs in this day and age. In the first place there has been a sad decline in craftsmanship. This is the price we have to pay for mass production in quantity. The comparatively small number of craftsmen still living are worth their weight in gold, though they would be hard put to it to sell themselves on these terms. Many processes that used to be done by hand are now performed by machines. Of course the new techniques reduce the cost of the finished article, but at a price that cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

THIS is bound up with the second obstacle, cost. A good organ costs a lot of money. "He who pays the Piper calls the tune", and officials of churches and municipalities are naturally prone to take the lowest tender regardless of other considerations.

There are two insidious dangers. There is first the so-called "unit organ", which is constructed on the thoroughly bad principal of robbing Peter to pay Paul. These instruments are basically dishonest. They display an imposing array of stops that in no way compares with the small resources of the instrument itself. They should be shunned like the plague.

FINALLY there is the electronic organ. This is a very useful invention in many ways. They take up very little space and are fairly easily transported from one place to another. Thus they are very handy as stopgaps during repairs to an existing organ or for special occasions, such as a concert or service. But they cannot even begin to be compared with a good pipe organ. Unfortunately they are much cheaper, so that instead of being regarded as stopgaps they are often installed for permanent use. This I consider to be a great mistake.

I cannot believe that the electronic organ will completely supplant the pipe organ, but there is a very real danger, especially on this continent, of its becoming accepted as a substitute. It would be a thousand pities if the youth of our smaller towns and villages were to grow up never having heard a real live pipe organ, in all its dignity and richness.

Figures On Sailing Ships

(WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

THE fashion of wooden figureheads that once adorned the bows of sailing ships has become a lost art. From the earliest times wooden figureheads were used on ships, and most of the ancient ones were representations of animals. Phoenician ships nearly always bore a horse on the prow but in the eighteenth century animals were replaced by human figureheads. Unfortunately comparatively few have survived because they were mostly made of elm, a wood that rots quickly.

It is quite possible that early figureheads were designed not solely for ornament but also for use as buffers, for when sailing ships were in collision the figurehead of one often broke off on board the other.

Figureheads are seldom seen now and the ship carver's art is almost forgotten but in the U.K. "Radio Newsreel" recently Bernard Forbes described a collection of figureheads which is still in existence. This, made by Mr. Sydney Cumbers, is the largest private collection of its kind in the world, and includes hundreds of models of ships and relics of the sea as well as figureheads.

Mr. Cumbers stored it in "The Lookout," his home at Gravesend on the River Thames and now has given the collection to the Cutty Sark Preservation Society, and it will soon be on view in the famous old sailing ship.

Mr. Forbes went to see "The Lookout," a singular house laid out like a ship about to put to sea. He climbed the companionway to the bridge on the top floor, past what he termed "the most colorful and alluring figures of the sea since the days of Ulysses and the Sirens." There were the wooden pin-up girls of a hundred years ago, fascinating creatures of every size, shape and color to suit mariners' tastes.

He met George Hollyer, whose great grandfather carved the Cutty Sark's original figurehead and who showed him Elizabeth Fry, one of the most famous of all. Elizabeth Fry was well known for her good work amongst convict ships, and her carved portrait showed her with the spiritual shield of her prayer book clasped with one hand, and her physical protection of her umbrella held in the other.

Although women were the sailors' favorite figureheads, representations of Garibaldi, General Gordon, Disraeli, Lord Shaftesbury and Abraham Lincoln were also to be seen, and there was the misleading disarming golden cherub that had once adorned a smuggler, Frigate, a carving done about 1663 which was believed to be the oldest merchant ship figurehead in existence.

Oil Pollution, A World Problem

By SUSAN STRANGE

SHIPOWNERS of sixteen countries have decided to get to work at once on a new and different international problem—the pollution of coasts by oil waste discharged at sea.

In many countries, yellow sands have been blackened and clean beaches fouled by the tarry scum washed ashore when tankers and other ships jettison their oil waste at sea. Summer bathers have gone elsewhere for their holidays, and seaside resorts have protested in vain.

At a meeting in London last week, the International Chamber of Shipping—representing shipowners from the United States, Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, France, Germany, India, Greece, Sweden and Norway, Belgium and the Netherlands, Denmark, Finland and Japan—set up a technical committee to discuss the practical steps necessary to overcome the menace of oil pollution. This will prepare the way for a conference of Governments which Britain has said it will call shortly.

The idea behind such a conference would be to get agreement, among the principal maritime States, to an international convention on oil pollution. This would fix large "prohibited zones" stretching far out into the oceans, within which ships would be barred from discharging oil. After a period of years, it is hoped that the convention would then totally prohibit the discharge of oil at sea.

Before this can be done, ships must be given an alternative way of getting rid of their oil waste. The provision of storage facilities ashore will therefore be one of the many problems which the shipowners' technical committee will consider.

It is a difficult problem. Research by oil companies has failed to discover a sound commercial use for oil waste. In rare circumstances it can, they find, be burned in boilers; but in most cases this would be no real solution. If it cannot be used, it must be dumped. But space at ports is limited, and transport costs—to disused mineshafts or quarries, for example—are likely to be prohibitively high in many cases.

Post-war economic developments are also partly responsible. Before the war, a "gentleman's agreement" between shipping interests that waste should not be discharged within fifty miles of land worked, if not perfectly, at least well enough. But since then, merchant fleets have largely gone over from coal to oil-burning engines. Also, where Western Europe used then to import its limited supplies of petrol in a refined state — largely from the United States—it has since built great new oil refineries — in Britain, in France, in Belgium and Germany. These refineries must be fed by tankers bringing crude oil from the Middle East. And these tankers carrying crude oil are the worst offenders, since during their journey the sludge collects at the bottom of the tanks, and must be removed before the next homeward load is taken on.

In most of these European countries, the black pall of the Coal Age has devastated green moorlands and valleys. Whether the same countries will be more successful in cooperating to avert the more wdiespread and insidious pollution of their coasts by the Oil Age will depend, to some extent, on the technical inquiries now being made by shipowners and their Governments.

(OFNS—Copyright)

Whatever the solution, it is likely to be an expensive one; and the question arises as to who will pay for the storage facilities.

Not all countries are equally affected by oil pollution. Britain and Western Europe are probably among the worst sufferers. They are in the path of the eastward-flowing Gulf Stream; while some of the heaviest sea traffic in the world converges in the bottleneck of the English Channel.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands . . . Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. (Ps. 100:1, 3.)

O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain; O Jeruselum, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God! Behold, the Lord God will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him and his work before him . . .

What hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with a span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance? . . .

Have ye not known? have ye not heard? hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not understood from the foundations of the earth? . . .

Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: he calleth them all by names by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power; not one faileth . . .

Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. (Isa. 40:9, 10, 12, 21, 26, 28.)

Canada's Racegoers Bet $77,796,588 In Parimutuels

OTTAWA (CP)—In a history-making betting season, Canada's racegoers poured a record $77,796,588 into pari-mutuel machines across the country.

It was a banner year all round. Bettings were heavier; winnings were larger; purse money increased; and so did the take of racing associations and provincial tax collectors.

Only the turf-trotters might have found the year a little weary. The number of racing days increased to 376 from 354 last year, with total races rising to 2,916 from 2,760.

Thirty-five racing associations participated in the big season, up from 30 in 1952, the agriculture department reported as it estimated a $10,355,611 rise in bettings placed.

This pushed the total to more than $2,700,000 higher than the previous record of $75,000,000 in bets established in 1921.

Winnings by bettors swelled to $63,895,864, an increase of more than $8,500,000 over the 1952 total of $55,225,326.

Racing associations retained $7,488,618 as their legal percentages, up from $6,337,433 in 1952. The six provincial government involved collected a total of $6,412,104 in pari-mutuel taxes, another gain from $5,878,216 last year.

PURSE MONEY HIGH

Of the money retained by the racing associations, $3,915,000 went in purse money to owners of winning horses, up almost $600,000 from $3,328,700 in 1952.

Ontario was still the hottest betting province, where the customers placed a total of $50,000,000 in bets —about two-thirds of the national total.

More money was wagered at Toronto's Woodbine Park than any other track in the country. This total of $4,650,000 compared with the other extreme—the low of $4,752 wagered at the three-day meet at Estevan, Sask.

Amount wagered by provinces:

Will Hold Coaches Responsible For Conduct Of Their Players

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Minor Hockey Association moved Saturday to put a curb on those of its 16,000 frisky young hockey players who have been kicking over the traces.

At its annual meeting, the OMHA which has jurisdiction over 1,087 clubs and terms itself the world's largest hockey body, ruled that from now on managers or coaches of the teams will be responsible for the conduct of their players on and off the ice.

The record number of 257 delegates, themselves mostly coaches and managers, agreed it was a necessary rule after secretary Jack Christie said the association was getting a "black eye" through the unruly behaviour of players on road trips.

NO ONE RESPONSIBLE

In the past no one person has ben held responsible and the buck had been passed around, he said.

Christie made it clear the managers and coaches would not be held financially responsible for any damage caused by players, but would have to answer to the association for their conduct.

The five-hour meeting wound up by re-electing president O. M. (Mike) Weichel of Elmira, and his executive for another year. The seven-man executive committee also was re-elected.

Othr major decision:

1. The executive was empowered to set admission prices of the association's final and semi-final games after consultation with home team managers.

2. The gate receipts of the odd game in any play-off series will be split between the two teams to permit a team playing the most times away from home to get a fair share.

3. Gave teams the choice of saying how many games they want to play in the play-offs.

APPROVE AYR REQUEST

Also endorsed was a request by the Ayr Minor Hockey Association for a government grant of $5,000 to help meet the cost of a new artificial rink now under construction.

Referred to the incoming executive for study was a recommendation from the Oshawa Minor Hockey Association to set up an equipment pool to be drawn on by needy clubs.

The arena fire in Oshawa last October destroyed most of the club's own equipment.

Christie said the association's "total registration of players, the greatest in the world, was 16,665 with 5,060 of them taking part in OMHA."

Among those attending were Fred C. Waghorne Sr., Toronto, life member of the OMHA and called "the grand old man of hockey"; Lorne Miller, Noranda, Que., secretary-treasurer of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association; Tory Gregg, Wingham, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, and William Hanley, business manager.

Mexico May Join International League

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The International League, which according to present indications will have baseball next year in the United States, Canada and probably Cuba may extend to Mexico by 1955, the Buffalo Evening News said Saturday.

Sports writer Cy Kritzer quotes Frank Shaughnessy, International League president, as saying Mexico City might be a possible entry if the plan to give Havana the vacant Baltimore franchise goes through.

STRANGLEHOLD WINS CAP

SAN MATEO, Cal. (AP)—Charging into the lead at the head of the stretch, Stranglehold won the $25,000-added Bay Meadows Handicap Saturday. Goose Khal, which set most of the pace, was second and Alberta Ranches' Indian Hemp vanned up here from Santa Anita for the race, was third.

The time for the mile and an eighth was 1:51 4-5.

Bill Pearson rode the winner, weighed at 120 pounds. Stranglehold went off as the third choice and paid $8.90, $4.30 and $2.30. Goose Khal, carrying high weight of 124 pounds and national jockey champion Willie Shoemaker returned $3.00 and $2.10. Indian Hemp, with veteran Johnny Longden up, was the even-money favorite, and paid $2.20.

IRISH STILL UNDEFEATED

NEW YORK (CP)—Notre Dame finished its first undefeated season in four years at South Bend, Ind., Saturday by battering Southern Methodist 40-14.

With ailing coach Frank Leahy on the sidelines to direct his team to a final season record of nine victories and one tie (14-14 with Iowa) the Irish sprung fullback Neil Worden for three touchdowns and all-America Johnny Lattner for two.

In the only other important game of the day, Houston took a home victory, trimming the University of Tennessee 33-19. For the other major schools the football season officially ended last Thursday, the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday.

Lindsay Juniors Get Win Over Midland

LINDSAY—(ENS)—The Midland Red Wings lost their second straight start in the OHA Junior "B" group here on Saturday night as the Lindsay juniors returned to form to hand the visitors a 6-3 defeat. The Roy Conacher-coached crew from the Georgian Bay town failed to show any organized attack throughout the game, while the home club displayed the passing and checking form that has kept them at the top of the junior group standing.

Pint-sized Danny Pearson led the winners with two goals, both scored on perfect passes from centre Jack Graham, who turned in his best game of the season. Other Lindsay scorers were Graham, who took a Pearson rebound behind the Midland net in the second period and brought it out in front to score, Murray Packer, on a pass from Truax in the first period, just before he was taken out of the game after being nicked on the forehead by a high stick, Ross McGill, on a rink-length rush through the entire Midland team, and Tom Hutton, banging in a rebound from Bill Burns. Gerow, Yorke and Reid scored the Midland tallies.

Scores by periods was 2-1 for the homesters, 6-3 and the final 6-3. The Lindsay team finished the game short three players, after Packer was injured, Bill Williams retired with an injury and Hal Williams dressed at the end of the first period and did not return to the ice. Yorke, Gerow, Lizotte and Webb were best for the losers, who looked in need of more practice.

Windsor Edges Hamilton With 5-4 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two top dogs met in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Saturday and if the result is any indication Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen may be heading for their second consecutive Allan Cup.

The Dutchmen broke a first-place tie with Windsor Bulldogs by defeating the Bulldogs 4-2 in Windsor and only the netminding of Windsor's two alternating goalkeepers saved the score from reaching mountainous proportions. The Dutchmen rained 66 shots on the Windsor net.

Sunday the Bulldogs rebounded with a 5-4 victory over Hamilton Tigers in Windsor to move back up in a first-place tie with the Dutchmen.

In other Saturday games Stratford Indians downed Sarnia Sailors 5-2 in Stratford and Owen Sound Mercurys blanked Chatham Maroons 9-0 in Owen Sound.

DOUBLE VICTORY

In Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., North Bay Trappers scored a goal a period to down the Greyhounds 3-1 in their Northern Ontario Hockey Association contest. Pembroke Lumber Kings defeated Sudbury Wolves twice in Sudbury during the other Saturday NOHA games.

The Lumber Kings won the regular game 7-3 and played out five minutes of a curfew-ended game. In the shortened contest the Kings outscored the Wolves 3-1 to make the final score 8-2 in their favor.

Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.), Indians edged out the Trappers 4-3 in Michigan during the only NOHA game Sunday.

The Dutchmen had the edge all over the Bulldogs in Kitchener Saturday and only the netminding of Nick Pidsodney and Monty Reynolds kept them from making it a runaway.

Clare Martin, George Scholes, Charlie Brooker and Mike Delich shared the Kitchener scoring. Gary Gordon and Lyle Wiseman tallied for Windsor.

Larry Lemechick and Lou Bendo notched two each for the Indians with the remaining goal going to Don Oberholtzer. Les Douglas and Vern Gardiner were the Sarnia marksmen.

SIXTH STRAIGHT

Owen Sound ran their victory string to six in a row by blasting the Maroons. Tom Burlington, Jerry Reid and Roy Leckie bagged two each for the winners. Bill McComb, Herb Carnegie and Buck Forslund got the others.

Alec Birukow, Bob Hayes, Gary Gordon, Lyle Wiseman and Walt Pawlyshyn divided the scoring for the Bulldogs Sunday. Jack Taylor, Eddie Busch, Al Buchanan and Frank Liscombe came back for Hamilton.

Geo. Ratterman Makes Headlines Again In U.S.

Ratterman, one of the top quarterbacks in the National Football League before he went to Canada for a disastrous campaign with Montreal Alouettes of the Interprovincial Football Union, emerged from obscurity Sunday to pilot Cleveland Browns to a lopsided 62-14 victory over New York Giants.

It was the first time the 27-year-old Notre Dame graduate had had distinguished himself in NFL action since he tore up his contract with New York Yanks in 1951 for a highly-publicized fling at the Canadian game.

NEVER MADE GRADE

In Canada Ratterman never lived up to his press-clippings with the last-place Alouettes. Before the season ended, he jumped back to his old club, paying a fine for his earlier desertion. Ever since, he has been a second or third-string quarter for the Yanks, Dallas Texans and Cleveland.

He got his chance Sunday when the unbeaten Browns decided to rest their ace, Otto Graham. Playing almost the entire game, Ratterman completed 15 passes in 27 tries for 235 yards and three touchdowns.

Another former Canadian signal-caller, Bill Mackrides, also capitalized on a chance to regain some of his past glory.

Sudbury Pair Down Bowmanville Couple

TORONTO (CP)—John Hartman and Gino Gonella of Sudbury defeated George Tighe and Bill Burgess of Bowmanville, 15-2, 9-15, 15-8 here Saturday to win the men's doubles event in the Carlton Club's fifth annual invitation B badminton tourname[illegible]

The ladies' single went to Barbara Bell of Toronto. She downed Dorothy Tinline of Bowmanville 11-3, 5-11, 11-2.

The Jimmy Drummond Memorial Trophy is awarded annually to the most valuable OHA senior "B" player in Peterborough. It was put up a couple of years ago by Jimmy's widow, a local girl. Gus Leonard won it during the 1951-52 season, with Keith Montgomery runner-up. Last season saw Ray Harding take it, with Chum Fryia runner-up. A smaller replica goes to the winner to keep, and a small engraved shield (bearing the winner's name) goes on the large trophy. Jimmy Drummond died here in 1950 after giving up hockey. A native of Toronto, he played for Oshawa Generals in 1939-40 when they won the Memorial Cup. He also saw action with Marlboro juniors, and Goodyear seniors ere serving three years with the S.D. & G. Highlanders. Later he had pro service with New York Rangers, Cleveland and Hershey. A defenceman.

* * * * * *

Mrs. Drummond is going south for a spell after Christmas. May be away from here for quite some time. So, she has asked the sports editors of the Examiner and Review, as well as the CHEX sportscaster, to act as judges in future to select the Drummond Trophy winner. They agreed to look after the details. Usually, some of the merchants here also put up prizes for the player picked. Dunn Tailors, for instance, already have offered a suit of clothes to the Petes' most valuable player this season—a nice prize, indeed. Mrs. Drummond informed us; "Wherever I am, I'll always forward the money to keep this trophy up for competition here."

The Town Growing Up

Another winter should see Lindsay in senior "B" hockey, instead of intermediate "A". Why? Well, this is how the Port Hope scribe sees it, a fellow named Leo Petticrew, who hails from Hastings: "So it's true after all. The Redmen and other clubs in the lakeshore circuit are playing against a senior "B" team. Mayor Charles Lamb appears to have made this official when he stated that Lindsay's population is closer to 12,000 than the figure of 9,000 compiled by the Domion Bureau of Statistics. Anyone acquainted with OHA rules need not be told that towns of over 10,000 population automatically advance into senior "B" hockey." So, there it is.

* * * * * *

Let's sidestep hockey for a moment to mention the pro mat card lined up for the Brock this Wednesday e'en. The fiery Australian, Fred Atkins, goes against Hombre Montana in the main bout, and this is a follow-up of their feuding from a tag bout here a week ago. Atkins is a bad-tempered, mean type but very aggressive, always boring in. He'll be tackling a really powerful and popular hunk of wrestler in the huge, bewhiskered South American, a guy built along the lines of Yukon Eric. Semi-finals has Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, in against towering Hi Lee. Reyes Nacho faces Alan Garfield in the prelim bout.

Junior Petes Triumph

Returning to hockey, the Young Petes swept to an impressive 7-3 OHA junior "B" triumph up in Collingwood on Saturday p.m. before more than 1,200 fans. To bad the local lads can't get that kind of support in home games. Had an edge in the middle frame of a fast, warmish fray on their first jaunt to the nifty arena in the northern town. Coyle and Heffernan were in on three goals each for Red Creighton's crew, Uren tallying two, with single points going to Gardner, Twist, Hook, Byrne and Ferguson. The defence and goalie went good, especially as Collingwood fought hard in the third. The Lindsay squad is here tonight to play the locals and it should be a hot tilt as Lindsay yanked out an 8-7 nod last meeting. Young Petes then have a trek to Midland on the morrow.

* * * * * *

With Orillia beating Kingston 7 - 3 and Belleville downing Petes 7-4 on Saturday, the senior "B" race becomes hotter every week. Orillia is now in third spot just a point back of Goodyears, who trail Oshawa by three games, while Petes are fourth——one tilt back of Pontiacs——and Memos bring up the rear a point back of our TPT-ers. Locals lost a fine chance of creeping closer to second position when they dropped their Saturday scrap on Quinte ice. Ed Redmond was lost to the team in the first frame by drawing a match misconduct. A heavy-checking fray with Jake Wade, the Dorans and the Duncan twins outstanding for the victors. Petes' goals were by Monty, Fryia, McMaster and Hill. Petes are at Orillia tomorrow and tackle Oshawa up this way on Friday.

Close Contests Served Up In Church Play

Three tight tussles were run off Saturday in the Church Hockey League. St. John's Midgets took a 4-2 win over St. George's, All Saints bantams banked Knox 2-0, while Mark St. and St. James midgets drew at 3-all.

Dunford, D. Lustic, J. Parker and Lustic again in the third did the scoring for St. John's midgets, while Faulkner was in on three goals and Graystock one. Moore and E. Warner tallied for St. George's, these two along with Hope and Quick going best for their side. D. Lustic, Faulkner and Graystock stood out for the winners. Teams:

St. Geoge's: Quick, Hunter, A. Warner, E. Warner, Steele, Moore, Hope, G. Warner, J. Tushingham, T. Tushingham, Stevens, Busby, Underach.

St. John's: J. Lustic, Foster, Findlay, D. Lustic, Faulkner, Dunford, Simpson, Parker, Graystock, Merritt, Wagester, Rishor, Park, Morley, Ellis. Referees, Hawthorne and Post.

TWO IN FIRST

In the bantam fray, Gilders counted twice for All Saints in the first period, Davies helping on one, for the only goals of a good game. These two and Gatfield in goal shone for the victors, as Godfrey, Wells and Jack showed best for Knox. Wells drew a misconduct penalty for banging his stick on an interference penalty. Teams:

Knox: Donaldson, Johnston, Godfrey, Parks, Jack, Falkner, Wells, Hamilton, Trotter, McGregor, Sound, McFarlane, Leggitt, Sarginson, James.

Referees: Hawthorne and Post.

Mark St. and St. James dished up a dandy tie midget joust. Orillis got the first from Dorrington and English counter for Mark St. Hurley and Rose scored in the same heat for St. James, the latter and Merritt each having an assist. English got one more in the second from Innis, while the third period saw St. James sew it up on Patterson's goal on a pass from Stevens. It was a clean tilt most of the way, with Moffitt, Orills, English, Hendry and Dorrington all going well for Mark St. Tops for St. James were Kimball, Ashby, Patterson and the defence of Stevens and Heard. Teams:

Mark St.: Cullen, Dorrington, Innis, Moffitt, Barclay, Grills, Hendry, English, Kelly, Paul, Caton, Beavis, Dixon, Harding, Fell, Greenly, D. White, E. White.

St. James: Waldie, Stevens, Kimball, Patterson, Ashby, Huffman, King, Hurley, Merritt, Rowe, Heard, Jones, Griffin, Elmsley, Rose.

Referees, Woodcock and Williams.

M. O'Donnell Leads

Midge O'Donnell had high three of 735, including singles of 323 and 222 in the Mercantile Bowling League. The 7-0 wins went to Ackison's, Combines, Bob & Betty, Jets and Charlotte Credit No. 1 over United Co-op, Mustangs, Loblaw's, Peterborough Express and Cherney No. 2; the 5-2 victory was taken by Seabrook over Dominion Store; the 4-3 decisions went to Turner's, Peterborough Co-op and Charlotte Credit No. 2 against Canadian Canoe, Austin's and Tent and Awning in that order.

Good triples were: E. Hinonen (303) 732, D. Williamson (267) 657, B. Smith (254) 692, Bob Martell (238) 683, W. Ackison (255) 658, H. Davis (235) 630, D. Thomas (235) 623, D. Lucas (247) 622, D. Reid (220) 618, H. Freeman (215) 618, C. Sedore (259) 640; neat singles were: J. Archibald 272, M. McNulty 245, D Ackison 259, M. Storey 231, W. Byrd 238, J. Stevenson 240, E. Byrd 228, L. Hancock 241, J. Young 249, M. Bock 226, A. Lee 235, S. DeWolfe 247.

PORTERHOUSE, brown son of the Argentine stallion Endeavour II, has been named as the No. 1 colt among the 1953 two-year-olds. He is shown here in the winner's circle at New York's Belmont Park with jockey William Boland up and held by his owner, Mrs. M. E. (Liz Whitney) Person, after winning the $50,000-added Belmont Futurity, October 3. The Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selection named Portérhouse by 15 votes with his nearest competitor, Hasty Road, receiving 12 votes.

Quinte Club Defeats Petes In Rugged 7-4 Fixture To Tighten Up Group Race

BELLEVILLE (Special)—Never looking backward after unleashing a first-period 3-1 offensive, the Belleville Memos halted the Peterborough Petes' bid for a third-place spot in the senior "B" group here Saturday night with a 7-4 victory, their second in a row. While the victory did not hoist the Memos from the cellar spot, it brought them to within one point of the fourth-place Liftlock crew. Orillia's 7-3 victory over the Kingston Goodyears on the same night hoisted the Pontiacs into third place with 11 points, one in arrears of the former champions and seven behind the pace-setting Oshawa Truckmen. The Petes boast nine points and the Memos eight.

"Red" Doran's crew ripped into a 5-0 lead two-thirds through the second period before the Petes broke the scoring ice, with the period ending 5-1. The Petes staged a desperate third-period effort scoring two goals in 12 seconds but it was short lived and although they added another, the Memos roared back with a pair to cinch the victory. The game developed into a heavy-checking fray in the latter stages with referees Bill reason and Moon Flanagan of Kingston dishing out 14 penalties shared by the squads. Playing coach Ed Redmond was lost to the Petes late in the first period when he argued a minor penalty too strenuously and drew a misconduct sentence. A few minutes later when Memos goalie Rolly Sarrault went off for repairs' Redmond left the penalty box and picked up the argument again with referee Reason. He was promptly tabbed with a match misconduct.

DEFENCE SHINES

The Memos' defence (minus Vern Goyer and Bob Taylor) came through with an outstanding effort. Jake Wade starred going both ways and was credited with a goal and an assist. Defence-mate Tommy Schreider came up with a goal and two assists. The high-scoring Memos' line of the Duncan twins and Duke Doran ripped through for five points with Erwin Duncan scoring twice. Ed Duncan also drew a helper. Playing coach Red Doran scintillated again scoring a pair to round out the Memos' tallies.

Montgomery played outstanding hockey for the Petes. His goal (a picture effort) saw him rip through the entire Memos' team to beat Sarrault. He helped with Fryia's third period tally. McMaster and Hill got the other Petes' tallies. Both Donlevy and Sarrault (especially the latter) played sparkling hockey, turning back opposing goal bids consistently. Donlevy was the victim of a break in the second period when apparently the puck was steered into the net when it struck his skate.

GETS LOOSE PUCK

Schreider's penalty in the first period paved the way for the Memos' first goal. The defenceman had stepped back on the ice when he picked up a loose puck and zoomed through to beat Donlevy. The Memos had a wide edge in territorial play in the first period. They ripped in and around the Petes' defence and Jake Wade's zooming waist-high shot beat Donlevy at six minutes. The Petes could not get organized it seemed and midway through the heat Schreider set Edwin Duncan for the third Memos' goal.

The same player made it 4-0 after a minute in the second period. The Petes were outlucked on not a few occasions plus fine work by Sarrault. McMaster got the gate and in the first Memo power play, the push slithered into the net from a maze of players. It appeared to deflect off Donlevy's skate with Ed Duncan getting the credit. McMaster scored the Petes' first goal on a gang-in play with Prentics and Belisle while Ed Duncan graced the sin-bin. The Petes struck back savagely in the third period. Hemming the Memos in behind their blueline. Mid-way through the heat, Montgomery scored his fine solo goal and seconds later Hill took Collins' pass to whittle the score to 5-3. Red Doran got one of them back with Duke Doran assisting, but the Petes, playing desperation hockey, ripped back with Chum Fryia beating Sarrault. Play was fast aud furious and the checking hard. Red Doran scored the insurance marker on a fine passing play with Peter Jones with two minutes to go.

Junior Petes Take A Win Against Collingwood In Fast-Stepping 7-3 Fray

Red Creighton's jet-propelled juniors invaded the shipbuilding town of Collingwood Saturday night, and carved out a 7-3 victory over Ed Bush's fine young Greenshirts before over 1,200 hockey fans. It was a dazzling display from start to finish, with the Creighton-Wootton band showing teamplay unexcelled to date, as they outwitted their speedy rivals in every frame by a close but convincing margin. Home fans watched with bated breath as the visiting Peterborough boys, led by three powerful forward lines and an airtight defence foursome, battled to a 2-1 edge in a hectic first period; drove on to a 6-2 advantage at the 40-minute mark, and held even in a ding-dong finale, that saw Greenshirts strive desperately but vainly to stem the tide of defeat in a wild climax. Referee Bun White meted out 17 penalties in all, for various minor offences, in a well-controlled struggle; the Greenshirts drew seven, Peterborough 10 miscues.

Peterborough is slated to meet Lindsay tonight at Civic Arena, in quest of win number four of the season; and a crowd is expected to support the five young, sponsorless crew on their upword march in the league standing. Incidentally, president Doug. Miller has announced he is hopeful a sponsor may be secured for the juniors this week. He issues an earnes appeal to all to support the plucky junior stars in their hour of need for excellent entertainment rendered. Juniors plan a Father and Son night Friday, December 18, in appreciation.

Play opened at a terrific clip Saturday, as both teams strove hard for advantage and bodies toppled like nine-pins. At the 3:44 mark, the veteran line of Truist, Coyle and Heffernan broke fast from centre, rushed three abreast deep into rival terrain; and Heff passed to Coyle, who managed to catch the lower right corner from 15 feet out, with an off-balance drive. Collingwood steamed to the attack, and found reward soon after, with Jerry Rawn scoring on a fast solo rush. Bobby Gardner, with his stick on the ice and temper under control, gave Petes a lead they never relinquished midway in the frame, when he backhanded a 30-footer through a maze of ice-cutters during a wild sortie into rival territory.

REALLY ROLLING

Displaying form that could not be denied, Peterborough stormed the enemy from all angles in lightening fashion in the mid-frame. Gord Coyle from his mates, rattled his second tally into the mesh. Blake Uren from Timmy Hook, and Coyle again on that three-way play fans love to see, added substantially to their margin as Greenshirts wobbled. Then Sonny Robinson renewed hope as he planted a low drive to the short side from Jim Hanna. Delahaye's cage work was pretty to watch however, as he turned aside one puck after another. Blake Uren wound up the period scoring from Murray Byrne and Ferguson, on a beautiful passing attack, well in.

The final stanza saw cautious play precede a tremendous late flurry by the Greenshirts to salvage a measure of prestige from a losing cause; but Peterborough's back checking, led by fleet Jackie Doris, with his mates following hard, stemmed all attacks one by Al Grier at the quarter mark. Then, Kevin Hefferman stick-handled through the entire team in the attacking and late in the frame to nulify Grier's effort with the best goal of the night that just caught the right corner. Collingwood's rink is a beautiful heated structure built to accomodate over 3,000 fans equipped with an excellent public address system.

Leave Coach Emms At Home Barrie Clips Hawks 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hockey players are always being benched. But when a coach leaves himself at home during a road game, that's news—especially if the team wins.

That's what Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series did Saturday night. And the Flyers, coached by assistant George Storey, sports editor of the Barrie Examiner, came through.

The Flyers, last year's Memorial Cup champions, were in a slump, having won only one of their last six games before the weekend. Emms stayed home, Storey took over and the Flyers handed Galt Black Hawks a 4-3 defeat in Galt. It was the second defeat the Hawks have suffered on home ice.

In the other Saturday game, the league-leading St. Catharines TeePees stayed one jump ahead of the second-place Toronto St. Michael's College Majors by thumping Hamilton Tigers 9-4 in Hamilton.

THRASH CITADELLES

The Majors kept on their hot streak by thrashing Quebec Citadelles, the league's tail-enders, 12-2 in Toronto Sunday. In the second half of the Toronto doubleheader Hamilton and Toronto Marlboros battled to a scoreless draw.

Barrie jumped the Hawks for three goals in 10 minutes during the wild fray in Galt. Twenty penalties, including two majors and a misconduct, were handed out.

Arnold Smith led the Flyers with two goals and an assist. John Martan and Bob White fired the others. Rick Collins, Ron Halstead and Minnie Menard clicked for the Hawks.

Referees also had a busy time in Hamilton where they handed out 17 penalties during the tilt between the Tigers and TeePees. St. Catharines took advantage of some Hamilton defensive lapses to run away with the victory.

Hank Ciesla tallied four times for the winners. Hugh Barlow fired two and Dan Poliziani, Ian Cushenan and Don McLean notched singles. Cummy Burton, Joey Zorfca, Red Reid and Ed Louttit scored for the Tigers.

PLAYER COLLAPSES

Pat Prestley, a Quebec forward, collapsed in the dressing room after the game and was taken to the hospital for observation.

Quebec travels to Kitchener to meet the Greenshirts Tuesday while Hamilton is at Galt and Marlboros at St. Catharines.

Amoros Crowned Top League Batter

NEW YORK (AP)—Edmundo (Sandy) Amoros, a fast-moving Cuban who is expected to get another trial with Brooklyn Dodgers next spring, officially was crowned today as the International League's leading batter for 1953.

Amoros, 23-year-old Montreal outfielder, finished up with a .353 average, seven points higher than Rochester's Tom Burgess. Charley Kress, also of the Red Wings, was third with .317 according to statistics released by the league.

Amoros also scored the most runs, 128, got the most hits, 190, the most doubles, 40 and the most total bases, 321.

Rochester took club batting honors with an aggregate mark of .283. Buffalo Bisons walloped the most home runs, 148.

Chi-Hawks Wallop Red Wings 5-0 In Surprise Win

By JIM BASTABLE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The back-room boys around the National Hockey League circuit have it down in black and white: The brash Detroit Red Wings can be pushed around just like any other team. As a matter of fact, the Red Wings, who bulldozed through the league for the last five seasons, may have to go some to stay among the top three. The Detroiters were fresh after shoving around Chicago Black Hawks 9-0 and 9-4 when they headed into the six-game weekend. That's as far as they got. They wilted 3-0 to Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday night and were walloped 5-0 by the Black Hawks in Detroit Sunday.

It used to be tough to beat the Wings. And a shutout against them was practically unheard of. The Leafs, in third place, made it look simple and the Hawks, the last team anybody would bet on, made it look easier.

IN SECOND PLACE

The losses left the Red Wings in second place, three points behind Montreal Canadiens. The Canadiens, meanwhile, beat the fourth-place Boston Bruins 4-2 Saturday and then added a 7-2 victory over Boston in a home-and-home series.

In the other two games, the Leafs tied the fifth-place New York Rangers 3-3 Sunday and the Rangers dropped a 2-1 decision to Chicago Saturday.

Saturday night's result was a blow to Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's ace goalkeeper who has won the Vezina trophy for top goaltending the last two years and could usually bank on plenty of help from his defence.

The 23-year-old Sawchuk was riding high in the goaltending race when the Leafs fired 40 shots, nearly as many as he sees in three ordinary games. Sawchuk was tremendous, the Detroit defence was poor, and the 13,335 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens were amazed.

NEVER LOOKED BETTER

The Leafs never looked better in that one. Defenceman Tim Horton, rightwinger Ron Stewart and leftwinger Harry Watson accounted for the scoring and many of the close-in shots.

The Black Hawks, with gangling Al Rollins in the nets, scored twice within the first two minutes of play in Detroit Sunday. They even beat Sawchuk once while playing shorthanded.

Rollins, recovering from the chicken pox, made 40 saves, 20 of them in the final period. It was his third shutout in 34 games of the 70-game schedule.

Defenceman Al Dewsbury scored twice for the Hawks. Defenceman Jack Price, Pete Conacher and George Gee got the others.

In the Montreal-Boston games, Canadiens came up with great scoring power in the last periods. On Saturday they scored four times, twice by Bernie Geoffrion, to overhaul the Bruins. On Sunday, they were ahead 3-1 going into the third period and then beat goaltender Sugar Jim Henry four times.

Defensive centre Johnny McCormack and Calum Mackay each tallied along with Geoffrion Saturday. Dave Creighton and Eddie Sandford scored the Bruin goals in the first period.

The Bruins were no match for Canadiens Sunday night either. A crowd of 10,502 saw one of the roughest games of the season. Referee Red Storey handed out four majors, to Bob Armstrong and Ray Gariepy of Boston and Butch Bouchard and Mackay of Montreal.

SCORES TWICE

Saturday, the Black Hawks won their first home game in six weeks by edging the Rangers. A crowd of 4,108, smallest in Chicago this year, watched Gus Bodnar and Al Dewsbury give the Hawks the win. Wally Hergesheimer scored for New York.

It was Hergesheimer who got New York's third goal sunday night. It came after Ranger goalkeeper Johnny Bower was benched in favor of a sixth attacker.

Horton scored one goal and assisted on tallies by Sid Smith and George Armstrong in the second period. Centre Max Bentley and defenceman Bob Chrystal scored the other Ranger goals.

No games are scheduled until Wednesday, when Canadiens meet the Leafs in Toronto and Red Wings travel to New York.

Racial Pressure Applied On Johnson

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg Free Press in a newspage story Saturday quoted a friend of John Henry Johnson as saying racial pressure was applied on the Negro football star to get him to sign with San Francisco '49ers for the 1954 season.

The story says Roosevelt Johnson, no relation to John Henry, was in the same hotel room after the Grey Cup game in Toronto, when five men talked to the Calgary Stampeders star and asked him to sign with the National Football League team.

"They implied that if John Henry did not agree to sign, they could make it very tough for other Negro football players," said Roosevelt. "The implication was that they would encourage other club owners not to employ Negro players if John Henry didn't sign.

SMALLER SALARY

Roosevelt did not disclose what salary John Henry would draw but it isn't "within $2,000 of what he was offered in Canada if newspaper reports of the Calgary contract offers are anywhere near right."

John Henry, second draft choice of Pittsburgh Steelers last season, was chosen as the most valuable player in the Western Interprovincial Union this season.

Deadline Near For Greenshirts

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts have been given until 6 p.m. today to decide whether they will continue operations in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Originally set for midnight Saturday, the deadline was extended by the association when a group of Kitchener citizens, said to be interested in buying the franchise back from Montreal Canadiens asked for more time.

The Canadiens bought the team last week for $15,000 and distributed most of the Kitchener regulars to Quebec teams.

The OHA refused transfer for the players to move to Quebec. Frank Selke, Montreal manager, said he would sell back the team for $13,000. The players have not yet been returned to the Greenshirts.

Last week it was decided to ask Boston Bruins of the NHL to buy and sponsor the Shirts to keep them in Kitchener. The Bruins declined.

Republican Heads Silent On Controversy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the evident hope that the whole matter will blow over soon, Republican congressional leaders kept silent today in the controversy between Senator Joseph McCarthy and the White House.

It was obvious that some of the Wisconsin Republican's most influential party colleagues agreed privately with his statement that the United States should stop all aid to Free-World countries which trade with Red China.

But it also was obvious that these Republicans didn't want to be linked with McCarthy's public challenge to the stand taken by President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles that America has no right to dictate the trade policies of the countries it helps.

McCarthy called any trade with Red China "blood trade" and, in a televised plea Thursday, urged those who agree with him to message the president.

TO GIVE NEW COUNT

The White House was scheduled today to give a new count on the number of telegrams and letters it has received as a result.

At noon Saturday, presidential aides said they had received 4,346 telegrams. McCarthy's stand was approved approximately two to one.

On an NBC radio-TV forum Sunday McCarthy said "both sides" should message their views to the president.

"This is not a popularity contest between Eisenhower and McCarthy," the senator said. "If it were a popularity contest, he (Eisenhower) would win it 20-1."

McCarthy was asked about the Toledo Blade's offer Friday to accept readers' signatures to a letter supporting Eisenhower's stand, as well as to forward replies favoring McCarthy's. By midnight Friday, the paper reported, it had 9,870 for Eisenhower and 324 for McCarthy.

He said the sentiments expressed in the letter to Eisenhower ("we supported you before and we do now. We still like Ike.") are those he has expressed many times. Yet the effect was "that anyone who signed that had to be against McCarthy."

PUBLISHER REPLIED

In Toledo, publisher Paul Block, Jr. of The Blade said in reply: "Evidently Sen. McCarthy thinks that a newspaper is dishonest if it does not follow his practice of stacking testimony in his favor."

Politicians generally attached little significance to the "tell it to Eisenhower" outpouring of telegrams and letters to the White House.

An Associated Press sampling of newspaper editorial comment showed them about 5-1 upholding Eisenhower's position, with about one-third of the editorials non-committal.

Can't Recall If Pearson Named In Her Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elizabeth Bentley, admitted former Soviet spy, said Sunday she was unable to recall whether she had given Senate investigators any testimony about Canada's external affairs minister, L. B. Pearson.

Statements recently have been made in Canada that the Senate internal security sub-committee might name Pearson as one of several Canadians accused of supplying information to a Red spy ring in Washington during the Second World War.

David Croll, Liberal member of Parliament for Toronto Spadina charged, as did the Toronto Star, that an attempt was being made to "blackmail" the Canadian government into agreeing to let the sub-committee question Igor Gouzenko, former Soviet code clerk in Ottawa.

Robert Morris, sub-committee counsel retorted that the naming of Pearson had never been contemplated by the Senate probers. He declined comment, however, on published reports that the sub-committee received closed-door testimony from Miss Bentley in 1951 naming Pearson as a wartime source of information.

Miss Bentley was asked Sunday on the NBC television program, "Meet the Press," if she had given such testimony about Pearson, who was minister-counselor of the Canadian embassy here during the Second World War.

"I'm sorry," she replied, "I can't remember all the testimony."

Pressed further for any recollection of testifying about Pearson, Miss Bentley said she was unable to say "offhand" what testimony she had given.

Pearson, when asked about the matter recently, said "I need only to say that insofar as it refers to the department of external affairs or myself, it is false to the point of absurdity."

Canada Ahead of Schedule On NATO Manpower Target

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada this year fulfilled well ahead of schedule its manpower commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

As the year ends some 16,000 Canadians hold down vital positions in the huge West European-North Atlantic defensive area. With forces from 13 other NATO countries, they are ready to help repel aggression from the skies, over land or on the sea.

Defence Minister Claxton announced in 1951 that within three years, Canada would contribute 12 squadrons of Sabre Jet fighters to NATO air defence; one army brigade of about 6,000 men, and naval elements involving about 5,500 men.

Last summer, three RCAF Sabre squadrons crossed the Atlantic in a leap-frog operation to join the nine squadrons that had preceded them. All now are under NATO operational orders.

The RCAF has not broken down its personnel assigned to NATO as to ground crew or air crew, but the total is about 4,500. This includes administrative personnel.

The army's 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade this summer and fall replaced the 27th Brigade which came home on rotation leave after two years in Germany.

The RCN has not been so specific about its contribution to NATO defence. It has pointed out that the east coast fleet would be available if the need arose.

This, in manpower, would amount to more than the 5,500-man allotment.

During the late summer, five Canadian warships took part n NATO's "Exercise Mariner," biggest international fleet manoeuvres in peace-time history. They were commended highly by NATO commanders for their performance in the 19-day exercise.

The 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade came into being in the fall as part of the new 1st Canadian Infantry Division in what amounted to a major reorganization of the army. The division's 2nd and 3rd brigade are stationed in Canada and are augmented by paratroopers.

At home, the army started construction of the most ambitious project in its history, Camp Gagetown, at Gagetown, N.B. The $25,000,000 camp will be used for training a division, including units destined for NATO service.

In time of war, Camp Gagetown would become the main east coast embarkation depot for the Canadian Army.

The defence department's three-year program called for the shipment to NATO countries of $233,689,000 worth of equipment and supplies in 1953. Next year, the volume is expected to be at least as great.

In addition to the shipment of equipment and supplies, Canada has trained more than 1,500 NATO pilots under its mutual aid program.

Orillia Commission To Sue Ex-Manager

ORILLIA (CP) — The Orillia power commission decided Saturday night to sue S. R. Walkinshaw, former general manager, for $76,000 damages it says was caused by "mismanagement" of commission affairs.

Mr. Walkinshaw was dismissed two weeks ago. He is suing the commission for $50,000 for what he claims was a breach of contract.

BRING FEW FOXES

Only two foxes, killed legitimately, were brought into the county courthouse for payment last week. A couple of others had obviously been killed sometime before Dec. 1. The next day for collecting the $3 fox bounty will be Thursday, Jan. 7. Pelts are marked at the rear of the courthouse and the huntsman is then given a cheque at the county clerk's office.

ASSESSORS MEET

Stewart J. Sparling, assessor for Peterborough county, on Saturday attended an executive meeting of the Ontario Association of Assessing Officers at Waterloo. A correspondence course for assessors was advocated by Eric Hardy of Toronto, director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, so there can be uniformity of assessment and so new assessors can learn the ropes. Mr. Sparling is a third vice-president of the association.

WARDEN RETIRES

John Rickard, Reeve of Newcastle for the coming year, is a son of W. F. Rickard, a former reeve who became warden of the United Counties, and finally Member of Parliament for Durham. In Darlington county Deputy-Reeve Garnet Rickard was re-elected. Warden J. H. Lowery in Clarke township, has retired from the municipal field, and is succeeded by Reeve Arthur McKay as the new presiding officer of Clark council.

Fore!

Strange things are certainly happening this year with Old Man Winter so tardy. Flowers and trees budding, robins flying about in the north country and thunderstorms lighting the December skies. These quirks of nature are having their effect on the summer athlete as well. Sunday afternoon the Kawartha golf course was dotted with ambitious golfers. Clad in normal golfing garb, the boys were swinging their clubs with the abandon of young colts turned out to spring pasture. In place of the stored marker flags, the determined golfers were using their clubs. Probably the ones they would normally throw away.

TV Application For City Deferred Again

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of governors today recommended that the government grant television licences to Ralph H. Parker, operator of radio station CFPA in Port Arthur and La Tribune Ltd., French-language newspaper in Sherbrooke, Que.

The board recommended for the second time that further action be deferred on applications to operate privately-owned television stations in Peterborough, and Charlottetown.

Referring to the Peterborough application by Brookland Company Ltd., the board said it "feels that a recommendation on this application should not be made until the next meeting in order that the applicant may ascertain whether very high frequency channel number 12 can be allocated for use at Peterborough."

NEWSPAPER OWNERS

The Brookland Company, composed of Senator W. Rupert Davies and Roy Thomson, both with wide newspaper and radio holdings, placed the application before a previous board meeting. The application is for channel 22 on the ultra-high frequency band.

On the Charlottetown application by Island Broadcasting Company, the board said it recommends deferment "for provision of full necessary information by the applicant." The applicant, K. S. Rogers, operator of radio station CFCY, Charlottetown, was unable to attend public hearings on the application last week.

The board's announcement also contained recommendations for new privately-owned radio stations in Camrose, Alta., and Drummondville, Que., but said the government should deny similar applications from two groups of men for a privately-owned station in Corner Brook, Nfld.

Today's successful television applicants would join 14 other private broadcasters in the field. Two are on the air—CKSO Sudbury, and CFPL London, Ont. In addition the CBC operates stations in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa and plans others in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax.

TWO STATIONS DENIED

The board recommended that other applications for stations in Port Arthur and Sherbrooke be denied. One came from Donald C. Clark, Port Arthur business man who outlined to the board last week plans for a station owned jointly by himself and the Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Referring to Mr. Parker's application from Port Arthur, the board said it particularly noted that the company "is entirely locally owned and operated and is associated in this project with the licensee of the radio station in the sister city of Fort William."

"Half the control of the Donald C. Clark application would be held by interests participating in the television station being established at Kingston, and in an application for another television station at Peterborough."

"The operating management of the company proposed in the Clark application would be provided by persons connected with these interests."

The board said that in this connection it noted a regulation in the Radio Act that without permission of the cabinet no licence may be granted a person or company which owns or controls another licenced station.

GRANT POWER INCREASE

Also in the television field, the board recommended:

1. An increase in power for station CJCB-TV Sydney, N.S. which "would extend coverage and would improve the signal in the service area."

2. Technical changes for station CKSO-TV Sudbury and the Central Ontario Television Ltd., station at Kitchener, Ont., for similar reasons.

The board recommended approval of a series of share transfers in a large number of radio stations, transfer of control of radio station CHLO, to Ernest M. Warwick of Blenheim, Ont., from G. C. Nicholls of St. Thomas, and a power increase to 5,000 from 1,000 watts for station CFOR Orillia.

Boys Start Barn Fire Livestock Lost

Nine Cattle, Hogs, Poultry Perish, Woman Saves Some

WARKWORTH —(ENS)—Fire, started by two boys playing with matches, late Saturday afternoon destroyed Charles Russell's barn, a mile and a quarter north of here, and fatally burned nine cattle, two sows and their litters and a large number of poultry.

The loss, only partly covered by insurance, has been estimated as at least $5,000.

The fire got started in the loft of the barn where Mr. and Mrs. Russel's two young sons— David, aged 7, and Dennis, aged 6, were playing while their mother was getting ready to milk the cows.

First inkling Mrs. Jean Russell had that anything was wrong was when young David came down from the loft and asked for a pail of water to put out the fire.

LET OUT LIVESTOCK

When she realized that the wooden frame barn was doomed she sent David up to the house to telephone a neighbor and raise the alarm. Meanwhile she started to let out the livestock. Working as quickly as she could, she released two horses, 15 cows and a fattening steer belonging to one of the boys.

Mrs. Russell might have been able to save even more of the livestock but she ran into difficulties undoing the neck chain of another fattening steer. By this time her husband had arrived from Warkworth, where he is employed by C. E. Meiklejohn, and he urged her to abandon the animal and get out before it was too late.

The stock that was killed included the fattening steer, five calves, a yearling Holstein heifer, two pure-bred bull calves, and two sows and their 20 small pigs. Five geese and 195 hens were also destroyed.

Besides the barn and the stock, the Russels lost their hay and grain crops for the year, a hay-loader, seed-drill, the plow for the tractor-plow, and other implements. The tractor itself was in another outbuilding and was not touched by the flames.

A neighbor heard young David say over the telephone that the Russell barn was on fire but she thought he was fooling. Another neighbor, Andrew Maiden, had seen the blazing barn from a distance and he confirmed the boy's story.

The Warkworth volunteer fire brigade arrived with their pumper but the fire was too far advanced for them to be of any assistance.

Russels bought the farm four years ago from Elton Greenly. A barn on the same farm, at that time owned by Mr. Greenly's uncle, was destroyed in 1911.

NO SLACKERS HERE. Grade 8 students of Central School learned all about election procedure at the polls as they conducted the "real thing" in their classroom this morning. "Deputy Returning Officer Charles Sorrie, in the (above) photo, deposits a ballot from "voter" Allison Low. DRO Sorrie reported a 100 percent vote and quickly executed, as the voters and all other students in city, public and separate schools were given the day off.

Harry G. Simpson Elected Reeve Of East York

TORONTO (Special to the Examiner)—Harry G. Simpson, native son of Lakefield and one-time pupil of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School has been returned to office as reeve of East York.

In a sweeping victory of almost two-to-one proportions at Saturday's municipal election he was returned for his fourth term.

Mr. Simpson's majority of about 2,000 was a striking affirmation of confidence in his ability to shape policies for the new Metropolitan Area, embracing Toronto and suburbs. He has ranked high among the "Founding Fathers" who gave guidance and direction to the proceedings leading to the merger.

HARRY G. SIMPSON

For three successive years Mr. Simpson was returned by acclamation as chief executive of East York, itself a municipality of 65,000. This year he met opposition from Mrs. Marie Taylor, who had been deputy reeve, an office which was abolished in the Metropolitan Area readjustment.

Mrs. Taylor waged an energetic campaign, appealing largely on local issues, with the support of influential friends and of some women's organizations.

BANKER

After a lifetime in the banking field which began in Lakefield with the old Traders' Bank (later taken over by the Royal Bank of Canada), Mr. Simpson entered politics.

Speaking to the Examiner, Mr. Simpson referred to some of the complex municipal problems to which he intends to give his attention in the immediate future.

Of paramount interest among these is the question of equalized assessments and of rapid transportation. The point is widely stressed that without equitable re-assessment an unduly heavy tax burden will fall upon the people of the former suburban areas.

In East York the Hollinger Bus Lines have been taken over. He is anxious that citizens who depend on public transportation will get as good or better service as formerly.

But Reeve Harry Simpson's interests are by no means focussed exclusively on the affairs of metropolitan Toronto. His love for his own native Peterborough county persists and widens. With Mrs. Simpson he enjoys his summers at his cottage off the Burleigh channel, Stony lake; and recently he represented the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association at the meeting in Toronto of the Central Kawartha Association, at which resolutions were adopted looking to the readjustment of fishing and hunting season dates, in the interest of conservation. His report on the proceedings has been transmitted to the Stony Lake Association.

Schools Hold Own Version Of Municipal Elections

Deputy returning officer, Charles Sorrie, received a 100 percent turnout at his voting poll today. There were no slackers in his division. The results won't have much effect on the 1954 municipal executive however. The poll in question is one conducted for the senior pupils at Central school by their principal, Donald T. Crawford for the express purpose of teaching the future citizens the correct procedure of casting a ballot. Interest is high, and it is hoped that this interest will not diminish as the children approach legal age.

EXACT DUPLICATION

The election is run in exact duplication of the real thing. After a short lecture by Mr. Crawford on the mechanics of voting, a returning officer was appointed, ballots were issued, and a list of candidates presented to the voters They marked the choices secretly and as they placed their ballot in the ballot box, their names were checked off the list.

Similar programs are carried out by teachers in various schools throughout the city.

When all the votes were in, the ballots were counted and the winners reported. Then came the moment the youngsters have all been waiting for.

School is let out to make way for the real thing and the kids run happily home.

'Hurray, for election day! ! !".

Two City Men Touring Korea

Two former Peterborough men Del Crary and Sheldon Richardson—are now in Japan, starting out on a tour of United Nations' troops with the Royal Canadian Signals' band.

Del who is best known locally as a band leader and CHEX announcer, looks after the production and is master of ceremonies of the 35-piece band show. Shel played with the Bobby Kinsman band at Club Aragon and is now jazz soloist on trumpet in the army band.

Lt. B. J. Lyons of Kingston is the director of music.

LEFT IN NOVEMBER

The Canadians left Seattle early in November, entertained United States' troops on the trans-Pacific voyage by boat, landed at Yokohama on Nov. 29, and started on their three-to-six-months' tour on Saturday.

As they crossed the 180th meridian the two Peterborough soldiers were put through the traditional ceremony: they were summoned to appear before the Royal Court of the Domain of the Golden Dragon, and had to go through the usual hi-jinks that accompany the initiation.

Four Injured In Collisions On Highways

Four people from Campbellford, Dartford and Port Hope were admitted to the Civic Hospital Saturday and Sunday nights suffering minor injuries as the result of car accidents.

Three were hurt in two-car accident Sunday night on Highway 7 about 12 miles east of the city. An eastbound new model car, driven by Joseph Dunk of Campbellford, and a westbound car, driven by Wilbert Knight of RR 1 Dartford, collided on the crest of a hill.

THREE HURT

Dunk, his wife and Knight were all rushed to Civic Hospital by Nisbett ambulance. There the 38-year-old Campbellford man was treated for a lacerated scalp and sent home. His wife suffered a possible fractured rib, abrasions to her face and legs; her condition today was satisfactory. Knight, 24, had a fractured wrist.

The cars were scattered along the south side of the highway. The Dunk car across the ditch had its left side crumpled and ripped open. Meanwhile the Knight car was spun around and came to rest facing east on the south lane of the highway, the left front badly wrecked.

OPP Constable James Healey investigated.

Another man, A. Henderson of 25 Cavan St., Port Hope, was admitted to hospital shortly after 11 p.m. Saturday following an accident at the five-mile turn on Highway 28. He was treated for a lacerated forehead and chin, abrasions to his nose and left hand, and then permitted to go home Sunday.

Advance Voting, Enquiries Point To Record

If the advance poll can be taken as an indication, there will be a record turnout of voters in today's municipal election in Peterborough. Last year, only 36 people cast their ballots in the advance poll but by the time it had closed at 5:00 p.m. Saturday, 51 voters, who in the course of their employment will be out of the city today, had marked their choices of civic candidates, an increase of more than 41 per cent in the total.

A heavy early-morning rain cleared quickly and the sun was shining brightly by the time the polls opened at 11:00 a.m., although a brisk wind was still blowing. The noon temperature was 39 degrees above, slightly colder than the city has been experiencing the past few days.

LIGHT START

Early voting was light but picked up around noon as husbands, returning home for lunch from downtown, joined their wives to visit the polls. The tempo of voting is expected to increase after 5:00 p.m. when workers leave the factories. Polls will remain open until 7:00 p.m.

City Clerk E. A. Outram, who is chief returning officer, said indications were that the vote would be unusually heavy. He was flooded with telephone inquiries all weekend from voters anxious to make sure their names were on the list and making sure they knew where to vote. No hitches were reported in arrangements for the voting.

Pope Launches Marian Year

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A joyful noon-day pealing led by the big master bell of St. Peter's basilica today marked the start of the Marian Year to honor the mother of Jesus.

One by one, the bells of Rome's nearly 500 churches joined in the 15-minute medley.

Roman Catholics throughout the world will observe the Marian Year to honor Mary upon the 100th anniversary of the dogma that proclaimed her immaculate conception. This established as Roman Catholic faith the belief that Mary was born without the stain of original sin to which all other men are heir because of the disobedience of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Paradise.

In midnight services here and in towns, hamlets and cities everywhere, Roman Catholics tonight will begin a year-long crusade of prayers and pilgrimages, called by the Pope to honor Mary and to seek her aid in meeting the problems of the modern world.

Must Brush Teeth

NEWCASTLE, England (CP)—Free toothbrushes will be issued to pupils of two local schools as an experiment. Examiners last year found the standard of dental fitness among Northumberland county children was the lowest in 10 years.

Corbin's Widow Sues Dep't. For Damages

The widow and children of the late Henry Corbin, who was struck down and fatally-injured last Christmas Eve, are entering a suit for damages in Supreme Court against the Ontario Registrar of Motor Vehicles.

If they are successful the money will come out of the unsatisfied judgment fund which was set up to reimburse people who have suffered a loss as a result of so-called hit-and-run accidents.

The case will be one of 25 actions listed for trial at the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court that begin at 2 p.m. today, Mr. Justice Treleaven presiding.

Mr. Corbin, aged 36, was hit by an unidentified driver last Christmas Eve after he left his home at 956 Western Ave. to go to a store on Lansdowne St. He died in hospital 12 days later.

The suit has been started by his wife, the former Margaret O'Gorman, and her three young sons—Edward 5, Gerard 4, and Patrick, 16 months.

Eight divorce cases are also set down for trial.

A Boon To Peterborough

One of the largest gravel pits that has ever been opened in Otonabee township is being opened on a farm on the flat road belonging to Albert Crowley. This mountain of gravel will have a depth of a hundred feet or more and will cover some fifty acres or more. This pit is only about ten minutes run from city limits.

Widow Cancels Marriage To Dempsey

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Auguste, the rich widow who four days ago announced her intention to wed former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, said Sunday night "The marriage is definitely off."

"Oil and water do not mix," the 42-year-old Palm Beach, Fla., woman said, adding:

"You might call him oil and say I'm water—but I've just come to realize it would not work. I am leaving for Florida by air tomorrow. There is no chance that I'll reconsider."

At his hotel, Dempsey, now 58, wasn't saying anything.

QUICK CHANGE

It was only last Thursday that Mrs. Auguste, who inherited a reported $45,000,000, and Dempsey, now a business man, called reporters to announce their plans to wed sometime before Christmas.

Mrs. Auguste is the widow of the late H. Spencer Auguste, founder of the Commercial Investment Trust and executive of the May Co., a department store chain.

Dempsey has been married three times previously; Mrs. Auguste has been married twice previously.

Jewels Stolen

OTTAWA (CP) — Thieves broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Bogue during the weekend and stole $10,000 worth of jewelry. The loot consisted of necklaces, rings, bracelets, brooches, tie-pins and cuff links, ranging in value from $25 to several hundred.

CLEAR THE RUNWAY—Quadruplegic Marine veteran Sammie Gregorio, of Richmond, Va., is hoisted into a specially designed airplane previous to making what is believed the first solo by a quadruplegic. A wheel-chair patient at McGuire Veterans Hospital, he lost the use of both legs and partial use of his hands during manoeuvres in World War II. With the aid of his instructor, Hunter Jones, who spent one year perfecting special controls for the plane, the ex-Marine has made his boyhood dream to fly come true.

MP Searched "Dead Heart" Of Australia For Iron Box

By BASIL ATKINSON

PERTH, Australia (AP) — It started over an iron box. The natives said the box was in the Rawlinson ranges—in the "dead heart" of Australia. It rattled when shaken, they said. And it was too heavy to lift or open.

"White man lie down and die near box long time ago," the aborigines said.

Gill Grayden, 33-year-old member of the Australian House of Representatives, got wind of the story. He turned the reports over and over in his mind.

Did the box, he wondered, contain the last remains of Ludwig Leichhardt, one of the big names in Australia's early exploration? He decided to find out.

VANISHED 105 YEARS AGO

Leichhardt, a German, disappeared with an expedition while trying to cross Australia from east to west 105 years ago. Australians have puzzled over his fate ever since.

Grayden set out from Perth, his home town, to find the box in the Rawlinson ranges, 1,250 miles northeast of Perth and 1,400 miles west of the Darling downs where Leichhardt began his expedition.

Grayden and his party had more equipment than Leichhardt ever dreamed of—two jeeps and a radio transmitter among other things—for their adventure into a land no white man knew.

At an aboriginal mission station, the last outpost of civilization before the "dead heart" wastelands, they enlisted two husky black men familiar with the country.

BLACK NAVIGATOR

One was Mittawilinna, the other big Jimmy.

Nothing of modern science could take the place of Mittawilinna's knowledge of this almost waterless, treeless country in which his race survives.

He was the navigator. He sat proudly on top of the leading jeep indicating the direction Grayden should drive.

Day after day he guided the party from rock hole to rock hole through country so desolate even the crows had forsaken it. At no stage did they have to use a compass.

Many had thought it impossible to drive the jeeps over the sand dunes into the wild country, but eventually Grayden reached the Rawlinson ranges. Then the search began.

GRAYDEN'S ACCOUNT

Grayden tells the story:

"On the northern side of the Rawlinson range we found an old camp site. This was our destination. This was where we would find Leichhardt's box, the natives said.

"This was what we had come 1,250 miles to find. We dug around the site and we sifted the dirt. We made a thorough search of an area of more than two miles. "We found nothing so we burnt the desert grass flat.

THEY FOUND A BOX

"Then we found the iron box. It was a rusted portion of an old camel water tank. I think my mates were disappointed. I know I was."

Was it worthwhile?

"It was worth every penny it cost to finance the expedition," he replied. "We brought back relics of other explorers and we gained a wealth of experience.

"Some will say we wasted our time, but the insight we gained into the lives of Mittawilinna's people is worth more to us than any iron box."

Volcanos, Earthquakes In Earth Said Like Stomach Ulcers In Humans

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Mother Earth has her own stomach ulcers—volcanoes and earthquakes—a little bit like the ulcers of her human cargo.

Among humans, there's an ulcer-type, the people most subject to ulcers. And earth has her belts or areas most subject to volcanic spew-ups and dancing shocks.

But, as among humans, it's hard or impossible to predict just when one of earth's flare-ups will strike, with power equal to thousands or even millions of atomic bombs.

Earth's great volcano belt circles the Pacific ocean, from Alaska to Antarctica, back up through Indonesia and Japan. A smaller belt runs at right angles through the Mediterranean.

PRESSURE BUILDS

Dr. Brian H. Mason, curator of physical geology and mineralogy of the American Museum of Natural History, says volcanoes are likely to occur along faults or fractures in the earth's crust, where molten rock and gas rise from the fiery depths of the earth.

When the pressures build up enough, the fiery molten rock bubbles out—or bursts with explosions making A-bombs look like firecrackers.

Much depends upon how much gas pressure builds up, and how tight is the plug within a volcano's throat. The bad actor is the volcano which clears its throat with a sudden, explosive cough.

Such was Mt. Pelee's eruption in Martinique in 1902. The flash of fire and poison gas left only one survivor among 28,000 persons in St. Pierre a few miles away. The lucky one was a prisoner in an underground cell.

THOUSANDS DROWN

Seventy years ago Krakatoa in the East Indies blew up, taking with it two-thirds of the island on which it stood. Great waves drowned 36,000 people along coasts many miles away. The sound was detected nearly 3,000 miles away. Dust wafted around the earth for several years.

Dr. Mason says it is hard to predict when a volcano will let go, or when a new one will form. Vesuvius in Italy has a big flow about every 40 years. Stromboli in the Mediterranean is almost continually in weak eruption.

As for earthquakes, experts figure there are about 1,000,000 a year, an average of better than 100 an hour, but most so minor that humans never feel them. Perhaps 10 a year are really big, and in historic times have killed some 13,000,000 persons. The shaking earth itself doesn't kill. Death comes from falling buildings, landslides, re-routed rivers and tidal waves.

As with volcanoes, the Pacific circle is a main earthquake belt, with a second stretching across the Mediterranean through Asia. But quakes actually can occur almost anywhere.

SUDDEN SHIFTING

The earth is restless. Mountains are rising, or eroding. Great masses of rock are slowly moving. When the strain becomes too great there is a sudden shifting, like the snap-back of a bent piece of elastic metal.

There are deep shocks, 400 miles within the interior of the earth. Most of the quakes which cause severe damage, though, are those heaving within the upper 27 miles or so of the earth's crust.

Orillia Stays Town

ORILLIA (CP) — Town council has decided that Orillia should remain a town and not try to become a city separate from Simcoe county. A special meeting decided to call off a question scheduled to be presented to the voters in the municipal election Dec. 14. Councillors said that Simcoe county council now is showing "a more reasonable attitude" toward urban municipalities and it may not be necessary to separate.

Question Of Jurors Poses Problems

GODERICH, Ont. (CP)—The recent government ruling permitting women to sit as jurors in Canadian courts has created problems for court officials.

A Goderich district woman was called for jury duty last week. To be in keeping with the dignity of the court she bought a hat.

Now she finds that the only case scheduled before a judge and jury has been settled out of court, and she's mad.

Saturday she got in touch with court officials and wanted to know who was going to pay for the hat.

Hold Open-Air Service Aboard Gothic

ABOARD S.S. GOTHIC (CP)—The light-hearted ceremonies of crossing the equator and an open-air church service were the week-end highlights as the royal liner Gothic bore the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh toward the Fiji islands on their round-the-world tour.

The Queen, an old hand at crossing the equator from her South African tour of 1947, looked on Saturday as the duke lent a willing hand in initiating newcomers to the ties of king Neptune and his court.

In the blue and white apron of an "assistant barber" of Neptune's court, the duke gleefully shoved several members of the royal entourage into the ship's swimming pool and got thoroughly drenched in the process.

BECOMES FREE-FOR-ALL

His police guard, inspector Frank Kelly, the bearded Neptune, also wound up in the pool in a general free-for-all. Earlier the royal party watched similar ceremonies aboard the escorting cruiser Sheffield.

The Sunday morning church service was held under an awning on the forward games deck with the royal party in attendance. The master of the Gothic, Capt. David Aitchison, conducted the service and Vice-Admiral E. M. C. Abel Smith, flag officer, royal yachts, read the lesson.

The stop at Fiji will include a visit to the neighboring island group of Tonga, where the Queen will renew her acquaintance with Queen Salote, who won the hearts of Coronation-day crowds last summer by spending two hours in an open carriage in the pouring rain.

All-Canadian Gas Pipeline May Push Investment Boom

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A start on the all-Canadian gas pipeline may provide that extra push to put Canada's investment boom over the top in 1954.

Capital investment, key to the dynamic strength of the Canadian economy, has been rolling ahead at a record pace in recent years.

But there has been some doubt whether in 1954 the investment boom could be maintained at the 1953 peak of $5,600,000,000.

Capital outlays in basic material industries may show a drop. Initial development phases in Quebec-Labrador iron ore and British Columbia aluminum are expected to be completed next year.

In such industries as industrial chemicals, primary iron and steel and metals processing, the emphasis is shifting from the creation of new plants to modernizing of existing facilities.

Investment seems to be turning more to housing, utilities, services and institutional construction.

OPEN NEW MARKETS

Alberta's decision to send part of its huge storehouse of natural gas eastward if two competing companies can be brought together will open markets in eastern Canada and the Minneapolis area.

Thus a new $300,000,000 development project would be created, providing two years of heavy construction work. Trade Minister Howe says he hopes construction can start next year.

The full impact of this investment on the Canadian economy may be far greater than can be seen from the surface.

"As electricity did in the past," said Mr. Howe recently, "so natural gas promises to usher in yet another era in Canada's march to industrial maturity."

Money-Minded Students Sell Dates To Lonely Girls

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Chivalry, dead for years, has been pushed about six feet deeper into the ground by four Oklahoma A and M College undergraduates who decided to trade the Sir Lancelot Idea for a fast buck.

Their money - making idea is guaranteed to make Frenchman's blood turn white, a Latin's heart go limp.

They are selling good looks and social poise for 70 cents an hour to dateless damsels.

Calling themselves the City-Wide Escort Service, they hope their business venture will prove the answer to a desperate coed's prayer. They are available, at the prevailing rates, for coke dates, dances, bridge, coffee or tea drinking, or any social gathering at which a young lady may wish to appear with an escort.

The boys, Gaylord Ortman, Hennessey, Okla.; Joe Perry, El Reno, Okla., and Dave Bergdahl and Jerry Herrin, Skandia, Mich., guarantee the young ladies a date they will be proud of, well-mannered, well-dressed, well-read.

They're available at a moment's notice to help out a girl whose date has suddenly come down with pneumonia. They believe these emergencies will constitute the bulk of their business, which hasn't been booming but looks promising.

The boys announced their arrival on the Oklahoma A and M social scene with an ad that read: "Girls, don't panic. An escort is as close as your telephone."

Here's the way their system works:

Customers get the use of one of four cars—their choice. The first 20 miles are free and a nominal charge of three cents a mile is added thereafter. Cigarettes, the customer's brand, are free. Rates start at 70 cents an hour for single dates with lower rates for double, triple or quadruple dates.

Phones at the city-wide escort service have been ringing since the ad appeared with more requests from prankish men students than customers. But it's no laugh for the four young partners who claim:

"We're in it strictly for the dough."

Twice Built B.C. Town John Morgan Harris Dies

SANDON, B.C. (CP)—A Virginian who twice built this Slocan valley town and twice watched it die, died himself Sunday in a hospital at nearby New Denver, B.C.

He was John Morgan Harris, 89, who lived here 61 years. His widow will take his body back to Marshall, Va., where he was born.

Only 100 persons live in Sandon now. But that's still more than there were in 1892 when Mr. Harris moved here from Idaho on the heels of rich silver and lead discoveries along the Slocan.

HAD 24 HOTELS

He founded the town the same year. Soon, Sandon had 24 hotels and 23 saloons. Three railways, the Great Northern, Canadian Pacific and Spokane Falls and Northern, built lines into the town for the ore.

Mr. Harris and the late Fred T. Kelly, his partner, organized the Reco Mining and Milling Co., and between 1894 and 1897, nearly 1,700 tons of ore was rawhided down Reco mountain to be shipped to smelters. Total yield of the Reco vein was nearly $900,000.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

In 1900, the town was wiped out by fire. Mr. Harris rebuilt it on its original site some 40 miles northeast of Nelson, B.C. But Sandon never quite recovered and declining silver prices saw the population dwindle to 40 just before the Second World War.

Then, tho town Mr. Harris and silver had built came back and more than 1,000 Japanese, relocated from coastal areas, were moved here. Also, silver and lead prices appeared heading for another climb and the population climbed with it—back up to 300.

However, after the war the silver and lead prospects again skidded and with it the population.

Woman Keeps People Happy For 40 Years

By KINGSLEY BROWN Jr.

HALIFAX (CP)—In a dingy dormitory of this city's "poor house," Lily James vowed to dedicate her life to making unfortunate people happy.

That was more than 40 years ago, when the pretty girl in the tight-waisted, ankle-length dress hurried to the City Home daily to read to a blind woman.

Since then Lily James has done a pretty good job of living up to her vow.

She has cared for the sick, opened her home to out-of-work teen-age boys, formed clubs for displaced persons, and become a "mother away from home" to seamen.

For the last 12 years she has operated almost single-handed the Missions to Seamen, a hostel financed by the Church of England but open to all denominations.

The "flying angels" mission, as sailors call it because of its insignia, is a big, three-storey building near the waterfront.

It has high ceilings, long halls, steep stairs, 18 rooms and 16 beds. Miss James makes all the beds, scrubs and waxes the floors, irons the pillow cases, runs the canteen, hangs up her seamen's clothes and finds time to crack a joke.

Her day starts about 9:30 a.m. and usually ends 14 hours later.

That's a lot for a woman who weighs no more than 100 pounds and isn't far away from her old age pension.

"But I love every minute of it," she says. "I do it because it makes me happy. And I've been blessed with good health."

She's done such a wonderful job in welfare circles that George Nowlan, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Digby-Annapolis-Kings, referred to her last week in the Commons.

He mentioned her work and said that it was wrong that the Order of the British Empire should be awarded only to members of the armed forces.

After his speech, reporters asked if he would identify the woman. "Certainly," he said. "She's Miss Lily James."

IN THE WAKE OF THE MASTER—Thousands of Nazareth's citizens trudge past this Franciscan convent, which once was a synagouge where Jesus is said to have preached when a young man. The city where Christ lived as a young carpenter, now ruled by a military governor, is populated by 14,000 Christian Arabs and 7,000 Moslems.

Never Get Discouraged

Private Members Bring On Resolutions

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today begins consideration of 29 private members' resolutions on subjects ranging from lower bridge tolls to a distinctive national flag.

However, if previous sessions are a barometer, few, if any, of the resolutions will be approved by the House. Uusually most are talked out—debated until time allotted for their discussions has expired—or voted down.

At the start of a session, private members resolutions are debated all day Monday, and each Wednesday afternoon. Private and public bills go before the House from 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays.

Time for private resolutions is reduced as the session progresses, and is cut off as prorogation nears. Members devote all their time to government business in the dying days of a session.

Private resolutions are the only method by which back-benchers are able to place legislative proposals before the Commons for discussion. The majority of them urge only government consideration of a particular idea and do not commit the administration in the event they are approved.

One of the most controversial resolutions to be debated will be one urging adoption of a distinctive national flag. The resolution is sponsored by Bona Arsenault (L—Bonaventure) and urges establishment of a joint committee of the Senate and Commons to "consider and report upon a suitable design for such a flag."

Another resolution likely to produce lively debate asks the government to consider amending the Canada Elections Act to ban federal general elections in July and August. The resolution, sponsored by Rodney Adamson (PC—York West), says general elections should be held in these two months only in event of an emergency.

The resolution is a follow-up to strong objections by the Progressive Conservative party against the last general election held Aug. 10. Party spokesmen protested that thousands of Canadians were disfranchised.

No Speeches On Campaigns At Presidential Election

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—A presidential election is coming up in France, but there'll be no speeches, baby kissing or whistle-stop campaigns.

That's because French presidents are not selected by direct popular vote. They are elected by both houses of Parliament sitting as a body in the Great Palace at Versailles. Traditionally the office seeks the man.

The term of Vincent Auriol, president of France for the last seven years, ends Jan. 16. Auriol has said repeatedly he does not want a second term.

SPURNED BY MARSHAL

The French prefer their presidents to have little power. Earlier this year, Marshal Alphonse Juin was mentioned as a possible presidential candidate. But the blunt-speaking marshal, when asked if he was interested, said:

"You wouldn't expect me to abandon my title as marshal of France to accept a position which carries with it more worrisome duties than powers."

President Auriol, told of this remark, tartly retorted:

"As for me, I have decided to get rid of at least one of those duties. I will not again receive Marshal Juin."

Since that time, Marshal Juin hasn't been seen at the Elysee Palace and no further mention of his name as a candidate has been heard.

Three men are announced candidates but none is likely to get his name before the assembly at Versailles on Dec. 17. Roland Grignand, a railway mechanic, has said he would like to have the job. So have Albert Lutrus, a laborer and veteran of two wars, and Xavier Levedrine, an expert working at an artificial insemination cooperative.

THREE POSSIBLE CHOICES

Among the candidates most frequently mentioned are: Former premier Henri Queuille, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Defence Minister Rene Pleven.

The Communists may present a candidate of their own as a matter of principle, but they have indicated they will swing their votes to anyone opposed to the European army.

Another possible candidate is Gen. Charles de Gaulle. But the general has said: "I have not devoted my life to the service of France to end up opening chrysanthemum shows."

The election is held in the meeting hall of the Assembly of the French Union. There is no discussion of candidates. The president of the National Assembly simply announces he has received requests that certain names should be considered. Printed ballots with the names are distributed for the secret vote.

The president has many duties, one of them vitally important to hundreds of poor Frenchmen with large families. He acts as godfather to their children.

DISASTER AT SARNIA!

The devastating tornado struck suddenly, causing millions of dollars' damage in minutes — a fearful example of the power of nature.

Most fire insurance policies provide protection against windstorm damage for a nominal additional premium. Wind damage in Canada is not uncommon, and Fire and Casualty insurance companies pay many windstorm claims each year. Tornadoes such as at Sarnia are fortunately rare.

Claims paid resulting from the Sarnia tornado totalled approximately $3,000,000 — an example of how the small contribution by the many who want protection provides full indemnity and compensation for those who do suffer loss.

Would Like To See Reds Set Up Bases In U.K., Already Occupied By U.S.

CAMBRIDGE, England (Reuters)—Britain's Methodist leader, Rev. Donald Soper, said Sunday he would "very much" like to let Russian soldiers set up bases in Britain to join the Americans who are "in many ways" occupying the country.

He added, "We have got the Americans here, so let's have the Russians as well. Anyway, who says the Russians want to invade everywhere?"

An angry questioner asked, "Why don't you go live in Russia?"

"Because there are plenty of sinners here for me to work on," Dr. Soper replied.

JUNIOR PARTNER

The pacifist preacher, who earlier this year was elected president of Britain's Methodist Conference, told the crowd:

"In many ways we are an occupied country and we are certainly the junior partner in the alliance with America.

"When I read that the Americans are starting to build schools (for U.S. soldiers' children) I say it does look as if they are here permanently.

"America today is pursuing power politics quite ruthlessly."

One heckler in the crowd asked the bespectacled speaker if, in that case, he would like to see the Russians move into Britain.

"DECENT FELLOWS"

"Yes, very much," Dr. Soper replied. "Most of them are quite decent fellows."

Last month the evangelist rocked Britain by outspoken criticism of the Royal Family. He criticized the Queen for going to the race track, and lashed out at the Duke of Edinburgh for playing polo on Sunday.

Throughout his stormy career he has used the "shock treatment" method to present his beliefs, and just before he took office as Methodist chief last July he said, "we will have fun in the name of the Lord."

Party Dresses Add To Christmas Fun

By GAILE DUGAS
(NEA Woman's Editor)

NEW YORK — Getting all dressed up for the holidays is not purely an adult prerogative. Little girls love to dress up, and Christmas is the most exciting time of year for them.

Festive cottons for small girls to wear at home on Christmas Day or to parties Christmas Week are priced to fit into a family budget strained by gift-buying. And when the holidays are over, these cottons can go on into spring and summer.

Big sister wears (left) a vivid red broadcloth dress sharpened by black-and-white checked can-can ruffles. Check is repeated as trim on the bodice. The dress is belted in black velvet.

Peter Robinson Tea Guests Admire Lovely Decorations

Mrs. James Heffernan and Mrs. Wm. Jeffries were responsible for the very decorative setting so much admired by the many guests attending the Peter Robinson Chapter's Christmas tea and bazaar on Saturday afternoon.

They had an unusual tea table with lace cover and a plain green cloth overlaid giving the effect of a lace-trimmed petticoat. The centrepiece was Austrian pine with the cones painted white and three poinsettas and three white tapers, all arranged in one of the new and very pretty wrought iron containers. Two tall white tapers at either side were in low candleholders set in the pine boughs and the silver tea services and plates caught the flickering of the candles adding to the friendly cheer of Christmas.

Not only was this charming table setting admired, but other decorative arrangements around the room. On the piano there were Swedish type candelabra intertwined with pine and tiny colored balls and small choir boy figures standing in front, while at the ends were two large red candles sitting on wrought iron white coils.

Over the mantel there was a hanging of silver leaves and silver bells with red ball clappers, with pines tucked in as background. A creche was in the centre of the mantel with three tall white tapers and choir boys at each end. A tall Christmas tree with twinkling lights was on the end serving table and over the windows and pictures there were pines and colored balls and huge white colored cones. Another setting, on the radio, featured a tiny lighted Christmas tree and Santa in his sleigh.

Library section of the YWCA Green Room looked like a Christmas glitter bazaar with windows festooned in pine and decorations on each table. The penny sale tickets went into bright red containers, Christmas trees and yule logs looking like rolls wound diagonally with shiny bands and topped with green glass tips and pine were attractive offerings at another table. The Christmas table centres were very prettily done in red and green with candles, poinsettas, red plastic stockings and nut cup place cards and other novelties offered. For the children there were dainty bassinettes in pink and blue with dressed dolls and there were also woodsy door decorations for Christmas.

The home baking supply was only half large enough it was found. The goods were displayed on silver metallic plates decorated with white lace doilies and red poinsettas and the table was outstanding with a red plastic "tree" set in a large snowy white block. At a red and white "post office" wicket guests took a chance on the wide variety of Christmas parcels.

The tea concluded with draws for the penny sale prizes. The Christmas wrappings were won by Miss L. Brownscombe; the pyrex bowl set by Mrs. N. Hambly; the table centre by Mrs. O. Reilley of Toronto; the Christmas cake by Mrs. R. Taylor; the lazy susan by Mrs. D. Bentley; cookies by Miss O. Armstrong; door wreath by Mrs. W. G. Scott; bassinette by Miss M. Brock; cookies by Mrs. G. Hill; a blue table centre by Mrs. D. Hunter.

Receiving the guests was the regent, Mrs. P. C. Sanders, and vice-regent Mrs. J. Johnson and Mrs. C. L. Upper was at the treasurer's table.

Tea was poured by Miss Mary Medd, Mrs. W. G. Hall, Mrs. H. Baker and Mrs. B. V. Moore.

Geale, Mrs. Gordon Hill, Mrs. J. W. Fortner, Mrs. I. Lyons, Mrs. Roy Dixon. Hostesses were Mrs. B. L. Barns and Mrs. H. R. Scott.

Refreshments were convened by Mrs. D. Hunter and Mrs. G. Hancock and group members. Replenishing the tea pots and plates at the table were Mrs. C. S. Browne, Mrs. L. R. Mitchell and Miss May Jory.

The penny sale and the Christmas table decorations were in charge of Miss Mary Greer and Mrs. Jeffries and their groups. Mrs. M. Hardill and her group looked after the post office and the yule logs and novelties were in charge of Mrs. F. E. Hooper and Mrs. I. H. Keefer. Mrs. R. Gamble and her group had the home baking table.

Havelock Couple Observes Silver Wedding

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Agnew celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Friday with their family and friends, including guests from Peterborough, Dartford and Colborne.

The event took the form of a social evening and was arranged as a surprise by members of their family.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Agnew are natives of Peterborough and moved here from that city about seven years ago. The former is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Agnew. Mrs. Agnew was formerly Beatrice Castle, daughter of Mrs. Katie Castle and the late Reuben Castle.

They were married December 3, 1928, the last couple to be married in the old Mark Street United Church, Peterborough. The Rev. A. E. Thornley officiated. Among the guests were Mr. Agnew's brother, Mr. Cyril Agnew, and Mrs. Agnew, of Port Colborne, who had the honor to be the first couple married in the present Mark Street church.

Mr. and Mrs. Agnew have two daughters and two sons, all of whom were home for the festivities. They are: Miss Kae Agnew, of Chemong, Mrs. Thompson Ellis, of Stony Lake, Earl, of Lindsay, and John at home.

PRIZE WINNERS

The evening was spent playing crokinole and progressive euchre. Prize winners for the latter were Mrs. H. Agnew and Russell Healey, of Peterborough, with consolation awards going to Mrs. H. Naish, of Peterborough, and Arthur Ward, of Dartford.

A sing-song was led by H. Naish, of Peterborough, with Earl Agnew as accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Agnew received many felicitations and gifts, which included a family chest of silverware from their family.

Lunch was served from a prettily arranged table, centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, with bouquets of chrysanthemums on either side. The ornament from the 50th wedding anniversary cake of Mrs. Agnew's parents was used as a decoration for the buffet, flanked with white candles in silver holders.

TRAILERS HELP

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Plans have been advanced to use house trailers to solve the problem of accommodation for rural school teachers. Miss E. Carlson, teacher at Ewings Landing, agreed to make the experiment intended for areas where school attendance fluctuates.

Scholarship Winner Gives Graduation Valedictory

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Larry Argue was valedictorian and winner of the Allen scholarship for the best boy student in grade 12 at the annual commencement exercises of Millbrook High School Saturday evening.

He called attention to the fact that the size of the school was not always the determining factor in the quality of the graduates. Judged by present standards, the schools attended and taught by Aristotle, Socrates and Plato were very small indeed; and yet they influenced the learning of the whole world. In one century the small city of Athens produced more great men of the highest rank than all the rest of the world in any century before or since.

The Allen scholarship is in memory of Dr. Norman Allen of Toronto, a graduate of Millbrook High school, given by Mrs. Allen. It consists of the interest on a $1,000 trust deed to the school. Dr. Allen was the uncle of Mrs. Louis H. Winslow. The presentation was made by Mr. Winslow, a member of the Durham Area high school board.

Win Awards

Other academic awards were the Howard Shield, given by a former Millbrook lawyer, Ralph Howard, for general proficiency in Grade 13, won by Paul W. R. Sanders; the Mirror-Reporter shield, grade 9, donated by J. W. Barringer for general proficiency, won by Natalie Belch; and 25 awards for top students in their forms donated by the Durham Arena high school board and won by: Grade 9, Natalie Belch; Grade 10, Mary Eagleson; Grade 11, Victor Rowe; Grade 12, Vaneta Chapman.

Natalie Belch also won the Ouellette music shield for students in Grade 9 and 10, donated and presented by Homer Ouellette. Dr. J. W. Wright, reeve of Millbrook, presented the Howard and Mirror-Reporter Shields, diplomas for Grades 12 and 13 and certificates for intermediates. Academic awards were made on Friday night, Athletic on Saturday.

Intermediate boys' cup, Kenneth Olan; runner-up, Peter Crowley; intermediate girls' cup, Natalie Belch; runner-up, Karen Lunn. Intermediate cups were presented by Alex Gilbert, president of the Chamber of Commerce, donors of the intermediate cups.

Those winning school crests were: Donald Kent, Gary Snelgrove, Frances Dawson, Vilda Brown, Dorothea Chapman, Joyce Hutchinson and Joan Gilbert.

George A. Young, principal, introduced those making the academic awards and Harry Williams, physical training instructor, those making the athletic awards.

PROGRAM

On the program were two one-act comedies. The first was put on by the pupils of Grade 10 under the direction of Harry Williams. In the title role was George Patton. His father and mother were played by Eldon Hunter and Karen Lunn, his sister and brother by Dorothy Ball and Peter Crowley, and his girl friend by Natalie Belch.

The second comedy, put on by Grades 11 and 12, was directed by George Young. Pop Jones was played by Bob Palmer, his wife by Mary Eagleson, their three children by Lionel Hickey, Victor Rowe and Doris Powell, Paul's girl friend by Jean Hubbard and Mary's boy friend by Allan Olan. There were four choruses by the whole school, directed by Miss Diann Hogoboam, music instructor, with Beverley Patton at the piano.

The Grade 9 drill was directed by Frances Dawson with Lenore Ouelette at the piano. Those taking part were Reta Kennedy, Leslie Branscombe, Joan Gilbert, George Dawson, Janet Hobbs, Gary Snelgrove, Laureen Guthrie and Douglas Sheppard.

Other items on the program were piano solos by Beverley Patton and Natalie Belch, a trumpet solo by George Patton, accompanied by Beverley Patton, and a reading by Helen Ingham.

Flowers and a gift were presented to Miss Hogaboam by Lenore Ouellette and Donald Kent, students' council president. A gift was presented to George Young from the cast of the Grades 11 and 12 play by Bob Palmer, from the cast of the Grade 10 play to Harry Williams by Dorothy Ball, and to Percy Hamilton, make-up man, by George Patton.

The students all wore the school colors, red on blue, on their shoulders. The girls were in white blouses and blue skirts.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife, Once Unsophisticated Resents Domineering Mate

DEAR MISS DIX: I was brought up by parents who believed the less a girl knew about life, the better. At 18, I marriage George who was four years my senior. That was three years ago, and we now have two darling daughtes. My husband felt that he had married a somewhat ignorant girl, which was true. I wanted to improve myself, and through his help I feel I have succeeded. My ignorance, however, didn't extend to all fields. I had made exceptionally good grades at school, and was an accomplished dancer; in fact, had taught ballet to children.

I believe that I have attained adult maturity, but the trouble is that George still regards me as uninformed as the day we were married. He never consults me, shrugs off any opinion I have and treats me like a puppet to be swayed as he chooses. He made me give up dancing, my friends, and almost everything that doesn't belong to the present that is ruled by him. With all this, don't get the idea that he's not a good husband. He's a fine person, a good provider, and devoted to his family.

The problem before us is that he has come to the conclusion that we should both have some outside activities—but mine must be of his choice. He has suggested bowling, bridge, clubs, all of which I detest. The one thing I want to do is to resume my study of dancing, and that he won't permit. How can I make him see reason?

NOW SHE'S THE TEACHER

ANSWER: In helping you grow up, George apparently has neglected to do so himself. Actually, you don't owe as much to his tutelage as you think. Being a young lady of good intelligence, you would have made the grade without too much assistance.

Your role was not so much that of a pupil, as of a crutch to support George's egoism. That's why he objects to your dancing. It's the one thing that you do better than he does; it's the one thing you learned independently of him; it's your chief claim to complete individuality. Giving in to your husband on this point will do him as much harm as it will you. He should regard you as a personality with talents, likes and dislikes apart from his.

Although still very young, you are wise in natural aptitudes and in ability to face life. Now it's your turn to help George. Ferret out the reason why he objects to your following a personal inclination and try to make him see the foolishness of his restrictions.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My sisters tell me I'm odd because I don't care too much for visiting or having visitors. I work during the day, and am quite content to spend my evenings at home, reading or working. My husband also is satisfied with this way of life, and we see no reason to change. We are both in our middle 40's.

J. K.

ANSWER: Most people tend to regard as "odd" any behavior not compatible with their own. You certainly have as much right to your individuality as your sisters have to theirs. Wouldn't it be foolish to force you and your husband into a social whirl for which you have no liking? Sure it would, so continue with your quiet, pleasant evenings.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend's brother "eloped" a few weeks ago and, although the girl's parents were present, he didn't tell his own family until after the wedding. Now, my friend and I want to become engaged before he goes overseas; his mother says if we do, she won't come to the engagement party.

G. M.

ANSWER: One cannot quarrel with the mother's attitude. She's naturally very hurt over the actions of one son, and her reaction is to try to cling closer to the remaining boy. It would be considerate if you delayed your own engagement for a time. Both you and the boy are young enough to do so.

Christmas Riddle With An Answer

Here is a Christmas riddle for you: What is it that, given to a woman by a man, will please and flatter her beyond his fondest dreams because it is perpetual emotion in a bottle; what is it that, given to a man by a woman, will make him feel worldly and important; what is it that, given to a teen-ager by anybody will make her feel so sophisticated; what is it that, given to a woman by another woman, is received with the warm spantaneity that proves it's the "right gift"; what is it that, given to mother or father by a child, always makes such a terrific hit? The one, the only possible answer is Fragrance. For here is a gift that comes in every price range and many versatile forms, from a huge bottle of perfume to a tiny, delectable sachet. Here is a gift that satisfies the sense of sight as well as the sense of smell, for the imagination and ingenuity of fragrance manufacturers know no bounds when it comes to creating charming bottles, boxes and packages, not to mention the special delights concocted especially for this festive season. No doubt about it, fragrance is the gift that makes everybody happy.

Frozen Lemon Pie

One cup finely crushed cereal nuts, ¼ cup butter, melted, 2 egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar, dash of salt, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, ¼ cup lemon juice, ⅓ cup water, ⅓ cup nonfat dry milk, 2 egg whites, ¼ cup sugar.

Combine crushed cereal and butter, mixing well. Reserve ¼ cup of the mixture. Press remaining mixture firmly on bottom and sides of freezing tray of automatic refrigerator.

Combine egg yolks and ¼ cup sugar in double boiler, mixing thoroughly. Add salt, lemon rind, and 3 tablespoons lemon juice; mix well. Cook and stir over boiling water until mixture is slightly thickend. (Takes about 5 minutes). Cool.

Pour water and remaining tablespoon of lemon juice into deep 1-quart bowl. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder over surface of the liquid. Beat with egg beater or mixer until stiff, about 10 minutes. Fold cooled mixture into the whipped nonfat dry milk. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add ¼ cup sugar gradually and continue beating until stiff peaks will form. Fold in nonfat dry milk mixture and pour into cereal-lined freezing tray. Sprinkle reserved cereal over top. Set control for coldest freezing temperature and freeze until firm, about 3 hours. Cut in wedges to serve. (Eight servings).

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Making Plum Pudding and Mincemeat

Bless my soul if somebody hasn't asked for a Christmas dinner menu and I haven't even given you recipes for mincemeat or plum puddings yet.

Because I forgot to remember for a moment that God's in his Heaven and all's well, I got myself into a tizzy because I thought the Bendix business on my starter had broken; then Pete wrote and said he was coming down with a cold on the eve of a hard examination; Marianne discovered she had to discard all of her shoes and buy new ones for nursing duty, for walking and dress, and one of my most precious friends had a coronary thrombosis attack.

But right now the sun is shining again, for it wasn't the Bendix on the car that was broken, it was a run down batery. Pete passed the exam. The doctor says he has patients who have had 100 per cent recoveries from thrombosis But there are still Marianne's shoes, but she could go in her barefeet like the Indians. Wouldn't she look cute in her nurse's cap and uniform and barefeet? She could paint her toenails. Horrors! I forgot about the supervisor.

Anyway I had to keep my mind on my business so I made mincemeat and in one batch I put real meat justo to show I meant it.

MINCEMEAT (with beef)

Four lbs. tart apples, 3 lbs. cleaned and dried currants, 2 lbs. raisins, 1 lb. finely chopped suet, 2 lbs. lean beef, 6 cups sugar, ½ lb. citron peel, 1 nutmeg grated, ½ teaspoon ground mace, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 each oranges and lemons. In as little water as possible simmer the beef until tender. Cool it and grind finely. Add the pared, chopped or ground apples (or leave skins on if you wish), suet, sugar, currants, raisins, spices, orange and lemon juice, grated rind of the oranges and grated rind of only 1 of the lemons, chopped citron peel, and salt. Mix well and cook slowly for 1 hour stirring almost constantly. Pour into sterile jars and seal. Store in cool place.

APPLE MINCEMEAT

This comes from Nova Scotia and their famous Bishop Pippins are recommended. Other tart apples may be susbstituted.

Four lbs apples (preferably Bishop Pippins), 1 lb. suet. Put these two through medium-fine knife of grinder, then add to them 4 lbs. brown sugar and 1 lb. seedless raisins, and ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. (Increase these spices to 1 teaspoon each if you wish) Cook all together over very low heat until mixture turns dark. Store in a clean crock in cold place. The suet rises to the top and forms a seal. Enough for at least 7 pies. Stir this almost constantly

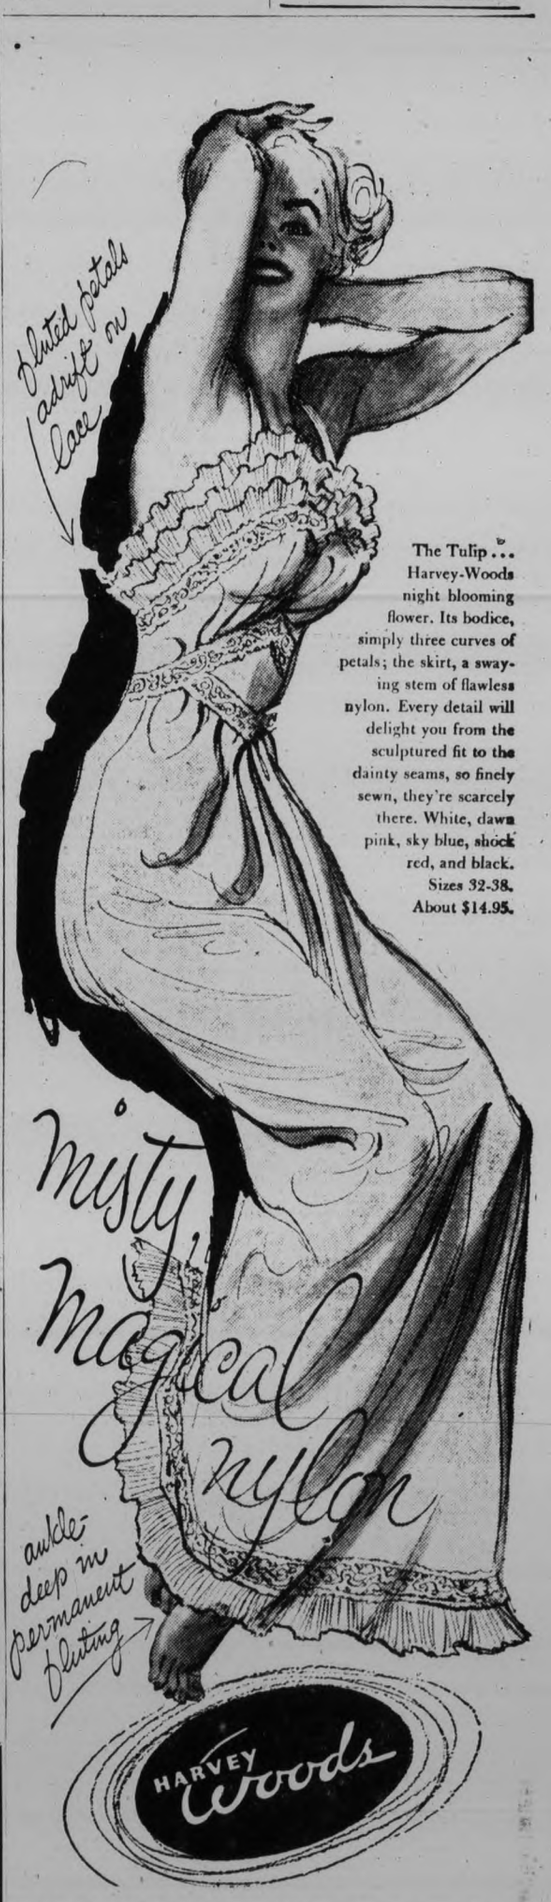
RICH PLUM PUDDING

(serves 8)

One-half cup each finely chopped suet, molasses, milk, currants, ¼ cup each blanched chopped almonds, finely sliced citron peel, quartered candied cherries, ¾ cup seeded raisins, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon chopped candied orange peel, 2 cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon each salt, soda, cinnamon, nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon allspice, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Sift all of the dry ingredients together. Take out ½ cup and mix it with all of the fruits and the nuts. Mix together the suet, molasses, milk and beaten eggs. Add the sifted dry ingredients, then stir in the floured fruits last. Pour into large buttered mould and steam, covered for 3 hours. To store remove from mould and wrap in several thicknesses of wax paper, and place in covered airtight container.

SIMPLE CARROT PUDDING

Sift together 1 cup each sugar and flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon each salt and soda Add 1 cup each finely grated raw carrot and potato, cleaned currants and raisins, and if desired (not necessary), ½ teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon and ¼ cup each candied mixed chopped peel and candied cherries. Pour into 2 buttered moulds or 1 4-lb. honey pail, cover and steam 2 hours.



GARDEN OF EDEN

Many biblical scholars have placed the Garden of Eden in Iraq in the Tigris-Euphrates valley.

Canadian Arrested Smuggling Gold

MANILA (AP) — Customs authorities said they arrested a China - born Canadian today on charges of trying to smuggle 22 gold bars worth about $17,500 to Hong Kong.

He was released on $5,000 bail after being charged with attempt to smuggle.

A customs spokesman said when Jolliffe was nabbed at Manila international airport, shortly before boarding an airliner for Hong Kong, he had the gold bars strapped around his waist.

Australia Damaged By Violent Storms

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters) Violent storms sweeping across southeast Australia in the past 24 hours have left a trail of damage and injury.

At Leigh Creek, South Australia, a gale with gusts of up to 92 miles an hour demolished a new prefabricated church which was to have been opened in a week.

A squall which struck an airliner soon after take-off Sunday night hurled passengers to the floor amid a pile of baggage and crockery before they could fasten their safety belts. One woman was injured.

In New Norfolk, Tasmania, a gust whirled a bandsman's bass drum into the air and bounced it over the bandmaster's head. The bandsman retrieved it and continued playing.

CATCHING UP ON THE NEWS — Former President Harry S. Truman starts his day by reading a newspaper he was lucky to get, as seven of the major newspapers in New York City have been closed for nearly a week. Later he took a walk and talked about his daughter, Margaret, saying "half the battle in life is selecting a good mother—and Margaret did that."

Steelworkers Demand Raise

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) will demand wage increases when contracts begin early in the new year with the "booming" steel industry, it was announced after a weekend meeting of the union's basic steel committee in Toronto.

A union statement said negotiations "shall provide for the settlement of the unpaid wage bill due from the Steel Company of Canada, Hamilton, and Algoma Steel, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont."

The "unpaid wage bill" refers to an 8½ cent hourly wage boost awarded by United States plants this summar.

White House Receives 17,629 Telegrams

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said shortly before noon today that 17,629 telegrams and an uncounted volume of mail had come in as a result of the appeal by Senator Joseph McCarthy that the public ask President Eisenhower to halt U.S. aid to free world nations which trade with Red China.

Assistant White House press secretary Murray Snyder said he understood Western Union has a backlog of telegrams possibly totalling 1,700 or more.

Snyder told reporters the telegrams have come in so fast it has been impossible to break them down into those which favor McCarthy's China - trade demand and those who support the president's stand.

German Freighter May Be Scrapped

SARNIA (CP) — The German freighter Wallschiff, which sank in the St. Clair river two months ago and now is being refloated, may have to be scrapped, her master said during the week-end.

Capt. Thomas Nissen, in command when the 882-ton ship sank Oct. 2 after a collision with the United States ore carrier Pioneer, said the cost of repairs may be too high.

Shipping officials said the cost of refitting the ship which originally cost $500,000 when built in Germany may be more than she is worth.

Salvage men expect to raise the Wallschiff this week. A 20-foot-square patch of quarter-inch steel has been fabricated and will be placed over the hole in her plates.

Historic Event

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—The Nanaimo Pioneer Society celebrated the centenary of the arrival here of 70 of the first settlers. They came on the schooner Discovery after transferring from the Hudson's Bay Company vessel Princess Royal at Esquimalt, and among the celebrants were many direct descendants of the first arrivals.

The death occurred today of Adam Reid, 88, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Mortimer, 574 Monaghan Rd. His illness was short.

Born in Simcoe county, Mr. Reid first moved to Lindsay and then to Peterborough where he resided for the past 30 years. He was an employee of the Hodgson Bros. Fuel Co., until his retirement some 25 years ago.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. W. Hurst Shepherd (Jessie), of Blenheim; Mrs. J. R. Knox (Eva), of Sarnia; Mrs. Joseph Mortimer (Daisey), of Peterborough, and Miss Laura Reid, of Toronto. Also one son, Bert Reid, of Toronto.

Mr. Reid was an adherent of St. Giles' Presbyterian Church.

Funeral will take place from the Comstock funeral home on Wednesday, at 2.00 p.m., for burial in Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. G. D. Smith, of St. Giles' Church, will officiate.

Agree On Plan For UN Recess

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) India and the Western powers agreed today on a plan for an indefinite recess of the UN General Assembly later this week without a debate on the Korean peace conference.

Under the compromise plan, worked out during the week-end, the president, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, will be authorized to reconvene the Assembly, with the concurrence of a majority of the 60 members, if she feels Korean developments warrant action.

The new plan drops any reference to a specific date for reconvening. An Indian resolution submitted last week called for resumption of the session on Feb. 1 or thereabouts.

The Korean question is the last item of business before the 60-nation political committee.

Daley Calls New Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Another meeting between representatives of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) has been called for Thursday, Ontario's Labor Minister Daley said today.

The parties to the dispute met last week but failed to reach a settlement despite the personal intervention of Premier Frost.

Mr. Daley said Mr. Frost will not attend the Thursday meeting.

The strike at Hollinger, now in its third month, was called following a dispute over union demands for higher wages and checkoff of miners union dues. The company is the largest of eight mines employing 7,000 miners now struck in the northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec gold fields.

It was not known whether Jules Timmins, Hollinger president, will attend the Thursday talks.

RCMP Keep Silence On Gouzenko Move

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and RCMP authorities today maintained a tight silence on developments in United States officials' attempts to interview Igor Gouzenko.

There was speculation that a secret meeting might take place today but no information was expected at least until any interview had been completed.

Meanwhile, there was no intimation from any source here as to whether or not Gouzenko—former code clerk in the Russian embassy here—actually had agreed to meet representatives of the U. S. Senate's internal security sub-committee.

Deny British Troops Attack Suez Village

LONDON (Reuters) — British military authorities in a message to the war office in London today denied that British troops attacked the village of El Qurein in the Suez canal zone Sunday.

The British version simply said that 14 shots were fired from the outskirts of the village at a mobile patrol carrying out reconnaissance near Telel Keber on Saturday evening.

There were no casualties.

The Egyptian governor of the province claimed Sunday night that British armored cars fired "several hundred rounds" at the settlement and that Egyptian police and gendarmerie defended it for several hours. No one was hit.

Egypt has protested to Britain against this action.

Wren Prepared To Accept Leadership

SIOUX LOOKOUT, Ont. (CP)—Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member of the legislature for Kenora, has resigned as town clerk here to be free to accept the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party if elected.

A meeting of the Fort William Liberal Riding Association last Thursday nominated both Mr. Wren and William Benidickson, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, for the provincial leadership.

Mr. Wren said a meeting of the Kenora district liberals will be held early in the new year to consider the question of party leadership.

TO REPLACE LANCASTERS? — The four-engine propeller-and-gas-turbine Bristol Britannia likely will be the answer to Canada's search for replacement to the RCAF Lancasters on Maritime duty, informed quarters say the decision has been made to build the new plane at Montreal after modification of British blueprints.

U.S. Delegates Skip Talks With Reds

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The chief United States delegates unexpectedly skipped today's negotiations with the Reds on a Korean peace conference and instead met with South Korean President Syngman Rhee at Seoul, possibly to talk over the dragging talks.

As ambassador Arthur Dean talked with Rhee, aide Kenneth Young sat in for him at Panmunjom in a meeting he termed "a move forward."

Young said all points of the negotiations were discussed by both sides but gave no indication of any concrete progress.

Dean represents 16 United Nations member countries and South Korea in the efforts to set up a peace conference. South Korea has been outspoken in its ideas on such a conference, occasionally differing with Dean's line of negotiation.

30 MORE REJECT ADVICE

In other developments:

1. Thirty more South Korean war prisoners refused to return home, making a total of 160 who have snubbed interviews with South Korean officers. Not one South Korean has returned in the five days of explanations.

2. The head of the neutral nations repatriation commission said the Communists and the UN command should decide what to do with PoWs who refuse to go home if the peace conference does not meet soon.

The UNC insists that they must be released as civilians on Jan. 23 even if the conference is not under way; The Reds insist that they be held until the conference discusses their fate.

Find Old Settlements

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The remains of ancient settlements dating back 6,000 years were unearthed near Khabarovsk in the Russian Far East. Students from Moscow and Leningrad universities found ancient stone implements, spearheads, axes and flint cutters near the Manchurian border and in the maritime territory around Vladivostock.

Flight Cures Cough

SALZBURG, Austria (Reuters)—A six-year-old Austrian girl was cured of whooping cough after a mercy flight in a U.S. army plane here last week, it was reported today. Ava Maria Markl's doctor had prescribed a plane flight at an altitude of about 5,000 feet.

BOUND FOR EUROPE — Defence Minister Claxton (right) and Lt.-Gen. During the trip they also will inspect Canadian military installations in Europe and the United Kingdom.

Demand Investigation In Borrowing Methods

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Two demands were made Sunday night for an immediate independent investigation into this municipality's past borrowing methods and its present financial position.

The demands came from John Botterell, president of the Oakville Chamber of Commerce, and E. Dean Wilkes, president of the Oakville Ratepayers' Association. They said in interviews they feel an inquiry will be permitted if sought.

The Ontario municipal board said Saturday that Oakville, midway between Todonto and Hamilton, has borrowed $458,000 illegally during the last seven years.

Reds Score Pin-ups

BERLIN (Reuters)—East Berlin workers have failed to unmask those who pinned nearly 50 photographs of nude women on a wall at the Karl Liebknecht transformer works, the Communist youth newspaper Jungle Welt said today. The newspaper said the photographs were an "insult to German women and served the warmongers."

Canada Plans To Maintain Grain Reserve

ROME (AP) — James G. Gardiner, agriculture minister of Canada, said today that Canada will maintain her vast grain store reserve "with or without international aid."

He told the seventh world conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization:

"During the war we were asked to produce great quantities of cereals, particularly wheat. Now we find no one to buy our surpluses at prices for which our farmers can afford to sell."

He said that as result Canada has piled up the second greatest reserve of grain in her history.

NO PLAN FROM FAO

"So far," he told FAO delegates from 70 nations, "FAO has come forward with no plan to assist us, or other nations with surpluses, to carry these vast reserve stocks.

"But we intend to carry them. We will do so ourselves if necessary. Because we must have a reserve for the protection of our own agricultural population. That we maintain these stocks will, of course, be of benefit to others if famine or need arise in the world."

Gardiner told the FAO many nations do not understand Canada's good situation and think of her only as a great grain surplus producer.

He said his country has a relatively small population—"actualy we live in the far north."

He explained that because of weather and other factors food production in Canada is costly compared with most countries.

DROUGHT DANGER

He said Canada's costs for production of butter and cheese, for example, are extremely high. Canada was not able at any price to produce many of the foods which it must consume.

"We have to buy these foods from other countries. And we rely, for balance in exchange, on selling some of our surplus crops in the foreign market."

He said most people do not understand that grain-rich Canada is really one of the countries most seriously affected by drought.

"In the next 20 years," he said, "we probably will have more years of drought than years of good crops."

Fireman Saves Small Boy's Life

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Fireman Robert Thornton of Windsor was credited with saving the life of a five-year-old boy who was pulled from beneath flaming blankets in a smoke-filled upper room Sunday night.

The boy, Ronnie Gosselin, is in critical condition at Hotel Dieu Hospital, with second-degree burns over 50 per cent of the area of his body.

Fireman Thornton, night chauffeur for the fire chief's car, climbed a ladder set up against the burning house, manoeuvred his body partly through a window, and pulled the badly burned boy from the bed on which he had been sleeping.

"All that saved the boy," Thornton said this morning, "was that he was covered with two blankets and a woman's coat."

Two Men Fall From Vehicles

LINDSAY—(ENS)—Two men are in satisfactory condition in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, after they were injured Sunday night when they fell from moving vehicles.

Allan Lambert, of Oshawa, was admitted to hospital shortly after midnight suffering facial lacerations after a fall from a motorcycle on curve on No. 7 Highway west of Lindsay. He was treated by Dr. C. Service.

The other victim is Mervyn Moore, of Lindsay, who fell from a moving car on Highway 7 east of town. He is under observation for undetermined injuries but is considered in good condition under the care of Dr. W. Broadfoot. Both mishaps were investigated by Lindsay provincial police officers.

Jim Patterson, 67, died from a shotgun blast which tore off his right arm and part of his face. His son, Robert Patterson, 13, was held on a murder charge.

Friml Energetic, Plans Busy 69th Birthday

By BOB THOMAS

He'll cycle some 15 miles from his Hollywood hilltop home to a beach club at Santa Monica and take an endurance swim in the club's pool.

I went to Friml's home expecting to see an elderly person. Hadn't he been a student of Anton Dvorak in Czechoslovakia and the composer of such classics as "Rose Marie," "The Vagabond King," "The Firefly"? And wasn't he the remaining member of operettas' big three, the others being Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg?

The composer, who was listening to a piano piece on one of his three recording machines, said he had recently written some added songs for MGM's third version of "Rose Marie."

"The most important things in my life are in this order—health, music and travel," he remarked.

"I am never sick. Why? Because I take good care of myself. I stand on my head for 10 minutes ever morning. That gets the blood to the brain and starts you thinking. That's why I have remained creative all these years.

"I do lots of yoga exercises. I also exercise my fingers; they are my fortune, you know. I do all my composing on the piano and have someone else put it down on paper. Not like the old days. I wrote millions of notes for 26 shows, arranging and orchestrating everything myself. That was before we had recording machines."

He demonstrated his head-standing technique, then reclined on his back and rolled to a standing position without using his hands. "Try it," he urged. I did, and rose with a slight charley horse.

We talked about the musical theatre and he said he found the shows of recent years lacking.

"They are full of smart songs," he commented sadly, "but that is all. There is no melody and no good voices to sing them. It is too bad. I hope the operetta will return so the new generation can learn what real singing is."

Say Army Cooks Thrilled With New German Barracks

By ALAN HARVEY

SOEST, Germany (CP) — The floors lack linoleum and the windows are free of frilly curtains, but no housewife could be prouder of her kitchen than the Canadian Army cooks in their brand-new barracks in Germany.

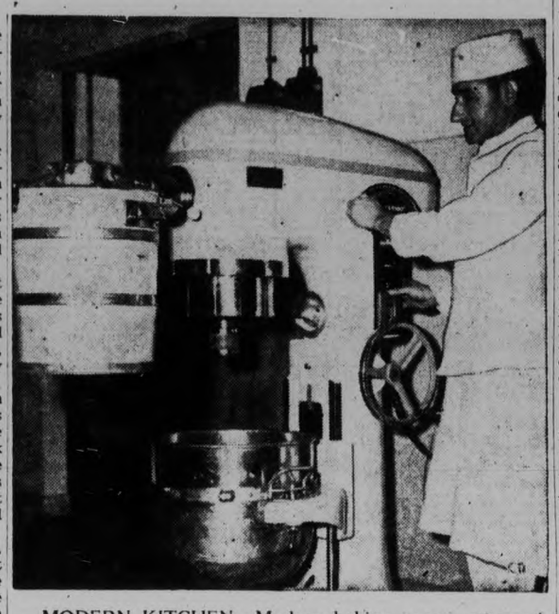
Modern baking ovens, automatic bread-slicing machines and versatile mixing machines have given the army cooks a new pride in their jobs. Take the word of Sgt. Ross Hunter of Acton, Ont., a man with 24 years' experience as cook and baker.

"The equipment we have at these new camps is among the finest in Europe," he said. "It's certainly a long, long way ahead of the old-fashioned field kitchen, with its inevitable can of bully beef."

Hunter should know. Stationed in Germany for the last two years with the 27th Infantry Brigade, he spent five leaves in Denmark studying baking techniques. One week-end he worked in the kitchens of a famous Copenhagen restaurant which features four-foot menus and a 177-dish smorgasbord.

Now he is with the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, near Werl, one of the four new Canadian camps in the Soest area which the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade has just taken over. Hunter describes his kitchen as a "happy hunting ground" for cooks.

Just as enthusiastic is Pte. Robert Angus of Toronto. In a quick tour of one of the camps, Angus said he has "never seen anything" like the new German-built cookhouses. His favorite is a giant mixer with a formidable set of dials.



"You can mince hamburger and freeze ice cream in the same machine just by adding a gadget," said the beaming Angus, who has cooked in Toronto and in several United States cities.

Other gadgets include special timing devices and automatic bread-slicing machines with steel guards designed to protect a careless operator against injury. The kitchens are supplied from a clean and roomy building nearby which Lieut. Nick Stevenson of Winnipeg describes as "just about the sweetest supply depot I've ever seen."

Among its features is a spacious refrigerator room, complete with safety button in case anyone gets locked inside. The button sets off a raucous horn in an outside room, guaranteeing quick aid for the victim.

Food comes from 30 or 40 countries. Dairy products are trucked in from Denmark. The Canadian ration scale calls for 2,400 to 2,700 calories a day. And if that isn't enough, soldiers can drop in at one of the 11 canteens operated by NAAFI (Navy Army and Air Forces Institutes). Seven of the canteens will ultimately include soda fountains.

"Everything considered," said Capt. Rollin Durand of Loretteville, Que., second in command of No. 54 transport company, "we are very hopeful of a very bright future in Soest."

MODERN KITCHEN—Modern baking ovens, automatic bread-slicers and mixing machines are the pride of Canadian army cooks working in brand new barracks in Germany. The equipment in the German-built cookhouses is said to be the finest in Europe. Pte. Bob Angus of Toronto, serving as a cook in Soest with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, is shown with his favorite gadget—a giant mixing machine that can mince hamburger or freeze ice cream equally well.—(CP from National Defence).

Margarine Tax Proposal Brings Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — A suggested tariff boost on imports of edible oils "is another attempt by the dairy industry to legislate margarine off the Canadian market," the Institute of Edible Oil Foods said Saturday.

The institute, representing the margarine industry, criticized a speech made in Toronto Thursday by J. J. Creighton, president of the National Dairy Council.

Mr. Creighton, speaking before the Ontario Creamery Association, said a subtle propaganda campaign is being waged to undermine the protection the dairy industry won against introduction of vegetable oils into ice cream, cheese and other milk products.

SUGGESTED TAX

He suggested an excise tax be imposed on margarine to eliminate the price advantage margarine enjoys over butter.

The institute said the dairy industry is probably enjoying the greatest tariff protection in Canada.

"This proposal for higher tariffs on edible oils is another attempt by the dairy industry to legislate margarine off the Canadian market," it said.

Car Skids On Turn Smashes Into Track

BELLEVILLE (CP)—An automobile skidded on a turn at a level-crossing a mile west of here Sunday, smashed into the westbound track and wound up straddling the rails.

Its occupants, Michael Lubenko, 25, of Oshawa and Ginne Mager, 19, of Frankford, suffered facial cuts.

A Montreal-to-Toronto passenger train which came along a short while later was delayed 15 minutes until the car was towed away.

Mayor And Three Aldermen Go Down At Polls

ELECT GRAHAM MAYOR

IN THE BIGGEST MUNICIPAL ELECTION upset in Peterborough in more than 30 years the mayor and three of the aldermen seeking re-election were turned down at the polls on Monday. Elected to be mayor in 1954 was ex-alderman Norman Graham (Above) who was returned on a platform of a promised "clean-up" in municipal affairs. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Mrs. A. Holt First Woman To Sit On Council, Anglesey, Dewart Returned

Ex-Ald. Norman Graham, in his first bid for the mayor's chair, unseated Mayor Hugh Waddell in Monday's election with a majority of 1,381 votes. He captured the bulk of the vote in 52 of the city's 67 polls and gained decisive majorities in five of the six wards. Mayor Waddell, fighting his first election as chief magistrate, after receiving acclamations two years in a row, outran his opponent only in the west ward, where he was given majorities in eight of the 13 polls and received an overall majority of 344 votes over the mayor-elect. Mayor Waddell is not the only city father who will be missing from the council chamber next year. Aldermen Syd Black, H. S. (Stan) Longhurst and T. Douglas Miller were all well down in the standing. Of the five sitting aldermen up for re-election, only Aldermen P. J. (Pat) Anglesey and John A. Dewart were successful, running third and fourth respectively. Two newcomers to municipal politics led the polls. S. H. (Stan) McBride received a total vote of 6,619, while the first woman in Peterborough's history to be elected to council, Mrs. Alene Holt, stood second with 5,551 votes.

POWELL WINS

W. Gordon Powell was successful in his third attempt to win a seat on city council, garnering 4,132 votes. Close behind him, but just out of the winning bracket, was veteran municipal politician Fred T. Tuggey with 4,093 votes.

Following are the results of Monday's vote for mayor and five members of council:

Mayor—Norman G. Graham, 6,978; Hugh F. Waddell, 5,589.

Council (first five elected) — Stanley H. McBride, 6,619; Mrs. Alene Holt, 5,551; Patrick J. Anglesey, 5,067; John A. Dewart, 5,053; W. Gordon Powell, 4,132; Fred T. Unity Pledge Concludes Big 3 Talks

Challenge To Kremlin To Negotiate Peace Settlements

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—The Big Three challenged the Kremlin today to negotiate peace settlements in Europe and Asia and to "solve the stubborn problems" of a world too long in conflict.

In a final Bermuda communique that occasionally rang with Churchillian prose, but omitted any concrete solutions for the key problems of Western unity, President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel announced:

1. They are sending notes to Russia for an early Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Berlin which they hope will make progress towards the unification of Germany and independence for Austria.

2. They will continue to strive for a Korean political conference which they hope will lead to both a Korean settlement with the Asian Communists and "progress in restoring more normal conditions in the Far East and southeast Asia."

STRUGGLE FOR PEACE

3. They will continue to struggle for "peace and stability" in Indo-China, where the "valiant forces" of France and the native states are making an important contribution to the "defence of the Free World."

4. They hope for a "peaceful" liberation of the Red-ruled east European countries and reject as unjustified "the present division of Europe."

5. The three Western powers will "lose no opportunity for easing the tensions that beset the world and for reassuring all nations that they have no cause to fear that the strength of the West will be invoked in any cause of wrongful violence."

HIGH NOTE OF UNITY

The communique sounded a high note of Western unity and common purpose, providing a background for Eisenhower's appearance at the United Nations later today for an address on the perils of the world in this atomic age.

The announcement of his speech was one of two known specific results of the conferences here since Friday. The other was the GIRL KIDNAPPED — A province-wide search has been started for Marion Joan MacDowell, 17, of Toronto. Police of Scarborough township, a Toronto suburb, said they were told Miss MacDowell was taken at gunpoint by a masked man from the automobile where she was parked with her boy friend, James Wilson, 19, on a sideroad at night.

Fear Abducted Girl Dead; Three Suspects

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today hope is waning fast for the safety of Marion Joan McDowell, 17-year-old blonde Toronto kidnap victim.

At the same time the parents of the girl, slugged and kidnapped from a suburban lovers' lane where she had been parked in a car with a boy friend, issued an open letter to their daughter's abductor.

The hand-written appeal, published in a Toronto newspaper, read:

"We, the parents of Marion, make this appeal to the person who is responsible for the abduction of our daughter Marion — please come forward or contact us as to the whereabouts of our girl. If you have any compassion, please, please relieve us from this terrible nightmare. Ross and Florence McDowell."

LOOKS BAD—POLICE

"It looks very bad for the girl," said inspector Harold Atkinson of Scarborough township police, "pretty nearly hopeless."

Working from slim clues found in the girl's purse and at the homes of friends, police said the search is narrowed to three suspects, all acquaintances of the girl.

Inspector Atkinson said he believed one of the three will prove to be a sex maniac.

Ten detectives have been working on the case with only a few hours' sleep. Hours of questioning have persuaded detectives that the girl's companion, James Wilson, 19, told the truth in his story of a masked gunman slugging him and the girl with a gun butt and then shoving the girl into the trunk of a car which the kidnapper drove away.

Police said that at the point where Wilson said the attack took place, they found a large pool of blood. In the blood they discovered Wilson's wallet with the $10 still in it.

Detectives found the girl's blue topcoat, soaked with blood, in the back seat of Wilson's car, along with her blue cardigan and her purse.

Sensation Expected In UN Speech

Hoping Eisenhower Will Break Seven-Year Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—United Nations delegates from both sides of the Iron Curtain awaited President Eisenhower's appeal today to the General Assembly for peace in an atom-perilled world. One high diplomatic source said the address would be a "sensation" aimed at breaking the seven-year East-West deadlock over atomic energy control.

Most delegates believed the United States president would aim his plea at Russia. They hoped the address, coming as the assembly prepared to recess its eighth session, would pave the way for high-level talks to ease world tensions.

In his spare time, Eisenhower worked on his UN address.

TIGHT SCHEDULE

Eisenhower was due at La Guardia field from Bermuda at 3:05 p.m. EST, and, 40 minutes later at UN headquarters.

The president was scheduled to speak about 4 p.m.

The major radio and television networks made arrangements to carry the speech, to be broadcast nationally in Canada and carried by the CBC television network. The Voice of America planned to beam the president's voice throughout the world as he spoke, and to translate his words for countries

Mrs. Anne Rowell Heads Polls In Board Vote

Mrs. Paige (Anne) Rowell was re-elected at the head of the Board of Education polls Monday with a plurality of 1140 votes over a new candidate, Clarence A. Corbett, 177 Morrow St.

By a coincidence of their residence, Mr. Corbett replaces Arthur Pitchford, a present trustee, whose home is also on Morrow St.

The complete returns were as follows: Mrs. Rowell, 7735; Mr. Corbett, 6598; Charles H. Huffman 6414; G. Wilson Craw, 6244; Ernest McWilliam 5362; and Mr. Pitchford 4988.

The first four were elected to the vacancies on the Board for two year terms.

Mr. Craw was in first place when the advance poll vote was announced. Those returns were: Craw 38, Mrs. Rowell 36, Huffman 33, Corbett 24, McWilliam 23 and Pitchford 18.

LED IN FIRST TWO

Mrs. Rowell was in front at the two first polls reporting from the city generally. They were No. 47 and No. 49. The figures for those three polls were: Mrs. Rowell 116, Huffman 101, Craw 96, McWilliam 89, Corbett 86 and Pitchford 64.

Huffman and McWilliam tied at No. 17, a city hall poll, third to report at ten to eight. The order of the top three was unchanged, but Corbett moved up to a tie with McWilliam for fourth place.

Plan To Hold Aviation Conference In US

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States will hold an informal aviation conference at Washington Dec. 14-15, it was announced today.

The external affairs department said the discussions will deal with "aviation matters of current concern to the two governments."

Informants said the Canadian representatives undoubtedly will renew a long-standing request for opening of the Canada-U. S. bilateral aviation agreement for amendments.

Another matter certain to be taken up, it was learned, is a proposal of Trans-Canada Air Lines to run a service between Montreal and Mexico City, which has been blocked by U. S. air regulations.

The TCA issue has been the subject of discussion between Canada and the U. S. for several weeks. TCA had planned to run one plane per flight between Montreal and Mexico City by way of Tampa, Fla. but the U.S. insisted on a plane for each leg.

Holding the use of two planes per flight would be uneconomic, TCA called off the start of the projected service about six weeks ago.

Canada's air transport board, holding the U. S. was making a rigid technical interpretation of the agreement, since has been looking into operations of U. S. airlines in Canada, some of which are engaging in the practice frowned on by the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board.

Two of them—Colonial Airlines and Pan American Airways—have been ordered by the ATB to show cause why they should not discontinue the practice.

Influences Eisenhower To Tone Down Speech

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express claimed today that Prime Miister Churchill tried "with all the eloquence at his command" to talk President Eisenhower out of making his atom bomb speech to the United Nations. And when Churchill saw his protests were in vain, The Express said in a dispatch from Bermuda, he set about using his influence to tone down the wording as far as possible.

The independent paper said Churchill was "greatly upset" when shown the first draft of Eisenhower's proposed speech, scheduled to be delivered later today.

FEARED SHOCK EFFECT

"He took the line that as first drafted it would profoundly shock the world," the paper's correspondent, Rene MacColl, said.

"He pointed out that since the NATO forces in Europe are being equipped with atomic artillery and other atomic weapons, the bluntness of the speech might be construed as a threat."

In Churchill's view, said The Express, the shock of Eisenhower's speech would have a "bad and depressing effect on world opinion."

In his announcement in Bermuda Sunday night that Eisenhower would address the UN assembly on the perils of the atomic age, presidential press secretary James Hagerty said Churchill and French Premier Joseph Laniel had read the speech and "unanimously approved" it. Later he amended this to say they had no objections to it.

ONLY REAL DISAGREEMENT

Hagerty also said that Lord Cherwell, formerly chief of Britain's atomic program, had worked with Rear-Admiral Lewis Strauss, United States atomic energy commission chairman, on the draft of the speech.

MacColl claimed the argument he reported over the speech had been the only real disagreement between Churchill and Eisenhower at Bermuda.

Some of what MacColl called the "alarmist" angles vanished from Eisenhower's speech as a result of Churchill's intervention, The Express added.

Sabotage Inquiry Proves Fruitless

LIVERPOOL, England (CP) — A fruitless sabotage probe was made after the 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada burned and sank in Liverpool docks last January, the official inquiry was told here today.

J. B. Hewson, testifying for the transport ministry, also said that if earlier evidence were correct, the loss of the ship might be attributable to the fact that the fire was not discovered early enough by those concerned with patrolling her.

Hewson said police had seriously considered the possibility of sabotage. But after questioning several hundred men and carrying out other checks they "reached no conclusions in the matter and there would be no evidence under that head."

Obey Navy Protocol Before Quelling Fire

As a fireman rushed up one of the cruiser's gangplanks, an officer said:

"Excuse me. Would you mind using the other gangplank? This is for officers only."

The fireman turned back and went up another one.

It was a small fire in a broom locker.

Ask Permission Sell Off Fleet

OTTAWA (CP)—Owners of deep-sea ships, declaring the industry faces insolvency, today called on the government to let them sell off the bulk of the Canadian fleet in international trade.

The Canadian Shipowners Association, in a letter to Transport Minister Chevrier, said a Nov. 12 cabinet decision not to subsidize the vessels "means that the Canadian deep-sea merchant fleet must again disappear."

They asked the removal of controls under which most of the vessels cannot now be sold unless the sale price is earmarked for the purchase of new shipping.

The owners said high operating costs—particularly wages—make operation under the Canadian flag economically unfeasible. They had suggested to cabinet earlier that a subsidy of about $5,000,000 a year would keep the fleet running.

Claxton Visits 4 NATO Camps

SOEST, Germany (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton today wished Canada's new infantry brigade in Germany a Merry Christmas and told the soldiers he hopes married quarters for 1,500 families will be ready next September.

Launching a quick personal tour of Canada's North Atlantic Treaty Organization establishments, Claxton visited the four main camps of the newly-formed brigade group. The minister, accompanied by T. C. Davis, Canadian ambassador in Germany, said in informal chats with reporters that Canada now has 20,000 troops serving in 10 countries outside Canada.

After inspecting a guard of honor provided by the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, Claxton briefly visited establishments in the new barracks, spread over a 40-mile-long strip in this agricultural part of Westphalia.

Then he visited centuries-old Soest, a picturesque cathedral town near two of the new Canadian bases. Among other things the minister discussed with officials the site for married quarters and a proposed men's club.

Gravenhurst Has Woman Mayor

GRAVENHURST, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Wanda Miller, mother of two grown daughters, was elected mayor of Gravenhurst Monday, the first woman mayor in the history of the Muskoka district town.

Mrs. Miller, two years a councillor, defeated Mayor Cyril Vincent who was seeking a fourth term, and George Powell, a councillor for eight years. She polled 420 votes against 364 for Mr. Vincent and 298 for Mr. Powell.

Mrs. Miller is a part-time summer lodge operator, president of the Gravenhurst Women's Business Club and president of the Children's Aid Society of Muskoka.

As mayor, she will preside over a six-member council—all men.

Stolen Diamonds Found In Pant Cuffs

GALT (CP)—Police said today they found diamonds in the pant cuffs of two men arrested in connection with the theft of $2,500 worth of diamonds and wrist watches from a jewelry store.

Held are Harold Marshall, 30, Joe Zambo, and a woman, June Webb. Police said all are from Hamilton.

Police said $4,000 worth of jewelry was left scattered about the entrance to the F. J. Brown jewelry store. They were arrested an hour later. Officers said they found part of the loot in the men's pant cuffs and more in a car they were driving.

Freak Weather Costing Millions

LONDON (Reuters) — Europe's freak Indian summer weather is costing millions.

While most people enjoy the warmth, flower growers, coal merhants, tourist agents and shippers are watching their profits drop.

In England, flower markets are flooded by unseasonal growth. Chrysanthemums, which usually bring the equivalent of $1.25 to $2.10 a dozen at the end of December, are being snapped up for as little as 40 cents. The price of narcissus has been slashed by half.

To make matters worse, spring-type flowers are arriving early from the continent.

Other parts of Europe are also suffering.

Dry weather has lowered the level of the River Rhine so that barges can travel only half-loaded.

30 Planes Search For Missing Men

SEPT ILES, Que. (CP)—More than 30 planes took to the air today to search for a twin-engine Anson aircraft that disappeared with six men aboard Sunday on a 224-mile flight from Ross bay to this town, 360 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The planes were to search a wide area along a railway line under construction between here and Knob lake, centre of Ungava's iron ore mining development.

Some officials believe the pilot may have set his plane down in a snowstorm at one of four landing strips along the railway line between here and Ross bay. However, no radio contact has been established with the missing plane.

Meet Russia Jan. 4

BERLIN (AP) — The United States, Britain and France have agreed to meet Russia Jan. 4—on a foreign ministers' level—to discuss the problems of Germany and the independence treaty for Austria.

Still Seeking Tornado Dead

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Tornado-battered Vicksburg, still burying its dead, dug into a new area of town today in the search for victims of the twister that killed at least 31 persons.

Rescue crews moved shovels into a Negro residential area near the National Military Park. It was the first search of this area, where the tornado spent its diminishing fury after striking the city three times.

After the Saturday tornado vented its fourth blow against the Negro homes near the park it moved into the park, toppling a row of marble monuments.

The main business district, hardest hit, remained roped off except to salvage crews. Civil engineers warned that many of the seemingly-unscarred buildings were hovering precariously on their foundations and might tumble any minute.

Round World Trip Record Broken By Eight Hours

CHICAGO (AP)—A young brunette flew into Chicago early today to break by eight hours the record time for rounding the world as a commercial airline p—assenger.

"It was the best week-end trip I ever had," said pretty Pamela Martin as she stepped from a United Airlines DC-6B at Chicago's Midway airport. She started her trip there at noon Friday.

She had covered the route in 90 hours, 59 minutes. She had only 10 hours sleep along the way but told waiting reporters she felt "fresh as a daisy."

TO MAKE TRIP SLOWER

The 23-year-old advertising copywriter-artist said she looks forward to making the trip again, as a reward for setting a record, but with this difference—next time she will take time out "to see those cities."

A travel agency picked up the $1,700-plus-taxes tab for her trip.

The record Miss Martin broke was 99 hours, set by Maj. Horace Boren, an official of Braniff Airlines.

Her plane was 20 minutes late out of Denver this morning due to a snowstorm, but beat the scheduled 8:25 a. m. arrival time by 14 minutes, with the aid of a tail-wind.

Senators Trade Jensen To Boston Red Sox

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington Senators today traded outfielder Jackie Jensen to Boston Red Sox for lefthanded pitcher Maurie McDermott and outfielder Tom Umphlett.

It was the first big trade completed at the winter baseball meetings.

In another deal, Philadelphia Athletics sold second baseman Cass Michaels to the White Sox in a straight cash deal. The purchase price was not announced.

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP) — First-class postal rates in Canada will be increased by one cent an ounce next April 1, Finance Minister Abbott announced today in the Commons. The increase, accompanied by a reduction of domestic airmail service to five from seven cents, is aimed at counterbalancing increased expense from a 40-hour week.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Union leader of the 11-day New York newspaper strike said today officers of the striking Photo-Engravers Union will recommend Acceptance of a federal mediator's formula to end the walkout, even though the strikers' negotiators are split on the proposal.

Town Sinking Into River

Aklavik To Be Moved To New Arctic Site

OTTAWA (CP)—"Place of the Black Bear" is going to be moved in case its present site sinks into the Mackenzie river.

The settlements of Aklavik, named from the Eskimo word meaning "place of the black bear," and coppermine, trading and mission centres within the Arctic circle, will be shifted to eliminate threats of epidemic and flooding and to permit them to expand on firmer ground.

A government announcement said the remote settlements, inhabited mostly by Eskimos and Indians, will be moved to new sites selected next year by surveyors. There is no estimate of cost.

Aklavik, Canada's largest Arctic settlement on the Mackenzie river delta 70 miles south of the Arctic ocean, has a population ranging from about 400 in winter to 700 or 800 at the height of the summer trading season.

FLOOD DANGER

The river is eating away the fine silt delta on which Aklavik is built and there is danger that the serious floods of 1936 may recur. The 150 buildings in the community, established in 1912 as a trading post, are built on permafrost—equal proportions of snow and ice crystals—which melt into mud in summer. This prevents construction of foundations and water and sewage disposal facilities. In addition, scientists estimate that should the permafrost melt down another 10 feet, the townsite would drop six more feet to the river level.

For these reasons, the entire community must be moved to firm ground where adequate local improvements can be installed. The same health threat exists at Coppermine, although there is not the danger it will be flooded.

Coppermine is about 500 miles southeast of Aklavik. Twelve whites and some 200 Eskimos live there and in the surrounding area.

ONE TASK DIFFICULT

Resources department officials said moving the few small buildings in Coppermine will be an easy task compared to that of shifting Aklavik.

The cabinet decided to move the two communities on recommendations by the health and resources departments and the National Research Council. The departments said necessary improvements could be installed on the present sites only at enormous cost.

The decision was announced by R. Gordon Robertson, 36, commissioner of the Northwest Territories at the fifth session of the eight vember North-West Territories council.

Allies Making "Final Offer"

By GEORGE McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies today made a "final offer" for a Korean peace conference, but the Communists rejected it outright in a scornful propaganda blast which the chief United States delegate termed "garbage."

Coincidentally, the Red action made academic a potential Allied problem—South Korea's refusal to accept part of the U.S. proposal.

South Korea's delegate refused to attend the meeting as U.S. ambassador Arthur H. Dean delivered the new plan, which nailed down loose ends of previous Allied proposals and suggestions.

"I told them (the Reds) this was it and we would stand on it," Dean told reporters. "This is our final offer."

Toronto Voters Elect Lamport

TORONTO (CP)—Slightly more than one-quarter of Toronto voters Monday re-elected Mayor Allan Lamport and all members of the 1953 city council who sought re-election.

In the lightest vote since 1946, the ebullient 48-year-old mayor won a third term by defeating Arthur J. Brown, former chairman of the board of education. The vote was Lamport 55,964, Brown 46,080.

All four members of board of control, the executive body of city council, were returned—Leslie H. Saunders, J. Louis Shannon, Ford Brand and David Balfour.

The only new alderman for 1954 is Herbert Orliffe, a former board of education member. He was elected in ward 4 where Francis H. Chambers did not seek re-election.

One of nine Communist candidates was elected—Mrs. Edna Ryerson for her 10th term in board of education. Harry Hunter, a Communist, trailed the seven-man field in the board of control race.

Newspapers, Union Study New Formula

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators today hammered out a proposal for ending a strike against six major New York newspapers, and called in both sides to look the formula over.

"I am for the first time optimistic," federal meditor Walter A. Magiolo said as he told reporters he would submit the plan to the publishers and striking AFL Photo-Engravers.

Top negotiators for both sies were with Maggiolo and posed for news photographers for the first time since the strike started Nov. 28. It now is in its 11th day.

Details of the formula were not disclosed, but there were indications it hinged on creation of a fact-finding board.

After midnight, Denis M. Burke, president of the striking local, and William Mapel, president of the Publishers Association of New York City, said that if his union's bargaining committee accepted the mediator's proposal he would attempt to call a union membership meeting this afternoon. And if the strikers at this meeting ratified the plan, pickets could be called off within an hour.

Set Tin Prices

GENEVA (Reuters)—The United Nations tin conference Monday agreed on minimum and maximum prices to be written into the draft international tin agreement which delegates have been discussing since Nov. 16. The prices are being kept a strict secret by delegations attending the conference here, which is due to end next Wednesday.

LINDSAY (ENS) — Striking employees and their union representative, Fred Kitchen of Toronto turned up at the Lindsay hydro commission office at 1 p.m. today and were told by a representative of the commission that the commission would meet any or all of the employees and discuss their grievances with them but would not talk or listen to union representatives.

They did stipulate, however, that union officials might attend the meeting and advise employees on its completion.

Employees rejected in a body this condition and refused to attend the meeting. They continued picketing but said they were open to further negotiations at any time. The commission meanwhile continued their meeting.

All employees this morning received a letter from the commission by registered mail, informing them that if they refuse to return to work Wednesday morning the commission would dismiss them.

Heading Polls Surprise McBride Promises Best

"How does it feel to head the polls for council?" The Examiner asked Stan McBride today. "First of all I didn't expect to be up in that position," he said, "and this morning I could not help but feel the responsibility I owe a large number of citizens. It is an impact that comes with realizing that so many had confidence in me.

"Looking back I know I helped to promote a lot of things for the Jaycees, Civic Arena, the Y.M.C.A., the baseball club,—you know; putting on shows and drives and picnics.

"One of the surprising discoveries in the last week was the number of junior campaign managers I had working for me.

"Parents telephoned me that they did not know me personally, but they were hearing quite a lot about me from thir boys, and the youngsters were urging dad and mother to be sure and vote for me.

"Then, there were men who said I had been enthusiastic in helping put over affairs for different organizations, and I might as well try to switch my interest into the city as a whole by running for council. I began to think that possibly I might make it. I talked it over with my partner, Ossie Anderson, and he was all in favour of accepting nomination. So, that is about how I got into the field."

WANT TO HELP CITY

Mr. McBride said it never entered his thinking when he was helping in promoting local affairs that some day people might remember his efforts.

"There are lots of people who want to help the city. You see examples of it every day. The Civic Arena was one of them. You swing into it, and you are not calculating that eventually, that work might count at the civic polls."

Mr. McBride said he had made no definite promises to the electors, "except to do my best if I was elected."

"I greatly appreciate the vote the people gave me. It means their confidence, and I hope that I can do something worthwhile for the community."

The home of Mr. and Mrs. McBride is at 166 Edinburgh St. They have two sons and a daughter, six, eight and ten years old. His business, Regent service station, is at the northeast corner of George and Perry Streets.

dispatch of the note to Russia proposing that the Big Four foreign ministers meeting at Berlin Jan. 4. There possibly were other concrete achievements, to be disclosed later, as a result of the closed-door talks here.

The communique was ssued early today after a final 13-hour session around the conference table at the Mid-Ocean hotel here. The last long gathering, was made necessary by Eisenhower's plan to fly to New York today to address the UN assembly.

LANIEL STILL ILL

Laniel, still confined to his bed by a lung infection but reported improving, may leave tonight for Paris, and Churchill for London late Wednesday. Foreign Minister Bidault represented his chief at the final conference sessions.

Two issues which figured heavily in pre-conference speculation, the projected European Defence Community and Churchill's presumed intention to urge a top-level meeting with Russia's prime minister Malenkov, were left unclarified by the conference communique, although EDC was mentioned.

Eisenhower and Churchill came here determined to put all possible pressure on Laniel for early ratification of the EDC treaty setting up a European army including German troops. The pressure, which fell on Bidault when Laniel sickened, obviously failed.

Bidault, because Laniel's government goes out of power Dec. 17, was only able to explain the reasons behind French fears of a German arms revival. These fears have stalled French ratification of the pact to date.

The communique at several points strongly affirmed the basic unity and common purpose of the Western powers and announced agreement "on various measures to solve common problems."

RECORD TURNOUT

A record turnout of 57.2 per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots, undoubtedly attracted by the lively campaign of the winning mayoralty candidate, who had charged carelessness in the handling of city affairs and stated there were certain departments in the city administration that needed cleaning up.

Following his election Monday night, however, Mr. Graham told The Examiner: "It is no intention of mine to start hiring and firing. I intend to straighten out the things that have been wrong if I have the support of the '1954 council."

In a radio broadcast earlier in the evening, the mayor-elect thanked his opponent for conducting a clean campaign, adding the oblique criticism, "I really believe it was his telephone system that ruined him—not on his own time, but possibly some of the nasty things that were said about me."

Obviously too tired after his strenuous electioneering to appear jubilant, Mr. Graham maintained his look of confidence and did not appear surprised at his resounding victory.

TRY TO KEEP PROMISES

"I will try to live up to everything I have promised you," he told his listeners in conclusion.

Even more tired-looking and apparently a bit overwhelmed by the strength of his defeat, Mayor Hugh Waddell had little to say about the result of the election, apart from congratulating his opponent who had "made a wonderful run and obtained a fine majority."

Like all the other candidates who spoke, Stanley McBride, who topped the list of aldermanic candidates, thanked those who had supported him in his campaign. The popular garage operator retained his habitual modesty and said only that he hoped to live up to the expectations of those who had voted for him.

Peterborough's first woman alderman, Mrs. Alene Holt took her successful bid to mean that the electors "evidently did want a woman on the council."

"You can rest assured I will do everything humanly possible to be a good alderman," she concluded.

PRAISE FOR WADDELL

Ald. Pat Anglesey, who became dean of city council as a result of his being re-elected to a fourth two-year term, had words of praise for Mayor Waddell in his defeat.

"I am sure he accepts the result as a gentleman," he said. "It has been a pleasure serving under him and I am sure the citizens are deeply grateful for his efforts."

Each of the successful aldermanic candidates was elected to a two-year term. Mayor-elect Graham was elected for one year. Sitting members of council who have another year remaining to their terms are Aldermen W. J. Beggs, A. B. Burrows, G. H. T. Farquharson, R. E. Knox and H. T. Rehill.

U. S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2⅝ per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 97 15-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.73¾, against $2.74⅛.

Fallis Elected Director Of National Dairy Council

TORONTO (CP)—W. K. St. John, executive secretary of the National Dairy Council of Canada, said Monday that all the milk produced in Canada could find a ready market at home if allowed to compete on a "fair price basis" with margarine. Mr. St. John told the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association: "It just does not make economic sense to export our milk on a subsidized basis so that it can compete on the world market when we have an almost unlimited potential market in Canada itself."

He said this so-called "two-price" system is unnecessary and unsound economic juggling.

F. L. Hart, Montreal dairy executive, predicted an increase in store-buying of milk and a greater use of paper cartons.

His predictions met with disagreement from L. M. Kesselring, dairy operator from Akron, O., who said the glass bottle in the one-quart size still is the best container yet devised for milk.

H. A. Thurston of Ottawa was elected association president.

Other officers elected include: O. E. Sinclair, London, and L. S. Chapple, Chatham, vice-presidents.

Twenty-two directors continue in office. In addition, six new directors were elected: Malcolm Smith, Arnprior; James Ross, Cornwall; H. Christenson, Hamilton; J. O. Cliff, Kingston; H. K. Fallis, Peterborough, William A. Reese, Sarnia.

Broadworth Back As Percy Reeve

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Veteran of the last two municipal elections, George Broadworth was returned as reeve of Percy township again Monday night. He edged his only opponent, Cecil Grills, by 136 votes.

The battle between 1953 councillors J. S. Atkinson and William Johnston for the deputy-reeveship saw Mr. Atkinson emerge as victor. He recorded 555 votes, 55 more than his opponent.

Councillors for the 1954 term will be Eric Merrill, member of this year's council, and newcomers James Hicks and Earl Nelson. Mr. Merrill's margin over the other two was less than 60 votes.

The trio combined to defeat two other aspirants, J. E. Edgar and Arthur Wartman.

Poll-by-poll, the returns are:

Wilson Settlement—Broadworth 50, Grills 11; Atkinson 48, Johnston 13; Merrill 49, Hicks 40; Nelson 16, Edgar 11, Wartman 13.

Cobourg Road—Broadworth 68, Grills 12; Atkinson 56, Johnston 18; Merrill 57, Hicks 42, Nelson 30, Edgar 13, Wartman 28.

Dutch Line — Broadworth 176, Grills 9; Atkinson 181, Johnston 7; Merrill 178, Hicks 177, Nelson 13, Edgar 5, Wartman 14.

Mrs. P. Rowell

The count for six polls was: Rowell 278, Craw 246, Huffman 241, McWilliam 216, Corbett 213 and Pitchford 175.

Mrs. Rowell received the most votes at No. 18, city hall, but Corbett carried No. 10, Sacred Heart School. He repeated at No. 5, May's School, and was emerging as a contender as the returns came in.

The standing at ten polls was: Rowell 611; Huffman 572, Craw 571, Corbett 525, McWilliam 465 and Pitchford 416.

With the next ten polls, Corbett had elbowed out in front of Craw, with Huffman in second place: Mrs. Rowell 1535, Huffman 1342, Corbett 1313, Craw 1247, McWilliam 1094, Pitchford 999.

CLIMBED TO SECOND

At 40 polls Corbett had climbed to second place, and by that time the ultimate order of the candidates was generally recognized: Mrs. Rowell 3766, Corbett 3377, Huffman 3265, Craw 3127, McWilliam 2688, Pitchford 2482.

The remaining polls confirmed that order. The contest for the Board lacked in the final stage the interest that fixed upon the contest between Mr. Powell and Mr. Tuggey for the fifth place in the board of aldermen.

In the South Ward, Mrs. Rowell was in front at ten polls and Corbett took five. The advance poll went to Craw.

In the Centre, Huffman captured one of the five polls. The others were in the Rowell column.

All the Ashburnham polls responded to Mrs. Rowell's candidature.

She also carried four in Claraday (south of Lansdowne St.), where Mr. Corbett received the local son support and favoritism at five. He also had the ward plurality.

Fifteen polls for Mrs. Rowell and one for Mr. Huffman was the slanting distribution in the north; and in the west Mr. Huffman led at two polls. Mrs. Rowell gathered up all the others—eleven.

on both sides of the Iron Curtain, including the Soviet Union.

The assembly recently urged its disarmament commission to make another stab at solving the arms issue, and called for big-power talks to break the East-West deadlock. Eisenhower's speech was expected to suggest a fresh approach to the problem of international atomic energy control.

Observers speculated it might spell an end to the Baruch plan, proposed to the UN seven years ago by Eisenhower's old friend, financier Bernard Baruch. This plan called for control by stages of atomic energy production throughout the world, leading eventually to international ownership of all atom plants.

Evidence of Soviet interest in the address was shown Monday by Russia's Jacob Malik, who broke his customary silence to ask reporters: "Have you got the text of Eisenhower's speech?"

Sunday's announcement of Eisenhower's decision to accept an invitation from Hammarskjold to address the assembly caught delegates by surprise. Chiefs of state have addressed the assembly before, but usually on some special occasion, or under arrangements made far in advance.

Mrs. Eisenhower Ill With Cold

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced today that Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower has cancelled all appointments because of a chest cold.

Her personal secretary, Mrs. Mary Jane McCaffery, described the illness was a bronchial condition.

FEMININE PSYCHOLOGY

One of the busmen heard a woman tell a companion this morning: "I was going to vote for Mr. Waddell. I wasn't greatly set about it, but that was in my mind. Then some woman telephoned me telling me I ought to vote for the Mayor, and just for that I decided to vote for Graham. When someone thinks they can tell me what to do, that's the time I'm likely to do the opposite."

"AIN'T DONE NUTHIN'"

The slightly bewildered 15-year-old did not really mind being asked by a policeman to sit down in what he considered was a waiting-room at the city hall Monday. However, when people began filing in and looking him over he began to get just a little worried. Someone explained to him that it was an identification parade. "But I ain't done nuthin," he exclaimed, really worried by now. "I ain't done nuthin' at all." Quite rightly he had not "done nuthin'," and it was a much relieved youngster that walked out of the lineup room a few minutes later.

OBITUARY

JOHN R. McDONALD

John R. McDonald, 1314 Clonsilla Ave., died today at St. Joseph's Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was the oldest son of the late Alfred McDonald, who was for years a prominent lumberman in this city. The mill was situated on George St., at Rink St., extending to the bank of the river at the narrows which were known as McDonald's Point.

Mr. McDonald, an accountant, leaves his wife; the former Mary Grace, and two sons, John of St. Catharines and James of St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, and two brothers, Douglas and Clare of Peterborough. Mr. McDonold was a member of St. Alphonsus' Church. The funeral announcement will be published later.

Found Hunting In Game Reserve

"If these babes in the wood will insist on wandering about with high-powered rifles and without a guide, then they shouldn t expect nurse-maids to run in after them" said Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw Q.C. in police court today when he led the prosecution against two men charged with being in possession of firearms in the Peterborough game reserve.

Charged were Keith Aiken and Hugh Aiken of Newcastle. They were apprehanded by Conservation officer Robert Trotter following investigations of a third man in the shooting party who had been lost on the reserve some 40 miles north of the city on Highway 28. Magistrate W. R. Philp, Q.C., fined Keith Aiken $50 and $12.28 costs, and Hugh Aiken $50 and $2.50 costs.

Trotter and deputy game warden Art Wilson told of a conservation they had had with Keith Aiken on November 8 when he had admitted hunting in the reserve. At the time however, he had not known it was a protected area and did not see any signs indicating it was. A snow storm had came up and the two Aikens had found their way out of the woods, but a third member of the party, Jack Gray of Newcastle, had been lost. The incident had been reported to the conservation officer.

The officer admitted under cross-examination that he had told accused that he had "better come clean" as a $50 fine was nothing to what a man's life was worth. Search parties had been formed and subsequent charges laid against the two defendants, who admitted firing "a couple of shots" while in the woods.

To Mr. Philp, the accused admitted his party had no knowledge of Peterborough district when they came here to shoot deer.

Mr. Philp suggested "you didn't know there was a game reserve here and you were in complete ignorance of what you were doing"

"Yes Sir"

"You didn't bother to hire a guide?"

"No Sir"

"In fact you didn't have any right to go wandering about at all did you?" There was no answer.

"What makes you think you are not guilty?" further asked the magistrate.

"Because we were in strange country and saw no signs", replied the accused.

The magistrate ruled that ignorance of the law was no excuse; that those sections of the law were like rules of the road, that is, mandatory to the law.

Says UK Would Allow More Investment

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian-born member of Parliament said today he thinks the British treasury would be willing to allow an ever-greater rate of investment in Canada than it has already authorized.

E. H. C. (Ted) Leather, 34-year-old member for Somerset North, said in a letter to The Daily Telegraph that he believes the dollars are there if British business wants them.

"It is not the government which has applied a brake (on British investment in Canada). It has been United Kingdom business and industry; and it is a situation which should be given earnest examination if permanent dominance by United States business over the Canadian industrial scene is to be avoided.

Leather was born in Toronto and grew up in Hamilton. He came to the United Kingdom after the Second World War with the avowed aim of entering British politics.

136th YEAR IS RECORD

B of M HEAD STRESSES NEW NEED FOR SALESMANSHIP, EFFICIENCY, REALISM

Gordon Ball Sees Keener Competition and Return of Normal Hazards of Enterprise

ARTHUR JENSEN, GENERAL MANAGER, PRESENTS RECORD STATEMENT, REVIEWS BUSINESS OUTLOOK, PRAISES PERSONNEL

Keener competition and the return of normal hazards of enterprise were given as reasons for a renewed emphasis on salesmanship, efficiency and sober realism in business by Gordon R. Ball, president of the Bank of Montreal, at its 136th annual meeting of shareholders.

In reviewing the Canadian business picture during the past year, the B of M president said that "we seem to have passed from a situation in which nearly all business influences were buoyant to one in which the normal hazards of enterprise are once more apparent."

"The business landscape," he said, "has begun to show a more varied pattern of light and shade. Some industries, particularly those dependent on export markets, have been encountering difficulties. Competition has been keener, both in domestic and foreign trade."

Mr. Ball maintained that, while these developments did not justify a gloomy view of Canada's prospects, they did suggest the need for "a healthy awareness that boom conditions of easy selling and easy profits are subsiding."

"I am still an optimist," he said, "regarding Canada's future, but sensible optimism includes a candid recognition that the immediate prospect places a renewed emphasis on salesmanship, efficiency and sober realism."

More Intensive and Economic Use of Resources

The speaker saw in the improvement that had taken place during the past year in the sphere of international trade and finance "a great opportunity for further bold advances towards more intensive and economic use of resources."

He felt it would be tragic if, just at the time when military and political defences of nations of goodwill were being strengthened, the economic gains of the recent past were to be lost.

"It is up to all of us, in all countries, who stand with private enterprise to demonstrate here and now that the system that we rightly believe produces most and contributes most fully to well-being does not inevitably beget periods of slump and mass unemployment.

"That, as I see it, is the great and immediate challenge of the present day. And that challenge will not be met if the bogey of over-production should drive individual nations behind the barricades of high tariffs and intensified restrictions."

Mr. Ball saw the need of the immediate future as the speedy furtherance of trade policies based fundamentally on recognition of three facts: first, that the welfare of the free nations is inter-dependent; second, that the objective of "trade not aid" can be achieved only with the full realization that trade is a two-way process; and, third, that it is idle to talk of enduring peace without deliberate measures designed to help less fortunate countries to help themselves by giving them a fair chance to sell in external markets.

Canada's Responsibilities in World Trade

In discussing Canada's responsibilities in the development of international trade, Mr. Ball said: "We must see to it that the words "Made in Canada" continue to be as they have become, a hallmark of good value. This is much more than a matter of governmental trade policy. It is a charge on Canadians in general, and on labor and management alike, to improve efficiency and to exercise moderation and restraint in wage and price demands. It is clear that in the nedeavour to maintain and expand markets, both abroad and at home, the test will be the price tag.

Touching on the matter of banking accommodation to business, Mr. Ball told his audience that "the business of lending money and getting it back, always an important aspect of a bank's activities, presents particular problems at a time such as the present."

"In a period of rapid expansion such as we have been experiencing," he observed, "there are always more than the normal number of people who are apt to formulate plans beyond their capacity to achieve and who are inclined to confuse the distinction between speculation on the one hand and the well considered risks of soundly conceived enterprise on the other.

"It is a time, therefore, that places particular problems on the analytical ability and common sense of our branch managers and other officers who are daily confronted with the requests of borrowers large and small.

"Our definition of 'constructive' assistance does not include the financing of projects where the basic fundamentals of creditworthiness appear to be lacking. Such open - handed financing would would be an ill service to the community, to our shareholders and, not least, to the would-be borrower himself."

General Manager Presents Record Report

Arthur C. Jensen, general manager, presented the bank's 136th annual statement, showing deposits, loans and total resources at the highest figures on record, with earnings moderately up from the 1952 level.

A matter of special interest which he discussed was the further strengthening of the bank's rest fund by $7 million. Of this amount $2 million represented a transfer from profit and loss account, while the balance of $5 million had been transferred from contingency reserve. This latter sum derived in part from the refundable portion of Excess profits tax paid during the war and in part from reserves established for certain specific purposes for which reserves were no longer considered necessary.

Commenting on the rise in the bank's current loans to a new high of $787 million, the general manager pointed out that "the increase of $124 million is considerable and, while it reflects the additional funds required to finance the large carryover of wheat as well as some increase in the consumer credit field, most sectors of our loaning business are in higher figures than at the end of the last fiscal year."

Mr. Jensen referred to the recent proposal by the Federal Government to empower the chartered banks to lend money against mortgage security for new housing. "I think I should perhaps say that, for our part, we are examining the proposal with a co-operative and open mind, particularly in view of those features that provide for insurance of mortgages and eligibility of such mortgages for rediscount at the Bank of Canada."

Scant Evidence of Downturn in Business

In concluding his review of business conditions, the general manager referred to the commonly heard suggestion that 1954 might witness some slowing down in Canada's progress. "Certainly, if there is any appreciable or prolonged slackening of business activities in the United States," he said, "it is only to be expected that the effects will be felt in this country.

"It is not my purpose here to attempt to prophesy, but rather to paint in the economic background against which the bank's annual report is presented. Whatever the coming year may have in store, however, it is worth emphasizing that there is as yet scant evidence of any general or sharp downturn in the pace of business."

Mr. Jensen praised the bank's staff for their performance in meeting the high volume of business. He explained that the bank was continuing to develop its mechanization program to the maximum practical degree to assist the staff in handling the immense volume of work, and that it was likewise keeping under constant review all matters relating to the welfare of the staff.

"Nobody conversant with the full range of banking," the general manager said, "can avoid the conclusion that it is a complicated and demanding business requiring careful thought, hard work, imagination and particular attributes of character.

"But banking is also a challenging and fascinating occupation in which the banker, perhaps more than most other businessmen, sees the whole panorama of trade. And in few other callings does the personal element play so vital a part. You will realize, therefore, why I am very conscious of the splendid contribution to the success of the bank made by the managers of our branches and their supporting personnel, as it is on their efforts that the continued progress of every branch depends."

Hold Worker For Murder

REGINA (CP)—Joseph Cossette, 27-year-old construction worker, was held on a murder charge today and accused of the rape-slaying of little Irene Mooney.

Cossette, from Coderre, Sask., was due to appear in magistrate's court here today. The murder charge was laid Monday night after he surrendered to RCMP at Radville, about 75 miles south of Regina.

Police said he confessed to the slaying of the six-year-old girl.

She was found strangled and raped Saturday night in a laneway at Ogema, 10 miles west of Radville, shortly after she left her grandparents' home to buy a brick of ice cream.

New Scientific Attack Being Planned On Housefly

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new scientific attack on the housefly, aimed to hit him in the intestines, was reported today to the Entomological Society of America.

First steps in the offensive are to find out how the fly converts his food into energy and cell-building material. When the facts about housefly digestion are determined, insect-fighters will know more precisely about where and how to do the hitting.

One of the new findings is that houseflies have in their systems pepsin, an enzyme which helps meat-eating animals to digest protein.

Dr. Bernard Greenberg of the University of Kansas reported the pepsin discovery, adding that the new finding means there is less difference between flies and the higher animals than previously realized. It means also that the housefly may be vulnerable to new and different forms of chemical attack.

Another similar finding was reported by Dr. W. Chefurka of the Dominion experimental station at London, Ont. Dr. Chefurka said he had determined the steps by which houseflies break down carbohydrates. This involves a whole series of chemical changes, one or more of which may constitute an invitation for some other scientist to utilize some simple substance as a lethal weapon against the pest.

DDT FAILING

These and related researches have been brought about by the realization that DDT and other new compounds are not going to exterminate the housefly. Flies have become increasingly resistant to these chemicals.

Dr. George C. Decker of the Illinois natural history survey said the battle against insects is far from won.

Despite the new chemicals, he asserted, the total weight of insects reduced each year exceeds the weight of all other animal life produced in the same time.

A Vote Of Protest

The decision in yesterday's municipal elections which gave Peterborough a new Mayor and brought some new blood to the City Council, must be interpreted as a vote of protest. Mr. Norman Graham's campaign, in which he made charges of laxity against several city departments, was obviously successful, and some of the vote was a vote for a clean-up campaign. An important element in defeating Mayor Waddell was the new assessment, the effect of which still appears to be widely misunderstood. There can be no mistake that these opinions are widely held in every part of the city; almost every poll showed changes pointing in the same direction. The 1954 City Council will go into office with a mandate to reform city business.

* * *

The new Mayor and Council will have one strong element in their favour which will make itself felt early in the year. The effect of the re-assessment, which raises the assessment on many properties, is to raise the total assessment as well, and this will reduce the taxes of many property-holders. Because public memory is short, and because so many people have shown themselves unable to understand the simple arithmetic of the re-assessment, this will reflect favourably on the new city administration. Happy indeed is the Council which inherits a plum like this from its predecessor.

* * *

The question of city reform is one which will not be so easily dealt with. City government, like every form of democratic government, relies heavily upon a group of permanent officials, without whose goodwill and cooperation changes are difficult. It is also a fact that the 1954 Council will contain many members who may have small appetite for changes. Without a scandal of considerable size to alter their minds, they may resist change stubbornly, and the lot of the reformer may be a tedious and laborious one.

* * *

We offer our congratulations to mayor-elect Graham, to aldermen-elect McBride, Holt, Anglesey, Dewart and Powell, and also to Mrs. Rowell, and Messrs. Corbett, Huffman, Craw and McWilliam, who will complete the Board of Education next year. We wish them all every success and will, as always, keep our readers apprised of their deliberations and acts.

$3,102,004 Collected, $2,469,523 Spent

The Canadian National European Flood Relief Fund has presented an interim statement of its contributions, disbursements and activities. It is a gratifying reflections of Canadian generosity and sympathy that a sum total of $3,102,004 was contributed to the relief of Dutch and British victims of the coastal flooding last year. The largest single sum was given on behalf of the people of Canada by the Federal Government—one million dollars.

Of the Provinces, Ontario made the largest contribution — $699,400 from general contributors, a hundred thousand by the Ontario Government. Next highest, but far less, was the total contribution of $303,844 by Quebec—$35,000 by the Quebec Government, $268,844 by general contributors. This latter figure would have been small indeed had not one anonymous donor living in that Province contributed $200,000 in Government bonds. Thus the other private contributions in Quebec amounted to only $68,844, compared with Ontario people's $699,400.

It is interesting that of British Columbia's contribution of $226,753 for the relief of European flood victims, $100,000 came out of the 1950 B. C. Flood Fund. Obviously the money raised and contributed for the relief and rehabilitation of British Columbian victims of spring floods that year was more than needed.

Reading between the lines of the Canadian Red Cross Society report on the disbursements of the Canadian National European Flood Relief Fund (which the Red Cross is administering), one guesses that the spending of the $3,102,004 collected in Canada has not been simple. The total, expenditures and commitments at the time the interim report was made this fall left a residue of $632,481. Of this the Honorary Secretary says: "It is anticipated that, with the onset of winter there may be further requirements from Great Britain and the Netherlands, and for this reason it is impracticable to complete the operation at the present time". We expect that if the anticipated need does arise, (and what relief could it be, at this late date, that flood victims now need?) $656,250 left over will not be disbursed merely for the sake of getting rid of the money.

The $2,469,523 already disbursed seem to have been spent carefully and in useful ways and places. Last week the largest individual shipment of relief supplies sent to the Netherlands sailed aboard the merchant ship Prins Willem III from the port of Toronto. Goods already sent include linen and household suplies, clothing, and emergency kits. There were two special "projects"—the sending of household textiles to 3,600 Dutch families; and the provision of farm tools and agriculture machinery. These supplies were purchased from Canadian manufacturers. The operating costs of the Relief Fund were low through the offices of the Red Cross and the co-operation of Canadian railways, steamships and air lines who transported much of the material free of charges. Among the items shipped from Canada to The Netherlands were $11,225 worth of outboard motors.

Total disbursements on account of British flood victims amounted to $1,198,550, and to Dutch flood victims $1,254,360. Total expenses of administering the $2,469,523 disbursements were only $16,155.

We Rear Them Ourselves

Not all the no-goods, the petty thieves and the jailbirds picked up in this district and sentenced by Peterborough courts are people who have drifted into this area from elsewhere. An unflattering number of them are home-grown products. Peterborough has raised them itself, in the county, surrounding villages or in the city. They have been reared by Peterborough mothers and fathers, sent to Peterborough schools, and had available to them the churches, clubs, societies and other facilities which have sustained and nutured other Peterborough boys and girls.

One thing common to the others which many of the home-grown criminals, rowdies and wastrels have not had, is a solicitous, secure home. We refer not merely to the kind of house they have lived in. Often the no-goods have had as roomy houses, as much household money available, and lived in the same section, as people who have turned out to be good and sound citizens. The difference has been in the home life. Children brought up by indifferent parents, squabbling, wasteful, and careless mothers and fathers have got off to a poor start. You see family names recurring in our court news; and you are not surprised when the son of X or Y comes, in his generation, into police hands.

Why should this be? Have we not enough welfare agencies? Are the living standards not good enough? Do the parents lack for money properly to attend their children? No. We think the explanation lies as much in the lack of intelligence in the parents, as in their carelessness of parental duties. They do not have brains enough to raise their children properly, and not enough, either, to hand the responsibility over to some agency which could do a much better job for and by the children. And so the son of X reaches the age of seventeen or eighteen, and begins a life whose pattern was established by the shiftlessness and brainlessness of his parents. And, poor fellow, he himself has probably not enough wit to realize that his petty thieving or his first act of criminal violence is stupid, and he himself no smarter than his irresponsible parents.

Meter Stroller

Peterborough now has 727 parking meters, 41 of which are double-headed coin-takers, and 150 are on the market square. Collecting the pennies and nickels from these machines lining all down-town streets has become a big job for the policemen doing it. So the Police Department has bought a sort of go-cart for the constables patrolling the posts. It seems to be a hybrid between a golf club cart and a baby-stroller, with a maw instead of a baby between the wheels. Coins are pushed out of the meter into this contraption's funnel and down into its box.

What interests us, really, is not the superstructure but the fact that it has wheels. Do these mean that when winter comes the civic authorities will have to clear the piled snow away from meters and parking spots? Not, of course, for the sake of car drivers coming in to land, but for the policeman with his stroller. He cannot push wheels up mounds of snow to the meter any better than a car can come close to it when snow blocks the way.

Strange are ways of progress. One minor improvement leads to another and bigger one. If snow must be cleared away for the constable's copper-cart, so it will be cleared for the car driver at the meter.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A Guelph man has been fined $50 for flying while drunk. No doubt he was higher than a kite.

Bishop Barnes of Birmingham, leader of a radical and modernist element in the Church of England, is dead, and amid the sighs of grief we think we detect a few which suggest relief.

London Airport

By SIR HUGH CASSON

THE BUS is bound for London Airport, its passengers not travellers but rubber-necking architects. The atmosphere is thus cheerful, facetious, and mercifuly free from the melancholy that attacks every voyager as he nears the point of departure. This time at least we were not prisoners, enforced members of a group in the composition of which we have had no say. Snug, therefore, in the moquette-lined belly of our coach, our eyes unclouded by travelangst, we watch the landscape of the Great West Road dribble by—the filling-stations, the cosmetic factory, the used-car lots, the billboard advertising—could it have been?—"Dawn Glamour and her Glamazons." It was hardly any different from any city of the Western World. The villas began to thin out. Huge aircraft shadows flitted occasionally across the road and then suddenly—how unfailingly poignant is this to the traveller's eye—the first shapely tail fins, appeared, striped and numbered, riding proudly above the grey furrowed roofs of the hutting in which the airport services are housed. Untidy? Undignified? Perhaps, but how apt and basically efficient is this airport architecture that lets itself be dominated by the aircraft it serves. The passenger leaves without reluctance the makeshift accommodation on the ground and welcomes with relief the trim and ordered elegance of the machine that is to take him on his way. Even the architect, dreaming of his marble concourses and luggage escalators, lets in the disroyal suspicion that perhaps this—the "temporary" way— is psychologically, as well as economically, better than those grandiose terminals now under erection at airports all over the world.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE STOP to report our arrival and gaze wistfully in at the Departure Hall. Yes, all is as usual . . . the rather grubby pastel-coloured walls hung with lively pictures from the A.I.A. . . . the brisk Roedean voice issuing its orders over the loudspeakers . . . the usual passengers, so unlike the carnationed elegants of the advertisements, in their soiled mackintoshes and battered felt hats . . . the wrist-watch glancing . . . the eyes reading and rereading with assumed nonchalance the same sentence in the magazine. Reluctantly we are borne away—the magic names . . . Rome . . . Karachi . . . Singapore . . . Bermuda . . . fade from our ears, and we are swept off to the eastern perimeter, where for many months the huge hangar hulk has stood cradled and, it seemed, abandoned in its web of scaffolding. As we approach its forms crystallise, and its monster scale becomes more apparent. At last we draw up beneath its towering flanks that cut a great grey rectangle in the sky.

✧ ✧ ✧

LET IT be said right away that this is one of the most remarkable buildings of the century—not merely in size, in the daring of its unsupported spans, in technical ingenuity, but in its determined, almost ruthless God-damn attitude both to us and to its surroundings. Four square and arrogant, it might be of any age and in any country. The Italians would have done it more gracefully, the French more economically, the Americans more quickly . . . but nobody else surely could have done it so single-mindedly.

✧ ✧ ✧

ITS PLAN is simple—four vast hangars, symmetrically placed around a centre cross of multi-storied workshops, offices and stores. A web of reinforced concrete and glass is spun across the whole expanse, and the hangar doors—some 300 feet across—are guarded by great counterweighted and cantilevered arches. Everything—structure, roof-trusses, crane-tracks, staircase, balusters and drainage grilles—is of reinforced concrete, a material long beloved by the designer, Sir Owen Williams, and here handled with experienced ferocity. The choice of this material here is officially explained by the shortage of steel when plans were drawn up; but this is surely—to a non-engineer, at least—nonsense. Concrete is so heavy that surely there must be almost as much metal locked up in this building—much of it holding its own concrete up—as in a more orthodox structure. No, the choice I am convinced must have been a romantic one—the choice of an artist for his medium—and as such it must be judged.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE CROSS the workshop—an echoing crypt with its strange Japanese-like pillars—and mount the stairs to the top-floor canteen, fifty yards across, 200 yards long, without a single intervening column to disturb the eye. A red November sunset closes appropriately the west end, which is still open to the sky. Of course, we all say, it's ludicrous, mad, brutal, uneconomic, insensate, . . . but how glorious to see in a designer such mastery over material, such abounding sense of delight (I nearly wrote mischief), such refusal to compromise or to refine. How splendid to see "a building with a tune," that belongs to no school of thought, and whose designer, therefore, is an individual and not a slave.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVEN THE most logical of our company could not forbear to cheer. Details are explained, drawings unrolled to tear desperately at the fingers like sails in a squall. But it's difficult to listen or to concentrate. It was noticeable that even here, in the very heart of this concrete Colosseum, the circling aircraft overhead were still the stars of the show, the eye was always diverted from the architecture at the sound of their approach. And so, as we started to descend again, the niggling doubts began to increase in number and strength. Was it, for all its grandeur, perhaps too big, too ponderous, too brutal? There is always an air of doom about a leviathan. There seems to be a point more visible to the outsider than to those closely concerned, at which a project becomes more of a monument to the faith and perseverance of its creator than a work of art to be treasured, a moment when pity takes the place of awe. And surely for aircraft in particular such permanent construction, such heavy-footedness, is hopelessly out of place?

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE DOES NOT build sheds for ocean liners and thus dwarf their own drama and surely aircraft can be more economically groomed and tended—perhaps by movable protected workshops?—than in these monster arks? Such questions are for experts to answer. For the romantic amateur the suspicion with which we started remains—that pompous terminal buildings however ingeniously planned, and mammoth hangars, however monumentally designed, are inappropriate, inflexible uneconomic, and—may one say it?—inartistic. Let them be built elsewhere if they are needed—in city centres or on servicing-aerodromes—and let the final point of departure be from the flying-field, flat, windswept, cross-gartered with the infinite perspectives of runways and rimmed by the horizon itself—a kingdom over which the aircraft can rule unchallenged like the queens they are, and where the buildings, low and lightly built, can be moved, extended and altered as the changing needs demand. Or is all this romantic nonsense . . . merely a nostalgia for the little field of the twenties with its windsock and its tiny shed, and for those lonely airfields of the war where, hooded and tethered like hawks against the weather, the aircraft waited for their next release? Perhaps. Let the discomfort anyway remain pricking in the mind, and let the eye be grateful for having looked upon a crazy masterpiece.

AN AMERICAN OPINION

New Broom For The Philippines

By O. M. GREEN

THE overwhelming victory of Mr. Ramon Magsaysay, the Nationalist candidate in the Philippines Presidential elections, is clear proof of a mass revolt of the Filipinos against the corruption, maladministration and neglect of urgently-needed reforms which have prevailed under Liberal rule since the war.

Even before all the country votes had been totted up in Manila, the capital, President Quirino was obliged to concede victory. His long experience, astuteness and grip on the administration (he has been President since 1948) were powerless in the face of social disparities: on the one hand the sumptuous luxury of the privileged few; and on the other the poverty and unemployment of the many who live in squalor behind Manila's imposing new buildings put up since the war; and the unrelieved misery of the downtrodden peasants.

Now it will be for the Nationalists to make good their promise to wipe away the people's grievances; and there can be no doubt that Mr. Magsaysay will wholeheartedly devote himself to the task.

By nature, Magsaysay is voluble, magnetic and a tireless worker. Originally of the Liberal Party, he was appointed Minister of Defence by Quirino in 1951, and soon gained a reputation for integrity and sincerity. He reformed the Army into a small, compact defence force; used it in the Parliamentary elections of 1951 to repress intimidation, with good effect on public order; and then turned it upon the Hukbalahap rebellion (originally a revolt of the peasants against the landlords, which was later taken charge of by Communists) with striking success. What was still more striking was the clemency and liberality with which he treated the defeated Huks, with the result that by the beginning of this year the rebellion was virtually broken.

Then, for reasons never made clear, President Quirino called off the operations against the Huks possibly the landlords were afraid of what Magsaysay (who had by now won the admiration and affection of all the common people) might do to them.

At the close of February Magsaysay resigned from both the Defence Ministry and the Liberal Party, announcing bitterly that it was useless to attempt to fight Communism while the Government's corruption and indifference to all reform created fertile soil for its growth.

Apart from Mr. Magsaysay's personal popularity, and the confidence that is felt in him, he has had a powerful supporter in General Carlos Romulo, whose reputation as statesman and dashing guerrilla leader during the Japanese occupation stands high. Brought back from Washington, where he was Ambassador, by the Liberals as the best candidate they could put up against Magsaysay, Romulo, after some hesitation, left the Liberals to support Magsaysay, and has fought energetically for him all through the electoral campaign.

There is no doubt that Mr. Magsaysay's victory will be welcome in Washington. In 1950, when the Liberals' reckless extravagance had brought the Philippines to the verge of bankruptcy, the United States Government was forced to come to the rescue after the scathing report of the so-called Bell Commission of inquiry sent to the Philippines.

The Bell Commission advised further help of 250 million dollars to be spread over five years, conditional on drastic reforms—reduction of taxation, purging of the Administration, and above all land reform and protection for the peasants from the heartless grip of landlords and moneylenders. How little has been done in the way of reform can be judged from Magsaysay's victory.

Occupation and misgovernment are no novelty in the Philippines, where power has long been centred in a small aristocracy of mixed Philipino and Spanish ancestry. Can the new President break this power? He will certainly try hard to do so.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then the Pharisees went out, and held a council against him, how they might destroy him. But when Jesus knew it, he withdrew himself from thence: and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all . . .

Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw . . . But when the Pharisees heard it, they said. This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: and if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad. (Matt. 12: 14, 15. 22, 24-30.)

Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created. (Rev. 4:11.)

The Guest Speaker

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Perhaps we are a bit prejudiced, but it seems to us that at annual meetings, when guest speakers have yet to be heard, business discussions could be kept to a minimum. Unfortunately many of these annual meetings are long, dragged-out affairs that leave the members hardly in a fit frame of mind to settle back and listen to the speaker's address.

Not only is such a practice a long and tedious chore for the members who are present—but it is a bit unfair to the guest speaker. In the majority of cases this speaker gives his time free of charge and it can only be considered a lack of consideration on the part of the chairman of the meeting to allow the general business to ramble on while the audience and speaker grow more and more restless.

We have reported at meetings where the speaker has looked even more bored and uncomfortable than we felt. We have been in complete sympathy with him when, on finally being allowed to rise to his feet, he has stated that "because of the lateness of the hour and the prolonged business of the meeting" he has decided to cut his remarks to the minimum. Usually it is the more interesting of speakers who find it necessary; bores, unfortunately, drone on into the night —until even the chairman has been put to sleep!

A BRITISH OPINION

HOW RED WAS RED RIDING HOOD?

FURTHER to that inquiry by Mrs. Thomas J. White, adviser to the Indianapolis Education Board, about the politics of our Robin Hood, I place at her disposal the following political colour guide in shades of RED, PINK, and BLUE, assuring her that the few legendary or nursery rhyme characters picked at random from the files represent an accurate cross-section.

I fear that with few exceptions people like Robin Hood, Cinderella, Jack and the Beanstalk all had a very definite leaning towards the Left at some time or other if they were not completely "Commie," and stand a thin chance of ever getting further into the U.S. than Ellis Island.

NOW

STARTING with Robin Hood: We mark him RED. Very red—red as a geranium. "Commie" as they come. And no nonsense about it.

CINDERELLA: PINK. Pink because, although she started off as fine Communist material with an excellent down-trodden, working-class background, she fell for the first opportunity of becoming a capitalist by marrying a prince. They are reported to have lived happily ever afterwards—whether by Cinderella's fireside or in the prince's palace history does not say. So it's a PINK for Cinderella.

Beanstalk boy

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK: BLUE. He too, according to some people, could have made a useful "Commie," squandering other people's cows and things for a few beans for himself. But he gets a BLUE because, when he eventually finished up very rich by climbing beanstalks and stealing wealthy giants' cash, there was none of this give-it-to-the-poor business. He and his old mother stuck to the lot.

BLACK SHEEP (Ba Ba): PINK. Because we think he was one of these "on the fence" clients. We're told he gave "one for the master and one for the dame," but we're also told that he gave "one for the little boy who lived down the lane," and we don't know whether the little boy was rich or poor, a member of the Young Tories or Young Communists. Nor do we know whether the wool he was handing out belonged to him (the Black Sheep) or was fleeced from other members of the flock.

OLD KING COLE: RED. We don't know much about him except that he called for his fiddlers three, which could mean anything. But when you don't know what a person's politics are if you're a BLUE you call him a RED, and vice versa.

SIMPLE SIMON: I don't know what colour he was. Unless the fact that he wanted something for nothing gives us a clue.

GOLDILOCKS: Must be BLUE. When you think of Goldilocks you associate her with bears, and when you think of bears you think of Bulls, Bears and Bulls—stockbrokers—Stock Exchange—of course she must be a BLUE.

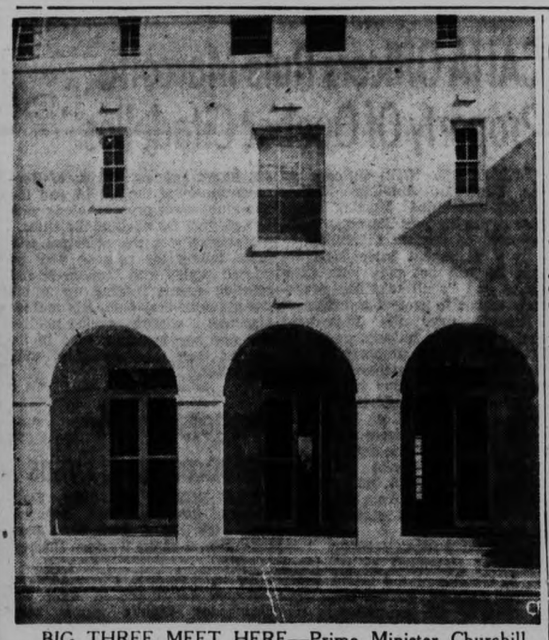
Contrary girl



MARY (had a little lamb): I suppose the lamb was all right, with a fleece as white as snow, but there are so many conflicting versions about Mary, most of which make her a very shady character indeed. So to be on the safe side we'll call her a RED.

LITTLE BOY BLUE: BLUE.

LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD: Well, of course, if you go around calling yourself "Little Red" this, that, or the other. . . .

BIG THREE MEET HERE—Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel are meeting here at the Mid Ocean Club at Tucker's Town, Bermuda. These doors lead to the conference room where the formal talks are being held. The Mid Ocean Club, on the eastern end of Bermuda, is tommy-gun guarded and has been sealed off with barbed wire.

One Of Troubles With Reds Won't Go Home

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the difficulties in dealing with Communists is that they won't go home, J. M. Macdonnell (PC — Toronto Greenwood) said Monday in the Commons.

He recalled that during the war he belonged to the Civil Liberties Association in Toronto.

". . . I am quite sure the fact that I belonged to it is going to get me in trouble one day; and possibly I might join that noble army of martyrs who are suspected of having been Communist because . . . there were Communists in this. . . association. . . .

STAY LATER

"I found out that Communists would stay later at meetings than anybody else. . . I have reminded myself of the terrible nights that we stayed hour after hour at the civil liberties' meetings that I came almost to hate because of the extreme discomfort of having to stay there because the Communists were there and they stayed and stayed in the hope that they would tire the rest of us out and then they would be able to do their deadly work. . . ."

Everyone Eligible Went To Polls

DUBLIN (CP) — Everyone who could walk and was eligible to vote went to the polls here Monday to pick a village trustee board.

There were 140 voters listed. One hundred and thirty five votes were cast. Five residents were reported sick in bed.

The results: G. Holland 80 votes; Charles Friend 79; Pat Maloney 75; Joseph Looby 71.

In last year's election Mr. Looby missed his seat on the board by the same five-vote margin.

Search For Thugs

STRATFORD (CP)—Police are searching for three men who a London man said beat and robbed him of $50 Saturday night. John Grattan, 54, said the three took his wallet and pushed him from a car on a country road after he had met them in a tavern. Grattan suffered face cuts.

Freight Cars Stray

OTTAWA (CP) — Four railway freight cars strayed on to west-end Broad street Monday night, wrecking one parked automobile and damaging another. The freight cars were shunted off the end of a yard line and plowed 165 feet across the street. Damage was estimated at some $600.

Sailor Feared Drowned

JOHNSTOWN (CP)—Albert Deslauriers of Hull, Que., is believed to have drowned Monday when he fell into the St. Lawrence river at the loading dock here. Deslauriers and other crew members of the S.S. Lornedoc were returning to their ship when the accident occurred.

ARCTIC NEIGHBORS—Santa Claus is introduced for the first time to two persons who live geographically on his doorstep. It didn't take Manielar and her baby boy long to get to know the man in the red suit and the white whiskers. The two Eskimos met Santa in a Winnipeg hospital, after being flown south from Coral Harbor, 1,100 miles north of Winnipeg.

Investigating Claim In Loss Of Wages

TORONTO (CP)—R. H. Saunders chairman of the Ontario hydro electric power commission, said Monday that he is investigating a claim that 327 employees will lose $35,000 in wages during the commission's frequency changeover.

Eamon Park, an official of the United Steelworkers Union, said the wages would be lost by employees of the John Inglis Company, during the two-week changeover period. He asked Mr. Saunders if the commission is willing to assume the loss.

Mr. Park said hydro has pledged that the cost of conversion could be met out of reserves.

Youth Accidently Shot

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Walter Westacott, 17, of nearby Port Stanley was accidentally shot Monday by a .22-calibre rifle in the hands of a hunting companion. The youth was brought to hospital here for an emergency operation. Police said he and two other Port Stanley youths were hunting along a beach when a bullet hit him in the neck.

House Allows Withdrawal Of Resolution

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Monday permitted the withdrawal of a resolution favoring pensions for disabled persons after CCF and Social Credit members objected.

The Rev. D. McIvor (L—Fort William), who placed the resolution on the order paper, asked that it be withdrawn because the government has announced it plans legislation on disability pensions.

Mr. McIvor said similar resolutions had been introduced for several years and he thanked the government for adopting the idea this session.

DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) said it is a "dangerous precedent" to allow a member to withdraw a resolution after debating it.

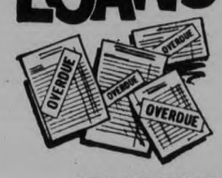
M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said the government's decision on pensions for the disabled is not yet before the House. Debate on Mr. McIvor's resolution would allow members to ask for better pensions than planned by the government.

Health Minister Martin said a debate might prejudice negotiations to be held with the provinces.

First Woman Elected As London Alderman

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Never underestimate the power of woman!

For the first time in London's history, a woman has been elected alderman., And for the first time, a woman running in civic election race was backed by the local council of women. Mrs. Edwin Fullerton toppled the city's record of a womanless city council when she was elected alderman for ward 2 Monday.



Defeating her closest contestant by 221 votes she will join Norman Bradford, who headed the poll to represent her ward.

More than 250 women from all parts of the city supported Mrs. Fullerton to victory in one of the most highly-organized feminine campaigns London has ever experienced.

Junior Petes Victorious Over Lindsay By 7-2 To Tie For Top Position

Flashing fine form here last night, the Young Petes downed Lindsay 7-2 in an OHA junior "B" fixture before a few hundred fans. Their victory (the fourth in seven starts) puts them in a tie with the Scugog squad on top of the scattered group. Red Creighton's crew travel to Midland for a game tonight. The locals rolled to a 2-0 lead in the first period, were in front 4-1 to end the second and finished strong for a 3-1 scoring edge in the third. They were peppering Goalie Kemp of Lindsay at the final gong of a speedy struggle. Strict officiating by Referee Maurice Walsh, who doled out 11 penalties a side, kept the contest generally clean.

SCORED THREE

Kevin Heffernan paced the Peterborough attack with three goals and an assist. Gord Coyle had a goal and two assists, and Bill Twist also shone with a marker and a helper. Blake Uren and Gary Kearns notched one each, while an assist apiece went to Doris, Hook and Byrne. The losers' tallies were by Traux and Pearson, the latter going off in the third with an injured leg. Petes were minus Bud McDougall, out with an injury.

Goalie Bob Delahaye turned in a stellar chore between the home pipes, and his defence labored lustily to give him good protection. The forwards went smoothly both ways, finishing off some neat passing plays to give Kemp little chance in the other cage. The Young Petes looked sharp in their new double-blue uniforms.

Heffernan and Burns were back from penalties when Heffernan from Coyle scored on a passup, partial breakaway and fine finish. O'Neill, Frizzelle and Graham in turn served minor penalties but were in action when Heffernan again took a Coyle passup on a partial breakaway to sweep in fast and blink the light. Williams went over for interference at 19.18.

A FAST MARKER

He was still off in the second when Twist got a quickie in a scramble. McGill and Doris drew early minor penalties, and later Pue went over. Twist returned from a minor penalty and, after Gardner got the finger, Twist was gated again as he and Cochrane drew the official ire for cross-checking. Each side was shy a man when Coyle slammed in a passout on a play with Heffernan and Byrne. Graham got the air next, followed by Kearns, both being away when Pearson tallied for Lindsay on a speedy solo, pulling the goalie out.

Burns and Kearns were waved over to open the third for high-sticking, Byrne following for interference. Two were back when Teel got it for tripping and, when Cochrane joined him, Uren cashed in for a fast goal from Hook. With all back, Truax tore through for Lindsay's last marker. O'Neill was off for tripping when Heffernan notched his third marker on a slap of Twist's passout. O'Neill returned and Kearns wound up the lamp-lighting in a scramble to bat in Doris' shot. Pue went over the wall for tripping near the finish of a lively tussle.

Lindsay: Goal, Kemp; defence, O'Neill and McGill; centre, Graham; wings, Growden and Pearson; Alternates: Teel, Cochrane, Troux, Burns, Crawford, Parker, Lucas, Hutton and W. Williams.

Peterborough: Goal Delahaye; defence, Frizzelle and Byrne; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle and Heffernan; Alternates: Kearns, Gardner, Doris, Uren, Hook, Ferguson, Pue and Ball.

Referee M. Walsh; Linesman, B. Kingdon.

U.S. Soccer Team Leads English League

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—A team of United States soccer players is plugging away at the top of an English amateur league, and soccer-mad locals are blinking their eyes in amazement.

The team causing all the fuss is the Burtonwood Gunners, formed from United States Air Force men at the Burtonwood base in northern England.

They have played 23 games and lost only twice—in exhibition. In league games they boast a 100-percent record. They have scored 95 goals against 38 in nine league matches.

"We started the season as a novelty," Capt. Ted Zitrick, personnel officer of Burtonwood, said. "Now we're a threat and in a strong position to win the championship of our division—and no longer a novelty."

BRAVES BUY OUTFIELDER

NEW YORK (AP)—Chicago Cubs said Monday they have sold George Metkovich, 32-year-old outfielder, to Milwaukee Braves in a straight cash deal. The price was believed to be about $10,000.

Metkovich hit .212 last year, playing 26 games for Pittsburgh and 61 for the Cubs. He came to Chicago with Ralph Kiner in a deal with Pittsburgh involving 10 players last June.

Baseball Player Pension Dispute Flares

NEW YORK (AP)—The baseball player pension dispute flared again Monday with conflicting versions of what happened Sept. 29 at an executive council meeting.

Commissioner Ford Frick said both the big leagues' player representatives—Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds—attended the meeting at his New York office and voted in favor of a resolution to set up a committee for the purpose of ending the pension plan.

Kiner said in Palm Springs, Calif., the team owners never made such a resolution in his presence.

"The statement the owners made that they had a resolution to end the pension plan and that Allie Reynolds and I failed to notify the players about this resolution is a complete falsehood," he said "Never at any time did the owners make such a resolution."

KINER BACKED

J. Norman Lewis, the players' lawyer whose barring from last Wednesday's meeting at Atlanta, Ga., brought the dispute into the open, backed Kiner.

"No such resolution was passed by the executive council meeting that Reynolds, Kiner and I attended," he said. "The players don't have any vote. How could they vote on such a resolution?"

Frick, however, said the players have a vote at executive council meetings when player matters are discussed.

"I stopped the voting once and told them they were going to hurt the pension plan," said Frick. "But they continued and voted unanimously for the resolution."

Remember When—

Warren Wright's great three-year-old Whirlaway was voted horse of the year on the American turf 12 years ago today, after winning the mythical triple crown—the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes. Whirlaway was also the leading money-winner in that season with $272,000.

Doug MacPherson is coach and Gord McIntyre manager of the basketball Marines in intermediate ranks this season. Some of the players being lined up are Bill Edger, Joe and Ab Stewart, Gord Burns, Hugh Dibben, Ed Nicholls, Neil Thompson, Don Ash, Danny Griffin, Dave Langhorne and a former New Brunswick college cager named Bob Smith. The team won't see league action till January, but an outstanding exhibition is arranged for this Saturday eve in St. Peter's gym when Marines play the New York Black Barons. The touring Negro squad fashion their play after the famed Harlem Globe Trotters and entertain folks with a barrel of hoop tricks.

Mike Weichel of Elmira went back as president of the OMHA, and Al Watkins of this city was returned to the executive. Bert Hick of Lindsay is now second vice-prexy of this large and well-handled organization for minor puckists. No less than 270 delegates attended the annual meeting. A new ruling makes the manager or coach of a team "responsible to the OMHA for the conduct of team officials and players during the game and while travelling to and from the game." The association has a good insurance plan in operation. Secretary Jack Christie reported that 350 teams took part in OMHA play last season. The local PMHA is affiliated with this provincial body.

"The Woims is Toinin'"

Quinte columnist commented the other day: "As Mushky Jackson the Bard of Brooklyn, would chirp: 'The wolms is toinin'." The storm signals are aflutter on the senior "B" staffs of Oshawa Truckmen and Kingston Goodyears. Thar's heavy seas arunnin' ahead, mates, and those gusts of breeze that scuttled the Truckmen and the Goodies last week are by no means squalls. The Orillia win Saturday over Kingston gave them 11 points, just one measly point in arrears of the faltering champions. The Peterborough 'woim' that was dubbed earlier in the season by an eastern scribe as being the possible weak sister of the group turned into a savagely-striking rattler Friday to drub the heck out of the 1953 champions. K's have lost three now in a row."

* * * * * *

Yes, indeed, it is a crazy mixed-up scramble, this senior "B" race. Top teams are being toppled regularly the past few weeks by the bottom clubs. Oshawa still leads the pack by three games over Kingston, but the K's are only a point up on Orillia. Petes are game back of Pontiacs while Belleville is but a point back of us. A sizzler, eh? Petes trek to Orillia tonight and have Oshawa here on Friday for two toughies this week. Murray of Kingston leads scorers so far with 24 points, McGregor having 20. Erwin Duncan of Belleville and Gus Leonard are next with 19 each, as Chum Fryia, Toodie Greenlaw of Petes and Ed Duncan of Memos are bunched with 18 apiece. Those are the latest figures received from Geo. Carver, loop scorer.

Another One For Juniors

It was 7-2 for Young Petes against Lindsay here last night in a lively OHA junior "B" joust before a slim crowd. That win hoists Red Creighton's hustlers into a group first-place tie with the Scugog bunch, each having four wins in seven starts. Port Perry is next in line ahead of Collingwood and Midland. Local lads are off tonight for a game in Midland, making it three games in four nights—two of 'em on the road. Young Petes played sound hurry-up hockey here last eve and looked smart (in new uniforms) from the goalie out. Heffernan, Coyle and Twist led the winners in scoring, but they all turned in a good effort. Lots of penalties but a fairly clean, fast fray.

* * * * * *

Newest NHL bulletin arrives and shows Gordie Howe of Wings atop the scoring heap with 30 points in 25 games. Our lacrosse-playing friend from the Trailermen, Ike Hildebrand of Rangers, is tied in 12th spot with 14 points in 26 appearances, made up of six goals and eight assists. It is an excellent showing for a rookie and indicates that little Ike belongs up there. Though, small, Hildebrand is not the shortest player in the National League. Tough Tony Leswick of Red Wings has that distinction, being just five feet, six inches of scrappy puckist. Jean Beliveau of Canadiens must be among the biggest guys in the circuit, going six-three and a bit over 200 pounds.

COLTS SEEK VESSELS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Baltimore Colts hope to sign halfback Billy Vessels away from Canadian football next season.

Don Kellett, president and general manager of the National Football League club, said he plans to talk to the 1952 all-American from Oklahoma soon.

Kellett said there was no date set for the meeting and "we haven't even thought about a salary figure." But he declared, "You bet we would," when asked if the Colts stil wanted Vessels.

Billy was the No. 1 draft choice for Baltimore last season but decided to play for Edmonton Eskimos.

Johnson Has Best Average

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran righthander Don Johnson, purchased by Chicago White Sox from Toronto Maple Leafs last October, compiled the best earned run average in the International Baseball League during the 1953 season.

Official averages released by the league show that Johnson who had American League experience with New York, St. Louis and Washington, gave up 72 earned runs in 243 innings for a 2.67 mark. He also struck out the most batters, 156, while winning 15 and dropping 12 for the Leafs.

Tom Lasorda, Montreal Royals southpaw, followed Johnson in the earned run with 2.81 and Ed Roebuck, also of the Royals, was third with a 3.07 average.

Righthander Bob Trice of Ottawa Athletics won the most games, 21, and pitched the most shutouts, four. He was recalled by the parent Philadelphia A's at the tail-end of last season.

Silent On Report K Of C Buys Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — A report that the Knights of Columbus had purchased Yankee Stadium brought a "no comment" Monday night from general manager George Weiss.

Weiss, only member of the Yanks official family available at the baseball meetings here, added that such matters did not come under his jurisdiction.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in a copyrighted story, says the K. of C. had purchased the stadium for $1,700,000 and that the Yankees had signed a 75-year lease to rent it at an annual fee of $125,000.

Montana To Test Fred Atkins

Hombre Montana, the power-packed 325-pound South American giant, will take on Fred Atkins, the rock-ribbed Australian in the wrestling feature at the Brock on Wednesday. The salty Atkins, a crushing mat force himself, is up against a real blockbuster in colliding with the almost immovable Montana. Besides, Montana's fearsome South American Crusher is another big problem that Atkins will have to solve, if he can.

Montana

Timothy Geohagen, the pleasing Irish strongman, will oppose the lambasting Ozark giant, Ski-Hi Lee in the semi-final.

Alan Garfield, of London, England, tests Reyes Nacho, full-blooded Yaqui Indian from Arizona, in the first event.

CAHA Officers Rule Marcotte Property Of Quebec Citadelles

MONTREAL (CP)—Officers of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruled Monday night that goalie Jacques Marcotte is the property of Quebec Citadelles.

In a statement later Marcotte said he will not play with Citadelles and "shall take the necessary means to protect my rights."

Dispute over the 18-year-old goalie has been bitterly waged by Citadelles, whose property he was last year, and Frontenacs, another junior team operating in Quebec.

The decision reaffirmed a decision of the CAHA on an appeal early this season from Citadelles after the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, provincial governing branch of the CAHA, had granted Marcotte's release from Citadelles and approved his signing with Frontenacs.

BRIEF STATEMENT

A brief statement by president W. B. George of the CAHA said: "The officers, having been empowered by the executive of the CAHA to dispose of the Marcotte case, after hearing all evidence submitted have unanimously decided that no grounds have been established entitling Marcotte to his release from the Citadelles club."

Citadelles this season, with approval of the QAHA, are operating in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A division. Frontenacs are a new entry in the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

During the dispute that began at the start of the season — and reached Quebec Superior Court without settlement through an injunction application — the young goalie has been playing with Frontenacs.

SAT SIX HOURS

The officers sat for more than six hours hearing evidence. Representatives of the QAHA and the two clubs were present, along with two players for each of the clubs.

Marcotte was the principal witness, telling his reasons why he wished to play with Frontenacs and relating events leading up to his signing with that club. His mother also was a witness, saying neither she nor her husband, who is ill, wanted their son to play with Citadelles.

Rangers Recall Defenceman J. Evans

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers have recalled defenceman Jack Evans from their Saskatoon farm of the Western Hockey League.

Evans, a six-foot, 195-pounder, is expected to report in time for Wednesday night's game here against Detroit.

Injuries to two Ranger backliners, Ivan Irwin and Harry Howell, brought about the hurry-up call for Evans.

The Welsh-born Evans is 25.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

From time to time, in these columns, we have paid modest tribute to persons and events exemplifying what we considered to be usually good sportsmanship, or courage beyond the line of duty, as courage goes in the realm of athletics. Possibly we overlooked many such incidents, for courage and modesty usually go hand in hand and you don't get to hear of some of the usual gestures in the less publicized divisions of sport.

By way of contrast, we'd like to refer to what we consider the least sporting event of the year. Fortunately, although this involved a sport fundamentally Canadian, it didn't hapoen in Canada.

We refer to the vicious attack by the New York Garden's denizens of the upper galleries, which, by sheer vitriolic phrase, literally drove a fine hockey player and pleasant personality right out of the major league. By turning an undeserved ribald attack on Allan Stanley the Garden wolves forced New York Rangers to shift him elsewhere, lest his nerves break under the strain.

New York hockey and other sports fandom is, in the main, an uninhibited group, gifted with ability to sear a disliked athlete with acid phrases that pour from raucous throats. They can swing from almost maudlin worship of a player who happens to catch their fancy, to bitter personal hatred of one who doesn't happen to appeal.

Last season, and at the beginning of the present series, the gallery wolves of the Garden turned their batteries of venom on Stanley, by no means a bad hockey player, who had come into the League widely heralded as the highest-paid rookie up to that time. Stanley was a clean, free-skating defence player. But, unfortunately, he wasn't the rough, rugged type of such darlings of the Garden gods as Ching Johnson, or Ott Heller, or other such players who could rattle the teeth of an invader. He was skillful, but not aggressive enough to suit the boys in the upper balconies, so they got on him to the point that, for New York purposes, he was ruined.

Rabid anti-Stanley fans hung banners at Ranger home games berating the defenceman. One had Stanley's name with a black eight-ball beside it. Another referred to him as "Sonja Stanley," a throwback to the days when New Yorkers were down on Lynn Patrick and likened his style to that of the famous figure skater, mostly because Lynn was the son of the current Ranger coach, Lester Patrick. Lynn, a fine hockey craftsman, outlived the insults, as did little Roy Worters, the midget goaler, who jeered right back at the howling wolves, so that suddenly their spite turned to Admiration.

There may be episodes of more distorted sports spirit than this, but we doubt it.

Habs Regain Leadership From Red Wings With Three Straight Wins

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens delighted the hearts of their Habitant followers by tucking away three straight wins last week and snatching back the leadership of the National Hockey League from Detroit Red Wings. Red Wings, on the other hand, got clobbered with two white-washes during the weekend, 3-0 by Toronto Maple Leafs and 5-0 by, of all people, Chicago Black Hawks, last in team standings. Despite these setbacks, Gordie Howe, Detroit's blue-ribbon sharpshooter, clung to the individual scoring honors, although he hammered home only one tally since the last league statistics.

Official NHL statistics released today showed the big winger has 11 goals and 19 assists for 30 points, four more than his teammate Ted Lindsay, holding down second spot.

Boston Bruins, in fourth place, were the fall guys for Montreal twice during the week-end, and Maple Leafs missed many chances as they fell to Canadiens last Thursday. Last week, Detroit led Montreal by a point.

TOP SCORER

Lindsay's points are seven goals and 19 assists. Montreal's colorful right winger, Bernie Geoffrion, in third place for points, is top scorer with 14 goals and 11 assists.

This is one more goal than those scored by his colleague, Maurice Richard, who has 13 and eight, tied for points with Boston Winger Ed Sandford, with five and 16. They are in fifth place.

Earl Reibel, Detroit, and Tod Sloan, Toronto, are in fourth spot. Reibel has seven goals and 15 assists while Sloan has four and 18.

STANDOUT DEFENCEMAN

Chicago's standout defenceman, Bill Gadsby, follows the Richard-Sandford niche with 20 points, eight goals and 12 assists, the highest-scoring rearguard in the league.

Gadsby, besides his scoring ability, shows a talent for penalties, leading the league with 54 minutes. Canadiens are the most penalized club with 336 minutes.

Apart from the two top teams, there was no change in the standings during the week, leaving Toronto in third place, followed by Boston, New York and Chicago.

King Maple Leads Rivals

TORONTO (CP)—King Maple led 73 rivals into winter quarters when interim payments for the 95th running of the $15,000-added Queen's Plate were made at the start of this month. Payments were due Dec. 1, but the names of the prospective contestants weren't released until Monday.

King Maple, which carried the colors of Toronto's Mrs. Gordon McMacken to a series of victories during the late summer and autumn, probably will rule favorite when price-makers calculate their winter-book odds.

Ten of the 74 nominations are from western Canada and three are from Quebec. The plate never has been won by a western Canada horse.

Next payment of $100 is due May 1. At that time it is expected the field will be reduced to the 35 or 40 leading contenders. It will cost the owner of each horse another $250 to start in the 1⅛-mile run for the Queen's 50 guineas.

Red Sullivan Still Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP)—For the third consecutive week, George (Red) Sullivan of Hershey Bears is in front in the American Hockey League scoring derby.

Official statistics released today show Sullivan has 41 points on 12 goals and 29 assists in 27 games. His assist total also is tops in the league.

Hershey's Dunc Fisher is in second place with 33 points. Danny Lewicki of Pittsburgh Hornets and Don Marshall of Buffalo Bisons are tied for third with 30 points each.

Braves Given Credit For High Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—The record-smashing attendance of Milwaukee Braves was largely responsible for a 17-per-cent increase in the crowds at National League baseball games during the 1953 season.

The American League gates and the major leagues as a whole declined.

The official attendance figures released at the major league meetings showed the Braves drew 1,826,397 fans at Milwaukee as compared to only 281,278 in Boston the year before. The total broke the attendance record of 1,807,526 by Brooklyn in 1947.

As a result, the over-all National League attendance increased from 6,339,148 in 1952 to 7,419,721 in 1953. In the American League, attendance declined everywhere and the over-all figure showed a 16-per-cent drop from 8,293,896 in 1952 to 6,964,076 in 1953.

AHL Turns Down Reds' Protest

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The American Hockey League Monday turned down a protest by Providence Reds over the result of a Providence-Cleveland game last Tuesday.

John S. Sollenberger of the Hershey team and president of the league, announced disallowment of the protest based on the length of an overtime period.

Cleveland won the game 3-2 with a goal after seven minutes of a 10-minute overtime period. Providence protested that the overtime period should not have gone a full 10 minutes but should have been played on a "sudden death" basis with the game ending after the first goal was scored.

Demarco Wins Bout

Demarco, 11-to-5 favorite weighed 140, Chavez 137½.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Kitchener Fans Trying To Get $13,000

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener fans were still trying to dig up $13,000 for a junior hockey franchise today but nobody seemed to know what they could do with it—if they got it.

Several local business men and hockey officials have been scouting around for cash since Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League bought Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league last week. The deal has turned into a snafu.

The canvassing for funds started after Tory Gregg, president of the OHA, told an executive meeting that he heard the franchise could be bought back from Frank Selke, managing director of the Canadiens, for $13,000.

However, it appears it was just a rumor. Selke said in Montreal that he had never been approached about the proposed deal.

ABSOLUTE LIMIT

After setting several deadlines to raise the money, Gregg announced that 5 p.m. today was the limit. Last-minute attempts to keep the Shirts in the Ontario fold were attempted Monday night.

A local shirt company offered funds but the offer was nowhere near $13,000.

Gregg said if anyone was interested in operating the team they would have to be in Toronto not later than 5 p.m. today. OHA executives are gathering in Toronto to attend the testimonial dinner of W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the league.

A meeting of the OHA Junior council last week indicated the present Kitchener team, composed mostly of third-stringers and Junior B players, will not be permitted to finish the schedule.

Greenshirt officials said last Tuesday they did not want to keep the present team in the league. The Greenshirts play Quebec Citadelles here tonight.

TRANSFER REFUSED

The OHA formally refused Monday night the transfer of players from the Greenshirts to teams in the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

Frank Dilio, registrar of the QAHA, announced he had received the following telegram from William Hanley, OHA business manager:

"Transfers of Tennant, Onotsky, Jones, Cressman, Vaughan, Hicks, Klinck, Joyce, Hillman have been refused by the OHA on the following grounds:

"1. Players should have been offered to clubs in the OHA.

"2. Wholesale transfer of players from one branch to another is not in the best interests of the CAHA (Canadian Amateur Hockey Association).

"3. Clubs operated, sponsored or controlled by the same professional interest should not be permitted to transfer players in this way."

PLAYERS SCATTERED

Nine of the Greenshirts were assigned to teams in the Quebec Junior League and one to St. Catharines.

Before the OHA decision was known here, managing director Frank Selke of Canadiens said he was waiting to see whether the CAHA would show whether it is running itself or is being run by the OHA in connection with the transfer of players from one CAHA branch to another.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the CAHA, in Montreal on another hockey matter, said: "We will have to wait and see what happens. It would be up to the clubs concerned to appeal, through the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, to the CAHA registration committee."

Ron Adam Potential All-Time Great

By CAM MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Correspondent

SASKATOON (CP)—Ron Adam, the 19-year-old with the "million dollar" arm who this season "pitched" Saskatoon Hilltops to the West's first Canadian junior football championship in 25 years is regarded here as a potential all-time national great.

And the superlatives are not confined to residents of Saskatoon.

Ken Fathers of the Windsor (Ont.) Star who has been covering junior football for years says Adam is the "most spectacular junior football player I've ever laid my eyes on."

DEADLY ACCURACY

One member of the Windsor AKO, defending champions whipped 34-6 by Saskatoon in the 1953 Dominion final, said:

"If we had a 20-point lead going into the third quarter and Adam decided to start passing, I think he'd still beat us."

The six-foot, 180-pound Adam has developed to the point where he is being mentioned in the same breath with forward-passing stars as Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Indian Jack Jacobs.

The Saskatoon quarterback can throw them long, short and medium with needle-eye accuracy.

Provincial scouts have watched Adams the last year and near the end of the 1953 Western Conference schedule, Saskatchewan Roughriders toyed with the idea of using him.

READY FOR BIG TIME

"He's ripe to step into the Western Conference right now," said Frankie Filchock, Roughriders' playing coach. "He does everything well at the quarterback slot and is an exceptionally fine passer."

However, because Hilltops looked like title contenders, the Roughrider executive decided against asking permission to use Adam for fear he might be injured.

But the Riders have their eye on Adam for the 1954 season although the triple-threat quarterback still has one season left in junior ranks.

Whether he will turn professional with Riders has not been decided. He may enter the University of Saskatchewan here and play out his junior career with Hilltops.

In pro company, a repeat of his success as a junior would put him in line as the country's greatest Canadian-born quarter since Joe Krol, who retired this year from Toronto Argonauts. Good native-born quarters are a rarity in today's high-priced major Canadian football.

This was Adam's third year with Hilltops. He also starred when Saskatoon bowed to Edmonton Wildcats in the western finals in 1951 and 1952.

A GOOD RUNNER

Although passing is his strong point, Adam can run hard and fast either through the line or around the end and is a fair punter and better-than-average junior placement kicker.

His coach is Bob Arn, a teacher at City Park collegiate who was the coach as Adam led City Park to two provincial high school championships.

Before Adam was big enough to qualify as a player for the high school team, he took over the water boy's job and was around to hear what coach Arn had to say.

TAUGHT TRICKS

A stickler for deception in quarterbacks, Arn taught Adam many tricks at ball handling. Often in the 1953 Manitoba-Saskatchewan Junior League regular schedule and in the playoffs, Adam had the opposition tackling almost everybody but the ball carrier.

"Adam developed wonderful deception," says Arn. "He even had me fooled at times. He was perhaps at the peak of his form in the western final at Vancouver when we won 50-6.

"I don't ever recall seeing a junior quarterback as sure of himself as Adam was that day. His passing was magnificent, his running equally good and his calling of plays left little to be desired."

TO PRO RANKS?—Ron Adam, 19-year-old quarterback of the junior champion Saskatoon Hilltops, is rated as a sure-fire prospect for professional ranks. The sensational six-foot, 180-pound passer is also a good runner and has remarkable deception in his ball handling. He's the most discussed junior football player in Canada today. He is shown holding the Roly Howes trophy, presented to him as the most valuable player of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan Junior Football League.

Handy Flash Wins Both Dufferin Heats

TORONTO (CP)—Handy Flash, owned by G. R. Verhurst of Rochester, N.Y., won both heats of the featured class "A" pace on the Dufferin Park harness racing card Monday.

Glowing Song, owned by S. Love of Milton, and driven by Joe Hodgins, and A-Layne Regent, owned by R. Polk of Kingston and piloted by Mack Weaver, were the heat winners in the class "BB" trot, the secondary feature.

Dufferin officials announced that owner-driver Gordon Kingston has been suspended and denied track privileges until his case is handled by the Canadian Trotting Association and the Ontario racing commission. There was no elaboration.

Reject Plan To Cut Night Baseball

NEW YORK (AP)—The major leagues Monday rejected a plan to cut night ball to 14 games a year and awarded the 1954 all-star game to Cleveland July 13.

The American League took another step toward its plan of expanding to a 10-club league by naming a three-man committee to study the possibilities of new major league territory.

Although the Pacific coast wasn't mentioned by name, the league amended its constitution last Sept. 29 to provide for 10 clubs "in the event it should be desirable to expand to the Pacific coast."

Frank Lane, general manager of Chicago White Sox and a member of the major-minor realignment committee, was named to the group with George Medlinger, Cleveland vice-president, and Calvin Griffith, Washington vice-president.

CLEVELAND MENTIONED

Cleveland had been mentioned as the all-star site last summer. The American League also approved Washington as the 1956 site, the league's next turn. The National will pick the 1955 city.

Detroit's proposal to limit clubs to 14 night games each failed in both leagues. The National passed a resolution to allow each club five night games at home with each other club.

Deny Racial Pressure Used

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — A spokesman for Vic Morbito, owner of the San Francisco 49ers, Monday denied a report that racial pressure had been exerted on Negro football star John Henry Johnson to get him to sign with the 49ers for next season.

The report, carried Saturday by the Winnipeg Free Press, quotes Roosevelt Johnson, no relation to the Calgary Stampeder star, as saying he witnessed a conversation between John Henry and five men who asked him to sign with the NFL team.

Roosevelt said the meeting took place in a Toronto hotel room after the Grey Cup game Nov. 28.

"The implication was that they (the five men) would encourage other club owners not to employ Negro players if Johnson didn't sign," Roosevelt said.

The 49ers spokesman said that Johnson signed because he wanted to play near home and because he has been a 49er fan since his school days. Johnson, who has a wife and four children, lives at nearby Pittsburg, Calif.

Debra Paget Changes Her Technique

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Debra Paget, who won fame as the starlet who had never been kissed, is going all-out to prove she can be sexy.

All-out is a good way to describe the costume I found her wearing on the set of "Princess of the Nile," an idyll of 13th century Egypt. Nearly all of the costume was out. The only thing left was 60 pounds of fancy chains which did little to obstruct the view.

"I do a dance in this outfit," explained Debra, rattling a chain here and there. "I don't know if it will end up in the picture, because the Johnston office hasn't okayed the costume yet.

"Gwen Verdon wore a similar costume for a dance in 'David and Bathsheba.' But the censors made them paint her legs gold, like the rest of the outfit, so it wouldn't seem so revealing."

QUITE HAPPY

Debra wasn't painted. It was all her. And she glowed with happiness about her loan-out role. She plays a dual part as an Egyptian princess and a tavern dancer. That makes her twice as sexy.

"I hope this will prove to the studio (20th Century-Fox) that I can play sexy roles," she said. "You know how it is. I've been there six years and they still think of me as a 14-year-old. They don't realize I'm grown up and 20."

She said the publicity about her non-dating didn't bother her, except when people inferred that she was unbalanced or sheltered by her mother.

"It wasn't my idea," testified her mother, a large, jolly woman. "After all, I started going out with boys when I was 12 and had my first baby when I was 17. I couldn't very well tell my daughters not to date.

MUCH TOO BUSY

"My other daughter (starlet Lisa Gaye) is the same way. She's 19 and hasn't had a date. She's too busy with her career and says she won't date just to follow the crowd like a sheep. Gosh, I'd be glad to have the girls go out with boys. All I ask is that they bring one home for me!"

Debra admits that she now has been dated and kissed. But only by one man, she emphasized. That man, as everyone around town knows, is the fabulous producer, Howard Hughes, who has quite an eye for young lovelies.

CHATHAM (CP)—George Phillips, chairman of the Ontario Soybean Growers' Marketing Board, announced the board's decision to send its secretary manager Ken A. Standing overseas to seek new markets. Mr. Standing will travel to the United Kingdom and Europe to ascertain the acceptability of Ontario soyabeans in those countries and to determine the future possibilities of a market for Ontario soyabeans abroad.

Highways Claim 106

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario highway accidents claimed the lives of 106 persons during September. During that month 5,981 accidents were recorded in which 2,412 persons were injured. There were 3,788 collisions between cars, 32 with trains and 82 with street-cars. Twenty one of the persons killed were under 14 years of age; 19 were 65 or over.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The population of Windsor bounced past the 127,000 mark this year. Figures released show the total population 127,116, an increase of more than 1,300 over 1952.

MECHANICAL MONSTER — In one minute this machine can chew enough coal out of the ground to heat two homes for the winter. The machine, used in Nova Scotia coal mines of Dominion Coal Company which developed it, cuts the coal and loads it automatically onto a conveyor belt carrying it to the surface. Mining engineers hope it will give life to Nova Scotia's ailing coal industry by bringing down mining costs.

Mechanical Miners Solve Nova Scotia's Ailing Industry

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—A mechanical monster that can chew enough coal out of the earth in a minute to heat two homes for a winter is being watched here as the possible salvation of Nova Scotia's ailing coal industry.

Lionel A. Forsyth, president of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation which developed the mechanical miner, calls it "the most significant development in the history of longwall mining the world over."

The "Dosco miner" basically is a machine which cuts the coal and loads it automatically onto conveyor belts taking it to the pit head.

HUGE OUTPUT

It was designed to mine and load about 500 tons during an eight-hour shift. The record output for eight hours so far is 587 tons. The peak production for a shorter period is one ton in six seconds—or about 10 tons a minute.

Company officials say comparing these figures with the production a man at manual mining does not give an accurate picture because of various other factors, mainly that no mine has yet switched completely to mechanical miners. But falling production has been plaguing the industry for years. Production a man-shift in 1939 was 2.7 tons. By 1945 it had fallen to 1.6 tons. Later figures are not available.

Dosco, biggest operator in the Nova Scotia coal fields which mine about one-third of Canada's coal, started work on the mechanical miner in an effort to meet the challenge of increasing costs and intensified competition from rival fuels, mainly oil.

OPERATED IN 1949

Work started in 1948 under J. A. Russell, chief mechanical engineer. The prototype machine was built by Trenton Industries Ltd., at Trenton, N.S.,—a Dosco subsidiary—and went into operation in March, 1949.

Performance of the machine has not been widely publicized because Dosco officials feel its true value will be known only when an entire operation has been converted from manual mining.

So far Dosco has 11 machines in operation. The most in one pit is four in No. 12, at nearby New Waterford. Dosco officials decline to say how the mine's economy has been affected.

Seven men are required to keep a Dosco miner operating. Two are operators, three timbermen shore up the roof, and one is a mechanic. The seventh man is a foreman.

FOR LONGWALL OPERATION

The miner consists principally of a caterpillar-driven frame and a multi-chain cutting-head. It is designed exclusively for longwall operation. Longwalls, in coal mining, are usually 500-foot faces extending up and down the incline of the seam.

The miner starts at the top of the longwall and advances downgrade while mining and loading a swath of coal 4½ feet wide the entire length of the 500-foot face.

The 20-ton machine is electrically driven and hydraulically operated. It is almost 17 feet long, 4½ feet wide and close to four feet high.

Dosco officials say they are pleased with the miner's performance but wish to study it further before giving further information. They decline to say whether it will be manufactured for sale but, meanwhile, all turned out are going into Dosco pits.

Thomson Company Announces Purchase Of Charlottetown Paper

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The Charlottetown Guardian announced today it has been purchased by the Thomson Company Limited, which publishes 15 other daily newspapers in Canada.

The Guardian, a morning paper with a circulation of 13,118, is one of two Prince Edward Island dailies. The other is the Charlottetown Patriot, an evening paper.

The purchase brings the number of dailies in the Thomson group to 19, including one at St. Petersburg, Fla., and two in Edinburgh. The group also has one weekly in Canada and two in the United Kingdom. The company, headed by Roy H. Thomson, owns three Canadian radio stations and has interests in two others.

The Guardian, in a front-page announcement today, says: "In announcing the transfer of ownership Mr. Thomson stated there would be no change in The Guardian's policy but immediate plans would be made for the expansion of the newspaper and installation of new equipment. Management of The Guardian will remain as at present and no new staff changes are contemplated."

The purchase is the first by the Thomson group in the Maritime provinces. It has one daily in Quebec, 11 in Ontario, two in Saskatchewan and one in British Columbia.

RECENT PURCHASES

It is the second purchase by the group in four months. In September Mr. Thomson purchased the controlling interest in three Edinburgh newspapers, The Scotsman, the Weekly Scotsman and the Evening Dispatch, with a combined circulation of 200,000.

Mr. Thomson said at the time of the purchase in Edinburgh that he would take up residence there and control his Canadian interests through his son, Kenneth R. Thomson, who assumed active charge of the Canadian and United States newspapers from the head office in Toronto.

A daily newspaper since 1891, The Guardian was for many years in the control of the late J. R. Burnett, W. Chester S. McLure and Lt.-Col. D. A. MacKinnon, DSO. Mr. Burnett, as editor and managing director, was one of the pioneers in the establishment of The Canadian Press, Canada's national news co-operative.

ANY NEWS IS GOOD NEWS—News-hungry New Yorkers crowd around the Out-of-Town Newspapers stand in Times Square trying to get news to read. A strike of photo-engravers has closed down seven of the major newspapers in the city for over a week.

Farmers Plan To Give 100 Blood Donations

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Upward of 100 blood donations are to go into Victoria Hospital's blood bank in the next two months as Middlesex farmers repay a neighborly debt with Waterloo County mennonites.

Farmers and the blood bank got two things straightened out Monday after a week-end during which it appeared scores of farmers would turn up during the morning to donate blood.

Dr. E. M. Watson, in charge of Victoria's blood bank, said there are three major reasons why the spontaneous offer of farmers could not be taken up. First, the bank has not facilities to handle a large number at once, and second, whole blood will only keep 12 days and third, there are certain diet restrictions necessary prior to donations.

HAS 47 OPERATIONS

Melvin Keupfer, 11, a Mennonite child burned in June, has had 47 operations and innumerable blood transfusions. Now nearly well the boy will soon be going home to his mother.

Middlesex farmers, remembering the generous aid given by Mennonites after May's destructive tornado, decided to provide the blood needed to replace that given to the burned boy.

A. E. Hick Succeeds Lamb; Four Aldermen Re-elected

LINDSAY (ENS) — A. E. Hick, for the last two years deputy reeve of Lindsay, was elected mayor on Monday succeeding veteran Charles Lamb. Mr. Hick defeated Lloyd Burrows, who lost to Mayor Lamb by three votes last year by a vote of 1949 to 1111. Four of this year's aldermen were returned with two new men also stepping in.

In the mayoralty race the final results was never in doubt after six of the 19 polls had reported. Mr. Hick's margin continued to pile up as he received good support from every section of the town. His opponent captured only five of the 19 polls, his main strength lying in his home area, the South East Ward.

In the council race, J. A. Harrigan was elected for a second term and led the polls for the second consecutive year. He was trailed by the three incumbents; W. S. Breese, J. A. McQuarrie and B. C. Maidens. Two newcomers elected were, W. C. McCrae and Russell Lamb, brother of Mayor Lamb and for 30 years a member of the board of education. The last candidate in standing was Harry Peirce, a former alderman.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Balloting was also held for the board of education seat in the North Ward where incumbent chairman Walter Peel defeated his opponent G. W. Keith by 733 to 304.

Town Clerk W. R. Allely reported about 56 per cent of the eligible voted, compared to some 60 per cent last year.

Mayor-elect Hick joined Mayor Lamb and other elected members of the council for a ride around town on the fire truck after the election results were announced. His supporters then joined him at his home in a victory celebration. Mayor Lamb retired from office this year following his appointment as director of harness racing for the Ontario racing commission. He had been mayor for 12 of the last 13 years. Reeve Richard Butler was returned to office by acclamation and Alderman W. D. Stevens took over the office of deputy-reeve, also by acclamation.

Englishman's Burns Translation Brings Bloodless Civil War

GLASGOW (AP)—A soft-spoken Englishman has brought Scotland to the verge of a bloodless civil war by translating Robbie Burns' poems into English.

The culprit is William Kean Seymour, 66-year-old retired bank manager who has never been to Scotland. He just thinks the poems read better his way.

Seymour's improvements have set off a storm of controversy in Scotland's newspapers. So far the battle is roughly even.

Burns wrote:

"Fair fa' your honest sonsie face, great chieftain o' the pudin' race."

In Seymour style, it reads:

"Good luck to your plump, honest face, etc."

"I AM OUTRAGED"

Typical protests in today's letter-to-the-editor columns ranged from the "I am outraged" of Aberdeen's Frederick Moss to the "De'il tak' me if I ever heard the like o' this senseless blellum o' an Englishman" from Glasgow's Douglas Cargen.

But Seymour has supporters like Mrs. Isobel Webster, who asked: "What if the Bible had been left in Hebrew?"

Aloof from the battle stands one of Scotland's greatest Burns authorities, Sir Patrick Dolla, former lord provost of Glasgow.

U.S. HAS MONOPOLY

"What do Scots know about Burns?" he stormed. "I'm an authority on the bard because I've read American books about him. The Americans own practically all Burns' manuscripts and first editions, sold to them by so-called Scots Burns lovers who bought them for three shillings a piece and got rid of them for £1,000 a time.

"All these Scots are interested in"—and Sir Patrick is a Scot himself—"is having a few drinks at a Burns night dinner and gossiping about Robbie's love life."

Driver Impaired By Liquor, Fined

A charge of drunk driving was reduced to one of driving while impaired against Vernon McWilliam in the police court Monday. He was convicted and fined $75 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C.

Harold Grafstein said in evidence that McWilliam's vehicle had run into the back of his car while it was stopped on George St., waiting for a light to change green. Damage had amounted to $14.90.

Constable Cyril Bowyer witnessed the accident and he told the court that he had gone across to accused's car and opened the door. The smell of liquor had been "very high". When walking round the car accused appeared to be "picking his way rather than walking in a sure direction".

Parliament started the 22nd session last Nov. 12.

EPHRATA, Wash. (AP) — A mouse she said she found floating in a carton of milk brought $257 to Mrs. Mary Bush when a superior court jury of eight men and four women Monday brought in a damage verdict. She charged "shock and pain" after finding the mouse floating in the carton of milk she said she bought in nearby Quincy, Wash. Both she and her husband sued for $3,500 each. The cash award went only to her.

Accused Lucky Not Killed

"You are fortunate in that you weren't killed", said Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. in the police court Monday.

"Or that you didn't kell someone else" added Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw.

The remarks were aimed at Erwin M. Sinclair who pleaded guilty to and was convicted on a charge of careless driving. A fine of $40 and $2.50 costs was imposed, as a sequel to an accident on the Hunter St. bridge, November 28, when the defendant car driving west, ended up on its side and was fairly extensively damaged. A woman passenger was injured.

CCF Member Denies Socialism Infringement Of Freedom

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative member Monday contended in the Commons — and a CCF member denied—that socialism leads to controls and thus to infringement of freedom.

The exchange between J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) and CCF leader Coldwell came during debate on a CCF resolution.

The resolution, proposed by Alistair Stewart (CCF — Winnipeg North), asked the government to consider the advisability of approving as a declaration of principle the United Nations declaration of human rights.

MOVES AMENDMENT

Mr. Coldwell later moved an amendment requesting the government to consider the advisability of asking Parliament to approve such a declaration of principle.

Citizenship Minister Harris, government house leader, argued that the amendment would give a different intent to the resolution and proposed that the debate be adjourned. He was upheld on division, 86 to 55, the Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit voting against the government.

SUPPORTS RESOLUTION

Mr. Macdonnell, who supported the CCF human rights resolution, said Canadians should always try to make sure that their freedoms are safe.

Freedom could stand only so many controls. Socialism led to control, whether intended or not.

Mr. Coldwell said socialist governments in Scandinavia and Britain had extended rather than limited freedom. If economic freedom were denied, then complete freedom could not be achieved. He believed in law and order but this did not mean Parliament should not pass legislation limiting the powers of "economic royalists" to exploit people or resources or determine whether thousands of men could even work.

Punitive Measures Asked In Reformatory

TORONTO (CP)—James Dempsey, the Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for South Renfrew, Monday urged that punitive measures and hard work program be returned to Ontario's reform institutions.

He told the legislature's committee on reform institutions that life is so attractive in the jails that some men are willing to sacrifice their old age pensions to go there.

Judge Approves Damage Award

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A damage award of $1,862 83 to a Chatham child injured in an accident in Chatham last April was approved by Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan in Supreme Court here.

In the judgment, Ross Barnett, 5, of Chatham, will receive $1,000 to be paid into court until he is 21 years of age. His mother, Blossom Barnett, and Reginald Joseph Myers, his "next friend" in court language, will receive the balance of the money, to be applied to medical bills.

The judgment is against Gordon Sanborn, a Chatham salesman, who was driver of the car which struck the child. Included in the settlement is a $200 award for costs against Sanborn.

TRAFFIC VICTIM DIES

HAMILTON (CP)—Injured in a traffic accident in which he was knocked from his bicycle Oct. 29, Keith Crooks, 11, died Monday.

LOOK, NO PINS! — Barbara Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Price, Indianapolis, is modeling the newest boon to babyhood — a pinless diaper. It was invented by J. Byron Doner, of Los Angels, after his own baby had swallowed a safety pin.

MP Charges Most Papers Red-Controlled

OTTAWA (CP) — John Blackmore, Social Credit member of Parliament for Lethbridge, said Monday night that most United States and Canadian newspapers are under the control of Communist influences.

Mr. Blackmore, who has defended Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) of the United States in two recent speeches in the Commons, said on the CBC's Dominion network program "Press Conference" that Communist money and influence are behind many papers in North America.

He said not all papers, however, are under Communist domination. He excepted the Chicago Tribune and added there might be others.

SPEECHES FAIR

Mr. Blackmore was asked if reports of his speeches in the Commons appearing in Canadian papers had been fair and accurate.

He replied they have been, but "It is what happens to these speeches after they reach the papers" that disturbs him.

He said he has found newspaper men "men of integrity," but when editorial writers have finished writing about the stories, reporters must be "chagrined."

Belmont Girls Plan To Sponsor Show

HAVELOCK (ENS) — The Belmont Girls' Supper Club met at the home of their assistant leader Mrs. Clarence King Thursday evening.

The portion of their project for the meeting was the making of cream soup, a scalloped dish, thin and medium white sauce and croutons, under the direction of their leaders, Mrs. Don Elmhirst and Mrs. King.

It was decided to sponsor a shower in the township hall for Mr. and Mrs. B. Forbes who were recently married. The bride was formerly Ruby Youmans and a member of the club.

The roll call was answered by naming a good food habit.

A gift was sent to Mrs. Ivan Ellis in honor of the birth of a son.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Donald Elmhirst December 23.

Peter Quinn

MARMORA (ENS) — Requiem mass for Peter Quinn was sung by the Rev. W. P. Healey at the Sacred Heart church on Monday. Burial took place in the Sacred Heart cemetery. The pallbearers were: Arthur Sheridan, Irwin McCory, John Goodrich, William Flynn, Arthur Carmen and Michael Shannon.

Mr. Quinn died on Friday afternoon at his home in Marmora township. He was born in Marmora township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn and was in his 76th year. He was of a quiet, yet friendly disposition. For some years he lived in the village but later returned to the farm. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Gerald, Oshawa and John and Peter at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Calnan, Campbellford and Mrs. Frances Scully, Omemee.

BODY RECOVERED

BELLEVILLE (CP)—The body of Mrs. Margaret Hill, 29, who jumped off a railway bridge to escape a train early Sunday and was drowned in the Moira river, was recovered Monday.

Brantford, Peterborough Run Counter To Vote Trend

By The CANADIAN PRESS

Brantford and Peterborough ran counter to the re-election trend for mayors in Ontario municipal voting Monday. In both cities sitting mayors were defeated. At Brantford, Alderman Reg Cooper blocked Mayor Howard Winter's bid for a fifth term. Mr. Cooper polled 5,238 votes to 3,754 for the mayor. At Peterborough, Norman Graham upset Mayor Hugh Waddell's bid for a third termin a hot election battle. Mr. Graham, who was elected an alderman twice and resigned each term, collected 7,090 votes to 5,449 for Mr. Waddell. Elsewhere, chief magistrates who sought re-election had no trouble getting or the victory trail.

Allan A. Lamport went back for a third term as mayor of Toronto, the province's largest city, beating Arthur J. Brown by 8,984 votes in one of the quietest elections in years. Only 28.8 per cent of eligible voters turned out—the slimmest vote in eight years.

GETS FOURTH TERM

At London, Allan J. Rush, former city detective, downed Elmo Curtis handily in a two-way fight for his fourth term. Mayor Rush, who first entered municipal politics to protest his dismissal from the police force, previously served one-year terms—the new one is for two years.

Sudbury re-elected Dan Jessup for a third term over William S. Beaton, who held the mayor's chair for 11 years before his defeat two years ago. At Sault Ste. Marie, Mayor Herbert Smale went back into office against Alderman Peter King. Harry Worton, 32, won a third term at Guelph over Alderman James P. Heffernan.

Mayor Lawrence Feick won a second term in a three-way fight at Stratford, beating C. H. (Dutch) Meier, prominent sportsman, and Bert Davies.

Woodstock's woman mayor, Mrs. Bernadette Smith, won a third term by defeating Alderman Harry J. Collins. St. Thomas re-elected Thomas H. Currah over Dr. M. B. Ryckman.

BRAND NEW MAYOR

Belleville elected a brand new mayor, Jack Both, who never before sought municipal office. He won over Charles L. M. Hyde, an alderman for 16 years making his first bid for the mayoralty.

London voters rejected a $1,250,000 bylaw for a rink and community centre, leaving city council with the problem of what to do with $248,252 previously earmarked for the building. St. Thomas, on the other hand, approved completion by the city of an arena already partly constructed through gifts and donations.

London, which owns the London and Port Stanley Railway, also rejected a proposal to sell its fading passenger business to Eastern Canadian Greyhound Lines Limited. And they said "No" to proposals for a city manager and a board of control. However, they approved a plan of a group of business men to erect a combined market and parking building on the city's Covent Garden farm market in an effort to help solve the downtown parking problem.

REJECTED BYLAW

Belleville, a railway centre, rejected a bylaw to ban whistle-blowing by trains. The bylaw called for an outlay of $50,000 for installation of signals at crossings plus $2,500 annually for maintenance.

Two cities approved hospital extension projects—Chatham one for $200,000 and Stratford for $150,000. Sault Ste. Marie approved $110,000 for schools, $151,000 for a home for the aged and $608,000 for sewage system extensions.

Balmy Weather Cuts Gift Shopping

COBOURG (ENS)—Just a few days more than two weeks until Christmas, but the buying public have not appeared to realize how close it is.

Even some of the merchants seem unaware of the nearness of Christmas as only a few have their Christmas windows in.

"Nobody is going to buy Christmas presents in weather warm enough to think of spring. It is going to take a good brisk spell with some snow to make people think of Christmas," said one main street merchant.

Meat departments in grocery stores have signs up advising their customers to order their Christmas fowl. One man has started to take orders for Christmas trees. Otherwise there is little to suggest when people will start shopping for gifts.

Merchants say that, from past experience, unseasonable weather always delays the start of Christmas buying and people are inclined under such circumstances to leave everything until the last minute.

Senator Pledges Seaway Fight

BALTIMORE (AP)—"I will go the whole way in opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway" project, Senator John Butler (Rep.- Md.) told the North Atlantic Ports Association Monday.

"I will work to prevent the bill from getting on the floor of the Senate and if it should get on the floor I will fight it down to the very last," he told representatives of ports in Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Portland.

Butler said he already had defeated a move by a block of midwestern senators to give the St. Lawrence seaway priority rating for consideration at the next session of Congress.

He said he disliked making the seaway a regional issue, but is convinced it "would so devastate the eastern seaboard, particularly our great port of Baltimore," it would be put out of business.

Sentenced To Death

WARSAW (AP)—A Polish military court at Szczecin, formerly Stettin, in western Poland, Monday sentenced two men to death and a third to life improsonment on charges of spying for West Germany.

Paper Says Churchill Insulted Laniel

PARIS (AP) — The leftist Paris newspaper Combat today said Prime Minister Churchill insulted Premier Joseph Laniel during the Big Three Bermuda meeting.

When the French premier and his delegation arrived by plane, Combat said, the French national anthem "Marseillaise" was not played.

Then Churchill blatantly cut off Laniel's attempt to give a short speech and "pushed him into an automobile," Combat said. Copies of the speech later were handed to reporters.

Churchill snubbed Laniel the following day when President Eisenhower's plane arrived by "ignoring Laniel and leaving him in a corner," the paper added.

PRECEDENCE TROUBLES, TOO

Adding insult to injury, Combat said, Churchill put Laniel behind both Foreign Secretary Eden and State Secretary Dulles in the receiving line, instead of right out in front. "The dignity of the French premiership was affronted," Combat said.

During the first Big Three meeting, Combat added, Churchill entirely ignored Laniel and directed all his remarks at Foreign Minister Bidault.

"Churchill considers Laniel a negligible quantity," Combat said indignantly and asked:

"Our representatives, have they lost their concern for our national dignity that they stand such insolence?"

HELSINKI (AP)—Jan Sibelius, Finland's famed composer, got an unusual present for his 88th birthday today. Fifty towns picked the day to name streets or parks after him, and concerts of his works were performed throughout the country. Sibelius himself spent the day quietly at his country home.

Big Three Ministers Sum Up Parley

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—The following Big Three conference communique was issued early today at the end of the meeting of British, French and United States government leaders:

The President of the United States, the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom and the President of the Council of Ministers of the French Republic, accompanied by the foreign ministers of the three countries, met in Bermuda from the 4th to the 7th of December, 1953. At their meeting they discussed their policies regarding many parts of the world where their countries have obligations. On the conclusion of the conference, they issued the following statement.

CONFIRMED UNITY

Our meetings symbolized and confirmed the unity of purpose of our three countries. We found ourselves in accord on our analysis of the problems confronting us and have agreed on various measures essential for their solution. Confident that our united strength is the best guarantee of peace and security, we are confident that the free peoples can provide both for their security and for their well-being. We dedicate ourselves to work together toward these ends.

The North Atlantic Treaty is and will remain the foundation of our common policy. We discussed means of developing the defensive capacity of our alliance. Lord Ismay, the secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was present at the conversations on this subject.

In the continuing development of a united Europe including Germany we see the best means of achieving greater prosperity, security and stability for its free peoples. We reaffirmed that the European Defence Community is needed to assure the defensive capacity of the Atlantic community, of which it will be an integral part within this framework. It will ensure intimate and durable co-operation between the United Kingdom and U.S. forces and the forces of the European Defence Community on the continent of Europe. The French minister for foreign affairs explained the problems facing his government in regard to the European Defence Community.

NOT JUSTIFIED

We cannot accept as justified or permanent the present division of Europe. Our hope is that in due course peaceful means will be found to enable the countries of eastern Europe again to play their part as free nations in a free Europe.

Our three governments will lose no opportunity for easing the tensions that beset the world and for reassuring all nations that they have no cause to fear that the strength of the West will be invoked in any cause of wrongful violence. On the contrary, it is the fundamental principle of the United Nations Organization, which we serve, that the guarantees against agression shall be universal in their application.

We are confident that if we remain strong, united and steadfast it will become possible gradually to solve the stubborn problems which have too long been unsettled. In this spirit we have examined the latest note from the Soviet government. We approved the tex of our replies which should lead to an early meeting of the four foreign ministers. Our hope is that this meeting will make progress toward the reunification of Germany in freedom and the conclusion of an Austrian state treaty and thus toward the solution of other major international problems.

We reviewed the situation in the Far East. The immediate object of our policy continues to be the convening of the political conference provided for in the Korean armistice agreement. This will provide the means for reaching a peaceful settlement of the Korean question and for making progress in restoring more normal conditions in the Far East and south-east Asia. In Indo-China, we salute the valient forces of France and of the three associated states of Indo-China fighting within the French Union to protect the independence of Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam. We recognize the vital importance of their contribution to the defence of the Free World.

We will continue to work together to restore peace and stability in this area.

Out meetings have re-inforced our solidarity, strengthened our resolve and fortified our hopes. Confident in our common purposes and united in our views, we shall persevere in our policies whose sole aim is to foster and assure peace.

Ottawa Introduces Law To Protect Canadian Textile Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has implemented legislation to protect the Canadian textile industry against dumping of United States goods.

A bill plugging a loophole in the customs act was introduced Monday night in the Commons by Revenue Minister McCann.

The measure was given first reading. However, Dr. McCann said it becomes effective immediately, in the same manner as many budget measures before enabling legislation is passed.

The move permits a boost in the valuation, for tariff and sales tax purposes, of imported goods sold at cut prices at the end of a season.

AVERAGE PRICE

Dr. McCann announced that the valuation will be a "weighted average price" based on prices in the exporting country during a six-month period prior to the date of importing.

The customs act amendment was to ensure "that the valuation procedures shall be such that the existing tariff rates receive their proper application."

The act gave the revenue minister power to set a valuation where imported goods were priced below the level existing in the exporting country.

ACT INADEQUATE

The minister said this is inadequate, however, to deal with practices "which, in fact, constitute a special kind of dumping."

It permitted the import of goods at prices which were "abnormally low" but were, at the time, the same as those in the exporting country.

"In the textile industry for example, as the season abroad advances or as inventories of some items accumulate, certain lines are closed out and placed on the market at prices substantially less than those previously effective."

NOT POLICY DEPARTURE

Dr. McCann said the customs act change is not a departure from Canada's policy of working for lower trade barriers.

It did not involve tariff increases or import quotas and was "fully consistent" with international trade agreements.

The problem facing the Canadian textile industry has been raised both inside and outside the House.

The Renfrew Woollen Mills plant in Dr. McCann's own constituency of Renfrew South announced Monday it will close Thursday for an indefinite period.

TALKED WITH CABINET

A fortnight ago a delegation representing Quebec textile unions put the problem before the cabinet and were told action was planned.

Appeals for assistance to the textile industry were also made by members during the Commons throne speech debate which ended last week.

Harry O. White (PC—Middlesex East) said U.S. textile dumping was robbing Canadian workmen of jobs and pay. Dr. William Blair (PC—Lanark) said the Canadian industry was in a precarious situation and might not be able in an emergency to reach top production in time.

W. G. Waterman Returned Reeve Of N. Monaghan

Willard G. Waterman on Monday defeated Walter Brown by 272 votes to 161, retaining the reeveship of North Monaghan township. He is beginning his fourth term of office.

Only a moderate vote was reported in the township, despite the election for reeve and the controversy over the location of the new Brailey's school.

The two trustees of School Area No. 2, who drew the fire of critics at the nomination meeting a week ago, George Whitfield and Henry Batten, polled 164 and 153 votes respectively.

The others who contested the two vacancies were defeated. Grant Clark, a newcomer, polled 76 votes; Joseph Stenton, a former trustee, 73; and William P. Gray, another newcomer, 34.

SIX YEARS' EXPERIENCE

Walter Brown, a farmer who lives on the 10th concession, served six years on council before making his bid for the reeveship.

Clysdale Given Fifth Term Dummer Reeve

Mr. Sloan who became deputy reeve in 1953, when the township got its second seat in county council, this year moved up to contest the reeveship. He was a winner in only one of the six polls, at No. 2, the brick school.

The total vote was 336 for Mr. Clysdale and 213 for Mr. Sloan.

Returning Officer Elmer Cooper said that it was the heaviest vote in some years in Dummer township; he estimated that 75 per cent of the electors turned out to cast their ballots.

The centre of Mr. Clysdale's strength was in the village of Warsaw where he chalked up 184 votes to 46 for Mr. Sloan. The

Admits New UK Paper Losing Money

LONDON (CP)—London's new morning newspaper is losing money, its founder admits.

W. J. Brittain, 48-year-old British publisher who last October launched The Recorder with £150,000, including £100,000 of his own money, said "some" issues have paid.

Circulation now runs about 50,000 copies compared with a target of 200,000.

Brittain told a lunch meeting of London newspapermen the worst moment was on opening night two months ago. Production fell behind schedule and two "scoops" had to be scrapped.

"The whole world saw the worst paper ever produced," said Brittain, who once worked in Toronto and Montreal

Scarcity Of Jobs Increasing

1,375 Unemployed In District During November

Unemployment the third straight month continued to increase during November in Peterborough and district. The National Employment office announced today that at the end of November there were 1,375 men and women on insurance claims in this area. The increase has been gradual since September, beginning a month earlier than last year.

At the same time unemployment was well up in November over last year's totals. James Sharp, manager, pointed out that in November 1952 there were 1,027 people on the insurance plan; that's 348 fewer than this year.

Both the city and district claims rose during November. This was due to the short time work in Peterborough and the influx of district people working in Oshawa and Toronto, now laid off and returning to their homes.

In the city there were 697 people drawing money in November; last year there were 547 on claims. Mr. Sharp said that purchasing power has decreased, causing lower sales, resulting in short time work at several Peterborough factories, particularly the Western Clock Company.

The largest increase was in the district where there were 678 men and women on claims as compared with only 480. The workers from Oshawa and Toronto who have returned to their Peterborough district homes in addition to poor employment conditions in Campbellford and several other small places caused that large increase.

At the same time, Mr. Sharp reported an increase of about 300 in the number of people looking for work. In November there were 1,224 men and 451 women hunting for jobs as compared with 1,314 last year.

For the first time in several months the number of jobs, usually for experienced workers, decreased. Mr. Sharp said there were only 33 jobs for people such as typists, stenographers, draftsmen and others as compared with 54 a year ago.

AS THE VOTES CAME IN MONDAY NIGHT to the general committee rooms of the city hall a large crowd filled the room, the hall outside and stayed until the last poll, No. 34, had reported in. In the front row shown in the top photo were, on the right, Fred Hills, returned by acclamation this year to the Utilities Commission, and next to him, Frank Jobbitt, former member and chairman of the board of education, with Wilson Gemmell alongside. What they were watching was the black board in the background of the lower photo on which the mounting totals were recorded through the evening. Shown at the phones taking reports from the polls are Murray Thomas, assistant city clerk (left) and Jack Callaghan, of the Bank of Montreal flanked on the left by reporter Don Grant and on the right reporter Phil Calder with reporter Harry Theobald facing them.

Polls Soon Revealed People Wanted A Change

Fifth Place Only One Ever In Doubt

By HARRY THEOBALD

In the aldermanic returns on Monday night the first few polls set up the main pattern of the course of the day's results with only minor amendments in the final stage.

The advance poll, a convenience for business men and others for whom it is specfically provided, gave Ald. Dewart 39 votes, Black 28, Longhurst 23, Anglesey, Miller and Tuggey 21 and Gordon Powell 16. Mrs. Holt was next with 15.

The first of the neighborhood polls to report by telephone was No. 47 Parkhill School, Wolsely St. There the voice of the general body of electors was expressed: Mrs. Holt 39, McBride 30, Powell, Anglesey and John C. Smith 27, Dewart 26, Carphin 25 and Tuggey 21.

The second poll to be listed, No. 49, Queen Elizabeth School picked out McBride for top choice: McBride 30, Price 22, Mrs. Holt 21, Powell 18, Carphin 17.

These three polls together had Dewart in front with 79, Mrs. Holt and McBride 75 each, Powell 61, Anglesey 57 and Tuggey 56.

The next poll No. 17, one at the city hall, eliminated Syd Black, and it was then fairly evident that three of the chairmen of this year's council were in difficulty.

McBride displaced Dewart in the lead, when these four polls were counted. Mrs. Holt was in second place with 116, Dewart 109, Anglesey 104, Tuggey 95, Powel 87, and Black 84. Those were the front runners at 7:50 o'clock.

A second city hall poll, No. 16, was next on the telephone. Mrs. Holt was first there and McBride three votes behind her at 42.

At that early stage, the first group in the final standing had moved into these slots: McBride 172, Mrs. Holt 161, Anglesey 143, Dewarth 134, Tuggey 129, Powell 113, Black 109, Triggs and Price 100 each.

Dewart was two votes in front of Mrs. Holt at Poll No. 20, Central School, Murray St., but there was no material change in the order of the first seven or eight.

Dewart won again at No. 18, city hall, and McBride was the leader at the next two polls, 10 and 5 in the South Ward.

The totals for the first ten polls reporting were: McBride 518, Mrs. Holt 440, Anglesey 398, Dewart 374, Price 334, Powell 320, Tuggey 313, Black 298, Triggs 292, Mrs. Addyman 255, Carphin 232, Longhurst 230, Smith 227, Miller 188 and Ed Hardie 119.

STRETCHES LEAD

McBride pushed further out in front at Poll 61, St. John's School, Ashburnham, 99 to Mrs. Holt's 75; at Lawson's grocery, Park and Albert streets, 98 to 62.

The first twenty polls showed the following standing: McBride 1349; Mrs. Holt 1176, Anglesey 1027, Dewart 971, Tuggey 847, Powell 817; Price 786, Triggs 732, Mrs. Addyman 674, Black 670, Carphin 658, Smith 618, Longhurst 557, Miller 519, Hardie 341.

By that time three experienced members of the council were falling behind in the total figures, and apparently on the way to elimination.

It was becoming evident that the young service station operator at George and Lake streets was strengthening his early position at the head of the column and that Peterborough was making a place for a woman in the city council for the first time in more than a century of incorporation.

Anglesey and Dewart were evidently being retained by the voters, and interest was shifting to the race for the fifth spot, and inclusion in the successful five.

Gordon Powell, once before a candidate, and the veteran of other years, Fred T. Tuggey shifted between sixth and fifth places several times before the last poll gave the decision to Mr. Powell.

At 9:10 p.m. the leaders were still in front; Tuggey had 39 votes on Powell, 2144 to 2105, and Black, Longhurst and Miller was clearly in eclipse.

Alderman Doug Miller as chairman of the finance committee has brought down the last two budgets, Stan Longhurst is chairman of the property committee and Syd Black of the legal and reception committee.

Bantering with some of his friends between postings, Ald. Longhurst was heard to say: "I should worry," and the accent was plainly on the pronoun.

The final results are listed elsewhere. Powell overtook Tuggey whose friends had been hoping that he might find a place if there was to be the shift of mandates which events of the last two weeks seemed to indicate.

McBride carried 14 of the 15 polls in the South Ward, and Dewart one, No. 12, and the Advance Poll.

In the Centre Ward, Mrs. Holt two, McBride two and Dewart 1.

McBride swept Ashburnham, all eight polls, and he almost repeated in Claraday, eight there, the other two going to Price.

Dewart led the field at seven of the polls in the west, Anglesey carried five, and McBride and Mrs. Holt tied at No. 21, South Central School.

McBride gathered up eleven polls in the north, Dewart two and Mrs. Holt two.

Striking Hydro Employees Reject Order To Clock In

LINDSAY (ENS)—Stanley A. Little, national organizer of the National Union of Public Service Employees, stated today, that the union will not recognize the ultimatum issued by the Lindsay hydro commission ordering employees to return to work by Wednesday morning or be dismissed.

"The commission has taken a stand that is hard to justify, by using an escape clause in the Labor Act to justify their action, in not negotiating with this group of their employees", said Little in an interview early today.

The back-to-work order came shortly after commission employees left their jobs Monday morning, demanding a meeting with the commission and recognition of the union as a bargaining agent. The order was published in a public notice in a Lindsay newspaper.

MAY CANCEL MEETING

A meeting scheduled for 1.00 p.m. today may not come off. The hydro commission states that the "union representative is to have nothing to say."

The employees will not attend the meeting on this condition.

Three conditions have been prepared for settlement by the union: (1) Recognition of the union as sole bargaining agent for employees (2) The hydro commission is to agree to arrange contract meeting (3) The hydro is to rescind its resolution removing the employees from requirements of the Labor Relations Act.

"The union does not recognize the 7.30 a.m. Wednesday dead-line set by the commission for the employees to return to work. The strike will continue with picketing of hydro shops, yards and sub-station if agreement is not reached by that time," said Mr. Little.

"The employees are still determined to obtain recognition for the union as a collective bargaining agent."

The workers went on strike Monday morning after receiving no reply to their request for another meeting with the commission. The manager of the commission said the letter did not reach him until the men were already off the job.

The commission members took the stand that the strike was unwarranted, since the employees' application for certification as a local of the National Union of Public Service Employees before the Labor Relations Board was dismissed.

The group, organized as a local of the union of Public Service Employees, was turned down in a bid for certification by the Ontario Labor Relations Board December 5 after the commission declared itself a municipality. This freed it from the provision of the Ontario Labor Act.

Employees said the move also freed them from arbitration and conciliation clauses of the act and went on strike.

The issue at stake is recognition of the union, members of the local say. The commission, however, takes the stand that no grievances were announced at the last meeting of the manager and the men some months ago. Since then, Fred Kitchen, representing the union, organized the employees.

Emergency calls are being handled by the office of the manager, and the strikers say they will handle any such calls from the hospital or other vital services. So far there have been no such calls to the hydro office.

Family Of Harry Corbin Awarded $5,250 In Motor Death Of Father

Ontario's Unsatisfied Judgment Fund Will Pay Out Money In Damages To Family Of Man Killed By Unknown Driver

In a Supreme Court judgment today Mrs. Henry Corbin and her three young sons, who live at 956 Western Ave., were awarded a total of $5, 250 and costs in their suit against the Ontario Registrar of Motor Vehicles. The money, which must come from Ontario's unsatisfied judgment fund, is a damages award to the widow and children following the death of 36-year-old Henry Corbin, the father of the family. Mr. Corbin, a dishwasher at Civic Hospital, was struck down and fatally injured by an unidentified motorist while he was walking along Western Ave. last Christmas Eve. Both Corbin's legs were fractured; he had a cut on the scalp, brush burns on his elbow, and he was badly shocked.

On Christmas Day he took a turn for the worse and never regained consciousness. He died Jan. 5, 12 days after the accident, of "fat embolism" (fat that has entered the bloodstream and hasn't been absorbed, resulting in the plugging of an artery or vein).

Mr. Justice Treleaven, presiding at the non-jury sittings, said he was satisfied that the cause of death was a "natural sequence" to the injuries described.

Mr. Justice Treleaven awarded the widow $3,000, and $2,000 is to be paid into court on behalf of the three children—Edward 5, Gerard 4, and Patricia 16 months. (The total of $5,000 is the maximum that can be paid out of the fund for death or accident to any one person; the extra $250 was a statutory grant to cover funeral expenses.)

Inspector of Detectives W. A. (Bud) Clarke said that an investigation was made by city police, but they were unable to find out who the driver was of the hit-and-run car that left Mr. Corbin on the road.

The day after the accident a car answering its description was parked in a Toronto garage. A man paid rental for two months; later a woman came and paid another month's rent; then the car was abandoned.

Police were unable to determine the identity of either of these people, and their investigation showed that the car was an Oldsmobile, stolen in the United States and financed by a United States company.

"It had been in an accident with somebody or something," said Inspector Clarke. "There was cloth marks in the paint on the fender."

But there was no way of proving that the car had been in Peterborough.

Mrs. Corbin said that her husband had left about 7:30 p.m. on Christmas Eve to get some soft drinks for the children. He went to a store on Lansdowne St. and phoned her 20 minutes later. He walked back home and was only a short distance from his Western Ave. house when he was struck by the car.

Nobody saw the collision, but George E. Rayment of 915 Western Ave. said he heard two distinct thumps."

"I went to the door (after a 30-second lapse) and saw this car stopped out there . . . slightly north of my house. It was a two-tone green color, and was in the centre of the road, facing north.

"It was stopped when I opened the door. A man was leaning backwards (inside the car), looking backward toward the right corner of his car . . . Then he drove off."

Mr. Rayment said he thought the driver was a young man "between 20 and 30 years of age". He was wearing a hat.

At that time he didn't know anybody was hit; so he closed the door and went back inside his house. A neighbour came to his door a few minutes later to tell him that Corbin was lying injured on the shoulder of the road.

The marks indicated that a car had swerved off the hard surface of the road onto the shoulder near where Corbin was lying.

William Grant Returned By Acclamation

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Voters in Lakefield this year won't have to vote for reeve, hydro commissioner and possibly for the Public School Board.

At a well-attended meeting in the Town Council chamber Monday night, William C. Grant, former councillor and last year reeve, was acclaimed for his eighth term.

Only one man, Walter Killoran, was nominated to oppose Reeve Grant, but Mr. Killoran pointed out he had only one year on the Council and didn't plan to oppose Mr. Grant.

At the same time Mr. Killoran was nominated as hydro commissioner, a position which he preferred. Others nominated for the Hydro Commission were Neil C. Wood, also nominated for Council, and former police constable, Garnet Samis. Both declined to run against Mr. Killoran, and he was acclaimed.

Seven men have indicated they will run for the four seats in the Council. Three newcomers are George Jeffery, Chester Lilley and Charles Serson. The others, Gordon Dunford, Judson R. Hull, J. Arthur Kingdon and Albert G. Buchanan, have all had previous Council experience. All, with the exception of Mr. Hull, who wanted time "to think it over," have consented to run.

The School Board may be acclaimed; it all depends on the decision of Jay Knox. Former trustees, Ralph Millage, the Rev. W. B. Walker and Ralph Jackman, have all entered once more. Mr. Knox isn't sure whether he'll let his name stand or not.

Candidates for Council and the School Board have until nine o'clock tonight to qualify. Election day in Lakefield is December 21.

THREE NEW ALDERMEN were elected by Peterborough voters Monday. First woman in the city's history to be elected to council, Mrs. Alene Holt came second in the standing behind Stanley H. McBride, also entering municipal politics for the first time. Only two members of the 1953 council were re-elected, Ald. John A. Dewart and Ald. P. J. Anglesey, who was given his fourth two-year term, thereby becoming dean of city council. Succeeeding in his third bid for a council seat was W. Gordon Powell.

North Hastings Students Receive Diplomas, Prizes

BANCROFT (ENS) — A large number of parents and friends attended Friday night's North Hastings high school commencement in the school auditorium.

Guest speaker for the evening was A. E. O'Neil, of Oshawa, who was introduced by Principal Gordon Wragg and thanked by the Rev. A. L. Borland. In a speech directed to the young people, Mr. O'Neil said that this was an age of difficulty and an age of opportunity.

He warned that many people today were suffering from a false science of the mind which he called pseudo - psychology, a disease they used merely as an excuse for their faults. Money was not the main thing in life, nor did it necessarily bring happiness, it only saved people from the inconvenience of being without it. True happiness came from a sense of achievement.

VALEDICTORIAN

The valedictory address was delivered by Gwen Leveque. Reviewing the past five years of high school life, she paid tribute to the "ever tolerant teaching staff" and the "sacrifice and encouragement of parents and relatives."

"As the curtain rings down on the last act of school life, let us remember that it is but a beginning. Let us use, to the best of our ab lity, the knowledge and skills that we have received to unlock the doors to further education and experience. May we have a pleasant outlook on life, guided by faith rather than fear. May we do well the task that lies nearest, not merely for remuneration but for the contribution that we can make to the community," Miss Leveque concluded.

A sing-song was led by Gordon Crosby. The glee club, under the direction of C. Montreuil, sang two numbers.

Queen, Duke Enjoy Holiday

ABOARD S. S. Gothic (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, enjoying to the full what may be the only relaxing part of their six-month Commonwealth tour, headed today for a mid-Pacific rendezvous with the Royal New Zealand Navy.

The British cruiser Sheffield, which has escorted this royal liner since the Queen and the duke boarded it in Jamaica, will turn over its duties to the New Zealand cruiser Black Prince Dec. 10. The Black Prince will accompany the Gothic to the Antipodes while the Sheffield will turn back.

The taking-over ceremony will involve the firing of salutes by both naval vessels and a bosun's-chair transfer from the Sheffield to the Black Prince of Lt.-Cmdr. A. P. M. Nichols, assistant medical officer to the royal household, who will continue on the tour.

The duke enjoyed an afternoon in the swimming pool Monday while the Queen spoke by radio-telephone to members of the Royal Family in England.

Garbage Workers Strike

NEW YORK (CP)—Drivers and helpers went on strike Monday night against 500 private garbage collection companies serving hotels restaurants, hospitals and other private institutions in the New York area. The Private Sanitationmen's Union (AFL) asked a $10 weekly raise and other benefits while the employers offered a $4 package. Current wages for drivers average $92 a week.

Nude Statue At Hospital Annoys Citizens

LONDON (Reuters) — The respectable people of suburban Balham aren't prudes, but frankly they do think the nude statue of a man in front of the new local hospital is shocking.

And some of them with a sense of humor must have decided to make the statue—a life-size bronze named "Recovery"—conform with the neighborhood's standards of respectability.

For the morning after it was erected during the week-end, "Recovery" was found to be clothed in a green smock and a white apron for a loin cloth.

Nurses at St. James Hospital shrieked with laughter as they disrobed him.

HAT AND G-STRING

Then, under cover of darkness early today, the statue mysteriously acquired another fancy dress outfit. This time it was a modest G-string of laurel leaves topped off by a woman's mauve hat with fluttering ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frost who live just across the street from "Recovery," don't approve of these goings-on any more than they condone the statue itself. And they have written their member of Parliament asking him to have it removed.

"I am broad-minded enough but there is no need for a statue like that to be on public display," said Frost.

And his wife put in: "My fear is that next we'll get gangs of hooligans coming into the district with paint brushes."

Jury Returns No Bill On Driving Charge

LINDSAY (ENS).— Charges of dangerous and careless driving against James Alexander were thrown out of court Mondayi n this week's general sessions of the county court before Judge J. A. McGibbon, when the grand jury returned no bill.

Alexander was charged following a collision on Highway 35 last June, in which his wife Margaret and their two-year-old son James were killed.

Charges of dangerous and careless driving against Garnet Armstrong of Pontypool go before the court today. The charges arise out of another double fatality, near Reaboro last August.

Peace Prevails, But Goodwill Limited

OTTAWA (CP) — Comparative peace prevails in Korea this Christmas season, the first in four years that Canadians serving there have been able to enjoy. But good will is limited.

Although the shooting has stopped thousands of Chinese and North Korean Communists wait in their emplacements across from the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade. No one can be sure of their ultimate intentions.

As the year draws to a close, some 6,000 Canadian soldiers mourn the loss of 302 comrades who fell in the 37 months before the truce. Of these 53 died during the first seven months of 1953.

There are also some 500 sailors serving in three destroyers under United Nations command.

CASUALTY RECORD

Following is a record of Canadian casualties up to the signing of the truce last July:

Army: Killed in action, died of wounds or presumed dead, 302 officers and men; wounded in action 1,102; missing, six; injured in action, 101.

Navy: Killed in action, three; wounded, 10; lost overboard, two.

RCAF: One missing.

Bright spot of the year in Korea was the return from Communist captivity of two Canadian officers and 30 men. Two of the men came back in operation "Little Switch" last April, while the remainder returned in "Big Switch" following the armistice.

MANY DECORATIONS

Canadian servicemen won many decorations in 1953, receiving 211 from their own country and 10 from the United States. Eighty-five per cent of these decorations were in recognition of service in 1953, the remainder covering actions in 1952.

Army headquarters announced recently that up to Dec. 1, 22,066 all ranks had been on duty in Korea. That's the equivalent of nearly two divisions.

The navy said more than 3,500 officers and men have gained battle experience in the eight Canadian destroyers which sailed in Korean waters.

Operating in groups of three, these ships have steamed some 800,000 miles under UN command. Led by the Athabaskan, with three tours to her credit, they have fired about 50,000 rounds of their main armament against Communist targets and some 70,000 rounds of close-range ammunition.

In the 37 months ending with the armistice 22 RCAF pilots had flown with the USAF. One was shot down and is still listed missing.

Canadian fliers, during Korean hostilities, shot down eight Communist MiGs, damaged another nine, and were given credit for the "probable" destruction of one more.

In addition, four - engined North Stars of the RCAF's 426 squadron, have made some 600 round trips in logistical support of UN operations in Korea.

Flying between Dorval, the west coast and Tokyo, these transport planes also have carried 12,012 passengers, including a number of wounded. All told, the RCAF said, they have flown more than 6,000,000 miles without a major accident, carrying more than 4,500,000 pounds of cargo.

The Canadian Navy is represented by the destroyers Iroquois, Huron and Crusader. Since the war began RCN personnel have been awarded 42 decorations for outstanding service in Korea.

Driver Admits Failure To Take Due Care Sympathetic Magistrate Levies $5 Fine

COBOURG—(ENS) — Milton Tibbetts, who lives near Cobourg, was fined $5.00 and costs by Magistrate R. B. Baxter for careless driving. On November 4, Tibbetts ran into the rear of a car owned by Clayton McGregor of Hamilton township, who had pulled up on Highway 45, Division St. N.

"It is the first time in 29 years of driving that I have been in an accident," said Tibbetts, who admitted that he was distracted by another parked car long enough to be unable to avoid running into the back of McGregor's car.

"I hate to see so honest a man convicted, but there is no choice in the matter," said Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

"It is refreshing to see a man come up here on a careless driving charge, and admit that he was in the wrong. It was just a momentary lapse from due care on your part, and I am only going to fine you $5 and costs. I would suggest that you waste no time in notifying the department that you are covered by insurance," said the magistrate.

It had its start when Mrs. Ivey Brown's car developed a flat tire. She pulled off the highway and was going to telephone for a garageman when Mr. McGregor, who knew her, pulled up a short distance ahead to give her a lift into town.

Mr. Tibbetts came on the scene, thought he recognized Mrs. Brown, and was taking another look when he ran into McGregor's car.

Mr. McGregor declined to accept any witness fees.

Row Over China Trade Domestic Quarrel

NEW YORK (CP)—The row between the Eisenhower administration and Senator Joseph McCarthy over Allied trade with Communist China is a U.S. domestic quarrel.

There is no quarrel between the Eisenhower government and the United Kingdom, for instance, although the two governments differ in their approach to the problem of non-strategic exports to China.

All the Allied governments have an embargo on shipment to China of goods of war-making potential, the so-called strategic goods.

President Eisenhower and several of his cabinet officers have endorsed Britain's right to carry on her peaceful trade in non-strategic goods. The U.S. itself has recently relaxed restrictions on U.S. exports to Hong Kong, a traditional gateway to the China trade.

BETTER TO COMPROMISE

A view of U.S. business was expressed in a policy declaration at the U.S. national foreign trade convention in New York last month: "In the case of materials and goods which are clearly of a non-strategic nature, the convention believes that the free world is likely, on balance, to experience greater disadvantage than advantage from any attempt to prohibit the shipment of such materials and goods. . . ."

This is not far from a statement in the House of Commons by Anthony Nutting of the British foreign office: "We cannot live without trade. We consider that this trade in non-strategic goods is to the advantage of the Free World."

Senator McCarthy in a speech Nov. 24 called this "blood money" trading and said the U.S. should cut off economic aid to countries engaging in it. The Wisconsin Republican called Allied exports "shipment of the sinews of war to Red China."

While President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles issued statements dissociating the administration from McCarthy's remarks his charges of bad faith stirred anger in Britain.

DONE HER SHARE

Britain takes the position that in banning shipment of strategic goods she has complied fully with a United Nations resolution of May 18, 1951. Nutting explained:

"Exports licences for strategic goods to China had in fact been refused by the United Kingdom for nearly a year before the UN resolution. Lists of strategic materials are co-ordinated by a group of nations of which the United States is one. . . .

"The goods which we allow to be exported or carried to China by ships flying our flag are all goods which are not on the lists of strategic materials."

TRADE SHIFT

The shift in the pattern of trade with China is shown by figures compiled by the Foreign Policy Association of New York: In 1950, 74 per cent of China's trade was with non-Communist countries; in 1952, it had dropped to 28 per cent.

Official British board of trade figures for the 10 months ended Oct. 31 show that the United Kingdom exported goods valued at £5,069,000 to China compared with £12,700,000 for the entire year 1947 and £4,300,000 in 1938. British exports from China in the 10 months ended last October were valued at £7,785,000. Exports included wool tops, chemicals, fertilizers, textiles and machinery.

U.S. department of commerce statistics show U.S. exports to China in 1951 and 1952 were limited to $181 worth of medical books. However, in London some politicians have contended that the U.S. has been doing business in goods passing through Hong Kong.

Bank President Predicts Good Year Ahead For 1954

TORONTO (CP)—A good year ahead was predicted today by James Stewart, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Trends sometimes taken as storm warnings of recession, he indicated, may actually be fair winds towards continued prosperity. Increased competition and costs of production, however, would require careful consideration.

Mr. Stewart, in an address prepared for delivery to the bank's annual meeting, said a decline in commodity prices had corrected the post-Korean influence, and world prices now were back to approximately their 1949 level.

"We should, therefore, take care not to over-emphasize the economic significance of the fall in prices by regarding it as the harbinger of recession.

WRONG IMPRESSION

"The prolonged period of rising prices associated with full employment and steadily-increasing real purchasing power has, unfortunately, created the impression that the three factors are one and indivisible and that the reversal of the trend of one necessarily implies a similar movement of the others.

"A moderate decline in prices need not be viewed in this light. We have in the past had periods of prosperity in an era of stable or slightly-declining prices."

SEES STRONG DEMAND

Mr. Stewart suggested over-all consumer demands will continue high in the months ahead.

"In the non-durable goods' field, demand is buoyant and retail sales indicate a relatively stable outlook. Demand in this area is difficult to assess . . . but there is nothing in the present situation to warrant the belief that any noticeable falling off in demand is ahead of us, though there well may be a levelling off of the peaks recorded in past months.

"In the durable goods' field there are signs of some slackening in demand and, as a consequence, inventory positions in some lines may require adjustments in the coming months. . . ."

"This year farm income declined from the very high levels of 1951 and 1952, and having regard for world agricultural prices and the generally abundant domestic agricultural picture there is little ground for anticipating a return to the recently-established peak. However, the level of farm income this year is relatively high and should continue so for the crop year ahead.

Commons Seeks Better Way To Define Federal Boundaries

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons committee at this session will try to find a better method to define federal constituency boundaries.

Designated for this ticklish job is the standing committee on privileges and elections, which normally looks into redistribution problems.

The government accepted the resolution of Hon. C. G. Power (L—Quebec South) Monday seeking establishment of a committee to study a "fair and equitable" method of redistribution.

Three seats were added to the Commons at the last redistribution in 1952, bringing the House strength to 265. At that time, Nova Scotia lost one seat, Manitoba two and Saskatchewan three. Quebec and Ontario each gained two, British Columbia four and Yukon-Mackenzie River one. The number of seats in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Alberta remained unchanged.

Four seats were added in the 1947 redistribution. Adjustment of constituency boundaries usually is carried out every 10 years after the census.

MEMBERS OBJECT

Some opposition members contended a royal commission should handle the job, but State Secretary Pickersgill suggested the standing committee on privileges and elections.

Mr. Power's resolution and Mr. Pickersgill's amendment designating the privileges committee were passed unanimously, though with some reservations by opposition members.

Opposition leader Drew said redistribution has been based on the "law of the jungle." If the government's approach was that opposition complaints about "outrageous" examples of redistribution were merely "crocodile tears," then there couldn't be much hope that a real effort would be made to tackle the problem.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said there is "widespread dissatisfaction with the present method of political butchery."

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the only way to divorce redistribution from "partisan politics" is to have it carried out by an independent commission.

Director Of Advertising

MONTREAL (CP)—John G. McConnell, president of Weekend Picture Magazine, Monday announced the appointment of W. D. Taylor as director of advertising. He succeeds R. B. Gay, who, after 42 years service asked to be relieved of the post. He will continue as advertising counsellor.

Mr. Taylor has been the magazine's advertising manager since 1951.

Ask 45-Day Interval Between Writs

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's select committee on election laws Monday recommended a 45-day interval between the issue of writs for a provincial election and polling day. To make this possible amendments to the voters' lists act were also recommended.

As the election act now stands, the interval between issue of writ and polling day is 37 days in summer and 44 days in winter. The interval between nomination day and polling day also differs in summer and winter months. If the amendments are accepted by the House, the interval between issue of writ and voting will be 45 days and between nomination day and polling day, 14 days, no matter what time of the year an election is called.

The committee also decided to ask the legislature to abolish provision for the revision of rural lists by enumerators. Committee chairman Maj. Alex Lewis, chief election officer, said this would save the province $75,000 in an election year.

Skin Defects Removed Safely By Cosmetician

"A woman's face is her fortune," is the way an old saying goes. Like many other old sayings, it is largely true.

So, a woman whose face is marred by pimples, freckles, surface skin birthmarks, smallpox scars, deep wrinkles, is to be pitied just as the man who goes from riches to poverty through a bad investment. The self-consciousness she suffers damages her personality and her health, and possibly her chances of a successful career.

But no Peterborough woman need be poor in facial wealth.

Cosmetician Madame Lenart, who has come to their midst from behind the Iron Curtain, has the European method of allowing growth of smooth new skin and painless removal of the outer scarred tissue, and it takes just six days.

Already she has brought unbelieveable happiness to a housewife whose face was so deeply scarred by pimples that she could not go out socially, to a business girl similiary enslaved, and for a young girl she has removed disfiguring freckles.

On each of the six days she applies a jelly-like substance which causes the surface epidermis to dry up and a new skin to grow underneath, just as it does when the outer skin is cut. The first four days the patient may go to work as usual and the process will not be noticed but the other two days she must arrange to be at home.

After the sixth treatment the outer skin is pulled away easily, leaving exposed the new pink skin, like a baby's. This new face must be carefully tended for a few days, a week at the most, and then it is ready to take on the world normally.

The treatment can be repeated, but Madame Lenart does not recommend it more than twice or three times, so she makes every effort to ascertain the cause of the skin condition, and recommends steps to prevent recurrence. In the case of freckles, it is the coloring matter in the skin which causes it to freckle and this she cannot change. A good protective cream is therefore prescribed, and avoidance of strong sunlight.

Several days ago the Examiner published news of a new method of scraping or planing off skin with a spinning steel wire brush developed by a New York physician. This brought to light the fact that a simple and sure treatment for the same is available in Peterborough.

Thirty adult patients and 17 children were read to in the past month the convener of the reading service, Mrs. P. A. Martyn advised. Mrs. Walker Jones explained what her committee is doing in regard to decorations for the Christmas trays.

A very nice gesture on the part of neighbors of the late Mrs. Gordon Miller was the presentation of books for the children's library in memory of Mrs. Miller, executed at the meeting by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris and Mrs. A. Macklin.

Girl Under Mother's Thumb Only See Boy Ocne A Week

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been going with a girl for about a year, but, because her mother dislikes me, we see each other only once a week. Grace is 23, a brilliant person, but completely under her mother's thumb. Whenever I call, her mother makes sarcastic remarks. I'll admit life hasn't been too pleasant for the mother; her husband died tragically a few years ago, and her other child is a handicapped boy who really needs all his mother's care. I do think Grace is entitled to some freedom, however. Can you suggest anything?

D. S.

TACT, CONSIDERATION NEEDED

ANSWER: You might try for a better understanding with the woman you so lightly brand as a tyrant. With nothing left to cling to except her daughter, and a past and present filed with tragedy and unhappiness, it's not difficult to see why she considers you as an intruder bent only on taking her daughter away. You and Grace can use some of your vaunted intelligence to improve the situation.

Stop resenting the mother's possessiveness; exert your efforts, instead, towards removing its cause. Grace can begin by putting the situation squarely up to her mother, explaining how she feels about you, and giving assurance (backed up by you), that marriage will not mean complete detachment from her family. While Grace won't be with her mother as much as she is now, she will, at least, be at hand to give any necessary help, such as caring for the handicapped child so the mother can get out occasionally, and will be available always as a source of comfort. The all-pervading feeling of fear and anxiety that motivates the mother's heavy hold on Grace can be alleviated, and perhaps ended, with Godliness in the home. People with faith know where to find the confidence they need. Your case isn't hopeless, but you will have to exercise patience and consideration to solve it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: During the summer I visited my sister, and there met a young man of 20 (2 year older than myself). I told him I'd be back in a few weeks, but I got a job near home, and didn't have a chance for another trip. My friends say he's been asking for me and I'm sure he loves me as much as I do him. Should I give up my job here, and go to my siser's town for good? I have no parents but live with another sister.

Judy G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm afraid there's nothing but disappointment in store for you with this romance. If the boy really liked you, it's certain he would have written, or come to see you, in the past few months. He's had lots of time to further the acquaintance if he wanted to. So, if your only reason for changing jobs is to fall into his waiting arms—stay where you are.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Could you tell me where my daughter could go to work her way through college? She's graduating from high school this spring, is a fine student, but I cannot afford to send her away to school.

Mrs. W. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: With your daughter's scholastic record, she might easily win a scholarship. Write for Bulletin No. 16, "Scholarships and Felowships in Institutions of Higher Education," Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. Cost is 55 cents, in money order or check. A book that might help you is: "Working Your Way Through College" by Kenneth C. Rathbun, published by the Cavalier Publishing Co. of Richmond, Va. Cost is $1.25.

Queen's Ear Rings Setting Popular Style In Britain

LONDON (AP)—Rarely is the Queen photographed without earrings—but thereby hangs an industrial boomlet.

The trade magazine British Jeweller said today Elizabeth, probably never dreaming she was doing anything of the kind, has touched off "one of the most remarkable fashion developments within memory."

Factories in Birmingham, which is the heart of the earring industry, can't keep up with orders, and hundreds of craftsmen are exerting their skill bringing out new and wondrous designs.

One factory has just stopped making necklaces and bracelets and devotes all its time to keeping up with the earring demand.

GREATEST BOOM

"Never before have so many women owned and worn so many pairs of earrings in such a variety of shapes, sizes and colors," the trade paper said.

The demand ranges from tiny bits of sparkle to brighten up the ear lobes, to long, dangling affairs which tinkle and touch the shoulders.

Jewelers were agreed that the example of the Queen has stimulated the earring fad because in fashion she is an influential pacesetter. But other women of the Royal Family, the Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent have contributed to the popularity of earrings, and so have many of the glamor girls who appear in television programs.

Another craftsman—he doesn't quite know whether he is an artist or a bit of a surgeon—also has benefited. He is the specialist who punctures holes in the ear lobe.

Some women can't endure the kind of earrings which snap on like clothes pins, so the ear-piercing business booms.

Aquamarines Being Used As Smart Touch To Frocks

LONDON (CP)—Sea-green aquamarines, similar to the stones presented to the Queen as a Coronation gift from Brazil, were worn by some of the models at a collection recently shown by Mattli, well-known London fashion designer.

A short, black evening dress was the background for two large matching clips with square-cut aquamarines surrounded by baguettes worn unconventionally high on the shoulder. They were placed one above the other to dramatize the unusual, low-cut neckline and were worn with drop earrings to match.

An impressive set of these stones, including necklace, bracelet and earrings in a graceful floral pattern, was worn with an afternoon dress of black crepe.

In the 18th century it was fashionable to have diamond spray brooches with a wired flower centre which trembled when the wearer moved and thus added to its brilliancy. One of these was worn in the Mattli collection on a black dress. A clinging evening dress of white jersey looked attractive with a magnificent ornament of diamond and emeralds.

There were some interesting color combinations in the collection, mainly emphasized by the use of precious stones. Dark green emeralds with cyclamen pink was one. Tweeds in sage green, black, brown and oatmeal were shown with small brooches of colored stones that blended with the flecked materials.

Canadian Harpist Plays With London Orchestras

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP) — Harpist Carla Emerson of St. John's, Nfld., spends most of her London theatre career below or behind the stage.

She's playing now in the orchestra pit at the Casino where the hit Broadway musical "Wish You Were Here" seems destined for a long run despite critics' disapproval of its frank approach to "necking" and similar boy-girl frolics.

London theatres book their own orchestras for musicals, and Miss Emerson will be at the Casino for the entire run.

Playing in the pit instead of on the stage has its compensations, says he slim, dark musician. Watching the audience can be fun.

Miss Emerson, who came here in 1950 and since then has played in theatres throughout Britain, says it is surprising how different the faces of the audiences in Edinburgh, Leeds and Swansea can be.

She spent most of 1952 touring from south of London to Glasgow and Edinburgh in a variety show "So This Is Show Business." She was accompanist to a singer, but played from behind scenes.

"They have to pay more if they allow you on stage," Miss Emerson said with a grin. "But it was fun." There were plenty of parties throughout the tour and bookings were for one week in each town with one week off in every four.

"It was a wonderful opportunity to see Britain with expenses paid."

Miss Emmerson was lucky her first year here. Six months after she arrived she landed the job of second harp in an orchestra bound for a tour of the United States. So she was soon back in North America touring New York to New Orleans and Chicago and all points between.

When the tour ended she went home for Christmas and returned to London in January. This will be her first Christmas in London.

With odd dates in a Leeds string group and the orchestra of a ballet company she has been pretty busy since she decided harp playing was her business. She said "What I've done sounds fine on paper but it's not worth a string of beans to the conductors of well-known orchestras."

Asked why she picked such a career, she replied that her grandmother player the harp. Miss Emerson started at 17 and studied for two years at a New York school of music to earn a diploma.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Piece Work On The Cookie Board

Today's theme is cookies again, but it will be the last before Christmas— that is, unless some one writes in frantically for some cookie recipe without which she couldn't possibly hold a successful Christmas.

So cookie friends, clip this. I've chosen the favorites that taste good, look attractive and which seem to be especially Christmasy. Scotch shortbread was given to you on November 24th, so I am not repeating it.

MERRY MELTING MOMENTS

One-quarter lb. (½ cup) butter or margarine, 5 tablespoons icing sugar, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and (optional) sliced red candied cherries or sliced red gum drops or red-colored sugar or shot. Cream butter, sugar, almond flavoring and salt until very light and fluffy. Sift the sifted flour, salt and baking powder together and mix them in well. Chill dough at least 2 hours. Between floured palms roll this dough into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Press to flatten them with tines of floured fork. (Decorate them at this stage if desired: press at centre of each a thin slice of candied cherry or red gum drop, or sprinkle with red or green-colored sugar or red cinnamon shot—being careful not to sprinkle any on the pan.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 8 or 10 minutes or until edges just begin to color gold. Cool before removing from pan. These keep well between layers of wax paper.

COCOANUT SNOWBALLS

Three-quarters cup sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup quick-cooking rolled oats, 6 level tablespoons butter or shortening, 1 beaten egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup cocoanut. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Stir in rolled oats, cut in butter until well blended. Add egg, vanilla and ½ cup cocoanut. Form dough into small balls by rolling between floured palms. Roll the balls in the remaining ½ cup cocoanut. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 375 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes or until tips of cocoanut are tinged with gold. These, of course, may be decorated with a whole almond or pecan or sliver of citron peel.

HOLLY WREATHS

Sugar Cookie Dough (to roll out): 2-3 cup shortening or 1-3 cup each shortening and butter, 2-3 cup sugar, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Beat or cream the shortening until it is airy and light, then gradually beat in the sugar, until both are very light. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Sift the dry ingredients together and mix them in well, then chill the dough at least 2 hours, or overnight is better still. Roll out on lightly floured board to 1-16 or ⅛ inch thickness and cut out with floured doughnut cutter. (This is to make wreaths, but this dough will cut out into any shape such as stars, Christmas trees, bells, Santa Clauses, etc. for it is the basic dough for sugar cookies.) Mix 1 cup icing sugar with 3 tablespoons warm water. Spread some of this glaze carefully on each cookie, then sprinkle the little wreaths with finely chopped pistachio nuts (to make them green to look like holly.) Then place small red cinnamon candies in clusters of three to look like holly berries. One or two clusters is plenty for each cookie. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 8 or 10 minutes. If desired these cookies may be brushed with slightly beaten egg white to make trimmings stick like cherries, quartered, and citron peel cut like leaves,—thus you have holly. These little rings are pretty sprinkled with red or green sugar or chocolate or silver shot too.

Happy cookie-board-keeting.

6—In Memoriam

HOGGARTH—In loving memory of mother, Lousie Hoggarth, who passed away, December 8th, 1952.
Dear Mother:
You can only have one mother
Patient, kind and true,
No other one in all the world
Could be so kind and true.
For all her loving kindness;
She asks nothing in return.
If all the world deserted us
To our Mother we could turn.
To those who have a Mother,
Treasure her with care.
For you'll never know her value,
Till you see her empty chair.
—Ever remembered by her son, George, daughter-in-law, June, and grandsons, Garry and Ronald.

WALSH—In loving memory of dear mother, Bertha Walsh, who passed away, December 8, 1952.
Keep her, Jesus in they keeping
Till we reach that shining shore,
Then O Moster let us have her,
To love her as we did before.
You left us quietly, you thought unknown,
But you left a memory were proud to own,
—Sadly missed by the family.

U.S. Prisoners May Be In Siberia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some high United States defence officials think it possible that some Americans captured in Korea are alive and being forced to work for the Communists behind the Iron Curtain.

Periodically during the Korean war American intelligence agencies heard such reports and made every effort to track them down.

Defence department officials say they cannot declare flatly that the Chinese and Korean Reds failed to return or account for all Americans they captured, because the Communists never made complete reports on prisoners and refused to permit independent investigations.

One official, after reading the statement of a returned Japanese prisoner of the Second World War that he had seen Americans in a prison near Moscow, put it this way:

"It is quite possible that some American boys are digging uranium in Siberian mines—if we could only prove it."

American PoWs To Celebrate Christmas

PANMUNJOM (AP) — American prisoners-of-war who did not return home plan to celebrate Christmas with decorated trees and holiday delicacies.

An Indian custodian officer tonight said the Americans have asked the Indian Red Cross to get them trees, decorations and Christmas delicacies such as candy, nuts, and cake.

The officer said some Christian Chinese and Korean prisoners also have asked permission to observe Christmas.

It is up to the Communists to supply the prisoners with Christmas wants. The United Nations command will do so for Christian Chinese and North Koreans who have refused to return to the Reds.

Plan National Elections

HELSINKI (AP) — President Juho Paasikivi today said Finland will hold national elections March 7 and 8. The new Parliament will meet March 29. Tuomioja's cabinet took office Nov. 17 as a caretaker administration until elections could be held.

Praise Move To Strengthen Customs Act

TORONTO (CP) — The Primary Textiles Institute, an association of Canadian primary textile manufacturers, said today that while textiles are only one commodity affected by the new federal anti-dumping legislation, any step taken to strengthen the Customs Act is a move in the right direction.

"It is too early to know the effect of the legislation mentioned in news reports until it is studied and its application over a period has to be observed," the institute added.

RATHER RESTRAINED

HAMILTON (CP)—Textile workers in Hamilton area were rather restrained today in their praise of Revenue Minister McCann's decision to protect Canadian textiles from dumping from the United States.

Edward C. Cluney, assistant Canadian director of Textile Workers Union of America, commented that the main thing the union was now concerned with was what was the definition of wearables and piece goods.

"If it is what we think it is in government eyes, then this new move by Mr. McCann will be only partly effective, and will protect a section of the industry," Mr. Cluney said.

TOWELS NOT PROTECTED

"Towels and sheets apparently will continue to be unprotected from the dumping of low - priced goods. It is true that the government has gone along with our suggestion as to the average price in the country of origin; but we'd like to include piece goods and material for he making of dresses and suits."

Otherwise, he commented, the materials could be shipped to Canada, made up here, and still compete unfairly with Canadian products.

George C. Watson, director of southwestern Ontario joint board of TWUA said: "We certainly are happy that the government is making a change but we feel that from what we have heard of the change it does not go far enough to protect textile workers' jobs here."

Holding Man In Shooting

TREHERNE, Man. (CP) — RCMP here are holding a man in connection with a shooting incident and a fire at a farm in the Rathwell, Man., district. No charge has been laid. Rathwell is about 70 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

Police said Edna Hayward, 23-year-old housekeeper, missed death by inches Monday night when a .22-calibre bullet tore through a kitchen window and struck the chair in which she was sewing.

After the shooting, R. J. Allan, son of the farm owner, took Miss Hayward to a neighbor's home and notified RCMP. When he returned, he found a fire blazing on the living room couch and some paper burning on a table. Minutes later, an explosion and fire broke out upstairs, then fire broke out in a barn.

A search party found the suspect, a former employee of Mr. Allan, on a nearby highway and turned him over to police.

Thousands Cheer Pope At Service

ROME (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Romans cheered the Pope today as he left Vatican City to join with Roman Catholics throughout the world in prayerful homage to the Virgin Mary on this first full day of the Marian Year.

The pontiff left the Vatican in a seven-car caravan to bring his floral offering to the statue of the Mother of Jesus in Rome's Spanish square.

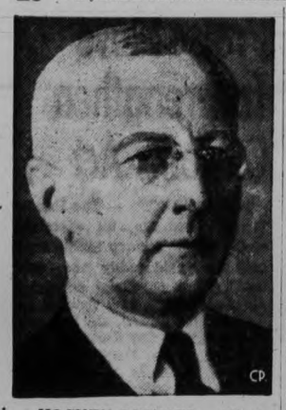
There, throughout the day, thousands of children and others had brought piles of flowers on the feast day of the Immaculate Conception.

As the pontiff joined Catholics of Rome at the statue and immediately after that at St. Mary Major basilica—the world's most ancient church dedicated to Mary—similar services were being held in many other countries.

Have No New Leads In Morphine Theft

TIMMINS (CP) — Police said today they have no new leads in their investigation into the slugging of a nurse and the theft of about 40 morphine pills from the Anson General Hospital.

The thief or thieves stole the pills from the dispensary after knocking out nurse Doris Downey, 24, with a flashlight.



The nurse suffered a severe concussion from the blow but hospital authorities say her condition is improving.

Jersey Cattle Breeder Manson Fletcher Dies

HAMILTON (CP) — J. Manson Fletcher, prominent jersey cattle breeder, died today. He was 64.

Mr. Fletcher's cattle won many top awards at the Royal Winter Fair and the Canadian National Exhibition stock show in Toronto, and at the annual fairs in Ancaster, Rockton, Binbrook, Simcoe and Caledonia.

He is survived by two sons.

HOCKEY PIONEER — W. A. (Billy) Hewitt who is beginning his 50th year as secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association will be honored at a dinner in Toronto December 8 attended by sports celebrities. The father of Foster Hewitt, Canadian radio's premier hockey broadcaster, he was appointed to the OHA post in December, 1903. Since then he has received 49 acclamations. Besides his hockey activities he is keenly interested in football and is an authority of the turf. He was born at Cobourg, Ont., in May, 1875.

Curio Collector

LONDON (CP) — R. Merrifield, assistant keeper of the Guildhall Museum, has asked aid in finding "witch bottles." Such bottles were used in London and east England in past centuries, to be buried upside down under churches and other buildings to ward off evil spirits.

LIONS TOP TARGET

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions have cleared the final hurdle in their bid to become the fifth member of the Western Interprovincial Footbal Union.

Lions officials announced that the club has sold 6,939 season tickets for the 1954 football season, 439 more than the figure stipulated by the WIFU.

When Lions made formal application for WIFU membership in February, 1953, three conditions were set before the WIFU would admit the B.C. entry.

1. Pre-season sale of 6,500 season tickets.
2. Guarantee of a stadium seating 15,000.
3. Contracts with the four remaining clubs—Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton and Regina—regarding arrangements for meeting added travel costs with Lions in the league.

Lions' home stadium will be the 25,000-seat British Empire Games bowl, now under construction. Travel-cost contracts have been completed with Edmonton, Calgary and Regina; Winnipeg waived the agreement.

The seat sale started late in November. Officials had given themselves until May 1 to reach the 6,500@objective.

"This has been the biggest building job in Canada in the last 10 or 15 years," sai coach Annis Stukus. "The fans' enthusiasm far surpassed our hopes."

B.E.G. GRANT APPROVED

AUCKLAND (CP) — The New Zealand cabinet has approved a grant of $22,000 to help defray the expense of sending a team to the Empire Games at Vancouver in 1954.

The New Zealand Empire Games Association originally decided on a basic team of only 15 plus others of approved standard for whom national sports bodies found funds.

However, the association said the size of the team would be reviewed if a government grant was made.

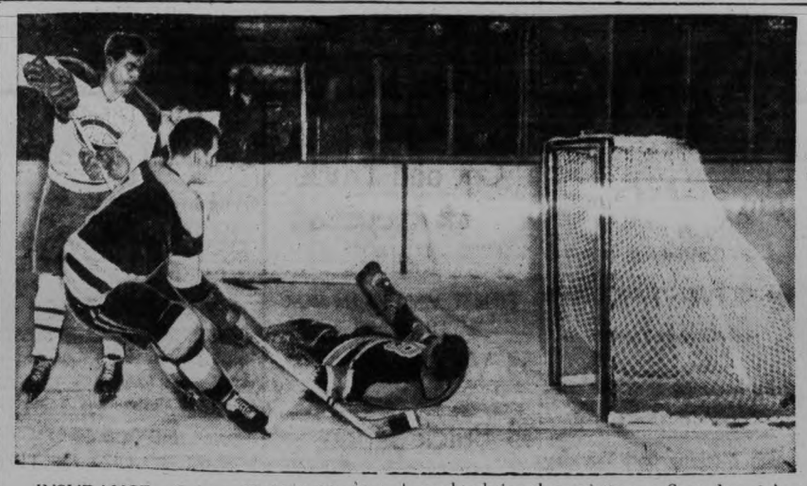
BOXING CAREER OVER



MARSEILLE (AP)—Ray Grassi, promising young boxer who lost his title as French featherweight champion Sunday, underwent brain surgery Sunday night.

A French boxing official announced Monday that his career as a boxer was finished.

Grassi, 23, was knocked down by Mohamed Chickaoui, French Algerian boxer, twice in the title bout. In the ninth round Grassi was down for the count of nine, painfully got up, then slumped back on to the canvas.

Voters Quiet

DENHAM, England (CP)—Counillors of this Buckinghamshire town discontinued their 15-minute question-and-answer sessions for members of the public. They said the people "just weren't interested."

INSURANCE—Calum (Baldy) MacKay pulls Jim Henry out on a tumbling attempt to stop him as he shoots Canadiens' final goal to bring them victory on Saturday night. McCormack, who also scored a goal, fed him the pass. The Canadiens took both games of the home and home series 4-2 and 7-2.

Art Gallery Given Gift Of $25,000

TORONTO (CP)—A gift of $25,000, to be spread evenly over five years, has been presented to the Art Gallery of Toronto by J. S. McLean, meat-packing executive, it was announced Monday night.

Mr. McLean, a founder member and a vice-president of the gallery, has donated the money for United States and Canadian art. Of the $5,000 yearly grant, $3,000 is to be spent on U. S. work, $2,000 on Canadian art.

City Carpetball

The schedule for the week of December 14 is: Glens No. 6 vs. Fire Hall No. 4; Red Patch No. 13 vs. Legion No. 9; Orphans No. 8 vs. LOL No. 12; Legion No. 3 vs. Legion No. 1; Fire Hall No. 10 vs. Lawn Boys No. 2; Legion No. 7 vs. Legion No. 11; Legion No. 5 vs. Post Office No. 14.

Results of last week's play: The real hot team of the league is Chuck Steadman's Legion No. 9 boys as they again swept to a four-point gain by defeating the Lawn Boys No. 2 by scores of 16-4 and 15-4.

At the Fire Hall, between Glens No. 6 and Fire Hall No. 10, the first game was tied three times, the last time in the 11th end—then the Glens scored a single to win a close 11-10 game. In the second game No. 6 captured the first six ends and that proved too big a handicap for No. 10 to overcome, even though they won the last three ends, they lost 10-7.

LOL No. 12 dropped the first game to Legion No. 1 by a 7-14 score. In the second game a big seven end by No. 12 was more than sufficient to win 19-8 for the Orangemen.

One of the closest matches of the week saw Orphans No. 8 playing at home against Fire Hall No. 4. The first game was tied at five-all in sixth and again in eighth with No. 8 coming from behind both times. No. 4 had to come from behind in the final end to make it 10-10. In the second game No. 8 came from behind in the 10th to make it 8-all but No. 4 was not to be denied and captured the next two ends and the game by an 11-8 score.

Legion No. 3 captured most of the ends with singles to grab a 9-6 victroy over Legion No. 5. The second game saw No. 3 move into the lead and were ahead 11-4 in the 10th frame and while No. 5 won the last three ends they failed to collect sufficient and No. 3 won 11-9.

CAPTURED BOTH

Posties No. 14 won both games from Legion No. 7, taking the first by default and winning a close 9-7 victory in the second game.

Legion No. 11 won two smashing victories from Red Patch No. 13. The first by a 17-5 score and the other 22-5. This must have been the Patches' off-night. The postponed game between Fire Hall No. 10 and Legion No. 11 resulted in a split.

The first game was tied at 5-all in the sixth frame but a four-end by No. 10 put the game on ice as they won 12-7. In the second game No. 10 only scored in three ends and Legion No. 11 walked away with a 19-5 victory.

Attention Legion No. 5 and Post Office No. 14: The Posties will be very busy on the Christmas mail rush from December 15 on, and arrangements for this game should be made for Monday, December 14 or sooner.

There is still that postponed game between Legion No. 1 vs. Legion No. 7 that has not been played. The executive will have to make a ruling on it.

Reverses Movie Ban

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Herman M. Moser Monday reversed a Maryland censors' ban on the film "The Moon Is Blue" and termed the actions of the state's board of motion picture censors "arbitrary and capricious." He ruled the film is "neither obscene, indecent, immoral, nor tending to corrupt morals," but actually a story of "virtue Triumphant."

U.S. Planning To Help Japan Rebuild Air Force

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Air Secretary Harold Talbott said Monday night the United States plans eventually to help Japan build an air force.

Talbott's comment, contained in an address prepared for delivery to the Chamber of Commerce, came, probably by coincidence, on the anniversary of "Pearl Harbor" day.

It served to point up the vast change in the world picture that had occurred since the day in 1941 when Japanese air power destroyed or crippled most of the U.S. naval fleet in the Pacific.

GIVES NO DETAILS

Talbott gave no details for the plan to aid Japan, referring to it only in describing the 115,000 miles of travelling he has done "along the front of the Iron Curtain" to inspect American air installations. He said:

"Japan, by its treaty, was stripped of its air power in 1946. The Japanese have not rebuilt their air power. As a consequence the United States Air Force provides the air power required to defend that nation. We propose eventually to assist Japan in rebuilding her air pow[illegible] provide a measure of her [illegible]ity."

Tailors Object To Darts Game In Shirt Sleeves

LONDON (Reuters)—The trade publication of Britain's tailors says it's unseemly for men to strip down to shirt sleeves for the evening game of darts at the corner tavern. Too many players in shirt sleeves tend to make the game look "scruffy," says "Tailor and Cutter."

To remedy the situation it proposes a new garment to be known as the "darts jacket." Prizes are offered for the best ideas on what the well-dressed darts player may wear.

The ordinary suit or sports coat, says the magazine, creases and bunches up when the player throws. The sleeve drags on the arm and prevents full freedom of delivery. These suggestions are offered to designers:

More freedom at the armhole; waterproofing treatment to avoid beer stains; bright colors for dazzling the opponent; a special pocket for the "arrows," and short sleeves for greater throwing ease.

Centenarian Votes

GUELPH (CP)—John McLennan, 100, voted in the civic elections Monday, the 74th time he has exercised his ranchise. He was driven to the polls by a neighbor.

Literary Triumph

WORTHING, England (CP)—Maida Butler dug deep into family history to provide entertainment for her relatives, and her 50,000 word volume turned out to be an unusually accurate description of life in the 18th and 19th centuries. The manuscript now has been accepted by the British museum.

Silenced Presses Leave Great Void In Gotham

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the power of the press?

Empty newsstands are teaching New York City the answer.

Millions of New Yorkers learned that their favorite newspaper, like their favorite wife, was something they had taken for granted—something they now really appreciated for the first time because it was no longer there for them to depend on.

LEFT EMPTY SPACES

They missed the daily rendezvous with their daily newspaper, and nothing could quite take its place. A strike that silenced every major paper in the city for the first time in its history left holes, large or small, in every life. Even blind men, for whom a newspaper is still a window to an unseen world, complained.

People discovered anew the importance of the printed word—the daily printed word. Television and radio reporters worked overtime to tell the news, but the spoken word didn't fill the gap left by the silent presses.

The first day of the strike my wife, Frances, remarked cheerfully:

"Well, it's nice to see your face at breakfast again after all these years."

"To tell you the truth I miss the advertising more than the news," she said the second day. "It's rather nice not to know all the terrible things that are happening in the world."

"Oh, I guess I can put off my Christmas shopping until this strike is settled," she said the third day. "You waste so much time shopping if you don't know what the stores are featuring."

HUNGER FOR NEWS

But the fourth day she was hit by news hunger:

"Tell me what is happening. I want to now what is really going on. Even if most of the news is bad, I guess I want to know it. It makes me restless when there isn't a newspaper in the house."

I suppose this experience was typical in thousands of homes. The feeling of uneasiness deepened with each day of the strike. A newspaper is a mirror that reflects and to go day after day without looking in a mirror?

As a newspaper man, I found it odd to listen to the comments of readers on how the strike affected their personal lives.

"Gee, wouldn't you hate to get fulfills many needs, and who likes married now?" one girl asked another. "You wouldn't even get your name in the Sunday paper, and I don't know how else I'll ever do it."

"My worst enemy could drop dead and I wouldn't know it," mourned a confirmed reader of the obituary page.

"How can I find out what my competitors are doing?" grumbled a business man. "And what's going to happen to my Christmas business if I can't place an ad?"

There was a great void in the daily voice of the city. Each missed something of the power of the press—its many-faceted power to inform, advise, enlighten and entertain its millions of readers in a complicated world which nothing can explain so well as the daily newspaper.

CBC Will Establish Bureau Of Research

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC will soon establish a bureau of audience research to better determine the likes and dislikes of its listeners, J. A. Ouimet, general manager, announced today.

Neil Morrison, now supervisor of talks and public affairs broadcasts, has been named director of the bureau.

Mr. Ouimet said the "bureau is being created in answer to the need for more information on the size, composition and preferences of listening and viewing audiences in Canada."

He said the present regular surveys only provide "an indication of the number of listeners to any given station at a given time."

Newspaperman Dies

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—John J. Meegan, secretary and director of the Buffalo Courier-Express, Inc., collapsed and died in the newspaper's executive offices Monday. Meegan, 62, had been in ill health for some time.

Seymour Council Asks Havelock To Supply Fire Protection

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Reeve Archer and councillor Elmhirst of Seymour township council addressed the Havelock council at their meeting Friday night held in the school in regard to an agreement with Havelock for fire protection for Trent River.

The council agreed to guarantee the Seymour township council fire protection for Trent River until an agreement be made, at the rate of $50 for the first hour and $25 for the second hour and any time thereafter.

A letter was read from H. W. Roche, secretary-treasurer of the Norwood District High School Board saying that in order to simplify the accounting and avoid confusion in school book grants it has been recomended by the department of education that the Norwood District High School Board retain the entire amount of the departmental grant on the cost of the new high school building and deduct that amount from their annual budget for operation and maintenance. This would eliminate the necessity of dividing the grant among the municipalities concerned resulting in a little decrease in the rate for county purposes (school debenture) and a similar decrease in the levy for operation and maintenance.

The plant, the letter said, has been approved by the department of eduation and also by the board at their October meeting and the board would be very glad to have the council's comment in writing for their file. The plan would take effect in 1954. The council agreed to the plan.

The offer from Canadian Breweries Transport Ltd., in their case versus the village of Havelock, to pay $45 for damages and costs of $20 was accepted by the council.

Work discussed was preparation for sanding the streets, holes to be repaired, on Ontario St. and Oak St. at the post office and barber shop and fresh gravel to be put on these places. Chief Hall was instructed to get men and truck to do work.

Chief Hall reported for November complaint and occurrences, 35; articles reported lost and found, four; attempted break-ins, three; break-ins reported and investigated, one; building permits issued, two; dog tags sold, four; fires reported, one; motor vehicle accidents reported, three; summons served for other police departments, one; highway traffic act, two.

The accounts passed included: R. W. Hall, salary, transportation, $208.36; garbage collection, $125; D. A. McMillen, salary, $115; direct relief, $80.12; gravel, $2.10; Hubbel Hardware, $9.39; Department of Health, insulin, $4.25; county rate, $11,415.56; street lights, $2,116.04; McFarland Construction Co., balance, $438.26; printing, $155; asssesors' salary, $400; expenses, $3.50; selecting jurors, $8.

UNCLE FINDS TORONTO GIRL'S CLOTHES

WHAT THE WELL-DRESSED POSTMAN will wear for headgear this winter is a navy blue Korean-style peaked battle cap, with ear lugs, if, as and when the weather gets cold enough. Permanent letter carrier Albert Allen models the cap in the Post Office locker room, surrounded by other style hats worn in the service. They are, clockwise, the old Beaver (too hot), the spring and fall flat hat and the summer straw skimmer. The new battle-style cap seems to meet with the approval of all carriers. "Sensible," they say. — (Examiner Staff Photo)

Rejected Suitor Now Suspect

Clothing Discovered About 20 Miles From Abduction Spot

TORONTO (CP) — A black skirt and some blood-stained underclothing, believed to have been worn by Marion McDowell when she was abducted, were found today by one of the uncles of the 17-year-old blue-eyed blonde.

Police, who earlier today offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the masked gunman who kidnapped the girl, were trying to get

The garments—the skirt, brassiere, a single silk stocking and a kerchief—were found on the Don Mills road near Oak Ridges, about 20 miles from the Scarborough township lover's lane where the abduction occurred.

The girl's uncle is one of hundreds of civilians and police who began combing the fields and lanes of Scarborough township and surrounding communities at dawn today.

DEFINITE SUSPECT

At the same time police said they now have a "definite suspect," a boy who was said to have three times threatened the girl with violence if she refused to marry him.

Relatives of the girl said the boy was a former roller-skating companion of Marion. He had telephoned threats three times in the last month but she had refused to see him again "because she didn't love him."

In a last-minute development at noon today, police said they were hunting a speeding car in which a young man and young woman were reported fighting. A motorist said the car forced him off a road in the city's northern suburbs. Scarboro officers asked provincial police help in tracking the car which outsped a police cruiser.

Meanwhile the distraught father has appealed to farmers in southern Ontario to help find his kidnapped daughter before the snow flies.

As hope waned that 17-year-old Marion McDowell still was alive and a search continued for her body, Ross McDowell said in a public appeal Tuesday night the girl might be anywhere in southern Ontario.

"I ask you all to examine closely every corner of your farms where my daughter could possibly be. This is especially urgent because snowstorms could soon make searching impossible."

The girl disappeared Sunday night. James Wilson, 19, with whom she had been sitting in a parked automobile on a lonely

Western Governments Hail Eisenhower Plan For World Atomic Pool

Constructive Advance To Disarmament U.K. Officials Say

LONDON —(CP)— Governments throughout the free world today hailed President Eisenhower's atomic proposals as a major move intended to free the earth from the haunting fear of obliteration.

A foreign office spokesman here said the president made a "profoundly moving speech" which offered a "constructive approach" to the great disarmament problem.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said upon his return to Paris that Eisenhower had shown the text of his atomic plan to the French and British delegations in Bermuda and it had been warmly received by them.

"This declaration can have considerable influence," Bidault said. "It testified furthermore to the spirit in which the Atlantic Allies consider the essential and critical problem of the atom in the dilemma of war and peace."

PRESS ENTHUSIASTIC

Eisenhower's proposals for an international atomic energy pool were generally hailed in Western newspaper editorials.

The London Recorder said the president may have prevented a third world war single-handed by his speech Tuesday in the General Assembly.

The Manchester Guardian said could have gone farther than Eisenhower.

In Australia, Richard Casey, external affairs minister, said the president's proposal would help free the world from the fear of atomic weapons, by which "the very continuance of civilized life on the globe is potentially threatened."

CHURCHILL IN FAVOR

Several newspapers, in reporting the "historic speech," said Prime Minister Churchill pledged support of the plan at the Burmuda Big Three conference.

The Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, asked: "Is it possible that the American gesture may at last see a lightening of the fear that weighs so heavily on men's hearts?"

The Manchester Guardian said that the Eisenhower plan may help break the long East-West deadlock over control of atomic power. But it warned that the plan in itself cannot "provide full control and full security."

TWO PAPERS CRITICIZE

Two British papers attacked Eisenhower for flexing American atomic might.

The Communist Daily Worker summed up the speech as "a blackmailing threat against the Soviet Union."

W. N. Connor, columnist of The Daily Mirror and one of Eisenhower's severest critics in Britain, said the president would have de-

Stage Mock Attack

ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany (CP) — This RCAF fighter base in the Saar today staged a mock-ground-air attack to show Defence Minister Brooke Claxton what its three Sabre jet squadrons and well-trained ground-defence system can do. After the attack, which forced all non-combatants to take cover, Claxton was shown ground maintenance operations, including repairs, quick-time refuelling and control tower techniques.

Fateful Decision On Co-operation Now Up To Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP)— President Eisenhower's bold new proposal for an international atomic energy pool has put squarely up to Russia a fateful decision on co-operation with the West.

Andrei Vishinsky, chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, said today that "it is necessary to study" the president's proposal.

United Nations diplomats declare that a favorable Soviet response could greatly advance prospects for eventual control of the atom, while a rejection would further harden the East-West deadlock.

Eisenhower, fresh from the Bermuda conference where he got the backing of Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel for his action, told the UN General Assembly late Tuesday that the United States is ready to join immediately in secret talks on setting up an international atomic energy agency to which qualified countries would contribute atomic material for peaceful purposes.

But he said Russia would have to be one of the participating powers. He did not name others but it was learned he considers Britain, which produces atomic materials, and Canada, Australia, South Africa and Belgium, which produce uranium, the raw source material, also would be included.

ALLIES SHARE SECRET

Earlier in his speech he referred to possession of the atomic "secret" by "our friends and allies, Great Britain and Canada, whose scientific genius made a tremendous contribution to our original discoveries and designs of atomic bombs."

The revolutionary nature of the president's proposal, the thing that made many UN delegates think it might prove acceptable to Russia, was that it would not require prior agreement on an acceptable system of international inspection of atomic plants in all countries because it avoids for the moment the whole question of atomic arms.

Instead, it calls for creation of a practical operating body, under the banner of the UN, which would engage in strictly peaceful use of atomic materials for the maximum benefit of the greatest number of countries.

Railway Union Votes To Strike Not Christmas

MONTREAL (CP) — The 6,500 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (Ind) employed by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways have voted 95 per cent in favor of taking strike action to settle a jurisdictional dispute.

In making the announcement today, W. E. Gamble, the union's international vice-president, said the door will be left open for further negotiations before a strike date is set.

He gave assurance there will be no strike during the coming holiday period because "we have no quarrel with the public and it is not our desire to spoil their Christmas."

The strike vote had been in progress for several weeks.

The dispute centres around the brotherhood's claim that it should have the right to represent firemen after they have become engineers. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (Ind.) now represents the firemen when they become engineers and also represents them if they revert temporarily to the rank of firemen.

The railways have termed the dispute a jurisdictional one that should be settled by the unions themselves.

Charges White Helped Throttle British Empire

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said today that the late Harry Dexter White, former assistant secretary of the United States treasury, helped place a "throttlehold" on the British Empire.

It said White played a "vital part" in shaping Britain's post-war policy because of his association with Lord Keynes, famed British economist.

"Together the two men tied Britain to the world bank and the international monetary fund, with consequent blows at the British Empire. The American loan, with similar results, followed."

The article, entitled "Was Keynes Duped?" quoted the biography of Lord Keynes written by Dr. Roy Harrod, editor of the Economic Journal.

Harrod is quoted as saying in his book that Keynes thought highly of White and expected he would become head of the international monetary fund, and that if he did the fund would be in safe hands.

"The two men, Keynes and White, are now dead," the article ends. "But the throttlehold they placed on the Empire persists.

"Things might have been different if Keynes had not been taken in so completely by Harry Dexter White."

Boundary Freeze Said Red Plan

BONN, (AP) — West German government officials predicted today that the Russians will call for a freeze on present east-west boundaries in Europe at the proposed Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin in a supreme bid to kill off plans for European unity.

Competent officials said Western acceptance of such a Russian demand would leave Germany disarmed and divided, the Red army standing on the Elbe river and Western Europe with little hope of either political or military unity.

German authorities are convinced that the Berlin meeting, if held, will make no progress toward settling the German question. They feel Moscow will refuse to give up control of East Germany and permit unification of this divided country.

Tug Operators Strike Liner Can't Sail

More than 1,000 passengers went aboard this morning while the men argued whether or not to continue their unofficial strike but at departure time no decision had been reached.

Normally the Elizabeth needs seven tugs to get her out of harbor. The tug men are demanding two firemen in each of the new oil-burning ships instead of one as at present.

SuggestsAnnual Conference For Commonwealth, U.S.

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda —(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, wan and weary after the pressure of the Big Three conference here, proposes that legislators of the Commonwealth and the United States meet regularly to discuss principles and ideas. Speaking on Tuesday night at the annual dinner given by Sir John Cox, speaker of Bermuda's House of Assembly, the 79-year-old British leader suggested that the gathering be held annually or even triannually in Bermuda, "home of the second oldest parliament in the world."

Churchill said the participants should talk about such principles and ideas as "fair play, decent behavior, courage and, if necessary, even sacrifice."

JIBES AT PRESS

Although obviously tired from the gruelling four-day conference, Churchill's face was cherubic as ever when he rose in response to a toast from Sir Alexander Hood, governor of the island colony.

Jibing at the world's press for wanting communiques issued during the conference on the progress of the talks, he said: "Prime ministers must be able to get together and will have to do so more and more as the years unfold. They must be able to talk privately without an agenda and be able to conduct their dicussions without communiques."

This is the sacrifice the press must make to assure the security of the world, he asserted.

Continue Press Search For 6 Missing Men

SEPT ILES, Que. (CP)—Search officials, their hopes still alive for the safety of six men who disappeared Sunday in an Anson aircraft, today sent about 30 planes to search over the St. Lawrence north shore area.

One official said there was "very little possibility" the pilot, George Stapely, overshot the shore during his 224-mile flight in a snow storm from Ross Bay to Sept Iles.

Officials believe the pilot landed on some frozen lake.

The aircraft, owned by CMMK Construction Company was bringing five construction workers out of the bush.

Passengers were identified as Doug Dolby, Garnett Mooney and Wilmer Tubman, all of Toronto; Clint Burley, Thessalon, Ont., and Joe MacKinnon, Middleton, N. S.

Streamline Secretariat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.— (AP)—Plans to streamline the United Nations secretariat for a saving of $1,000,000 a year won qualified approval of the General Assembly's administrative and budgetary committee yesterday. The 60-nation committee passed a resolution noting these proposals of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and recommending "to the extent possible," he should proceed on the lines proposed.

OHA Suspends Greenshirts

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league were suspended today in an OHA ruling.

Tony Gregg of Wingham, OHA president, said the suspension will last until a decision on their status can be made at a meeting of an OHA sub-committee and the Junior A council.

The meeting will probably be held in the next three or four days, Gregg said. It was expected the suspension will be lifted in time for the Greenshirts' next scheduled game Saturday in Galt.

Neighbor, Fireman Save Two Boys In Fire

BELLEVILLE (CP)—A neighbor and a fireman saved two young boys from a fire on the second floor of a frame house Tuesday. The children, Bill, three months, and Bernard, 3, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Howe.

Mrs. M. Whiting, 28, a neighbor who was called by the maid of the Howe family, carried Bill out of the burning house. Fred Ellis, a fireman, saved Bernard.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Dean Threatens To Break Off Korean Talks

PANMUNJOM (AP) — United States envoy Arthur H. Dean threatened today to break off the tottering preliminary Korean peace talks unless progress is made in a reasonable time, and the Allied delegation prepared to head home for Christmas.

"It is apparent that the American delegation will be out of here before Dec. 20," one high source said. "Our boys are packing."

Communist insistence on Russia attending the peace conference as a neutral observer rather than as a voting participant has stalled negotiations to arrange the peace talks.

Dean told the Reds he will not be bullied into accepting Russia as a neutral and warned that he will continue the negotiations only as long as there is a "reasonable chance" of success.

CAN WALK OUT

He said he has full authority from the 17 United Nations members he represents to walk out whenever he feels there is no chance of reaching agreement.

Meanwhile, another 30 South Korean war prisoners who refused repatriation unanimously reaffirmed today their decision to remain under Communist rule.

Allied explainers have talked with 220 prisoners without getting a single one to change his mind. Thirty of the 108 remaining South Koreans to be interviewed will be called up Thursday.

AMERICANS MAY RETURN

When the South Koreans are completed early next week, the 22 Americans and one Briton who stayed with the Communists will appear before Allied explainers. One high U. S. officer has predicted that five or six of the Americans will decide to return home.

No apparent progress has been made in the preliminary peace talks since they began Oct. 26. The Reds Wednesday rejected outright for a second time a "final" plan handed them Tuesday by Dean.

Princess Likes Ancient Coin

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Anne, 3, today got a 392-year-old crooked sixpence, and her brother, Prince Charles, 5, got a groat (four-penny coin)—both minted in the reign of Elizabeth I.

The coins were presented to the royal children by an antique firm in Kent, in honor of Queen Elizabeth II's six-month tour of 14 Commonwealth nations.

Tow-headed Princess Anne, who loves nursery rhymes, was delighted with her bent sixpence because it goes with a verse about "a crooked sixpence."

When she is considerably older the sixpence could mean even more to her. Elizabethan swains used to bend a sixpence and give it to their sweethearts as a sign of true love.

Charles' groat bears the dates 1558-61, and represents the daily wage of one of the seamen who sailed around the world with Sir Francis Drake.

Police Inquiry Takes New Turn

SARNIA (CP) — Investigation into affairs of the Sarnia detachment of the Ontario provincial police took a new turn today with arrival in Sarnia of three top men of the provincial force, including commissioner E. V. MacNeill.

Accompanying the commissioner was deputy commissioner W. H. Lougheed and staff inspector Leonard Neil.

Reason for their arrival was not immediately disclosed but it was believed further investigations may be made.

Investigation of administrative matters concerning the local detachment were carried out last week by Deputy commissioner Lougheed under provisions of the Police Act. Later he left to report personally to Commissioner MacNeill in Toronto without disclosing the scope or findings of his investigation.

Beef Pricing Inquiry Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — An investigation into the pricing and grading of beef is sought by E. D. Fulton, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for Kamloops.

He gave notice today of a resolution in the Commons asking the government to investigate:

1. Why the spread between prices paid to the producer for top grade beef and those for the lower grades "are not accompanied by a corresponding choice of prices required to be paid by consumers."

2. Whether "there is an abuse under the present system of grading," and how any such abuse might be eliminated.

2nd Class Air Mail Service To Britain

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canada-to-Britain second class air mail service will be launched Dec. 15, the post office department said today.

This service will cover printed matter, commercial papers, samples, newspapers and literature for the blind. The air postage rate will be 10 cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce.

The new service will be of particular assistance to Canada's exporters who have been striving for months to have the service established.

Ask Dunlop Aid For Education Books

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto East presbytery of the Presbyterian Church of Canada will ask Minister of Education Dunlop to aid in the preparation of religious education guide books for grades 7 and 8.

The presbytery Tuesday night supported a report advocating extension of religious education to the high school level.

The report recommended regulations be amended to make possible religious teaching in grades 9 to 13 during the school day in "situations" where local school boards may desire it.

Pearson Leaves Without Talking

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson left Tuesday for Paris by air without making any further statements on the Gouzenko affair. He dashed from the Commons to catch his plane.

Last official word on the case came Saturday when Canada told the United States it was asking Igor Gouzenko whether he wanted to be questioned by representatives of the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee.

Last week, the sub-committee accepted Canada's conditions for questioning Gouzenko: Gouzenko must agree, the meeting must be held in secret in Canada, and Canada must approve any testimony before it could be made public.

It was possible no announcement would be made until after a meeting were held, if one does take place.

Mr. Pearson is going to Paris to attend a conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He will return in about two weeks.

Reach For 'Smog Masks'

Dense Yellow Fog Grips London, Day Becomes Night

LONDON (AP)—A bitter yellow fog gripped London and much of England today, ending the "Indian summer" of December.

There were floods and howling winds in southern France, fog and cold in Germany, but unseasonably warm and sunny conditions in other places.

Londoners reached for their "smog masks" and lights were switched on in offices and shops as day turned into night.

North Germany coughed and shivered in fog and icy weather. More than 50 ships were tied up in the Elbe estuary and the Kiel canal. The temperature fell below freezing in Munich and Berlin.

ROUGH IN FRANCE

In southern France, one villager was crushed to death and 2,000 others reported homeless after torrential rains and howling winds. The little Orb river spilled over its banks, flooding the Beziers area.

In Rome, tourists were seen wearing straw hats and jasmine has come into bloom—rare in December even for sunny Italy. Paris, Copenhagen, Stockholm and Vienna all reported mild weather.

Multi-Million Dollar Lottery

W. Berlin Crosses Fingers Big 4 Meet Means Bonanza

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin acted today like a man who holds the winning ticket in a multi-million-dollar lottery and is afraid somebody will declare it counterfeit.

City officials, hotel men and shopkeepers are keeping their fingers crossed, fervently hoping Moscow will accept the Allied proposal for a Big Four meeting here Jan. 4.

If that foreign ministers' conference comes off, the isolated West sectors of Berlin will wallow in a giant bonanza.

Authorities are already calculating in the millions of dollars. They reckon on at least 4,000 visitors, including upwards of 800 press and radio men.

Shops are taking a gamble now, laying in post-Christmas stocks of such tourist bait as cameras, jewelry, toys, souvenirs, and haberdashery.

City hall estimates that a conference of only two weeks would pour in well over $1,000,000.

Toronto Drunks Up, Down In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A newspaper says today in a newspage story the number of persons charged in Montreal courts with intoxication has declined sharply since 1948 while in Toronto the number has increased.

The Montreal total in 1948 was 7,749 cases compared with 5,755 in 1952. Toronto's total was 11,148 in 1948 compared with 13,045.

The newspaper says "the comparison is striking due to the differences in population, the laxer Quebec liquor laws, the Toronto blue law, Montreal's greater number of outlets, and the fact that it is a deep-sea port where notoriously hard-drinking sailor abound."

George Newton Elected Belmont Reeve

HAVELOCK (ENS) — George Newton, deputy-reeve in 1953, is the new reeve of Belmont-Methuen township. He defeated the presen' reeve, William E. Griffith, by 384 votes to 319.

In a close vote, Gardiner Gawley defeated Robert Wrightly by 351 votes to 333, for the office of deputy-reeve. Both men were councillors in 1953.

Lack of telephone communication delayed the results of Monday's election in the township till late Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Gawley will be a newcomer to county council.

Before being elected as the reeve for 1954 Mr. Newton was 13 years a councillor and one year as deputy-reeve. These 14 years in municipal office were continuous service. He was the only one of the 1946 council to retain his seat in the big upset that year.

Mr. Griffith, a veteran of 45 years in municipal politics, has been a councillor of Belmont-Methuen for four years; and he has been reeve for 12 years. In 1921 he was warden.

Mr. Newton led all the way in the contest for reeve. His majority was reduced to 65 when the final poll, Lasswade, gave Mr. Griffith 14 votes and Mr. Newton 2.

Only 18 votes separated Mr. Gawley, the victor, from Mr. Wrightly as deputy-reeve. In the Lasswade poll, the last of eight to be reported, Mr. Gawley got 15 votes and Mr. Wrightly 1.

Here is the Belmont-Methuen list of elected representatives for 1954:

Reeve—George Newton.

Deputy-reeve—Gardiner Gawley.

School Area No. 2—Walter Vansteenburgh, Everett Toms and Earl Dafoe (acclamation).

Weather Curtails Skiing Interest

Weather conditions last year, and so far this, have not been conducive to skiing interest. The Peterborough Ski Club, headed by Uzal (Waddy) Waterman, held a meeting Tuesday night at the YMCA to discuss the problem.

It was decided to issue letters to past members of the club in an attempt to stimulate interest. The evening's entertainment included four films on skiing. Andy Rutter acted as master of ceremonies.

Rejected Suitor

lovers' lane in suburban Scarboro township, told police he saw her stuffed unconscious into the trunk of another car by a masked gunman who slugged the young couple with a pistol butt.

Since then, police have questioned more than 200 persons, many of them close friends of the fun-loving blonde, and cleared them of any connection with the disappearance.

High school students, scouts and about 75 adults helped police search fields and wooded gulleys in Scarboro for the comely typist Tuesday. The searchers even combed the area below Scarboro bluffs on the Lake Ontario shore a few miles east of Toronto on the chance of her abductor might have thrown her body from the cliffs.

The girl's parents, broken hearted and weary, appealed through a letter in the newspapers to the abductor to tell them their daughter's whereabouts.

And the father addressed a later appeal to the man believed to have made off with the girl whose chief enthusiasms were motorcycles and crooner records. He said:

"I now ask only that you send a note to the police or to me telling us where we can find Marion. If you do, I solemnly promise that, if you are captured, I will appeal for all the mercy the law can grant you."

No Price War On Wheat Canada Predicts

OTTAWA (CP) — Razor-edge competition between Canada and the United States has emerged in the sale of surplus wheat, but officials here predict no price war.

The major development that keep Canada's wheat salesmen on their toes is the U.S. decision, announced Tuesday, to cut American price of wheat sold outside the International Wheat Agreement to the IWA level.

Historically, the non-IWA price has been higher both in Canada and the U.S. Canada took steps several months ago to bring both prices into line. This is the first time the U.S. has fallen into step.

Biggest non-IWA market is Britain, which earlier this year declined to sign the new wheat agreement. Traditionally Britain is Canada's biggest wheat market. Now the U.S. non-IWA selling price will be virtually the same as Canada's.

Britain will be in the driver's seat. She will have the choice either of buying from Canada or the U.S. The price to her will be the same.

EXPECT U.K. SALES

Officials here said Britain will still continue to buy heavily from Canada because:

1. The U.S. plans to offer only "limited" supplies at the reduced price.

2. Baking quality of Canadian wheat is considered generally to be a little better than the American.

However, they sense the increasing struggle for world markets.

"It will mean competition," said Trade Minister Howe, "but no more than we expected."

Another official said "this is a sign of the increasing competition but there will be no price war."

livered "the biggest scare speech in history about the atom bomb" had not Churchill talked him out of it at Bermuda.

He said Charles D. Jackson, "a psychological warfare expert . . . ace-high in the president's counsels," had urged Eisenhower to let the world know the full horrors and possibilities of atomic warfare and the hideous potentialities of the hydrogen bomb.

Reasoning behind this "clumsy international political bludgeoning," according to Connor, is this: ". . . if the United States cannot persuade the Soviet Union about the size of the stick that hangs behind the door, she may as well take it down and let all the customers hear the hiss and sigh of it as she swings it through the air."

JACKSON BLAMED

Connor, who writes under the pen name "Cassandra," noted that it was Jackson who persuaded Eisenhower "to go to Korea on his shameless vote-catching tour."

"His (Jackson's) advice seems to range from advocating blatant demagoguery in Korea to vulgar muscle-bulging at the United Nations. Thus the luckless president pursues his stumbling career."

But the influential Times said the deep sincerity of the president's speech must have a lasting impression far beyond the ranks of the General Assembly, and "Russia's response to the proposal will be awaited with eagerness."

In Athens, the Greek foreign minister, Stefanos Stefanopoulos, said: "We sincerely hope Eisenhower's proposals will be accepted quickly by all. His suggestion brings home that a new era in relations between men and nations will ensue."

PLAN SAID PRACTICAL

Official Danish spokesmen said the president's plan is more practical than existing proposals for controlling atomic energy. But while it would be an important step, it only would touch a small part of the atomic problem as a whole.

Austrian officials said their country, "like all others," would welcome anything that would be a step towards banning atomic weapons.

In Ottawa Opposition leader George Drew, speaking in the House of Commons shortly after the president finished his address, said:

"It is a speech which should offer greater encouragement than the people of this world have had for many years."

HOWE APPROVES

In an interview, Trade Minister Howe supported Eisenhower's suggestion for a pooling of resources for peaceful development of atomic energy.

He said Canada would accept an invitation to attend the talks proposed by the U. S. president.

A government official said Canada would be in a position to make a major contribution at such a meeting because all Canadian research in the atomic-energy field has been devoted to peacetime use of the atom.

While Canada has the scientific skill to produce an atomic bomb, no research or experiment with weapons forms any part of the Canadian atomic program at Chalk River, Ont. All research is aimed at developing atomic energy for peaceful purposes with particular attention to medicine and power.

Chimney Fire

CAMPBELLFORD — Firemen were called to extinguish a chimney fire at the home of Roy Mackie on West River road shortly after 9 a.m. today. Overheated pipes threatened to cause serious trouble but the blaze was extinguished without serious damage.

The money goes into a general fund being collected by wives of British Officers at Headquarters, Hannover district. The fund will be used for a Christmas party and to provide comforts and medical supplies for TB patients, children and old people. Pictured here (right) is Major C. P. U.S. President Lauds Canada

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—President Eisenhower in his address to the United Nations General Assembly Tuesday paid tribute to the "scientific genius" of Britain and Canada.

He said those two countries had "made a tremendous contribution to our original discoveries and the designs of atomic bombs."

The President made the reference in stating that the secret of the atomic bomb "is possessed by our friends and Allies, Great Britain and Canada."

"The secret is also known by the Soviet Union," he said.

Ban Hawaiian Music

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — All Hawaiian guitar music has been outlawed in Russia, the official Communist newspaper Pravda reports. The newspaper quoted A. Duyev of the state phonograph industry board as saying that of 2,000 recordings of light music, only 600 remained after a purge of music "unifting the culture of the Soviet Union."

DEFENCES NOT ENOUGH

Eisenhower made his proposal after a sombre warning that the alternative to effective international action on the atom was the probable destruction of civilization in an atomic war. He said it was not enough to erect defences—which can never be adequate—against atomic attack and to amass terrible power of retaliation against the attacker.

"To pause there," he said in words of grimmest warning, "would be to confirm the hopeless finality of a belief that two atomic collossi are doomed to eye each other indefinitely across a trembling world.

"To stop there would be to accept helplessly the probability of civilization destroyed, the annihilation of the irreplaceable heritage of mankind handed down to us from generation to generation, and the condemnation of mankind to begin all over again the age-old struggle upward from savagery toward decency, justice, and right.

"Surely no sane member of the human race could discovery victory in such desolation."

The speech had been months in preparation. The president had long wanted to report to the American people on the dangers of the atomic age and suppll some new information on the power of atomic and hydrogen bombs. This information he summed up in a single sentence:

"Atomic bombs today are more than 25 times as powerful as the weapons with which the atomic age dawned (July 16, 1945), while hydrogen weapons are in the ranges of millions of tons of TNT equivalent."

To this he added the comparison that the U. S. stockpile of atomic weapons, which is increasing daily, already "exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent" of all bombs and shells dropped or fired all over the world in the Second World War.

Eisenhower then related the atomic problem to other differences with the Soviet Union. He recalled the long series of conferences and attempts at negotiation to settle such concrete problems as German unification, Austrian independence and Korean peace.

He said the U. S. government is approaching the proposed four-power foreign ministers' conference at Berlin "with hopeful sincerity."

In general the president's speech struck non-Communist members of his UN assembly audience as a constructive contribution to the task of East-West negotiations.

Zafrulla Khan, foreign minister of Pakistan, called the speech "realistic, courageous, and constructive" and said it makes "concrete suggestions toward beneficient objectives."

Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Indian president of the assembly, found the speech "very fine. . . . It has in it the seeds of great opportunity for the world."

Letters Cost 5 Cents Next April

OTTAWA —(CP)— Canadians will spend five cents, instead of four, to send a letter out of town after next April 1. But the letter will go by plane wherever there are air facilities.

The boost of one cent an ounce in first-class mail rates, aimed at ensuring the post office department pays its own way, was announced in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister Abbott.

The increase, first in 10 years, is intended to offset the cost of a shortened work week in the postal service, which Mr. Abbott also announced will take effect in some areas April 1.

The customs service and other "operating" branches of the civil service also will get the five-day, 40-hour week April 1.

DETAILS OF CHANGES

Details of the postal changes:

1. Mailings beyond postal areas will cost five cents instead of four for the first ounce and three cents instead of two for each additional ounce.

2. Mailings within postal areas will be four cents instead of three for the first ounce and two cents instead of one for additional ounces.

3. The domestic airmail rate is eliminated. All first-class mail within Canada will be airmail whenever it can be carried by plane. Rates in airmail beyond Canada will remain unchanged.

One type of mailing won't be affected by the boosts—letters moving within a postal district to and from rural addresses.

RURAL AREAS AFFECTED

Mr. Abbott announced that the rate for letters within postal areas will be extended to rural routes. It has applied only to city and town deliveries. This change will offset for rural areas the increase on mailings within postal areas.

The reduced work week from the present average 44 hours will go into effect in localities where it is general practice for private business and industry. The minister said the list of localities will be announced by the civil service commission.

Civil service office staffs in some localities were granted a five-day week earlier this year.

EXPECT DEFICIT

Mr. Abbott said the postal service expects a deficit in the current fiscal year that ends March 31, because of higher costs. The short work week in the next fiscal year would require "substantial" additions to the present staff of about 19,000.

For the past few years the post office has provided what is called the "all-up" service for first-class mail, carrying ordinary mailings by plane when space was available. The seven-cent airmail got priority.

The blue seven-cent stamp showing the Canada goose will be replaced in general use by the ordinary five-cent stamp.

Postal officials said no action has been taken to issue any new denominations.

Say Cigarettes Cause Cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — A science symposium has been told that cigarette smoking can cause cancer of the lung.

"Prolonged and heavy use of cigarettes increases up to 20 times the risk of developing cancer of the lung," declared Dr. Ernest L. Wynder of Memorial Center's Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research.

He and other medical men spoke on "The Cigarette" before the greater New York dental meeting Tuesday.

He reported that a survey of 1,000 men suffering lung cancer showed only 1.5 per cent were non-smokers.

A definite association between lung cancer and heavy smoking also was found in a survey of the smoking habits of more than 5,000 lung cancer sufferers in the United States, England, Germany, Switzerland, Denmark and Czechoslovakia, he said.

Movie Column

Changes Name Actress Clicks In Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cinderella stories are getting scarce in the movie world, but here's one of a New York girl who changed her luck when she changed her name.

Her real name is Donna Lee Hickey, which has a nice lilt to it. But you know how movie studios are. She was signed to play the feminine lead of May Wynn, the night club singer, in "The Caine Mutiny." Nothing would do but that she change her professional name to May Wynn.

Donna now is stuck with May, but she doesn't seem to mind. "You can call me anything you want, as long as you want me to sign on that dotted line," she told Columbia bosses.

As Donna Lee Hickey, she had only middling success in the show world, but decided to try her fortune in Hollywood.

HAD NO LUCK

She toured the studios. No luck. She was about to head east when she discovered a letter she had mislaid. It was a note of introduction from 20th Century-Fox's New York talent scout to William Gordon of the studio's casting department. Gordon gave her a starlet's contract.

"My experience at Fox was a happy one," she commented. "I had bits in three pictures. And I mean bits. You have to look fast to even see me.

"I didn't even work during my last six months there. Every week I hired a taxi, drove to the studio, picked up my cheque and drove home. They said they would hire me for another year at the same salary. I said no thanks."

Donna took off for Las Vegas, Nev., where she was seen by Max Arnow, Columbia's talent head. He had wanted to sign her before, but hadn't been able to locate her. He invited her to test for "From Here to Eternity," but she lost out to another Donna named Reed.

NAME HAD TO GO

Then came "The Caine Mutiny" and May Wynn. Out girl tried out for it and won. But her own name had to go.

"Stanley Kramer, the producer, said there hadn't been a May on the screen since the days of May McEvoy and Mae Murray," she remarked. "He also said May Wynn was good because it couldn't be mispronounced.

"He was right. I receive fan mail addressed to May, Mae or Mai and Wynn, Wyn or Winn. It always get to me."

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Attorney-General Porter will be asked to consider setting up an evening traffic court in London, city council decided Tuesday night. Councillors acted after the police commission advised it could not establish such a court, as courts were under jurisdiction of the province.

Liquor Case Adjourned

HAMILTON (CP)—The case of a Canadian Legion branch here, charged with permitting minors to be present when liquor was sold, was adjourned Tuesday for a week at the request of the crown. The adjournment is to enable the crown to establish whether the branch is an incorporated body or not. If it isn't, an individual will be charged.

"The Awful Arithmetic Of The Atomic Bomb"

With eloquent sincerity President Eisenhower yesterday told the world his country's strength and his country's purpose. In so doing he restablished the United States' indubitable leadership in a world wanting peace and good will for all men, and seeking, out of the fearful shadow of the atomic age, ways by which the inventiveness of man shall be not dedicated to his death but consecrated to his life. In this great speech President Eisenhower made his frankest and greatest appeal to Russia to meet the challenge which confronts humanity.

* * *

The recital of the atomic strength of the U. S. was formidable. Its stock pile of atomic weapons is greater in explosive power than all the bombs, shells, bullets and other explosives fired by plane, gun, ship and submarine in all theatres during the Second World War. From this terrible strength the American purpose to work for peace and negotiation of problems was propounded. For it is the "awful arithmetic of the atomic bomb" that a nation's superiority in atomic armament, or its intention to use atomic weapons only in retaliation, is not a guarantee of safety to that nation. Nor can victory be discovered in carnage as terrible as even one plane carrying an atomic bomb can now create. (One single plane can deliver in one surprise raid destructive power that exceeds that of all the bombs dropped on Britain during the war.) The gravity of the situation which atomic inventions has created is intense; so also is the hope and opportunity, provided the armaments race can be stopped. It is a fearful thing that atomic weapons have now reached "conventional status", and that the U. S. monopoly of them ceased to exist several years ago.

* * *

President Eisenhower affirmed—and in a manner which commends belief—that the U. S. wants agreements, not war, it wants nations to live in freedom, and it seeks ways by which the "minds, hopes and souls of men can move forward". It wants "a new climate of mutually peaceful providence". The U. S. intention to attend and promote useful negotiation at an immediate Four Power meeting is proof of its purpose. So are the President's hopes for "free intermingling" of the peoples of the East and of the West. His proposals for the peaceful use of atomic energy, by national contributions to an international authority, and his adoption of the U. N. Assembly's recommendation that the Atomic Energy Commission explore new avenues, were positive policies to forward the American peaceful purpose and to hasten the day when the fear of atomic energy can disappear.

* * *

The proposals themselves need closer examination, but the fundamental spirit investing them, the open appraisal of the world situation and the frank declaration in favour of conciliation, negotiation and friendship, rekindle hope that the needs not the fears of the world will be served, that nations can live in harmony with each other and that the genius of men can be used for mankind's health and salvation, not for its destruction.

Centenary In Owen Sound

We are happy to join the chorus of Canadian newspapers which is congratulating the Owen-Sound Sun-Times on a century of publication. The Centennial Edition which has reached us is a fine one, but it is only exceptional in its size and the amount of historical matter which it contains; in its regular editions the Sun-Times is fully up to this standard, every publishing day in the year. To Mr. Howard Fleming and his associates we offer our greetings and wishes for another century of useful, honourable life.

A century is a long time in the life of a newspaper, and a long time even in the life of our country. And how greatly newspapers have changed in that time! Very often we hear people expressing regret that some particular Canadian paper in which they are interested is not as good as it used to be. In virtually every case we know that this is not true. Anyone who wants to spend half an hour with the files of any of our papers, for half a century or seventy-five years ago, may prove to himself that newspapers are a very great deal better than they used to be. Not only is more news presented in every issue, in a clearer and more accurate fashion than ever before, but the sense of responsibility of newspapers, their objectivity, and their careful control of their advertising columns is on a level never previously attained. To clothe the newspapers of the past in a rosy cloud of recollection is to forget the political back-stabbing, the rumour disguised as news, and the hair-raising patent medicine advertisements which used to fill so many of their columns. Canadian newspapers have grown with Canada, and they have played a worthy part in Canada's growth.

Not All Americans Are 'McCarthy-Eyed

Earlier this fall the General Council of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. issued a letter to all its member churches, containing a declaration unanimously adopted by the General Assembly of that church. This declaration spoke with unusual force, for an assemblage of its kind, against a "fanatical negativism" growing up in the U. S. While "serious thought should be given to the meance of Communism", and while Congressional committees "have rendered some valuable services to the nation" in this connection, citizens "have reason to take a grave view of the situation which is being created by the almost exclusive concentration of the American mind upon the problem of the threat of Comunism".

Here are some of the more outspoken passages of the Presbyterian declaration against McCarthyism. (McCarthy is not mentioned by name):

"Under the plea that the structure of American society is in imminent peril of being shattered by a satanic conspiracy, dangerous developments are taking place in our national life. Favored by an atmosphere of intense disquiet and suspicion, subtle but potent assault upon basic human rights is now in progress.

"Some Congressional inquiries have revealed a distinct tendency to become inquisitions. These inquisitions, which find their historic pattern in medieval Spain and in the tribunals of modern totalitarian states, begin to constitute a threat to freedom of thought in this country. Treason and dissent are being confused. The shrine of conscience and private judgment, which God alone has a right to enter, is being invaded. Un-American attitudes toward ideas and books are becoming current. Attacks are being made upon citizens of integrity and social position which are utterly alien to our democratic tradition.

"There is growing up over against Communism a fanatical negativism. Totally devoid of a constructive program of action, negativism is in danger of leading the American mind into a spiritual vacuum. Our national house, cleaned of one demon, would invite by its very emptiness, the entrance of seven others. In the case of a national crisis this emptiness could, in the high sounding name of security, be occupied with ease by a Fascist tyranny.

It is proper and wise that the kinship between McCarthyism and Fascism should be clearly pointed out before McCarthy and his kind cause irreparable damage to the American state and society. That such an important body as the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. should state the danger so clearly is indicative of a large section of the people not only dissociated from McCarthyism but also opposed to it. Last week McCarthy urged any citizens in the U. S. who felt that his and not the official foreign policy was right to "write the President". To date, nearly half as many Americans sent telegrams opposing McCarthy's views as those who gullibly wired at McCarthy's behest in favour of them.

The Tip Was Enough

In the Metropolitan Opera House is a restaurant for patrons, operated by Sherry's. It is fashionable to dine there before the opera — at prices around $8.50 a dinner. As the New Yorker interviewing the management of the restaurant was told: "The curtain rises at eight and we open at six. But most diners don't come until seven, which makes it tough to get them out on time. Some people have the appetizer and the entree before the curtain, and dessert and coffee during the first intermission. They reserve their tables for the whole evening".

We were interested in this part of the New Yorker's report. The manager told it: "I must say I had a lot of compliments on the opening. One lady, Mrs. I. Walton Killam, of Montreal — her husband is one of the richest men in Canada — had a party of eighteen. She called me up later from Montreal to congratulate me. She wanted to know if she'd tipped enough. She gave me two hundred dollars for the boys. It was enough".

And not so long ago Americans seemed to think of Canadians as poor cousins!

NOTES AND COMMENT

The Ontario Cabinet has at last solemly declared the buffalo to be a fur-bearing animal, which gives it complete protection at a time when, paradoxically, the buffalo-robe is virtually unheard of.

It is boastfully asserted that checkers outranks chess 50 to 1 as a popular game in the U.S.A. Very likely, and we expect that bean-bag has more players than checkers. Chess is the most difficult of all games, and chess players rightly look upon themselves as the elite among gamesters.

Lord of Atlas Mountains

By PHILIP DEANE

AN ARABIAN-NIGHTS figure emerges from among the stories told about the present troubles in Morocco—Si Thami El Glaoui, the seventy-eight-year-old "Lord of the Atlas Mountains," leader of the tribes on whom the French rely in the fight against surging Moroccan nationalism. A man who still lives as the Caliphs of Bagdad lived, the Glaoui can make tremendously effective use of his medieval methods in modern politics. And it is this ability which makes him, today, the real power behind the Moroccan throne.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE LAST STAGE of his climb to power began in August this year, when the French finally gave El Glaoui permission to proceed with one of his cherished schemes —the deposition of his great enemy, Sultan Sidi Mohamed Ben Youssef. El Glaoui started the "deposition campaign" on August 3; seventeen days later the Sultan had gone.

✧ ✧ ✧

BEING A TRIBESMAN, El Glaoui had naturally sought his supporters for his campaign from among the tribes. That meant winning over the tribal leaders—not a very difficult task, since these leaders, who are appointed by the French, know that their paymasters favoured the Glaoui. But the fact that winning them over was a formality was not an excuse for dispensing with the feasts which in Morocco mark important occasions. So El Glaoui's tour through the tribes became a series of monster celebrations.

✧ ✧ ✧

I WAS INVITED to one of these celebrations. The invitation came late, so I had to set off for Rabat, the capital of Morocco, at two in the morning. I drove east, over the splendid road, through the town of Meknes and up through hills that turned imperceptibly into the Atlas Mountains. The sun rose directly ahead of me. Just after the town of Khenifra the tarmac ended, and drove on to a dirt track winding through giant cedar trees.

✧ ✧ ✧

"THERE are boars and wolves here, and much snow in winter," said my French guide. We drove out of a ravine and on to the Ajdir Plateau—a flat circle of land, about a mile across, surrounded by wooden hills.

✧ ✧ ✧

TRIBAL LEADERS were pouring into Ajdir in Cadillac cars. Their clothes, which can be called majestic flowing robes when they are on horseback, looked like nightshirts in the limousines. French military policemen were directing the traffic toward a car park. French ambulance teams stood by in case any tough tribesmen fainted. El Glaoui arrived with an escort of French cavalry.

"You see," said my guide, "this is purely a Moroccan affair. We, the French, have nothing to do with it."

✧ ✧ ✧

THEN I was taken to meet the "Lord of the Atlas." El Gaoui sat on silken cushions, breathing with difficulty, a flowing djelaba over his Western-style suit, shoes in traditional slippers. At his waist he wore a dagger that would have been the pride of any silversmith. On his finger was a ruby that on another man would have been too big to be real. His eyes were shut, and he looked like a mummy of Rameses the Second. Then he raised his eyelids, and I saw that his eyes were young and startling. He looked a shrewd and dangerous man.

✧ ✧ ✧

"THE SULTAN Sidi Mohamed Ben Youssef," said El Glaoui, "has betrayed Islam by his support of the Istiquial Nationalist Party, which is godless because it is as one with the godless Communists. His morals have deeply wounded the people. We will depose him. No one will stop us, not even the French."

✧ ✧ ✧

THE FRENCH COLONEL who translated these words for me betrayed no desire to interfere with the Glaoui's purpose. In any case, the scene around us was too compelling to allow us to think of politics.

✧ ✧ ✧

FIVE THOUSAND MOORS in flowing robes, astride beautiful high-spirited horses harnessed with silver-embroidered saddles, were galloping straight at us across the Ajdir Plateau. They screamed as they came. They closed in, riding in a cloud of dust, and ten yards from us they drew on their reins. The furious horses, their mouths bleeding, pranced on their hind quarters, pawing at the air. The riders fired off their long silver-covered muskets, and the air was filled with the smell of black gunpowder.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEN we toiled through a fourteen-course feast, which we ate with our fingers, while all around danced girls in gaudy tribal costumes, rotating their abdomens to the rhythm of a chant from thousands of voices. The tribes were in a circle aroung the ceremonial tent. With tamborines and shrill reed instruments they sang ancient songs of valour.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BEST-LOOKING GIRLS, the most richly dressed, made-up and perfumed, reputed through the Atlas for the agility of their stomach muscles, performed a dance of seduction around El Glaoui. But the Lord of the Atlas was an old, old man who was sick on this day; and he could not open his eyes again to startle a dancing girl with their unexpected youth.

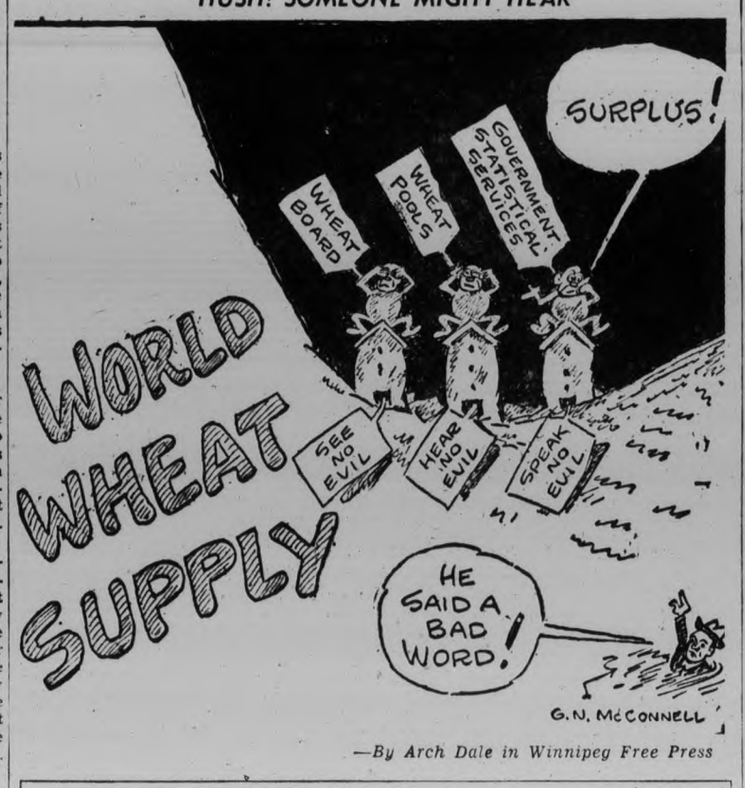
Windsor's New Auditorium

(Windsor Star)



Award of $10,000 has been made to the winners of the architectural contest for the civic auditorium design. This provides the people of Windsor with a glimpse of what they are to have in their riverfront development. It will be one in which beauty and utility happily are combined . . .

When completed the auditorium will contain a "Little Theatre" on the lower floor, and there will be a convention hall. There will be restaurant and other facilities which normally form a part of such a modern edifice.

People of Windsor will have something of which they can be proud and which will meet a long-existing community need. It will tend to tie this community together. It will show the rest of the country Windsor is no mean city, neglectful of itself, but intends to keep among the vanguard of Canadian cities.

The site has been selected; the plans chosen. It is now time to get on with the job. The next stage should be the demolition, as soon as possible, of the obsolete structures now on the property and thus clear the ground for the erection of the beautiful new one. People will be anxious to see a dream transformed into an actuality.

HUSH! SOMEONE MIGHT HEAR

Doctor Needs 700 Pockets

(THE CANADIAN DOCTOR)

Some tailor with a 'hook and eye' for business should figure out some sort of a wearable suit for the physician's wardrobe that would comfortably carry all the junk that clutters up a doctor's pockets, an editorial in the Detroit Medical News opines.

The suit should be made out of some sort of worsted cast iron gabardine and have 700 pockets reinforced to accommodate all the bulging accoutrements that are stuffed into them.

Take a commonplace piece of professional equipment like the stethoscope for instance —this is the most unwieldl, portable piece of equipment that was ever created or manufactured.

As you walk through the corridors of a hospital and observe where the various doctors are carrying their stethoscopes—some carry them in a casual manner complacently draped around the neck with the ear attachments plugged into the back of their collars for security reasons.

Others are observed walking along with one ear plug in place and one on the bias with the rest dangling down the front giving the popular semi-draped effect.

Some carry the stethoscope in the coat pockets which causes considerable mobile snake-like bulging. Some carry the stethoscope in the side pants pockets and some walk along the halls holding on to the metal part of the stethoscope and dangling the remaining part of languid rubber tubing like the manoeuvring of a well-trained yoyo.

Some carry the stethoscope in the back pants pocket with the dangling business end occasionaly protruding from under the posterior aspect of the coat—looking for all the world like the waggling tail of a friendly collie.

In addition to the stethoscope, physicians are prone to carry numerous other things in their pockets such as flashlights, tongue depressors, fountain pens, pencils, prescription pads, reflex hammers, date books, screwdrivers, pen knives, nail files, ophthalmoscopes, specula, glass slides, band-aids, probes, car keys, office keys, hospital keys, cigaret lighters, matches, cigarets, chewing gum, hypodermic needles and syringes, adhesive tape, thermometers, scissors and finally a wallet which bulges with the weight of 15 or more identification cards, none of which he ever uses but at least shows that his dues are paid and that he has all the rights and pdivileges of something or other—plus his driver's licence, car registration, a few loose bucks and an unused outdated ticket on a raffle.

The ideal suit of clothes for a doctor should have a coat with multiple pockets and a leather lining also with multiple pockets. The back of the coat should be longer than the front and contain a bustle —where the larger pieces of equipment could be stored, sort of a rumbleseat effect. The pants should have "bell-bottoms" with both an anterior and posterior zipper in case of emergencies or unforeseen exigencies.

They Think War Is Good

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

AN unamed professor somewhere in the United States wrote an article for the Christian Century recently in which he told of a disturbing discovery he had made. He conducts an undergraduate course in composition, and he had asked his male students to write an essay answering this question: "What has been the effect on your education of war preparation for war?"

The students were practically unanimous in answering that for them, "war is good." One young man's answer was said to be typical, and a closing paragraph ran as follows:

> To summarize, war is the only thing I have known since I was old enough to realize world conditions. Since I was never in combat, I can say that I profited from the war. Profited because of what it did for me, and what it gave me—the chance to get a college education.

> War, if it is to be won, demands college men—men who can design, alter and create new machines, new chemicals, and new ideas. In other words, war promotes education.

The answers are disturbing, but they should not cause surprise. The United States suffered heavy casualties in World War II and in Korea, but the number of casualties actually was small in relation to the entire population. The men who returned safely received substantial benefits, and in the great majority of cases resumed civilian life successfully, with exciting experiences to remember. The nation as a whole prospered during the war years, and has prospered since during a time of half-war, half-peace. And, most important of all, the nation as a whole did not suffer the ravages of war; it was never under direct attack. Many of its homes felt the sorrows of war, but none experienced its devastation.

If the truth were told, it is probable that many young men in this country feel much the same about war as the students who answered the question referred to above, and for the same reasons. And neither they nor their contemporaries are to be censured for feeling the way they do. Furthermore, it is unlikely that the opinion expressed of war is held by their generation alone in either country. A formulated opinion may not be consciously held, but it is highly improbable that older Canadians and Americans are un-influenced by the factors mentioned in the preceding paragraph.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS different with the people of France and Britain. The French have seen their country overrun twice in this century. They have memories of previous invasions throughout centuries past. As a people and as a nation, they have had first-hand experience of all the evils and horrors of war. The British have been more fortunate, but in the last war they were in a terrible and bloody front line; all that was vile in war was thrust into their homes, their hospitals, their schools, their cities. They fear and hate war. They believe that war is bad, unmitigatedly so.

They are right. War may be necessary, but it cannot be good. Good may come of it, yet war itself remains the enemy of mankind, destroying the fine values of civilization that the goodness in man has brought into being.

Hunting In The Parks

(Calgary Herald)

George M. Spargo, executive secretary of the Alberta Fish and Game Association, is quoted as having predicted that the association next year will seek to have the national parks in this province opened to big-game hunters.

"Reservation by the Crown of vast acreages for park and military purposes", he is reported to have said, "is seriously encroaching upon the inalienable right of hunters and fishermen to enjoy the wildlife bounties of nature."

It was hard to believe that Mr. Spargo could have made this suggestion seriously, and harder still to believe that the suggestion will be supported by any significant number of the responsible sportsmen and conservationists in the association on whose behalf he was speaking.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, be of good cheer; they sins be forgiven thee.

And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk?

But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house.

And he arose, and departed to his house.

But when the multitude saw it they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men. (Matt. 9:2-8.)

The Oireachtas

(Irish News)

Last week was Oireachtas week, when Irish language enthusiasts from all parts of Ireland—and abroad — gathered in Dublin to take part in the annual cultural festival which is to Ireland what the Eisteddfod is to Wales and the Mod to Scotland.

The history of the Oireachtas—the word means an assembly, a convocation, a conference—goes back to the 1890's. The Gaelic League was founded in 1893 to preserve the Irish language, then losing ground rapidly, and to revive it as the spoken language of the people. At the League's first Annual General Conference three years later the idea of the Oireachtas was born. "Bearing in mind," said one of the delegates, "the excellent results which our Welsh kinsmen have obtained in the cultivation of their native language and literature by means of their annual Eisteddfod, I propose that an Oireachtas, or public assembly, on behalf of the Irish language, be held annually by the Gaelic League, at which prizes shall be offered for reading, recitations, songs, and dramatic sketches in Irish".

The first Oireachtas was held in May, 1897, and was presided over by Dr. Douglas Hyde, the President of the Gaelic League and later President of Ireland. Dr. Hyde composed the Oireachtas Ode for that year, the well-known Eireochaimid Feasta ("We Shall Arise Henceforward"). The first festival was a small one, being something of an extension of the League's General Conference but, as the League grew in strength, the Oireachtas gained in importance. Feiseanna, outdoor festivals which form a feature of the Irish Summer down to the present day, were held in different parts of the country and the winners of the competitions at the feiseanna went foward to compete in the Oireachtas. Until it was discontinued in 1924, the Oireachtas, like the Eisteddfod, was held in a different centre every year, but since its revival in 1939 it has been confined exclusively to Dublin.

The new Oireachtas, with ambitious programmes and high standards, has won for itself a leading position in the Irish cultural year. It holds literary and instrumental competitions, competitions in musical composition and arrangement, traditional and modern singing, choral singing, drama, chess, Gaelic games. The greatest success of the new Oireachtas has been in the literary field.

WE MIGHT JUST AS WELL BE REALISTIC ABOUT THIS!

Russians Take Ballet, Opera All Part Of Daily Life

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

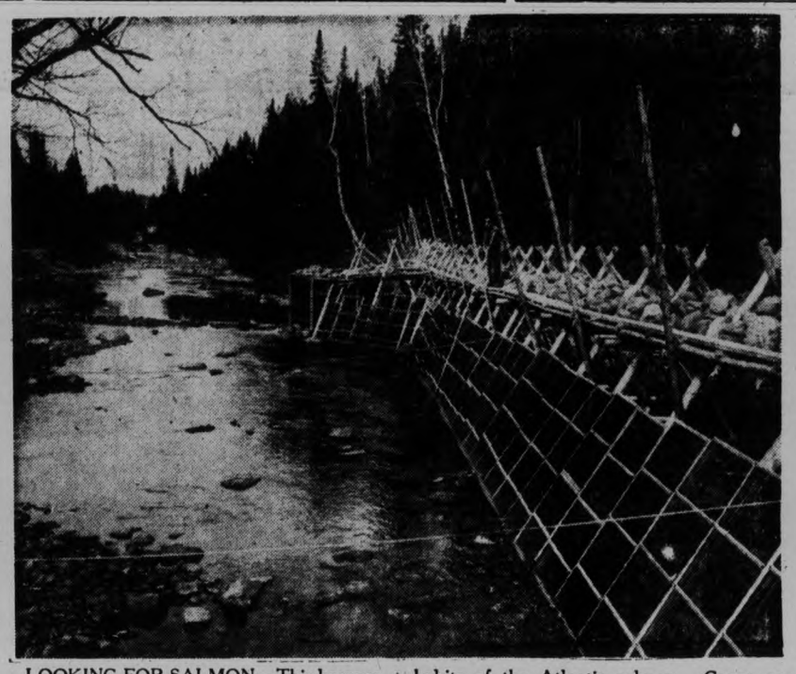
MOSCOW (CP)—Russians don't dress for the opera or ballet. Music and the theatre seem so much a part of life that they drop in as they are, after work.

The glittering scarlet - and - gold Bolshoi Theatre, musical heart of Russia, offers the foreign visitor perhaps as thorough a cross-section of contemporary Russian society as he can find anywhere.

Each evening the Bolshoi's 2,300 seats, through six balconies, are filled. So are the boxes in which delegations from the so-called peoples' republics are entertained.

The box formerly used by the Czars, in the centre of the first gallery, now is used by the public.

Russian ballet is recognized as the finest in the world. Opera is outstanding for production, chorus and orchestra, but spotty in the solo voices.



The overtures are background music for conversation and unwrapping lunches. Two people beside me at a performance of Eugene Onegin ate through the second act.

Time after time a tenor named Koslowski — an Artist of the U.S.S.R. (an official title) and a Stalin-prize holder—froze in midgesture as the audience applauded. He had 10 minutes of curtain calls from bobby-soxers and other admirers.

"Of course, he hasn't a voice now," said one Russian opera expert, "but it's his technique they applaud."

The notable thing about Bolshoi audiences is their youth, their variety, and their enthusiasm which seems justified. I have seen nothing in New York, London, Paris or Rome to equal the barbaric splendor of the Bolshoi's presentation of Prince Igor. In the Polevtsian dance scenes there are 130 dancers on the stage with the principals and a chorus of almost 200.

The Bolshoi's orchestra is phenomenal. Equalling its obedience to conductor and score could be the ambition of name orchestras of the West.

Pontiac's Overtime Goal Beat Petes As Orillia Triumphs 3-2

Orillia Pontiacs turned an almost sure defeat into victory Tuesday night at the Orillia arena when they nipped the Peterborough Petes 3-2 in overtime. More than 1,200 fans went wild as the Pontiacs won their fifth straight game and crept one point ahead of Kingston into second place. The great goal tending of Jack Donlevy of the Petes and Bobby Shropshere of the Pontiacs kept both teams off the score sheet. Six penalties, all for minor offences, were meted out in the period, three to each club. Chum Fryia scored the first marker of the game to give the Petes a 1-0 lead at the 36-second mark of the second frame.

Clary Payne came back via Favero and McCleod to knot the score at 3:03.

Near the end of the session, Petersen connected from Redmond and Prentice to give the Petes a 2-1 lead, as the players skated to the dressing rooms. As in the first period, the second heat was also penalty studded with Orillia claiming six of the seven handed out.

STRATEGY PAYS OFF

Playing coach Vic Grigg made a smart move when he pulled his goalie in the last 40 seconds of the third period. Orillia were already enjoying a one-man advantage because of Gus Leonard's tripping penalty. They were rewarded when Ron Nelson relayed Vic Grigg's pass into the Peterborough cage behind the surprised Jack Donlevey with only 27 seconds of regulation time left. The terrific ovation of the Orillia fans had barely died down when Bruno Favero hit the goal post with just two seconds left. Peterborough drew two of the three penalties dished out in the period.

SCORES WINNING GOAL

Although the Petes carried the play in the first five minutes of the overtime period they couldn't outguess Bob Shropshire in the Orillia net. Orillia put on a ganging attack and from a scramble in front of the Petes' net Murray Richardson fired what proved the winnig goal. It came at 6:53 of the period with assists credited to MacDonald and Bowen. A two-minute elbowing penalty to Montgomery of the Petes at 7:31 further lessened their chances of pulling the game out of the fire.

In the last minute of play the Petes pulled Donlevey out of the cage in favor of an extra attacker and although they came close, time ran out on them.

The three stars of the game were Richardson of Orillia, Donlevey of Peterborough and Shropshire of Orillia. A total of 17 penalties were meted out with Orillia picking up 10 and the Petes seven. Referees for the contest were Gord Fevreau of Toronto and Len Doolittle of Aurora.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A quick look at the local hockey scene for the rest of the week ere proceeding to other matters. In senior "B", the Petes were at Orillia last eve and have Oshawa Truckmen here Friday. Cobourg has an intermediate "A" fixture with Lakefield here this p.m. while Lakefield winds up the week in Port Hope on Saturday. Junior "B" activity saw the Young Petes trek to Midland last gloaming for their final game this week. Results of the Tuesday tilts should be in elsewhere. There's PMHA action on the morrow after supper down in Civic Arena. Also church play there Saturday. Lots of hockey hereabouts till spring sales sprout on George St.

* * * * * * *

Civic elections are over but sports scribes and sportscasters are asked to join in the annual Canadian Press poll on 1953 athletics. Comes a rather lengthy list of questions from the CP headquarters in Toronto, and we must mull the matter over carefully. Smack off the bat one is asked to name the top three individual male Canadian athletes of the year. Quite a chore thinking back over high-lights of the four seasons. Among others one should consider the outstanding golfer, Jerry Kesselring. There's also a Vancouver husky who won the world's weight-lifting heavyweight title this year. Rocket Richard comes readily to mind. And several others.

* * * * * * *

Few Femmes About

As for outstanding girl athletes, we can't think of a truly outstanding one but golfer Marlene Stewart. Naming the best three teams in the country, we feel inclined to pick Montreal Canadiens, Hamilton Ti-Cats and Peterborough Trailermen. The latter may not get many votes across the country (lacrosse not being played as generally as some sports) but a team which won the Mann Cup three times in a row as Canadian senior "A" lacrosse champs certainly must be regarded as a great team. Either in amateur or pro ranks. Trailermen retained their trophy with ease this year right in Victoria, B.C.

* * * * * * *

Here's an interesting CP question: "What was the biggest Canadian sports disappointment of 1953, team or individual?" Well, now, we're going to reply: "When time ran out on the Winnipeg Bombers in the Grey Cup finals." Yes, it's of recent vintage and there may have been bigger disappointments earlier in the year, but we think a great many folks across the country were disappointed that the Bombers didn't have at least one more play just to see if they could have tied up that big one. Western fans especially felt bad about it, but many eastern people would have honestly liked to see Winnipeg get another few seconds before the gun sounded.

* * * * * * *

Jack's Big Comeback

In line with this question is a query as to the greatest comeback of the year, and many feel that Jacobs' passing in the grid final is about tops. He came east determined to wipe out the "goat" tag writers put on him from the 1950 playoff. His terrific throwing had the same scribes raving about the starry Indian at Varsity Stadium less than two weeks ago. The question of an interlocking schedule between Big Four and western teams comes up. We can't see it for several years yet, at least. Regarding distribution of Grey Cup tickets, it seems to us to be pretty equitable. As for a possible CRU change in the import rule, we'd suggest cutting down by two imports to a club in future.

* * * * * * *

There are a few other questions, one asking if such amateur sports as track and field, swimming, etc., should be subsidized by the government. Yes, to some extent as they don't draw well enough to pay their own way, yet they are of value to the country. Fastest growing sports? Locally one might say water sports, as lacrosse, hockey, etc., haven't grown appreciably here the past few years. In Canada, curling and alley bowling seem to be expanding rapidly. These, of course, aren't spectator sports. Does TV decrease fan attendance? Yes. Does it create new heroes and new interest in sports? Yes, but mainly to armchair fans who don't help finance athletics. Well, these are some of our opinions on the poll. Let's see how they compare with other writers and radiomen when results come out a few weeks hence.

Dese, Dem and Dose

Pro matmen go at the Brock tonight, Atkins vs. Montana in the main bout . . . A suggestion has been made by officials that the Intercountry Baseball League limit USA imports to four a club for last year's top teams and six for the lower ones; how would that effect Oshawa? . . . Another idea of cutting down salary totals to 12 G's a club will hardly go over as some went better than $18,500 last year . . . YW girls' hoop games Friday eve: Black vs. CGE, and Lindsay vs. Collis . . . NY Black Barons have an exhibition with the male Marines Saturday night in St. Peter's gym . . . Petes' postponed joust in Orillia arena is slated for Dec. 17 . . . Mike Rodden says there was some weird officiating in Orillia when Pontiacs beat Kingston 7-4 . . . Wils Reid of the K's suffered a fractured wrist in the game; Joe Watts had seven stitches taken in the facial gash he got here the previous night . . . Buck Legrow went good for Cobourg as they beat Orono 5-3 the other eve . . . Four of six NHL captains are forwards . . . But enough for the nonce.

Chi-Hawks, Galt Fight To 3-3 Tie

GALT (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League and their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A farm club, Galt Black Hawks, fought to a 3-3 tie in an exhibition hockey game here Tuesday night.

Proceeds of the game went to local minor hockey teams.

The fact that the local Hawks had Chicago goalkeeper Al Rollins on their side may have helped them gain a tie. Other Chicago players loaned to Galt were defencemen Gus Mortson and Jack Price, and forwards Pete Conacher, Les Costello, and Larry Wilson.

Gus Bodnar, Gerry Couture and Fred Hucul were the Chicago marksmen.

Stukus Brings B.C. Lions Into WIFU Fold

By DON MATHESON

VANCOUVER (CP)—Big Stuke can take a bow.

The final obstacle to entry of British Columbia Lions into the Western Interprovincial Football Union has been cleared and it appears that Lions' bid to become the fifth member of the WIFU is only a matter of formality. The matter will be dealt with at the union's annual meeting in Regina at the end of February.

And a large part of the credit may go to Toronto's Annis Stukus who came here last spring as coach, manager and front man to sell senior football to this city. His salesmanship paid off and Lions have met all stipulations regarding WIFU membership.

They were told that 1954 membership in the union would be okay if they sold 6,500 season tickets. To date 6,939 have been sold.

They were told to guarantee a 15,000-seat stadium. Lions will play in the 25,000-seat British Empire Games Bowl, now being built.

CONTRACTS SIGNED

They were told to contract with the four clubs now in the union—Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton — regarding arrangements for meeting the added travel cost with Lions in the league. These have been completed with Edmonton, Calgary and Regina. Winnipeg waived the agreement.

At Edmonton, Walter Sprague, president of the WIFU, said that as far as he is concerned the Lions now are full-fledged members of the union. "There can be no stumbling blocks now. The WIFU and the Lions made a gentleman's agreement at the 1953 league meeting and Lions have lived up to it," He added:

"I can see no possible chance of any last-minute objection to the Lions' WIFU entry. If there was, we'd be laughed right out of football."

Remember When—

Winnipeg Blue Bombers took advantage of a last-minute fumble to gain an 8-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders in the Grey Cup final 14 years ago today. On a snow-covered field at Ottawa, the Bombers won with a kick by Art Stevenson that went for a point. The Bombers lost this year's final to Hamilton by 12-6.

Junior Petes Win Fourth, Defeat Midland 5-2 Gain Tie For First Place

Peterborough defeated Ray Conacher's junior Red Wings 5-2 Tuesday night before over 800 Midland fans. It was the fourth successive victory of the season for Red Creighton's young squad, their fifth of the season to date, and places the Liftlock boys atop the junior loop, tied with Lindsay.

John Pue, towering Peterborough defence ace, opened the scoring early in the game when he fired a long sharp right blue line drive that caromed off Stan Ritchie's leg past the bewildered Wayne Taylor in the Red Wing's goal. Blake Uren and Tim Hook drew assists on the tally.

SINKS REBOUND

It was nip-and-tuck both ways until midway in the frame, when Uren returned from the penalty box in time to bat a rebound from a hard twist drive from short left wing, past Taylor. Frizzelle and Jerry Gerow were sitting out majors at the time for a brief session of fisticuffs as play steamed up to a fever heat both ways.

Red Wings fought back, but Bob Delahaye proved steady behind his hard-working front mates. Finally, near the three-quarter mark, Gerow broke fast from centre to outwit Petes' defence and fired a short, hard drvie to the upper right corner of the mesh to put Wings on the score sheet as the crowed cheered wildly.

END OF SCORING

There was no further scoring in the frame nor penalties, but Murray Yorke narrowly missed before the gong on a home ganging attack.

An early Peterborough penalty enabled Wings to take the initiative at the start of the mid-frame and Delahaye lead several close calls. At full strength, Arn Barrett narrowly missed in alone; then the Wootten-Creighton band fought fiercely to increase their small, but vital margin.

HOOK SCORES

Hook was turned back on a lone rush, then the young forward found reward at the quarter mark on a sensational rush with his mates, Jim Morrow and Uren, that culminated in a 20-foot drive high into the left corner of the mesh.

FAST BOTH WAYS

The game continued at an amazing two-way clip. Delahaye robbed Yorke on a sizzler as Twist did penance; and Dorfs, Morrow, Frizzelle and Hook held the fort. Both goalies felt the sting of rubber as players charged back and forth at top speed. Frizzelle sinned, and the Midland pressure tightened. Delahaye robbed Wings again and again from point-blank range. Led by Jim Morrow, Peterborough held off every enemy attack till the end of the period. Heffernan drew referee Hammond's ire near the finish.

The final frame saw speed unabated as both Red Wings and the Creighton crew tried to score. At 9:10, Gerow of the Wings finally tallied after Twist drew an elbowing penalty. The Midland boys stormed around Delahaye and Gerow finally tucked the biscuit into the right corner following a mad scramble.

Grow drew a miscue; and Coyle broke alone only to have Taylor outguess his thrust. Both coaches shuffled lines to add strength as the blistering pace cantinued.

Finally, after a sustained Peterborough drive Johnny Lizotte hooked Coyle going in alone on Taylor. Hammond awarded a penalty shot on the play. Kevin Heffernan drew the nod from coach Creighton and the big Lakefield man barged in on the Wing custodian to tuck away the pancake. His mate Gord Coyle broke seconds later, to rifle a terrific 18-footer past the weary Taylor from dead centre as the crowd moaned. Meanwhile, Delahaye tended the Peterborough end like majic stopping all rubber that came his way. The teams both rated high praise for a grand display and every Peterborough player gave his best.

After the game, Coach Creighton enthused:

"We're rounding into top form fast and should be in real shape in a week. Our next home game will be against this Midland Club Friday, December 18, when we put on our Father and Son night; and we trust a record crowd will be in attendance."

Lewicki Will Line Up With Toronto Leafs For Another Chance In NHL

By JIM BASTABLE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Danny Lewicki, a fireball kid in the minors but a bust in the big time, gets another chance in the National Hockey League tonight. The 22-year-old leftwinger, who came out of junior ranks heralded as one of the most glittering prospects in the game and then was shunted back and forth from the minors, will line up with Toronto Maple Leafs when they meet Montreal Canadiens in Toronto. It will be Lewicki's fourth bid to gain a regular berth with the third-place Leafs, who called him up from their Pittsburgh from club Tuesday to fill gaps left by injuries.

The way he was going in the American League, many fans concede him a good chance of staying. The five-foot eight-inch forward is the league's third-highest scorer with 15 goals and 16 assists for 31 points.

"He's the best offensive player in the American League," says Hap Day, assistant general manager of the Leafs.

In the only other game tonight, second-place Detroit Red Wings, beaten 3-0 and 5-0 in their last two outings, travel to New York for a game against the fifth-place Rangers.

ERRATIC SHOWING

Lewicki scored 16 goals and 18 assists with the Leafs in the 1950-51 season, dropped to four goals the following year and then went to Pittsburgh. He has been up and down ever since.

The Canadiens will have big Jean Beliveau, their high-priced centre back in action Thursday night. Beliveau, knocked out with a broken ankle, will make his first NHL appearance since Oct. 22.

In the seven games he played this season, Beliveau scored two goals and an assist.

Two Ranger defencemen will be out. Ivan Irwin has a wrenched back and Harry Howell has a cut ankle. Jack Evans, 25-year-old former Ranger, has been called up from Saskatoon Quakers of the Western League to help the New Yorkers.

Bell Boy G Scores Handy Double Heat

Bell Boy G, with Al Holmes in the sulky, beat Victory McElwyn in the first heat. Glocca Morra was third.

Bell Boy G was ahead of Victory McElwyn in the second heat. Dr. Riddell recovered his stride and saved third.

HE GROWS ON YOU—A whole generation has grown up that never saw the inside of a vaudeville theatre—and that's why 70-year-old Clarence Willard is still amusin' and amazin' folk by "growing" right before their eyes. Pictures above tell the story. Willard started in show business with famed Phineas T. Barnum. He's been doing his "growing" act for 50 years. Back in 1912 he was a big vaudeville headliner and played long runs in New York. He lives in San Francisco now and just plays in service hospitals now and then and sometimes entertains patrons at Tonypandy, a small bistro in which he has an interest. In first photo, he stands at normal height of five feet, 11 inches, alongside a coat rack for comparison. In the second picture he has passed six feet and finishes off at a height of six feet, three inches.

Urge Joint Action On Wheat Surplus

MONTREAL (CP)—The executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has urged that the Canadian and United States governments work together on the question of wheat surpluses and avoid separate action on their disposal.

The council today released a letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent from R. M. Fowler of Montreal, council chairman, stating" . . . We are confident that no avenue will be left unexplored for co-operation and collaboration between authorities in the two countries in dealing with this problem."

The U. S. chamber of Commerce also is being urged to bring the recommendation, which originated with the Canada-U. S. committee of the Canadian body, to the attention of Washington, it was stated.

Profit-Sharing Said Wages Too

TORONTO (CP)—W. L. Kinzie, president of a profit-sharing dairy at Barrie, said Tuesday the sharing of profits should go beyond purely money matters.

"If you see a raise in pay warranted, give it," he told the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association. "If you see some betterment in working conditions that you can institute, by all means do it."

Another profit-sharing dairyman, Robert Burgess of St. Thomas, told the convention:

"There is no justification in profit-sharing if the share is derived by poor wages. Wages should be as high as or higher than the average."

Bridgenorth Mayor Greets Smith Reeve

SELWYN (ENS)—Gordon Fitzgerald, reeve of Smith township, had a visitor at his home one day recently, Mrs. J. E. Morphew of Bridgenorth, who formerly lived in Bridgenorth, Shropshire, England.

When Mrs. Morphew came to this country and found that she was going to reside in a town of the same name as her home in England, she contacted the mayor of Bridgenorth, England, and he, in turn, sent greetings through her, to the "Mayor of Bridgenorth, Canada."

When she learned that Bridgenorth did not have a mayor and the head official would be the reeve of the township, she came to Mr. Fitzgerald's home and presented him with the mayor's letter and a handbook of the city of Bridgenorth.

In his letter the mayor stated he was happy to learn his city had a name-sake in Canada. Pictures were taken of Mrs. Morphew giving the letter and book to the reeve. These will be sent back to England.

Mr. Fitzgerald wrote a lengthy reply to the mayor, explaining the municipal government and council and thanking him for his good wishes.

Holds Little Hope For Higher Pension

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott Tuesday held out slight hope of higher pensions for retired civil servants, especially those in the lower pension brackets.

Replying in the Commons to Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), the minister said he would reconsider the matter but he would be "less than frank" if he held out more than little hope for higher pensions.

Queen Gives Up Fort Belvedere

LONDON (AP)—The Queen has decided to give up Fort Belvedere, the 18th-century mansion where the Duke of Windsor wooed his duchess and made his fateful decision to abdicate 17 years ago.

The fort, the duke's country home until his abdication in 1936, has belonged to the crown for more than a century.

Today's announcement from Buckingham Palace said the rambling, 40-roomed house, now a derelict shell with crumbling brickwork, leaking roof and gardens overgrown with tangled undergrowth, is being turned over to the commissioners for crown lands.

The Duke of Windsor described the fort—so called because of its battlements and tower—as the "perfect bachelor's residence" when he took it over in 1929. He redecorated the interior to his own designs and built a tennis court and open-air swimming pool.

Apart from a short time during the war when it was used for evacuated government offices, no one has lived at the fort since the duke left.

50 Red Soldiers Arrested For Mutiny

BERLIN (AP) — The anti-Communist "Information Bureau West" reported today that more than 50 Russian soldiers were arrested three weeks ago for mutiny in the Soviet garrison at Bernan, 10 miles north of Berlin.

The bureau, which collects information on events in the east zone, said the soldiers are being held in a Russian MVD (secret police) jail.

They were said to have refused to obey orders after an officer beat a comrade who had fallen asleep during a political lecture.

Car, Crash Fatal

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Joseph Clairmont, 40, was killed Tuesday night in a two-car crash which also injured three other persons. Clairmont was alone in his car at the time. Occupants of the other car, James Clark, 43, and his wife, Mary, 39, and their 14-year-old daughter, Brenda, were taken to hospital. Brenda suffered a head injury, broken jaw and undetermined abdominal injury. Mrs. Clark suffered a fractured right leg, abrasions and an injured elbow. Mr. Clark was released after treatment.

how Morenz could score!

"It was a National Hockey League game played in Ottawa during the 1929-30 season, when Montreal Canadiens and Ottawa Senators were locked in a two-all tie at full time. In the sudden-death overtime period, the great Howie Morenz circled his own net, streaked up right wing, crossed over as he neared the Ottawa defence and scored with a blazing twenty-foot shot without having an opposition stick laid on him. It was a typical 'Morenz Special'."

Rambling Reporter

EXPERTS OUTEXPERTED

The newspaper's political experts, several strong, had a chance to prove their worth in Monday's municipal election when an enterprising staff member invented an ingenious game of skill involving the naming of council and board of education members as they would place in the election. Each selection was accompanied by a small donation. The experts, their ears close to the hearbeat of the city, did indeed call the winners for the municipal offices but it took an outsider, and a Lakefield man at that, Garnet Samis, to name them in their nearest to correct order and turn expert faces red.

Baby Killed; Child, 4 Said Responsible

BOWMANVILLE—Police linked Tuesday's killing of a six-month old baby with a neighbor's four-year-old girl, who was described as "rather queer" since a car accident last year. The baby died in Bowmanville hospital as a result of a fractured skull and brain hemmorhage.

Mrs. Thomas Whitehead left her daughter in the bedroom Tuesday afternoon while she went to a neighbor's to telephone. When she returned she found the baby unconscious and bleeding badly from head wounds.

OPP Constable Art Watson said "someone" had gone into the bedroom and struck the baby several times to cause the injuries.

IN A CAR ACCIDENT

He described a neighbor's daughter who "hasn't been exactly the same" since a car accident in 1952 in which she sustained sever head injuries.

The officer called it "just one of those things." There may be an inquest but ". . . a four-year-old isn't punishable," Constable Watson pointed out.

Official Count Shows 61% Vote

Of the 20,448 citizens entitled to vote in Monday's municipal election, 12,652, or 61.87 per cent exercised their franchise, it was announced by City Clerk E. A. Outram, chief returning officer.

This compares with 8,257 of the 19,534 eligible, or 42 per cent who voted last year. Both figures include spoiled ballots. There were 85 spoiled this year.

The percentage is somewhat higher than the one given in The Examiner on Tuesday, which was calculated on the basis of 21,920 names on the voters' list.

Mr. Outram explained that in computing the percentage, Part 2 of the voters' list had not been taken into consideration. It consists of property owners not resident in the ward in which the property is located. This led to duplication of names of those who have, in fact, only one vote. It also included non-resident owners who are not qualified to vote to elect candidates for civic office. Such people can vote on money bylaws only.

For these reasons, Part 2 of the list was ignored altogether in calculating the percentage of the total vote, Mr. Outram explained.

THE BIRTH OF CHRIST as it appeared to men of the Middle Ages in England is seen in the Coventry Nativity play being presented this week by the Peterborough Little Theatre. The play, some 300 years old, is a moving drama of the great Christian event. In the upper photo anonymous members of the Little Theatre portray Joseph and Mary with the babe, Jesus, and the Archangel Gabriel. Preparing for the performance are actors in the lower photo, making up in their dressing room.

Bus Accident Claim Settled

Settlement was made today on a claim against the Border Transit Co., operator of the Peterborough Bus Lines by Marcienne and Dow MacDonald, arising out of an accident in August, 1952.

Both plaintiffs settled for $250 plus court costs. Their original claims had totalled $2,790.85.

Mrs. MacDonald, represented by Edward Fanjoy, alleged she had been caught and dragged in the doors of a bus as she was boarding the bus, incurring injury.

Appearing before Judge John De N. Kennedy today, Mr. Fanjoy and defence counsel Trevor Clarke asked for a recess in hopes of arriving at a settlement. Within 20 minutes they had drawn up settlement papers and upon their presentation to Judge Kennedy, court was adjourned.

Middle Ages Nativity Play Gains Drama From History

The first of six performances of the Coventry Nativity Play was given on Tuesday night in Trinity United Church before a large audience. The play, which is several hundred years old, is a simple dramatization of the story of Christ's birth. But because it is a relic of the Middle Ages the emphasis in the play is sometimes laid in places which until the last 30 years were almost forgotten by the modern world.

The terrible figure of King Herod, for instance, is vital to the play, because it had its beginning in a time when tyrants were many and when almost every man had cause to dread his feudal lord. In our day, recollections of the tyrannies of Hitler and Mussolini give the insane egotism of Herod special significance. The character of Herod was a favorite one in medieval drama, and was always played in an extremely broad manner. The Shakespearean phrase "to out-Herod Herod" sprang from the custom of acting Herod as a shouting madman.

The Slaughter of the Innocents, which is one of the principal incidents in the Nativity Play, is another horror which has had its counterpart in our time, for the destruction of children during the last war was one of its most horrible features.

The Coventry Play is a hard-hitting old drama, presenting the Christmas story not as a pretty legend, but as a deeply-felt historical fact. There are touches of realism in it which seem quaint to modern spectators, but which were perfectly serious to the people of the thirteenth century. The gifts of the Shepherds to the Infant Christ—a pair of mittens, a flute and a handkerchief—are still touching in their simplicity.

MUSICAL COMMENTARY

As performed by the anonymous actors of the Peterborough Little Theatre and the Coventry Singers the play is a succession of acted scenes, with music which forms a commentary on the action. Because of the nature of the play, the costumes are those of the Middle Ages, and the method of staging is also medieval. Bethlehem, Herod's Court, and a large doorway which might be taken to represent the Gate of Heaven supply all the scenery that is needed and the actors move from one to another part of the church with a simplicity which is partly the make-believe of childhood and partly the studied ritual of a religious observance.

This production has been undertaken as part of the movement to restore the emphasis on the religious origin of Christmas. There will be few who do not find it a vivid and moving re-creation of the Christmas story. It will be performed again at Trinity Church tonight and Thursday night, and on the nights of Friday, Saturday and Sunday at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Ashburnham.

200 Appeals Expected Before Court

New Assessment Brought 900 To Special Meetings

Between 200 and 225 appeals will be heard in the court of revision, it has been estimated by Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis. Of these, only about 75 per cent are appeals against assessments. The remainder have to do with changes of ownership and tenancy.

More than 900 people attended the meetings in city hall last week to have the assessment department explain the effect of the 1953 re-assessment on their property. A further meeting will be held in the city hall tonight at 7:00 p.m. for the benefit of those property owners who were unable to obtain personal interviews with the assessment staff last week.

Mr. Davis described the results of the meetings as "most gratifying." Most of those attending had been reasonable about their assessment problems and had listened attentively to explanations, he said.

Deadline for appeals to the court of revision is December 14. Mr. Davis will accept appeals through the mail on December 15 if they are postmarked not later than December 14. No date has been set for sittings of the court of revision, but these cannot begin before December 24, according to statute.

MORE HOUSES

Meanwhile, the assessment staff have begun the assessment of buildings on which construction was completed since the 1953 roll was closed. Assessment notices on these buildings will be out by December 31. Owners will have 14 days after that date to file their appeals; but taxes on such buildings will be for 12 months of 1954, the same as if the assessment had been made in the usual manner.

About 42 representatives of local industries attended a meeting in city hall Monday evening, when the re-assessment of industrial property was explained by Richard Hall, representing the Charles Warnock company of Hamilton, who carried out the industrial re-assessment.

Mr. Hall described his company's methods of evaluation and their research into assessment rates. He explained their methods of arriving at construction costs of industrial plants, factors leading to the depreciation of buildings and scales of depreciation used. He also explained how these methods were related to the requirements of the Assessment Act.

Mr. Hall explained the differences in assessments of industrial properties as between one community and another, insofar as the distance from raw materials and markets and transportation costs affected the economic operation of the industries concerned.

A question period of more than an hour followed the meeting.

GLENN PRICE

G. Price Elected By T & L Council For Third Term

Glenn Price on Tuesday night was re-elected president of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC). He has been head of the labor group since it was organized two years ago.

Mr. Price, a member of Local 248, ITU, was one of the city's two union-endorsed candidates in the city elections Monday. He finished seventh with 3,754 votes.

Following is a list of the labor council's officers for 1954:

Glenn Price, president; Mervin Williamson, Local 504 of Peterborough Civic Employees' union, vice-president; Henry Nokes, Local 519, IAFF, secretary; William Given, bricklayers' union, treasurer; three executive members—John McPhee of Local 248, ITU; Cam Wasson of Local 1,655, IBEW; and Gus Siegel, IAM; two auditors—Jack Bateson of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and Alex Clark of the Peterborough busdrivers; and M. D. Sullivan of Local 520, Printing and Specialty Paper Union.

Ignore Court Summons Get Heavier Fine

An indication that he intends to deal more strictly with parking meter offenders in the city was given by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in the magistrate's court today. Dealing with 16 offenders, Magistrate Philp said that the number of persons failing to appear in answer to personally served summonses were increasing and in future this would cost them $7.50. All offenders who failed to appear were ordered to pay that amount in fine and costs today.

This is 750 percent more than motorists are obliged to pay for 12 minutes' parking at a meter base. Upon receipt of a parking ticket, a driver can clear up the matter with the payment of $1 if he feels he is guilty of the charge. If a summons has to be sent then $3 paid at the police station will eliminate the need for a court appearance. However, if this is ignored, as well as the personally delivered summons, then motorists will be penalized to the extent of $7.50 if found guilty.

Hydro Fires Workers At Lindsay

Men Still Picket As HEPC Calls For Replacements

LINDSAY —(ENS)— The striking workers of the Lindsay Hydro Electric Commission were informed this morning that they were no longer employed by the Commission.

Secretary-manager J. H. Lightbody appeared on the picket lines an hour after the deadline set by the Commission for the return to work of the strikers and notified them that the Commission would begin today to replace them.

Advertisements were placed in both Lindsay newspapers today to the effect that men were wanted by the Hydro Commission to fill jobs as linemen, repairmen, meter reader, and maintenance men for the sub-station.

The manager told the men their pay would be ready for them on Dec. 15th the regualr payday. Their accrued benefits from sickness and accident insurance pension fund etc, would also be prepared for them depending on their instructions as to what options they wished to take up.

A discussion was held on the picket line, in which one of the men mentioned that they had been fired by the Commission. Manager Lightbody replied "you weren't fired, you quit." The strikers denied this vehemently.

MAINTAIN LINES

Tom Cochrane, spokesman for the strikers, and the oldest employee in point of service, told the manager that the strikers would remain on the picket lines. The manager stated that as far as the Commission was concerned the incident is closed and the strike settled.

The union men re-affirmed their determination to "stay solid" in the face of the Hydro's offer to consider the applications of any of them for re-employment.

There was heated discussion of Tuesday's unsuccessful meeting, which men refused to attend when the Commission laid down the conditions that union representatives would not be allowed to speak. "You had your chance to settle Tuesday," said the manager, "and you didn't take it".

The strikers watched, earlier, as office staff of the Hydro took a truck from the garage, loaded with an appliance, and drove off the lot. On the strike line today was George W. Brough, of Peterborough, general representative of the CCL. The union's working representative, Frank Kitchen, of Toronto, will be with the men this afternoon, it is understood.

After his meeting, with the strikers today Mr. Lightbody commented that no difficulty was foreseen in obtaining replacements for the men. "After all, there are 200 unemployed men in Lindsay right now" he said.

The service included singing of familiar Christmas carols. Mrs. Shorten gave a message especially for the girls. She stressed the real meaning of Christmas using as her scripture—"For God so loved the world that He gave His only Begotten Son." The C.G.I.T. girls had a very impressive candle service with Marlene Anderson, Rosemarie Dorrington, Lorna Seabrook and Frances Dunk taking part. After the recessional hymn, the Rev. L. A. Morley and Miss Agnes Moore did the decorating and looked after games and entertainment. A nativity scene was arranged on the mantel and evergreens and red candles were on the table. The entire executive of the past year was returned with Mrs. William Beard as president, Mrs. Harvey Sutton as vice presiden, Mrs. Norman Fletcher as treasurer and Mrs. Max Wilson as secretary. The Christmas party for the boys on December 17 and the usual Christmas gift to the church were decided upon. For the first game, "Who is that singing?" there was a surprise element in that the recording played was of the church choir. Mrs. Fletcher was a winner. Film On Marriage Shown

A film entitled "Boy marries girl" was shown at the George Street church YPU meeting Monday evening by Miss Isabel McLaggan. The film gave helpful suggestions about marriage and what it means in each one's life. The narration stated "in love there is no room for selfishness." It also stated, "before marriage things such as financial position, environment and religious beliefs, if different, should be taken into serious consideration." It was pointed out that surveys have shown the best ages for marriage for women is 21 to 26, and for men, 25 to 30. It was suggested also that the longer the engagement, the better the chance of harmonious married life. Church weddings were believed to be a definite "must", as this supplied the proper reverence that should be given this occasion, but it was said also that a large wedding is not necessary. The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Glenn Hadwin with Miss Verna McTaggart reading scripture. Mr. Don Johnston led in prayer. Recreation was led by Gordon Bradfield. Election of officers was held and the new executive is to be announced at the Christmas banquet next Monday evening. Those in charge served the lunch.

MR. AND MRS. VERNARD FRANCIS O'ROURKE of Peterborough, as pictured following their marriage at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Lindsay, recently. The bride is the former Mary Loretta Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert P. Fox of Lindsay. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O'Rourke of Peterborough. Mrs. H. J. Parnell Addresses WMS

The Christmas meeting of St. James WMS on Tuesday afternoon was addressed by Mrs. H. J. Parnell of the Salvation Army, who brought a very inspiring message.

As the home receives much thought and preperation for the festive season, Mrs. Parnell urged the members to emphasize the real spirit of Christmas. She pictured a table laid with a white cloth, white being the symbol of purity and righteousness. Adorning each corner are candles representing the fruit of the spirit: Joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness and temperance. A central decoration is chosen to suggest love that was born into the world on Christmas Day.

Mrs. L. Bird presided for the business sessions. A donation was gratefully received from the Women's Association. Mrs. A. E. Prest, community friendship secretary was asked to remember the shut-in mebers of the congregation with greeting cards.

Miss M. Morton, convener of the nominating committee, read the list of officers for the coming year. These will be installed in January.

Mrs. H. S. Powers presided for the worship service. Scripture passages were read by Miss Morton, Mrs. A. E. Prest and Mrs. E. Poast. Carols were sung and prayer offered by Mrs. G. Hewitt. The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. W. R. Moncrief. Two lovely trio numbers were sung by Mrs. E. Wood, Mrs. R. Pearson and Mrs. A. Davies with accompaniment by Mrs. H. Doig.

Mrs. Bird extended thanks to Mrs. Parnell and the trio. A social hour was enjoyed.

NEWLYWEDS who will make their home in Peterborough are Mr. and Mrs. David Melville Kane, shown here as they signed the register of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, following their marriage recently. The bride is the former Miss Joan Mary Walden, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walden of Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kane, also of Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Kane will live at 336 Reid Street.

on the Local Council of Women conference. It was decided that white gauntlets will be purchased for the standard bearer.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a zone commander's medal to Mrs. E. Houghton. This medal, which has just been struck this year, was presented by Mrs. Parrington, the present zone commander.

From the annual reports it was noted that last year the ladies served 16 dinners in the Legion Hall to approximately 1,700 persons. They held two bazaars, made donations to the TB fund, European flood relief, the Legion University scholarship fund, the Cancer Fund, Branch 52 and others. There were 38 visits made to sick members, 22 lots of flowers, 48 cards and four lots of fruit sent. The telephone committee reported that 1,340 calls made. Mrs. Downer reported on welfare since September advising of the garments given out and relief for veterans and their families arranged. It was only recently that it was found necessary to have this department in the Auxiliary.

Basis of Dr. Ray's discussion was: "What do you expect from the school" and "What do you expect the school to produce." MARY MOORE SAYS:

Tuna Casserole Offered On Special Purpose Menu

When Thursday rolls round, and you know you are going to lay in the week's groceries on Friday, and the odds and ends in the refrigerator are not one bit interesting—it's time to use your ingenuity, and save the last few cents left from the current week's expenses, by combining leftovers with what is on hand.

Besides I have a winding gadget that grates cheese down to the last little scrap, and had two hard chunks of cheese to use up before I'd allow myself to buy any more.

With no recipe to follow, and just this and that to work with this is what resulted:

Tuna Casserole
Mashed Squash
Shredded Savoy Salad
Peanoat Cookies Coffee
Fruited Jelly

DIRECTIONS

TUNA CASSEROLE (for 6)

It is very easy to cut this in half to serve 3.

One 1-lb tin tuna or tun flakes (the Albacore tuna caught in north Pacific waters is the firmest and, I might add, the most expensive.) Or you may use 2 7-oz. tins of either, 1⅓ cups broken spaghetti or elbow macaroni, 3 lightly packed cups grated any old kind of hard bits of cheese, 4 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter, margarine, chicken or turkey fat, 2 cups whole milk, ½ teaspoon each curry powder and French mustard, fine breadcrumbs and some poppy seeds if on hand.

Put the spaghetti on to cook in water to cover and boil 15 minutes. It swells to about 1¾ cups in that time. Drain it. Meanwhile make the white sauce by melting the fat, stirring in the flour, then the milk until thick. Add the cheese, drained spaghetti, tuna broken up a bit, curry and mustard. Now taste it. If you want to add some salt and pepper do it now. Turn it into a casserole, and sprinkle fine dry crumbs over top, and then about 1 tablespoon poppy seed. (These latter are dispensable of course.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. This has a lovely rich brown top and the flavor combination is mouth-watering.

I baked 3 small pepper squashes after washing them. When they were tender, I cut them open, scooped out seed section, scooped out yellow meat and mashed it and added top milk—about ½ cup—and butter and salt and pepper and a slight sprinkling of nutmeg.

With my new knife with a 5-year guarantee I shredded Savoy cabbage thread-thin, added 1¼ chopped dill pickle, ½ cup parsley, 1 sliced tomato, ¼ green pepper and mayonnaise to moisten.

FRUITED JELLY

In the refrigerator were left-over peach and pineapple juice that measured 1½ cups. I soaked 4 teaspoons gelatin in ½ cup cold water 5 minutes, then dissolved it by stirring it over hot water, then added it to the fruit juices. I also added ½ cup seeded imported grapes, 1 sliced banana and 1 sectioned orange and a few slices of maraschino cherries, and pushed it in the refrigerator to jelly.

PEANOAT COOKIES

I hope I don't get slugged for that name for cookies, but I thought of it and you will all know what it describes so . . . I am including it here for Mrs. W. L. whom I would like to thank for Queen Elizabeth and Neapolitan cakes while I am at it.

One-half cup each soft shortening (part butter), peanut butter, white sugar, brown sugar, 1 egg, 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind (optional), 1½ tablespoons molasses or honey or corn syrup, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ⅞ cup sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and soda, 1½ cups rolled oats. Mix and cream together first 8 ingredients. Sift the sifted flour with salt and soda and stir in, then stir in the oats and mix very well with hands. Press into long smooth roll 2½ inches in diameter, wrap and chill until hard. With sharp knife slice ⅛-inch thick and bake on ungreased cookie sheet 8 to 10 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr.

DOROTHY DIX

Careless Teen-Age Girl Worry To Her Stepmother

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do to teach my 14-year-old stepdaughter tidiness? She never picks up anything, leaves soda bottles, candy-bar wrappings, magazines, wherever she happens to be. She doesn't make her bed or put her clothes away. I've only been married to her father eighteen months. The girl and I get along very well except for this one difficulty. She's affectionate, sweet, and we really love each other. I understand that she was spoiled when she was younger.

Mrs. K. R.

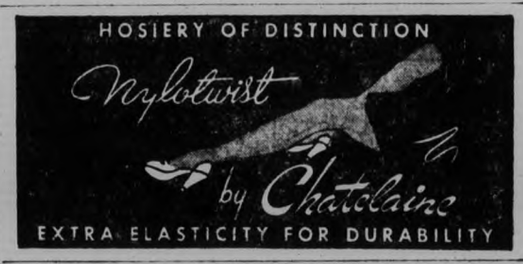
A CHANGE WILL COME

ANSWER: You have succeeded in accomplishing the most difficult feat in a stepmother role by winning your daughter's trust and affection (since you don't like the word "step," I'll gladly omit it). You are now in the second phase of your comparatively new relationship. In the process of teaching the girl to conform with certain standards of neatness and cleanliness, you must have great patience. Teen-agers are almost traditionally untidy. There's so much change in their relationship to others that the effort exerted in keeping "things" in their place appears to them to be unnecessary. Orderliness seems to come, suddenly, when they are about 16. To hasten the process, you can appeal to the young lady's pride. Perhaps her room has become a bit dingy over the years, and needs a little refurnishing. A coat of paint, new curtains, and a modern tone may accomplish the miracle of giving her the pride of possession, the forerunner of tidiness. Stop making her bed, or straightening up after her for a while. If she comes home from school to a sloppy room, she will decide to mend her disorderly ways.



✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been divorced twice, and am now going with a man who continually asks me to marry him. But I have refused. I have my mother living with me, and he has three small children. I doubt if the two families would mix well. I know he needs a mother for his children but I don't think I'm the right one. He's courting another woman—

6—In Memoriam

DOXSEE — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Helen Doxsee, who passed away December 9, 1947.
God made a wonderful mother
And He gave her to me—my mum.
He made her smile a sunshine,
He made her heart of pure gold.
It is sad but true, I wonder so
The best are always the first to go.
There are others, yes, I know,
But she was mine and I loved her so.
Six years ago I had to part
With the mum I loved with all my heart;
But some day she will be returned to me
In heaven together we will be.
—Ever remembered by Marlene.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Helen Ferguson, who passed away six years ago, December 9, 1947.
I am thinking of you today, dear Helen
But then it's nothing new,
I thought about you yesterday,
And the day before that, too.
I will think of you tomorrow,
And each day through the year;
I will think of you forever
For to me you were so dear.
—Ever remembered by her Mother.

DUNFORD—In loving memory of our dear Grandma, Mrs. Joseph Dunford, dead 9 years, Dec. 9.
We do not forget her, we loved her to dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream,
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
—Never to be forgotten by grandchildren, Art Garnet, Roxie Downer.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Wellie Northey, who passed away December 10th, 1950.
Some day we hope to meet again,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better land
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by wife and son John, David, daughter Lenore and family.

7—Card of Thanks

I wish to thank the electors of Otonabee for the support you gave me at the polls on Monday, December 7. It is my sincere wish that I can prove myself worthy of the confidence you have placed in me.—Joe Slattery.

I sincerely thank all those who supported me on Election Day. — Grant Clark.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank attending doctors, nurses, staff of Civic Hospital, and Rev. Mr. Wolfraim and Rev. Mr. Kaye, and all kind friends who remembered me with visits, cards, candies, fruit, during my stay in hospital.—S. J. Charlton.

Paris Papers Attack Churchill

PARIS (Reuters) — Two Paris newspapers today attacked Sir Winston Churchill for his alleged "threatening" attitude towards French delegates at the Bermuda conference.

The independent France-Soir said the French delegates were "surprised and then irritated" when the British leader blasted the French stand on the proposed European army.

The newspaper's Bermuda correspondent said many observers felt that Western unity would mean nothing "if such occurrences repeated themselves."

France-Soir said Churchill made much of "the demand that France should join the European army without reservations, the need for a powerful German army, remonstrances that France had not adopted two years' military service and that she had refused to send conscripts to Indo-China."

OTHERS EMBARRASSED

"(British Foreign Secretary Anthony) Eden himself, according to the best observers, appeared embarrassed at this, while President Eisenhower intervened once or twice to say: 'We are straying from the subject.'"

France-Soir commented that "most qualified observers agree . . . that Sir Winston Churchill has become a paradoxical and capricious force which his best advisers, such as Mr. Eden, do not always succeed in disciplining."

The independent right-wing Parisien Libere said: "The slips of Churchill's tongue were so evident that Anthony Eden came to see the French delegation after the meeting to remove the impression which had been produced."

Suggest Candidates Allowed Hire Cars

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on election laws Tuesday wound up its two-day session by recommending that candidates be permitted to hire automobiles to take voters to and from the polls on election day.

Supporters of the change said in effect: Everybody does it anyway.

The committee adopted a motion urging that section 169 of the Election Act be deleted. This section under the general heading of corrupt practices prohibits a candidate or his representative from hiring cars or any other form of transportation to take voters to or from the polls.

"If you don't provide cars, you might just as well not run," said H. C. Nixon, Liberal member for Brant and former Ontario premier.

Said Attorney-General Porter:

"If a friend uses his car for you on election day and you want to make him feel good and give him $5, you are committing a breach of the act."

Commend Work St. Giles' Congregation

The December meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough (Presbyterian) met for an all-day session in St. Paul's Tuesday. Present were twelve of the clergy of the district and nine of the elders.

Rev. Messrs. Toombs (Campbellford), Heustin (Millbrook), Kennedy (Warkworth), Kaye (Peterborough), Duncanson (Norwood), Smith (Peterborough), Caswell (Colborne), Patterson (Millbrook), Scott (Bowmanville), MacKay (Cobourg) and Fowler (Port Hope). Messrs. Golloher (Norwood), Dutton (Peterborough), Elliott (Lakehurst), Hooeey (Nestleton), Tate (South Monaghan), Hircock (Cobourg), McCulloch (Cambellford, Armit (Brighton), and Fulton (Lakehurst).

The Presbytery made arrangements to have delegates appointed by each congregation to attend the Dominion-wide Presbyterian Congress in Toronto which meets prior to the General Assembly. The congregations will be represented, in proportion to their membership, by men and women and by leaders in Sunday School and youth work.

Plans were made to have the "Presbyterian Record," the official monthly magazine of the Presbyterian church, placed in every home of every congregation, and each minister will bring the details before the congregation's annual meeting for official approval.

The Presbytery directed its clerk, Rev. L. H. Fowler of Port Hope, to convey the felicitations of the court to the new St. Giles' Presbyterian church in Peterborough upon its progress in membership, its financial givings, and its larger status in the Presbytery. Its minister is the Rev. G. S. D. Smith, B.A., who, being present, received the good wishes of the Presbytery upon the achievements reached under his ministry.

Considerable time was spent by the Presbytery in discussing the failure of occasional congregations in their duties towards the work of the Presbyterian church beyond their own church doors, in particular a failure to take its share in the support of the church's missionary work at home and abroad. Further discussion of this will take place at later meetings, but in the meanwhile the Presbytery has ordered a visitation of every congregation in this matter, to begin in March of 1954.

An effort will be made by Presbytery, through its Moderator, Mr. Toombs, to have more pastoral work done in the Buckhorn Field. The shortage of ministers and students was given as the cause of inability to make a full-time appointment of a successor to Mr. Keith Wilcox who recently served that area.

A special meeting of the Presbytery will be held at Norwood next Tuesday afternoon to discuss doctrinal references that have come from the General Assembly for the study of all presbyteries. The next regular meeting will be held in Peterborough the second Tuesday in March in St. Paul's church.

Attack Drivers During Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The private garbage collectors' strike erupted into violence in Manhattan Tuesday night as police reported three attacks on truck drivers.

Approximately 1,500 members of Local 813, Private Sanitationmen's Union, affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), struck against 500 private collection firms Monday night in a wage dispute.

TWO BEATEN, ONE STABBED

Two truckers who continued working were beaten Tuesday night and another was stabbed, but all are reported in good condition. They said their assailants identified themselves as strikers. The union had no comment.

The drivers and helpers involved in the strike normally collect garbage from an estimated 125,000 hotels, restaurants, private hospitals and other private institutions, stores, ships, piers, factories, private housing projects, commercial establishments and federal buildings.

The union is demanding a wage increase of $10 a week and fringe benefits.

Nixon Flies To Iran For 3-Day Visit

TEHRAN (Reuters) — Vice-President Richard Nixon of the United States flew to Iran today for a three-day visit as the guest of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and the government.

Nixon has held talks with leaders of India, Pakistan and Afghanistan in recent weeks in the Far Eastern portion of his round-the-world tour.

Russ Weather Balmy

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow and the European part of the Soviet Union are having an unusually mild December. The weather bureau today said records back to 1898 have been broken. The average daily temperature in Moscow for early December is between five and seven degrees below freezing. This December the thermometer has been above freezing consistently in the daytime.

Completing Sewer On Monaghan Rd.

Monaghan Rd. bus is still making a wide detour around the work between Lansdowne St. and Braidwood Ave.

It turns east on Lansdowne, south on Park and west on Braidwood where it continues its route south on Monaghan Rd.

Sewer construction on Monaghan Rd., south of Lansdowne St., is nearing completion. The grade of the street is not being reduced at present. That is a project which has been contemplated from the time traffic on Monaghan Rd. began to show the increase which now makes it one of the main north-south streets in the city.

The main sewer is being laid on Borden Ave., from Monaghan Rd. to Erskine, and will continue north on Erskine to Lansdowne, then west to Western Ave. and north to Chamberlain St.

The stem pipe line on Monaghan Rd. from Borden north to Lansdowne, will serve the properties on both sides, immediately south of Lansdowne St., including the Canadian Oil service station, branch of the Bank of Commerce and the Simpsons-Sears building of which the foundation is now being built.

Nizam Gives Up $500,000 Grant

BOMBAY (AP)—The Nizam of Hyderabad, one of the world's richest men, is reported to have voluntarily given up an annual Hyderabad state grant equivalent to more than $500,000. There was no official confirmation of the report, however.

The grant has been paid to the Nizam for the maintenance of his palaces every year since 1948, when his state was incorporated into India. The former ruler's fortune has been estimated at $2,000,000,000, mainly in precious metals and jewels.

The report came as the Nizam continued preparations to marry off his adopted family of 40 Arab youths. Eleven of the young men were married three months ago; and most of the rest are scheduled to take brides soon.

The prospective bridegrooms are children of Arab Moslems who served as personal troops or retainers of the Moslem aristocratic landlords in Hyderabad. These private armies were disbanded when India incorporated the state five years ago.

Switch Engine Eases Past Picket Line

AUBURNDALE, Fla. (AP)—A switch engine eased through a picket line of 20 men at the strike-bound Continental Can Co. plant here Tuesday and pulled out two freight cars loaded with cans.

A member of the striking United Steelworkers Union (CIO), who worked at the plant, said a regular union train crew drove the engine up to the pickets and got out while other Atlantic Coast Line railroad men he called "boss men" drove it onto the canning company grounds.

The 20 pickets tried to block its path but stepped aside as it kept moving, sounding its horn and bell full blast.

Jazz Ravages Worrying Poet

BRYN-EGLWYS, Wales (Reuters)—A Welsh clergyman and poet has appealed to Yale University to help him save his country's culture from the ravages of American jazz.

What's bothering the Rev. R. Hughes is this: Every time he settles down to listen to special radio programs of Welsh music and poetry, sung and spoken in the lyrical Gaelic tongue, strident Dixieland or bebop broadcasts by the American Forces Network in Germany drowns them out.

"We are trying to keep the Welsh tongue alive," said Hughs today. "And this sort of interference doesn't help at all."

So the 55-year-old minister wrote to Yale asking it to support him in trying to persuade the AFN to stop drowning out Welsh programs. He chose Yale because the founder of the university, Elihu Yale, used to live in the nearby North Wales village of St. Asaph.

object matrimony—but still calls on me. Have I been right in my decision?

T. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You're absolutely right—as far as you go—but now your action must proceed to the point of dropping the man altogether. It's downright contemptible of him to court one woman with the sole object of acquiring a wageless housekeeper, while at the same time wooing another for love. The lady who is willing to mother three children certainly is entitled to loyalty, at least.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Shortly before my son left for service overseas, he was going with a girl who lived near his base in this country. He wrote me, asking me to correspond with her. I had a letter from the girl in which she said Allen wanted her to come and stay with us while he was away. Now, while I'm willing to have her for a visit, I'm not anxious to have her live here.

Lee C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It seems to me that your son would have mentioned wanting the girl to live with you until his return—if he had it in mind. It really isn't the girl's place to suggest the invitation. The plan isn't feasible. She's better off with her own folks, and you're comfortable as you are. There's possible danger even in a brief stay. She may decide she likes your home so much that she'll want to share it. Better postpone any visit until correspondence enlightens you concerning her personality and character.

Advises Britain To Quit UN

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express advised Great Britain today to quit the United Nations because the UN's activities "are damaging to the prospects of world peace and ruinous for the Empire."

The Express claims a circulation of more than 4,000,000. It follows an independent political line but is Empire-minded.

In an editorial, the paper said: "What can Britian expect to get from membership in the United Nations except trouble and abuse. Britain and the dominions have only six votes between them—and one of those goes to South Africa which takes no part in United Nations affairs.

"But how many votes are there from South America? Twenty. And nearly all can be relied on for support by Britain's enemies."

The paper levelled its severest criticism at Mrs. Lakshmi N. Menon, Indian delegate to the UN trusteeship committee. It said that, urged by Prime Minister Nehru, she has been leading an attack to destroy the British Empire by requests for debates on African problems.

Churchill Working On Another Book

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Sir Winston Churchill is working on a new book which he intends "to burst on the world" before retiring, Lady Clementine Churchill said Tuesday night.

She said she could give no idea of its title or contents, because, she had promised to keep it a secret.

She arrived here by air to receive this year's Nobel prize for literature on behalf of her husband Thursday. King Gustav of Sweden will make the presentation. Lady Churchill will deliver a speech prepared for her by Sir Winston.

Laniel Acted For France Despite Bermuda Illness

PARIS (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Bidault said on his return from Bermuda today that Premier Laniel directed the French stand at the Big Three conference despite a cold which confined him to his room.

Bidault added: "If I was the spokesman at the meeting of the heads of government, as at the foreign ministers' sessions, it was in constant liaison and complete agreement with him."

All the French delegation returned today except Laniel, who is scheduled to fly back Thursday but may delay his departure from Bermuda until his cold is better.

CLOSE CO-OPERATION

Laniel said today that President Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill indicated at Bermuda that co-operation of Anglo-American forces with the European army will be "not only close but lasting."

In a telephone interview with the newspaper Aurore, he said:

"In my view, talks will have to be continued on these points with our allies."

Laniel is still in Bermuda, recovering from the illness which prevented him from attending the Big Three conference.

He told Aurore that the communique "underlined that the European Defence Community is an integral part of the Atlantic community."

GROWTH OF FORCES

"We were agreed that if the danger of aggression appears to have diminished, this is due to the growth of our forces. It was very important that we should be in agreement on this point."

He said he was satisfied with decisions taken regarding the war in Indo-China.

He said Foreign Minister Bidault had conferred with him before and after each meeting he was unable to attend, "so that we defined the French position together."

Egypt Has Recalled Envoys For Talks

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt disclosed today that it has recalled its ambassadors in London and Washington for consultation in expectation of resumed talks with Britain in the Suez canal dispute, probably at the turn of the year.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the order was sent to the ambassadors following discussions of the Suez dispute at the Big Three Bermuda conference.

Diplomatic sources said two Anglo-Egyptian talks, staled for several weeks, are likely to be resumed at the turn of the year.

Killed Son, 'Insane'

LONDON (Reuters)—Mrs. Teresa Mariam Conroy, who gave her 13-year-old son a "ceremonial burial" in a sofa, Tuesday was found "guilty but insane" on a charge of murdering the boy Sept. 23. The body of the epileptic youngster was found by his father three days after the killing in their London home.

Lindsay Wins With Goal In Overtime

LINDSAY—The Lindsay juniors had to go into overtime Tuesday night to defeat the fighting Collingwood Greenshirts 7-6, in a junior B game at Lindsay.

Art Truax's fourth goal of the night, scored with less than two minutes remaining in the extra period, was the winner after the Lindsay team watched a four-goal lead disappear in the second period thanks to bad defensive work by the locals and sustained pressure from the Shirts.

Lindsay went ahead in the first period 3-2 and had a 6-2 lead midway through the second before the roof fell in. There was no scoring in the third, as the goalies took their turn to star.

Truax with four goals was the game's big marksman. Other scorers for the winners were Hutton Teel and Growdon, Crew with two goals led the Shirts, singletons going to Greer, Kirk, Hill and Robinson.

The Lindsavites used only 11 players, being shorthanded through injuries to defenceman Bill Williams and forward Murray Packer and coach Gerster made no use of his third line players.

THANK YOU!

We wish to sincerely thank all CIO-CCL and AFL-TLC Union Members and all others who supported us in the recent campaign.

Non-Canadians In Canada's Northland Must Respect Canadian Sovereignty PM Says

OTTAWA (CP)—It is "very important" that "non-Canadians" in Canada's northland respect Canadian sovereignty there, says Prime Minister St. Laurent.

In a Commons speech Tuesday, he mentioned this "sovereignty" five times while piloting through second reading a bill which changes the name of the resources and development department to the department of northern affairs and national resources.

Though he made it clear he was referring to Americans when he said "non-Canadians," the prime minister indicated that there have been no tiffs between the Canadian and United States governments concerning the presence of American servicemen in Canada's north.

Outside the House, officials said there have been a few minor incidents between Canadians and Americans in the north but the Americans have been most careful not to step on Canadian administrative toes.

GEOGRAPHIC FACT

Mr. St. Laurent said Canada's defence buildup is made more difficult by the geographic fact that the country's northland lies between the U.S. and Russia.

But all joint Canada - U.S. defence measures "are implemented with full respect for the sovereignty" of Canada.

The prime minister said "quite a number of non-Canadians" are moving into the north.

"We felt that it was very important to have the situation such that whenever they went there they realized they were in Canadian territory and in territory that was administered by Canadian authorities."

EXERCISE SOVEREIGNTY

At another point, the prime minister said: "We must leave no doubt about our active occupation and exercise of our sovereignty in these northern lands right up to the pole."

And later: ". . . It would be desirable to have on the statute books a department of northern affairs and to have representatives of the department . . . present in various parts of these territories and symbolic of the actuality of the exercise of Canadian sovereignty over them."

Functions of the new department will not be changed but there will be increased emphasis on northern development. Resources Minister Lesage—soon to be northern affairs minister — will co-ordinate activities of all government departments in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

Opposition Leader Drew said younger members of the Commons probably will see the day when the territories will form Canada's 11th province.
